Colonel Prinsep was paying one of his usual visits round the regimental institutions on the following morning when looking in at the library, he saw a man stretched on one of the benches fast asleep.

Stepping forward, he saw, as he shook him somewhat roughly by the arm, the triple chevron upon his sleeve; and as the man thus suddenly roused stumbled clumsily on to his feet, the Colonel identified him as Sergeant Lynn. His whole appearance showed without doubt that he was recovering from a fit of drunkenness, perhaps of some duration.

The Colonel gazed at him sternly, as, having recognized his commanding officer, he saluted, and stood shamefacedly before him.

"Sergeant Lynn, it seems that the reports of your intemperance which reached me were not unfounded. Had you been wanted for duty last night you would have been found incapable."

The Sergeant's head dropped still lower.

"Yes, sir, I did take more than I ought. I can't help it. Things have been against me lately, and I am driven to drink at times."

"What do you mean? Up to now I have promoted you as far as was in my power."

"Promotion!" repeated Lynn, with an imbecile laugh. "What good is promotion to me unless you could give me a commission? And even then I dare say she would not have me."

"I should say not, if she saw you in your present condition. You don't mean to say that a woman is the cause of your drinking?" asked the Colonel, contemptuously.

"Cause enough," he answered, doggedly. "Only three days ago she repeated her promise to marry me; and last night at the sergeants' mess it was common talk that the Adjutant was always at her house, and was said to be engaged to her."

"You talk like a fool, Sergeant Lynn. I would advise you to follow a steadier, more manly course, and not offer such childish reasons as a cause for ruining your whole career, and for the present, Sergeant Lynn, I withhold my permission for you to marry," he added, sharply.

"Ah, sir, I thought it would come to that when you knew whom I was asking for!" said the Sergeant, with a rebellious look.

"I don't know whom you want to marry, nor do I care."

And the Colonel, now seriously displeased, turned to leave the library.

"I beg your pardon, sir. It is the Quartermaster's daughter."

"What Quartermaster's daughter?" cried the Colonel, in a voice of thunder.

"Jane Knox, sir."

At this familiar mention of the name borne by the girl he loved, Stephen Prinsep only refrained by an effort from revenging the insult with a blow. The recollection that he was Colonel and this braggart a sergeant in his regiment kept the impulse in subjection.

He was close to his own gates now; and before he turned into the carriage-drive he heard a noise behind him, and turning mechanically, he saw it was the Quartermaster riding after him.

"I wanted to speak to you, sir," he announced a little breathlessly, as he trotted up.

The Colonel started. Could it be that he was to hear the solution of this mystery now? Not urgent—not on a military matter, or what should prevent its being discussed in the orderly-room? Only one conclusion remained—it must be on some private affair, and just then all private affairs seemed to the Colonel to point to Jane.

"Come in and have a peg," he said, somewhat shortly, and cantered on toward the bungalow.

After a hasty draught of iced water, Colonel Prinsep had thrown himself back in an easy chair, and sat waiting for the Quartermaster to speak again. He wanted to hear what he had to say, yet, afraid of appearing inconsistent, hesitated to ask outright.

"What is this affair of which you wished to speak to me, Knox?" the Colonel asked abruptly.

"It is nothing of actual importance, sir, yet I think you ought to hear it first from us. Jenny thought so——"

"Miss Knox thought I ought to know?"

"Yes; she said you would have reason to be offended if Sergeant Lynn spoke to you on the subject first."

"Out with it, man. What is this mighty matter?" cried the Colonel, sharply, as he leaned forward in his chair as though to forestall the answer. This suspense was horrible. Yet the denouement might be worse.

"You see she is engaged to him."

"Then it is true?"

"Yes, it is true."

"Good heavens, it is sacrilege!" ejaculated Colonel Prinsep, fiercely.

The Quartermaster passed his fingers through his hair in some bewilderment.

His eyes followed the Colonel as he impatiently paced the room, and he was still pondering a reply when his commanding officer spoke agin.

"You must stop it Knox; you must stop it on any plea," he declared, earnestly.

A new discovery broke suddenly upon the Quartermaster. This agitation of the Colonel, coupled with the indisposition he had pleaded a short time before, could only point to the one conclusion, and he would not have been human had he not felt gratified at the knowledge that his daughter had won the love of such a man as Stephen Prinsep, independent of his rank and station. For a moment he even regretted that she had already bound herself, and then felt a little shame at the worldliness of his ideas, which gave a certain stiffness to his reply.

"I have already given my consent, and I honor my daughter for her faithfulness."

"And," continued the Colonel, "is Sergeant Lynn—mind, I say nothing against him; you are probably a better judge of his character than I—but, I repeat, is he the sort of husband you would have chosen for your daughter?"

"I have promised," stammered the Quartermaster, after a few moments' reflection.

The Colonel then shook hands with his visitor as he started to go, and even accompanied him to the door of the bungalow; but he heaved an audible sigh of relief as he was lost to sight.

He went back into his sitting-room, and laying his arms upon the table, rested his head upon them. All his plans for the future were frustrated—all his hopes quenched, and in such a manner that—feeling no doubt as to the issue—a keener pang was added to his sufferings.

CHAPTER XVI.

The Quartermaster went home at a smart trot, full of the discovery that he had made.

Directly he entered the room where Mrs. Knox was seated, as usual, before her sewing machine, she divined that he had something to tell her, and attacked him at once with a question as to where he had been.

He hesitated for a moment, feeling the full importance of the revelation he had to make.

"I have been to see the Colonel," he answered, slowly.

"What about?"

"I went," continued her husband, in the same slow, impressive tones—"I went to tell the Colonel of Jane's engagement to Jacob Lynn."

"What on earth possessed you, John, to take such a senseless step?" she exclaimed, in her astonishment, forgetting to be angry. And then, as he remained silent, she went on: "Besides, I am by no means certain that that engagement still holds good. Jane has never even mentioned his name since her return from Cawnpore, and I think there is every reason to hope she repents her first thoughtless promise."

"No, no, wife, you are quite mistaken," he answered, kindly, feeling sorry for her disappointment, and understanding how it would vex her the more when she heard all the truth. "Jenny has seen the Sergeant again and renewed her promise; it was by her request I went and told the Colonel."

"Without consulting me?" she gasped out, when she had recovered herself sufficiently to speak.

But when the Quartermaster once asserted himself he was not easily put down, even by his wife.

"I had made up my mind to do as the child wished me, wife, and so it would have been a useless discussion. You would have contested the point, of course, but I had made up my mind."

"And now the whole affair will become public," she complained, bitterly.

"Not necessarily. The Colonel himself advised that we should keep it quiet as long as possible."

"Was he against it?" she asked quickly, in a voice that agitation had made more than unusually sharp.

"Yes, he was decidedly against it."

"Why—tell me why, John?"

"I don't think you will believe me when I do tell you."

"Why—why?" she repeated.

"Because he is himself in love with our Jane."

Had a thunderbolt fallen at her feet she could not have been more surprised.

"Does she know?" was her first question.

"I don't suppose she does," answered the simple-minded Quartermaster, "for I think, if he had anything to say to her, he would have told me when we were on the subject."

"You ought to insist upon her being sensible in so important a matter," said Mrs. Knox, eagerly.

"If you can't manage her, Mary, how should I?" smiling. "Besides, I think she is right to hold to her word, though I know she might do better."

"Better! Why, it would be a brilliant match, John."

"You go too fast, wife—too fast. It is not to be supposed that, because the Colonel is in love with Jane, he is therefore prepared to ask her hand in marriage. No, no; he'll go away for a few months, and when he comes back will have forgotten all about it. Even had she been free I don't suppose he would have contemplated such an act. A man like our Colonel is justified in looking high for his wife."

"He would never get a lovelier wife than Jane, nor one truer or sweeter."

"How inconsistent women are! Just now you were complaining of her truth, and now you praise her for it."

"It is possible to carry a thing to excess; then truth becomes obstinacy," returned Mrs. Knox.

When, a little after five o'clock, she saw Colonel Prinsep coming up the drive, she resolved to do her best to persuade him to range himself actively upon her side.

"My husband was with you this morning," she began.

"Yes, he came to see me, and talked over some affairs."

"And I wish to speak to you also, Colonel Prinsep."

"I shall be very glad to hear what you have to say, and to help you if I can."

"You can help if you will," meaningly.

"I would rather you doubted my power than my anxiety to oblige," he returned, smiling.

"It is about my daughter, Colonel."

"About Miss Knox?" he repeated, as she hesitated.

Then she went on, with emotion.

"You know all I said to you the other day about Sergeant Lynn. Well, I say it all still, but with greater warmth and with more hope of a favorable reply, for now I can confess what you already know—that I am pleading for my daughter."

"I wonder I did not guess it then," he remarked, gravely.

"But you know it now, and you will listen to a mother's prayer; you will save her from this horrible fate?"

"I save her—I?"

"Who else? It is only you who have the power. In the regiment you are a king, and no one will question what you command. You have only to send him to England—anywhere out of Jane's way."

"You give me credit for a despotic sway, and that I do not hold. She would answer, with justice, that I had no right to interfere. However," he added, quickly, as Mrs. Knox's countenance fell, "I will do what I can. Shall I go to her now?"

She led the way to the house and into the drawing-room, where, in the center of the room, Jane stood, as though expecting his arrival. Her head was erect; but the little hands were tightly clenched; and there was an expression of defiance in her whole attitude that augured badly for the success of his mission.

"Jane, Colonel Prinsep has come to speak to you, at my express wish and with my permission. I hope you will give every attention to what he has to say," said Mrs. Knox in her most didactic manner, and left the two together.

He looked at her sadly, gravely; and for awhile she returned his gaze with one of equal power—then gradually an overwhelming sense of shame caused her to turn away her face, blushing.

"What is it you wish me to do?" she asked.

"I wish you to break that unconsidered promise," he replied, firmly.

She turned on him fiercely, her pretty figure drawn to its full height, and the golden light in her hazel eyes, which always came there from excitement.

"And that is your advice? I wonder women are ever honorable and true, for everything seems to combine to make them neither. A woman's promise is made to be broken. A man's honor is inviolable.

"Granted—all granted," he returned, his quietness contrasting strangely with the force of her indignation. "Yet I repeat my request. It is easier to regret a broken promise than a ruined life."

"And if his—Jacob Lynn's—life should be ruined, his trust in all things shaken by my unfaithfulness, is it nothing?"

"We, your friends, naturally think first of you."

"The greater reason that I should think of him, to whom I owe loyalty and truth," she said, with dignity.

"And you will not think of us—of your father—of your mother, who is distressed at your decision; of—of me?"

"Pardon me," she returned, proudly. "In this case only two are concerned, myself and my betrothed. There is only one point under discussion: whether I keep my word or break it."

He leaned forward eagerly, and would have taken her hands, only she held them stiffly beyond his reach.

"And—and?" he questioned, his usually sweet tones sharpened by suspense.

"I will keep it," she decided, firmly.

Moving a little further away at once, he accepted her decision.

(To be continued.)

He Got It.

A graphic incident in the life of a spoiled child is well told by a writer in an exchange:

Among the passengers on the St. Louis train recently was a woman accompanied by a nurse girl and a boy of about 3 years.

The boy aroused the indignation of the passengers by his continued shrieks and kicks and screams and viciousness toward the patient nurse.

Whenever the nurse manifested any sharpness the mother chided her sharply.

Finally the mother composed herself for a nap, and about the time the boy had slapped the nurse for the fiftieth time a wasp came sailing and flew on the window of the nurse's seat. The boy at once tried to catch it.

The nurse caught his hand and said, coaxingly, "Harry musn't touch. Bug will bite Harry."

Harry screamed savagely, and began to kick and pound the nurse.

The mother, without opening her eyes or lifting her head, cried out sharply:

"Why will you tease that child so, Mary? Let him have what he wants at once."

"But, ma'am, it's a——"

"Let him have it, I say."

Thus encouraged, Harry clutched at the wasp and caught it. The yell that followed brought tears of joy to the passengers.

The mother awoke again.

"Mary!" she cried, "let him have it!"

Mary turned in her seat and said demurely, "He's got it, ma'am!"

Accustomed to Snakes.

"A curious thing about snake stories," said a gentleman who had just returned from his vacation, "is that people with whom the reptiles are a common sight take very little stock in them."

"I have just returned from Massachusetts, where I put in a week on a farm situated near the Berkshire hills. The next farm to us was right on a mountain side, where there were dozens of huge rattlesnakes that had a habit of sunning themselves in the roadway—big fellows, too, they were.

"The old fellow that owned that farm would read snake stories about marvelous reptiles in Georgia and Pennsylvania, and say 'Gosh! them was hummers!' Then he would go out to mow on the mountain side and kill two or three big rattlesnakes before he had gotten half way over the field. I saw him kill one on one occasion that had six rattles and a button, and he had a very narrow escape from being bitten. I congratulated him on his escape, and he answered: 'Mister, I have been killing rattlers ever since I was a boy, but this is a poor place for snakes. They never do the tricks here they do in Texas and out West.'

"He didn't mind the snakes, he said, but I did, and I cut my visit short on their account. I prefer to see my snakes at the Zoo."—Philadelphia Call.

Absent Minded.

One of the saddest stories ever told of a public man's absent-mindedness was related of Mr. Blaine after the death of his son, Walker Blaine, who had been closely associated with him in the State Department. The stricken and bereaved father was interrupted in his office by a visitor, who had come to consult him about some public matter.

Mr. Blaine listened to him quietly, and then answered, with a preoccupied air, "You would better see Walker about it in the next room."

The visitor was completely taken aback, but had the self-possession to reply, "Very well," and to retire to the room indicated, leaving the Secretary immersed in public business, and apparently unconscious that the son upon whom he had grown to depend in all matters of department routine and detail was no longer living.

The visitor would have been indeed heartless if he had betrayed by word or act his own knowledge of the facts, which the heart-broken father, in sheer absent-mindedness, had momentarily forgotten when preoccupied with affairs of state.

The Heart.

One of the most remarkable things about the heart is the amount of work it does. Considering the organ as a pump, whose task it is to deliver a known quantity of blood, against a known "head," it is easy to show that in twenty-four hours a man's heart does about 127 foot tons of work. "In other words," says a cotemporary, "if the whole force expended by the heart in twenty-four hours were gathered into one huge stroke, such a power would lift 124 tons one foot from the ground. A similar calculation has been made respecting the amount of work expended by the muscles involved in breathing. In twenty-four hours these muscles do about twenty-one foot tons of work."

France has exported the guillotine. In the French settlement of Chandernagore in India an execution has been performed with a guillotine sent from Paris. The east has traditional horrors of its own, but the guillotine is a formidable rival.

THE LATEST PARIS FASHIONS.

HAZEN S. PINGREE.

The Famous Maror Whom Detroit Recently Re-elected.

Hazen S. Pingree, of Detroit, is probably the most famous Mayor in the United States. For six years he has filled the chief municipal chair in the Michigan metropolis. The country at large knows Pingree best from the fact that he originated the idea of city potato patches for the poor. It is needless to say that he was ridiculed from the Atlantic to the Pacific; every one remembers how the press treated the subject. But Pingree never wavered. The potato patches were cultivated and the poor are still blessing the mayor for it. So successful was the Detroit plan that it has since been adopted by other cities. It was Pingree who originated the municipal circus two years ago, the proceeds of the entertainment, which was given by the mayor and aldermen, going to the relief of the unemployed poor. These and other novel ideas brought the mayor into ridicule and he was looked upon the country over as a marvel of eccentricity. The notoriety which he thus obtained led the more studious to examine into his record.

HAZEN S. PINGREE, MAYOR OF DETROIT.

BARNATO'S SISTER-IN-LAW.

She Has a Part in a Coming Opera Now Playing in This Country.

There is a pretty girl, who has snapping black eyes that light up well moulded features, who is just now playing a small part, a very small part, at that, in one of the comic operas running at a New York theater. She dances a Spanish fling and sings in a sweet but light soprano voice in a quintet. I believe she has two or three lines to speak also. Her main occupation in the opera is to stand around in picturesque costumes and striking poses and look pretty, in all of which she is eminently successful.

MISS ALICE HOLBROOK.

This young lady is Miss Alice Holbrook. More than that, she is the sister-in-law of the richest man in the world, "the King of the Kaffirs," Barney Barnato. She is probably paid about $20 or $25 a week. Her brother-in-law is estimated to be worth £300,000,000, or something like that, and Miss Holbrook and her sister and "Barney" are on the best of terms. He paid for her education in London, and Mrs. Barnato writes to her constantly.

Miss Holbrook has had a wide experience for the short time she has been on the stage. She has played in Africa with an opera company, camping out on the veldts; in Australia, New Zealand, Tasmania, Fiji Islands and in England, where last season, in "Claude Du Val," she was starred along with Arthur Roberts.

She likes America. But Africa, to her mind, is the coming continent. Nothing can beat it. However, she likes this country well enough to have made arrangements to stay here two years anyway.

Bacilli in Hay.

One of the latest discoveries in the bacilli kingdom is the "hay bacillus," found guilty of what has hitherto been called the "spontaneous combustion" of improperly cured hay. A scientist—who knows all about it, of course—says that the hay bacillus is a minute, "stick-like" being, always and everywhere found on grass and hay. When hay is not sufficiently dry, the bacilli continue to live on the moisture still present. By their breathing, these mischievous atoms generate heat, and as there are billions on billions of them, the heat rises until it reaches 100 degrees C. and more. Then the poor things die. But the mischief goes on. The blades of grass are turned into threads of coal; the coal, condensing the gases developed, increases the heat. Finally, when this transformation has progressed to the surface, a slight draft fans the smoldering mass into flame. In like manner, bacilli of the same genus cause the ignition of manure heaps.

Knew Just How Others Felt.

"I think the flavor of pure cod liver oil is very pleasant," said a citizen, "but my wife never can see me take any without twisting up her face and exclaiming: 'Oh, the horrid stuff! How can you possibly like it?' A few days ago I was in a drug store when an old school physician came in and asked for a quart of castor oil. As the druggist poured the stuff into a measure the doctor thrust one of his fingers into the stream of oil and transferred at least a spoonful to his mouth. 'That's good oil,' said he, smacking his lips. Then for a moment I knew just how my wife feels when I smack my lips over cod liver oil."

Dried sunflower blossoms are eaten by the poorer natives in Bombay and Bengal twice a day.

DIDN'T NEED A DEED.

The Native Could Prove His Right to the Claim.

Within a few miles of the North Carolina State line I stopped at a poverty-stricken cabin to smoke a pipe and chat for a few minutes with the tallest and raggedest native I ever saw in the South, says a writer. It was evident from the looks of things that he was at hard-pan and below, and after some general talk I queried:

"Why don't you go at it and fix up your cabin so as to make it comfortable?"

"It does dook shakiety, and that's a fact," he replied, "but I'm trying to sell out, yo' see."

"Is that the reason you have no crops?"

"Yes, that's the reason."

"And how much land do you own here?"

"Wall, sah, I can't 'zactly say how much, but a powerful lot, I reckon."

"But don't you know where your boundary lines begin and end?"

"They might begin down thar' by the creek and eand up thar' by that big tree," he replied in doubtful tones.

"Your deed ought to show," I said.

"Yes, but I hain't got any deed."

"Didn't you get a deed when you bought this property?"

"No, sah—no deed."

"Then how can you say you own it?"

"How kin I say, sah—how kin I say?" he repeated. "Why, sah, I cum 'long yere arter the wah and liked the looks of the place and squatted on it. Since that time three different critters hev cum up from Maisonville to hist me off, and I hev killed two and wounded the t'other and held right on. If that hain't ownin' the property then I'd like to know! No, sah, I hain't got no deed, but I hev got a double-barreled shotgun, and I reckon thar' won't be any disputes about ownership when I find a critter who wants to buy!"

Not an Insult.

Major Lomax, of the United States army, visiting in Canada soon after the war of 1812, was entertained in Quebec by the officers of one of the royal regiments. After dinner, speeches and toasts being in order, one of the British officers, having imbibed too generously of the champagne, gave as a toast: "The President of the United States, dead or alive." The toast was accepted with laughter. Major Lomax rose to respond, saying: "Permit me to give as my toast, 'The prince regent, drunk or sober.'" The British officer sprung instantly to his feet, and in angry tones demanded: "Sir, do you intend that remark as an insult?" To which Major Lomax calmly replied: "No, sir; as the reply to one."

Knows Now.

A boy's fishing pole was fastened to the root of a tree on the river bank and he was sitting in the sun playing with his dog, idling the time away, as he had been fishing all day and caught nothing.

"Fishing?" inquired a man, passing.

"Yes," answered the boy.

"Nice dog you got there; what's his name?"

"Fish."

"Fish? That's a queer name for a dog. What do you call him that for?"

"'Cause he won't bite."

Then the man proceeded on his way.—Erie Messenger.

Giving Him a Pointer.

He was a lively fellow and fond of her, but it didn't occur to him that a girl expected something else besides going to places and having fun all the time.

"Anything on hand this evening?" he asked, coming breezily in for the sixth time that week.

"Well, no," she replied hesitatingly, as she looked down at her empty fingers.—Detroit Free Press.

Not Likely.

Elsie—Yes, dear, my husband is a doctor, and a lovely fellow, but he is awfully absent-minded.

Ada—Indeed!

Elsie—Only fancy. During the marriage ceremony, when he gave me the ring, he felt my pulse and asked me to put out my tongue.

Ada—Well, he won't do the latter again.—Tit-Bits.

There is nothing new under the sun, but the New Woman is making a bluff at it.

·HORSEMEN·

SAVE YOUR STOCK BY USING THE CELEBRATED

Morris' English Stable Powder
For Loss of Appetite, Constipation, Rough Hair, Hide Bound, and all Diseases of the Blood. Price, 25c. per package.

Morris' English Stable Liniment
Cures Lameness, Cuts, Bruises, Scratches, Galls, Sweeney, Spavins, Splint, Curb, etc. Price, 50c. per bottle.

Morris' English Worm Powder
Warranted to cure any case of Worms in Horses, Cattle, Sheep or Dogs, also Pin Worms in Colts. Price, 50c. per box.

Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure
A Specific for Distemper, Coughs, Colds, Heaves, Pink Eye, and all Catarrhal diseases of horses. Prices, 50c. $1.00 per bottle.

Weils' Hoosier Poultry Powder
Makes Hens Lay, cures Cholera, Gapes and Roup, and keeps poultry healthy. Price, 25c. per package.

Every remedy guaranteed satisfactory or money refunded. Our new book, "The Horse: His Diseases and Treatment," mailed free.
Wells Medicine Co., Lafayette, Ind.
For sale by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

BE A MAN
Ajax Tablets
have cured thousands and will cure you if you are suffering from Loss of Vigor, Impotence, Sterility, Seminal Weakness or any of the other effects of Self-Abuse or excesses of early life. We give positive Written Guarantee to effect a cure in each case or to refund money in case of failure. Price $1.00 per box, or six boxes for $5.00. Sent prepaid upon receipt of price. Send for free circular. Address
AJAX REMEDY CO.,
70 Dearborn Street, CHICAGO, ILL.
For sale by F. E. Davenport, Druggist, Auburn.

DR. MOTT'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00.
DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Fisher & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!
Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!
Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epileptic, Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. In our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with an offer of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest bank references furnished on application.
1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00. 2 Qt. $5.00.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES
Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature, will find our FEMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.
By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

Every Woman
Sometimes needs a reliable monthly regulating medicine.
Dr. PEAL'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS,
Are prompt, safe and certain in result. The genuine (Dr. Peal's) never disappoint. Sent anywhere $1.00. Peal Medicine Co., Cleveland, O.
Sold by Fischler & Son., Auburn.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS

but ship from our factory at wholesale prices. Ship anywhere for examination; pay freight both ways if not satisfactory. 100 styles of Carriages. 90 styles of Harness. Send 4 cts. for 112 page catalogue.
No. 118½ $35.
ELKHART CARRIAGE AND HARNESS MFG. CO.,
W. B. Pratt, Sec'y, Elkhart, Ind.

Sex-ine Pills

RESTORE LOST VIGOR
Before and After Using.
New discovery. Will brace you up in a week. Sold with a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to Cure Nervous Debility, Loss of Sexual Power in either sex, Involuntary Emissions from any cause. If neglected, such troubles lead to consumption or insanity. $1.00 per box by mail, 6 boxes for $5.00. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Address PEAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

RESTORED MANHOOD.
DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, BEFORE AND AFTER USING. Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

TRY US
FOR JOB PRINTING!

DON'T WAIT

Until all the Good Things are Gone,

BUT

COME AT ONCE

Remember, Everything goes.

At Cost

NOTHING RESERVED

Crowds have been Flocking in, thus saving themselves Dollars. we will do the same for you.

Don't Wait, Come Now.

Globe Clothing and Shoe Co.,

Morth Side of Square, Auburn, Ind.

Safe, Showcase and Mirror for Sale.

Brown, Culbertson & Boland

We are still having a good trade on Stoves!

-WHY?-

Because

we carry the most

Complete Line

in DeKalb county, and sell them at the very

Lowest Prices

—We have the Finest—

BASE HEATING WOOD STOVES

you have ever seen. They are guaranteed to

HoLd Fire All Night

and every night. Why not come and see us? We will save you money.

BROWN, CULBERTSON & BOLAND

No.th Side of Public Squa e

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY,....NOVEMBER 21, 1895

Obituary

Azubah Ann Patterson was born near Canandaigua, N. Y., January 31, 1829 and died at her home in Auburn Nov. 18, 1895, her age being 66 years, 9 months and 17 days.

In 1836 she came with her parents to Steuben county, Ind., and in 1840 removed to DeKalb county, in some part of which she since made her home. She resided with her brother-in-law, John R. Moody till her marriage to Caleb Augustus Mead, which took place August, 29, 1846. To this union seven children were born, all of whom have preceded her to that better land. February 22, 1877, she united with the Presbyterian church in Auburn and remained a faithful and consistent member till her death. Mrs. Mead was a lady of estimable character and many amiable qualities, and her death has cast a gloom of sorrow over many hearts. She was the third daughter of a family of six children three sons and three daughters, her brother, G I Patterson being the only one now left of the entire family.

The funeral will be at the Presbyterian church to-morrow, Wednesday, Nov. 20, at 2 p. m. The services will be conducted by her pastor, Rev. F. C. Colvin, and the interment will be in Evergreen cemetery.

ST. JOE.

Dept. Prosecutor Welsheimer of the Hub was in town last Wednesday.

A. F. Woodcox returned from Cecil, Ohio last Friday, his daugter who has been very low with typhoid fever is convalescent.

Frank Barney is building a mammoth corn crib, Dic expects to buy all the surplus corn of the South Woods and thereby derive a big revenue in the near future.

Our old friend Sol. Barney has been been making some much needed repairs on his s'ore room and now has one of the neatest room in this part of woods. Why? Because his wife presides over a'l.

It is asserted that the good order League have succeeded in their remonstrance against the licensing of the saloon that they have a majority of over 80 signers and more yet to hear from.

Latest reports from David Hamm who had the misfortune to have his leg cut off last week is that he is slowly improving and that he will be as sound as ever minus a foot.

Alvin Hull came into J. P's. court Friday of last week and plead guilty to the offic rs of giving intoxicating liquors to minors and was fined $20 and costs, total $27 70. He is down as a remonstrator.

It is reported that a family not a thousand miles from St. Joe have been getting their supply of cooking and drinking water from a spring on an adjoining farm, and that not long since, the man owning said farm ordered the family to cease their getting water there or do him a certain amount of work for the privilege. Their own wells being dry they had to comply and are now paying for w ter to quench their thirst.

Hon. J. D. Leighty and wife were tendered a parting reception by the G. A R's and W. C. T. U's., last Friday evening and it is said it was a very enjoyable affair. Mr. and Mrs. Leighty will leave Wednesday for Washington to enter upon his duties of congressman from this district. And we believe that the cities of this vicinity irrespective of party all unite in wishing them unbounded success.

Convinced Against His Will.

Nearly everyone for miles around Morley, Mich., knows Chas. A. Jones, whose farm lies two and a half miles northwest of that village. His friends, and they were numerous, feared he would not long be spared to them, for the doctor pronounced him afflicted with heart disease and said he might drop dead any minute. This was not very pleasant reflection for his wife, who watched him almost constantly; once she found him where he fell unconscious in the yard His appearance indicated paralysis, the doctors were called again, but they did understand his case, consequently couldn't do much for him. He was in this condition when he heard of Dr Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer and its effectual use by others. He sent to Nelson Pike's drug store for a sample, and as he expressed it: "I had little faith in patent medicines, but something seemed to convince me that this was a good one and could be relied upon. Do you know I felt better and slept well after taking two doses? I want to say to you that Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer is the most wonderful medicine ever made. It cured me so completely that I never felt better in my life."

Mr Pike, who sold him the medicine, says: "I wouldn't have believed such a cure possible if I had not seen the change with my own eyes; it is certainly the most remarkable cure of my twenty four years' experience in the drug business." It is equally as valuable for other nerve diseases, such as nervous prostration, spasms, fits, sleeplessness, mental depression, exhausted vitality, despondency, sexual and general debility. For sale by F. E. Davenport. 40 44

STRAY NOTICE.

A stray pig can be had by calling at the Doty farm 3½ miles southwest of Auburn, by describing property and paying for this notice.

WILL H. ZIGLER.

Good Weather for a Duck Brand Mackintosh Rubber Coats and Storm Coats.

Our Duck Brand Goods are all

Warranted to be Absolutely Waterproof

Made up of first-class goods with seams all Sewed, Strapped and Cemented. Cape Mackintoshes at $1 50. Black Cashmeres, Cheviots, Diagonals and Worst ds.

Our 5, 6, 7.50, 8, 10, 12, 15 and 25 dollar Mackintoshes are Beauties.

Black Cheviot, Gray Plaids, Black Clay, Diagonals, Gray Mixed, Black and Blue, Tricot Brown Pin Checked, and samples of 100 different patterns. We can show you Gum Coats at $2.50, $2.75 and $3.00.

If you don't want a Mackintosh buy an..... UMBRELLA We have an elegant line to select from at 75c to $5, in 26, 28, 30 and 32 Sizes.

Don't neglect your health by trying to get along without a Mackintosh or Umbrella, Call and look at our stock.

G. H. YESBERA

For Rubber Clothing.

E. C. SHEETS

Fashionable Merchant Tailor.

OverFarmers' Bank.

—A—

Chance to Make Money

I have a number of town and country properties to sell at remarkable low prices, splendid chances for good investments.

Real estate bought and sold.

Money to loan on good security.

Fire Insurance in best companies.

Collection promptly made.

JOSEPH LINK
Auburn, Ind.

Office with Jacob Walborn.

AVOID THE BIG RUSH

Leave your orders NOW for holidays

Enlarged Pictures and Frames

Get your Negatives made right away, if you want your Pictures for Christmas Gifts.

Hurry Up! Get in Line!

Don't wait but came today.

J C. CLAPP.

DR. A. F. PHILLIPS,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON

CORUNNA — — INDIANA

Office formerly occupied by Dr. Rudolph. Calls promptly answered at all times

CASH PAID FOR SCRAP CAST IRON AT THE AUBURN FOUNDRY

FIRE!

FIRE INSURANCE

FIRE INSURANCE

FIRE INSURANCE

NINE STRONG COMPANIES.

LOWEST RATES.

WALTER C. HARTMAN,

Leading Agency.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE

Notice is hereby given. That I, Wm. Seely Administrator of the estate of Winfield Nelson deceased, will offer for sale at public Auction, to the highest bidder, on Saturday, December 7, 1895.

at 10 o'clock a. m. at the door of the Court House, in Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, the following described real estate, belonging to the estate of said decedent, to-wit:

Forty-six (46) acres of land in the east half (½) of the northeast quarter (¼), of section one (1), in township numbered thirty-three (33), north of range fourteen (14) east, in DeKalb county, in the state of Indiana, bounded by a line as follows, to wit:

Commencing at the northeast corner of said section and running thence west on the section line fifty (50) rods, thence south parallel with the east line of said section to the center of the highway running from Newville to Auburn and passing over said quarter section thence east along the center of the highway to the quarter post on the east line of said section, and thence north on said east line to the place of beginning, excepting from said tract thirteen and one-third [13 1-3] acres off the south end thereof, the north boundary line of said thirteen and one-third [13 1-3] acres being parallel with the north line of said section.

TERMS:

One-third cash, one-third in six [6] months and one third in twelve [12] months. Deferred payments to be evidenced by interest-bearing notes waiving relief and secured by mortgage upon the premises sold.

Wm. SEELY, Administrator.

Baxter and Brown, Att'ys.

FREE MEDICAL REFERENCE BOOK.

(64 pages) for men and women who are afflicted with any form of private disease peculiar to their sex, errors of youth, contagious disease female troubles, etc, etc.

Send 2 two cent stamps, to pay postage to the leading specialists and physicians in this country. Dr. HATHAWAY & CO., 70 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned have been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Executors of the Will of Daniel Gonser, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

FRANK GONSER,
HIRAM H. SLAYBAUGH
Executors.

November 14, 1895.
Wm. H. Leas, Att'y.

STEAM AND GASOLINE Portable and Marine ENGINES

If you think of buying an engine of any size or kind send for our Catalogue No. 20 containing illustrations and prices of every kind of n all engines up to 20 horse power, at bottom prices, or List No. 29 for yacht engines, boilers and boat machinery. Either sent free.

CHAS. P. WILLARD CO.

197 So. Canal Street CHICAGO

WATCHES CLOCKS

PERHAPS you are thinking of buying a WATCH.
PERHAPS you are thinking of buying a CLOCK.
PERHAPS you are in need of SPECTACLES.
PERHAPS you want to get a WEDDING PRESENT.
PERHAPS your wife is in need of some article in SILVERWARE,

Well, that being the case, we advise you to go straight to

FRED. J. YESBERA'S

Jewelry Store and get what you want.

Another lot of

CHINA and GLASSWARE

Received including some fine Chamber Sets. See them at

OLDS BROS'.

Buy the Boy a

WATCH

It is the Most Acceptable of Gifts, and will encourage habits of punctuality at school and elsewhere.

A boy is more apt to be on time when he knows what time it is. We show a splendid line of

Silver, Silverine, Nickel and Gold Filled Watches For BOYS

The Cases are Handsome Designs and the movements are accurate timekeepers

All are Guaranteed

and prices lower than the lowest, Call and see them.

D. A. HODGE,

Kiblinger Building

GROFF'S Rheumatic Cure

Is the only positive Cure known to the Medical Profession for the Cure of Acute and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Ovarian Neuralgia, Dismenorrhea, Psoriasis, Scrofula, Liver and Kidney Diseases. A positive Cure effected in from 6 to 18 days. For sale by Groff Medicine Co., Chicago, Illinois.

November, the SALE OF THE SEASON.

We have gathered here a collection of all that is good in Dry Goods Our modern merchandising way isn't satisfied with waiting for trade, but creates it. We have secured many special values in desirable goods that we can afford to price extra low to stimulate selling Not an unworthy specimen in the lot. The quantities are limited. By coming early you will have the choice. The following are striking examples:

10 Pieces Heavy Black Dress Silks,
Never sold less than $1. Won't last long. Our Price 69c

15 Pieces Heavy Satin Duchess, all colors,
Well worth $1.00. Our Price 59c

25 Pieces Velvet, all colors,
Cheap at 75 cents. Our Price 50c

40 Pieces All Wool Serge,
Sold everywhere at 40 cents Our Price 25c

10 Pieces All wool fine black Dress Serge,
Cheap at 75 cents. Our Price 50c

10 Pieces very fine black French Dress Serge, Always sold at $1 00. Our price 75c

100 Pieces new Gingham,
It's the 8 cent kind. Our price 6c

50 Pairs all wool Factory Blankets,
Well worth $3.25. Our price $2.50

100 Pairs good Cotton Blankets,
Worth 75 cents. Our price 50c

1000 Yds best Fall and Winter prints.
Worth 7 cents. Our price 5c

5000 Yds Bleached Muslin,
The 10 cent kind. Our Price 8c

Bargains all over our Mammoth Dry Goods House.

Our way of Cash Buying and Cash Selling enables us to give special low prices and the way our trade is increasing proves that the people of DeKalb county appreciate our efforts.

Bishop & Lackey.
LEADERS IN LOW PRICES.

A Prominent Railroader's Remarks.

TERRE HAUTE, May 1, 1894.

Lyon Medicine Co., Indianapolis, Ind.:

DEAR SIRS—I wish to speak a kind word for LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. During an attack of la grippe, from which I suffered greatly with stomach trouble, loss of appetite and general bad feelings, I was induced by a friend, who said it would remove all these troubles, to try your remedy. I admit I did not have much faith in them, but tried a box, and one box made me feel like a new man and did all my friend claimed they would. I believe them to be a long felt want in the medicine line.

Yours very truly,
J. W. CASKEY,
Conductor Vandalia Line.

LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS
A SPECIFIC for all DERANGEMENTS of the STOMACH. PRICE $1.00
Man'f by THE LYON MEDICINE CO. INDIANAPOLIS IND.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

LOST - MANHOOD - RESTORED!

—BY THE USE OF—

Dr. LagrOes Nerve and Brain Pills.

The Greatest Remedy Known in Mental Overwork.

Sextual Debility, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors and Lost Manhood Excessive Use of Tobacco all of which leads to insanity if not checked. Sent by mail or express prepaid on receipt of $1 per box; 3 boxes $2.50; 6 boxes $5.00. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded

J. D. CAMPBELL, General Agent for Indiana, WATERLOO, INDIANA.

MONEY - TO - LOAN
On Real Estate Security,
In large or small ammounts at a low rate of Interest, long or short time. No Commission.
Inquire at Farmers Bank.
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

Albert Robbins, Pres. J. C Henry V. P
FARMERS BANK.
Capital Stock.--
--$45,000.00.
—UNDER STATE SUPERVISION.—
Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.
--Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.
Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

ABSTRACTS OF TITLE
To all lands in DeKalb County, Indiana at reasonable rates. I have the only set of Abstract Books in the County Also Mortgages, Deeds and Notary Public Work of all kinds promptly attended to Surveyor's office Auburn, or leave orders at Postoffice, Garrett. Inquire at Auditor or
J. P. Crimmins
Abstractor and Notary Public

DR. W. W. CAREY,
AUBURN, - - INDIANA
Office on Second Floor Kiblinger Building formerly occupied by the COURIER.
CALLS ANSWERED PROMPTLY.
Residence 3rd house west of the Methodist church on West 7th street

First National Bank
AUBURN, INDIANA
Capital and Surplus, $60,000.00
Certificate of deposits issued, drawing interest 4 per cent per annum, on time deposit
County and town orders bought Money to loans
C. A. O. McCLELLAN, President.
CHAS. McCLELLAN, Cashier.

DR. CASS
Treats Piles or Hemorrhoids without using the knife or hypodermic needle, successfully.

Wednesday's Daily.

Pain has no show with Dr. Miles' Pain Pills.

Dr. Woods of Garrett was on our streets to-day.

Mrs. Lee Stamets and Miss Blair, both of Waterloo made a business trip to Auburn to-day.

The COURIER has ordered several new fonts of job type, and are still better than ever prepared to do your job work.

Edison gets credit as the original inventor of lighting by electricity. A case in court for several years, has been decided in his favor.

Cuba is holding out well in its attempts to be free of the yoke of Spain. If she can hold out till about next spring she stands a good chance to succeed.

It is truth in medicine that the smallest dose, that preforms a cure is the best. De Witt's Little Early Riser are the smallest pills, will preform a cure, and are the best.

Born last evening, to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Campbell a boy. This is the report that Dr. Hines sends to the COURIER. Frank is no do doubt, the proudest man in town.

Wing and Mahuirn, architect of Ft. Wayne, arrived on the 12:29 Lake Shore train to-day noon and were met at the depot by Supt. of the county farm, August Bartels, Commissioner Hague, and W. H. McIntosh. They were driven out to the county farm by Mr. Bartels.

It's just as easy to try One Minute Cough Cure as anything else. It's easier to cure a severe cough or cold with it. Let your next purchase for a cough be One Minute Cure. Better medicine; better results; better try it.

Levi W. Treesh of Corunna, one of the leading and most active Sunday School workers in that section made us a friendly call this afternoon. He has arranged for two good lectures there Friday night Nov. 22. See the notice elsewhere.

A couple at Twelve Mile, Indiana were recently married after an engagement of thirty years. His mother was foolish enough to want him to remain single till she died and he was foolish enough to promise it. After promising, he very properly kept his word.

Dr Ford in speaking of his recent deer hunt in Michigan says it carried him back to the days of forty years ago when he used to kill deer in the vicinity of Auburn. The Doctor is a pretty old fellow to be out hunting at five o'clock these cold mornings, but he evidently enjoys it.

C. D. Meigs, Supt. State S. S. Association and Editor of the Awakener, and Charles L. Weaver Secretary and Treasurer of the same Association both of Ind. will be at Corunna on Friday night Nov. 22nd and deliver an address. Mr. Meigs' subject will be "How to Reach the Masses Through the County Sunday School Association" and Mr. Charles L. Weaver will talk on "A new move in Sunday school work; the Home Class department; what is it? and how to work it?" Every body cordially invited to hear these distinguished men.

Thursday's Daily.

Mrs. J W Shaffer is reported no better. The doctors have no hopes of her recovery.

G. H. Hoffman and daughter Clara returned this morning to their home in South Dakota.

Say, why don't you try De Witt's Little Early Risers? These little pills cure headache, indigestion and constipation. They're small, but do the work.

Dr. Buchtel, Geo. Stealy and Don Garwood go to Angola this evening. Their intention is to spear the elusive cisco which is said to abound in some of the Steuben lakes. Will watch their return to see who has the biggest string.

There are many good reasons why you should use One Minute Cough Cure. There are no reasons why you should not, if in need of help The only harmless remedy that produces immediate results.

Geo. Stealy went out a short time today, looking for game, and just below the cemetery he came in sight of a fine partridge which he promptly shot. It has been some time since one of these fine birds has been taken so close to town.

Several Auburn people were highly entertained at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. William Huffman south of town to-day. A most excellent dinner was served by Mrs. Huffman. The party consisted of Rev. Colvin, Mrs. Jas. Barcley, Mrs. T. J. Cuppy, and Miss Minnie Mc Dowell.

Mrs. J J. Zent left for the west today on the noon train over the B. & O. She goes to join her husband at their home at Mankato, Minn She has been here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R Moody some months as they have been in poor health.

Sneak thieves entered the cellar of J. R Moody on North Main street last night, but were frightened away by Mrs. R Moody. She was aroused by a noise that seemed to come from the cellar and which was probably caused by their attempt to remove some fruit jars and similar articles. If they come again, they may get some "jars" of a more exciting sort.

Notice of Sale of Real Estate.

Notice is hereby given, that I, William Seeley, administrator of the estate of Philander Smith, deceased, will sell at private sale, on Saturday, at 10 o'clock a. m., December 14, 1895, at the residence on the premises sold, the following described real estate, belonging to the estate of said decedent, to wit:

The undivided two-third (⅔) of the south half (½) of the south half (½) of the southwest quarter (¼) of section five (5) township thirty-three (33) north, range fifteen (15) east, in DeKalb county, in the state of Indiana.

TERMS OF SALE:

One-third cash, one-third in six (6) months, and one-third in twelve (12) months. Deferred payments to be evidenced by interest-bearing notes waiving relief and secured by mortgage upon the premises sold.

WILLIAM SEELEY, Administrator.
BAXTER & BROWN, Att'ys.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

What stops Neuralgia? Dr. Miles' Pain Pills.

Our Newville township friend David Andrews called up to see us to-day. He says the late rain did a world of good down that way.

$1.20 buys 2 1-2 gal. Bromo-Hygeia, including jug, at the Family Grocery.

Mrs. John Douglas and her daughter Hattie start next week for California where they go to stay some time in the hope of improving their health.

Stomach and Bowel Complaints are best relieved by the timely use of DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure. Insist on having this preparation. Don't take any other.

R H. Sherlock of Fairfield and L. W. Treesh of Richland were here yesterday. They reported the death of their nephew, Michael Rohm, a note of which we have elsewhere.

Genuine Fresh Bromo-Hygeia at the Family Gracery $1.20 buys 2 1-2 gal. including the jug.

The healing properties of De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve are well known. It cures eczema, skin skin affections and is simply a perfect remedy for piles.

E Crossley came up from Ft. Wayne last evening and returned to-day. He is now employed on the city railway as motorman, and likes the work very well.

RASPBERRY sets for sale, of the Gregg variety. You can save agents' profits. Call on Daniel Achemire, 1½ miles northeast of Fairfield Center.

Mrs. Barns and daughter, Mrs. W. C. Hartman went ever to Butler yesterday afternoon, returning to-day. They visited the relatives, Sam Jones and family and enjoyed a visit to the chrysanthemum fair that was going on in that place.

Legonier Banner:—Dr. I O Buchtel of Auburn assisted by Drs. J. W. Morr and N. G. Reiff of this city performed an operation on Mrs E. E Spangle at the Easly residence in Jefferson township last Friday. It is hoped that the operation will prove to be a successful one and that she may fully recover her health.

All diseases of the air passages especially catarrah and chronic, Bronchitis, as well as first stages of consumption can be cured. I am treating these diseases with great success by the use of the latest and most improved medicines and instruments. Dr. W H. Nusbaum, Auburn, Ind. 42tf

August Bartels, superintendent of the County Home was in town yesterday. We learn from the county officers that he has been a success in managing the farm and caring for the unfortunates whose only home is there. It takes a thorough man yet one with a humane heart to do justice both to the taxpayers and to the helpless poor.

Among our callers yesterday were W. H. Leas of Waterloo, H. H. Slaybaugh of Fairfield, Frank Gonser and C. K. Parshall of Ashley. Mr. Gonser and Mr. Slaybaugh have been chosen executors of the will of the late Daniel Gonser. Both are careful business men and well able to manage the large property interests left in their hands.

Saturday's Daily.

Miss Mina Anthony of Fostoria, O. is here the guest of her cousin Miss Laura Sawyel.

Rev. W. L. Meese is in town again after a few months visit with his children

Russ Gilford was up town this forenoon with his motocycle. This is quite a novelty in the way of a vehicle.

Mrs. Matilda Shull of Canton Ohio, and Mrs Hartman, of South Bend, Ind., ars visiting with H. C. Shull, one being his aunt, and the other his cousin.

A letter from Mrs. D. S. Cochran at Ontario, leaves them all well out there. They have had a fall of fine weather but of course there were no hard frosts as with us.

CHAS. P WILLARD & Co. 197 Canal St., Chicago, make and handle everything in the way of small steam launches and yachts and boilers, engines and machinery for same. Catalogue sent free.

Mrs. Humes and her daughter May, who have been visiting the family of H. C. Shull, a month or so, have returned to their home at Upper Sandusky. Mrs. Humes gill be remembered as Mrs. W W. Humes, and is a sister to Mrs. Shull.

The Dispatch asks if it would not be a good plan to have the legislature meet and tell just what it wants to do, and then have some first-class lawyers get together and fix it up for them. This plan would probably be a great improvement but not so economical as it would be to send a better set of members in the first place. This is where the trouble is. We choose any sort of a man for the place just to fill up the ticket, and though he may be a number one man in matters he unstands, he is no good in making laws. We should begin at the root of the evil

AUBURN IND Nov. 16, 1895

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

I the undersigned have known Wm. R. White, of Bloomington, Ill., who is the patentee of the White Gate now on exhibition at Auburn Ind. for twenty-five years and know him to be an honorable man and an honest dealer,

JAMES ADAMS,
Veterinary Surgeon
Auburn Ind.

Call For County Orders.

All orders dated previous to June 27th, 1894 No. 1120 N, are hereby called. Interest to stop Nov. 15, 1895.

D. W. FAIR, Co. Treas.

Money to Loan.

By F. L. Welsheimer, Best Building and Loan Association represented in Auburn. Money to loan in large or small sums on good security.

Monday's Daily.

Dr. Miles' Pain Pills are guaranteed to stop Headache in 20 minutes. "One cent a dose."

Judge Penfield returned this morning from Lima, Ind.

John Shuman and wife, of Waterloo, were in the city to-day.

Miss Ida Gratz returned this morning from Butler where she spent Sunday with her parents.

Miss Laura Keeran was called to New Era yesterday to wait on Mrs. Chas Rugman who is dangerously ill.

Bert Spitler was over at Garrett last evening to take over Mr. Wilson who preached there.

Wm. McIntyre was able to get up town in a buggy this afternoon, the first time since his sickness began.

Geo. Ettinger and wife returned this morning from Waterloo where they visited over Sunday.

Editor Strayer and Mr. Bowman of the Ashley Times were in the city to-day.

Mrs. Geo. Clark returned Sunday from Waterloo where she was the guest of her parents.

Special Sale of Bromo-Hygeia at Brandon's 2 1-2 gal. including jug for $1.20

Miss Fannie Casebeer who has been in Philadelphia is in the city. We have not learned if she will return to that place again or not.

Tell me not in tones of sorrow
That your're finding business bad;
You will find it good to-morrow
If you try a COURIER Ad."

If you need an engine of any kind, steam, gasoline, kerosene oil, send for free illustrated circular to CHAS P. WILLARD & Co., 197 Canal St., Chicago

Union Thanksgiving services will be held this year in the M. E. church, Rev. J D. Brosy will preach the sermon at 10:30 a m. Good music will be rendered and you should arrange to attend this annual service.

Nothing so distressing as a hacking cough. Nothing so foolish as to suffer from it. Nothing so dangerous if allowed to continue. One Minute Cough Cure gives immediate relief.

McDowell and Carter have the material on the ground and work has been commenced on the foundation for a new building on the corner lot just south of the town barn. The building will be 30x70 two stories high. It will be used as a buggy repository.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord tf

Miss May Hilkey, daughter of B. F. and Mrs. Hilkey died at the home of her parents in south Jackson township at 8 o'clock this morning from consumption. She had been a sufferer for more than a year. She was born May 9, 1878, being 17 years, 6 months and 9 days of age at her death. Her funeral will be held at Hopewell Tuesday at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Mason. Interment in Woodlawn cemetery.

An organization of Auburn Ministers was effected this morning. Meetings will be held in the M. E. Study, the first and third Monday of each month at 11 a. m. All ministers in our city are invited to be members and present at the the meeting on the first Monday in Dec. The following officers were elected: Pres., Rev Brosy; Vice-Pres., Rev. Walts; Treas., Rev. Engleman; Secy., Rev. Colvin.

'Squire Walters office was the busiest place in town this morning. The first case on the docket to dispose of was that of Cashie Smith and Cal Brown. It seems from the evidence that Mr. Smith was intoxicated and he called Mr Brown very unbecoming names, and also struck him a couple times. Just what Brown did in return we were not able to learn. Smith, however, plead guilty and was fined 25 cents and costs. After this matter was disposed of, then a case came up from Altona. Frances Shields, a sister-in law of Jacob Hallam, filed an affidavit Saturday, charging Hallam with assault with attempt to commit a felony. Squire Walters soon disposed of this by fining Hallam $1.00 and costs.

This morning John Kruger, the, grocer on south Main street, started to deliver groceries in a bran new wagon with a canopy top on it. He had only delivered a few goods when his horse ran away and mashed up things in general. He drove up in front of Mr. Purdy's residence near Evergreen cemetery, and jumped out to take in some groceries. He had scarcely left the rig till the horse started. It ran west to VanBuren street when it turned north. As the turn was made the wagon upset and the top was torn off and left lying on the side walk. The horse and wagon came on up VanBuren street and was finally caught out west of town by Cal VanAuken.

This is quite a mishap for Mr. Kruger. He went to considerable expense in getting up this wagon.

There was a collision of two buggies Saturday evening up the road north of town near the Kutzner farm. A rig with two men was going north and turned out a little to pass a buggy it met going south but as it turned back into the track, it locked wheels, with a second buggy following the first south bound one. There was a loud crash, and a lot of broken shafts, and the north-bound rig was left in a bad shape to get on. The south-bound, one, had enough left evidently to get to town with. We did not learn the names, nor can we say how the north-bound men reached their destination. It was very dark.

The U. S. Gov't Reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

Tuesday's Daily.

No morphine or opium in Dr. Miles' PAIN PILLS. CURE All Pain. "One cent a dose."

Elkhart county farmers talk of going into the raising of sugar beets.

Attorney C. M. Brown was at Angola to-day on business.

Harry DeWitt has been helping in the clerk's office for a week or two. He is a typewriter.

Money is burned when a large per cent goes up in smoke. There is no waste smoke in the Dinger cigar.

Mr. Cheney, of Spencerville, has moved his family into the property lately located by Frank Myers.

Jacob Walborn and wife have returned from a two week's visit in Ohio.

Good rooms and board may be secured at the Misses Keeran's, on VanBuren street. Call at once.

A Warsaw fruit grower raised quite a crop of persimmons this season. Northern Indiana is likely to become a "fruit belt."

The Philomathian club will meet with Clara McClellan on north Jackson street Saturday afternoon.

M. N. Wards, on Eight street is getting quite a number of boarders. He runs a good boarding house.

A man was robbed of his pocket book over in Whitley county last week, while attending church. That is a new place for a pickpocket to operate in.

Warren G. Sayre of Wabash, announces that he will be a candidate for governor on the republican ticket. He is the ninth one.

Mrs. F. E. Lane returned last evening from Rantoul, Ill., where she and her husband have been living during the summer.

It is surprising how cheap and on what easy terms one can buy town property of Walter Hartman, the real estate dealer.

FOR SALE: House and lot in Gas addition. Seven-room, two-story dwelling, with cellar, woodhouse, well, cistern and an abundance of fruit. Call on Sherm Hollister.

Ex-Commissioner Patterson was in town to-day, to assist in the arrangements for the funeral of his sister, Mrs. C. A. Mead.

Acts at once, never fails, One Minute Cough Cure. A remedy for asthma and that feverish condition which accompanies a severe cold The only harmless remedy that produces immediate results.

The fire insurance rates for Auburn have been revised. Property owners and business men can ascertain their rate by calling on Walter C. Hartman, Leading Fire Insurance Agent. d&wtf

Dr. J. B Casebeer will be at the office of Drs Matheny & Hines next Friday, Nov. 22 and will be glad to meet those who are suffering from rupture.

HENRYS OPERA HOUSE

Will be opened Monday Nov. 25 by Carle Louis Comedy Co. A change of program each night. Don't miss it

A lovely rain began this forenoon, which added to what we had a short time ago, will put wheat in good shape. This afternoon it got colder and some snow fell.

John Picker and Holly Lawrence left on the 2:04 Wabash this afternoon for Adrian where they will resume their work on the big building. They read the DAILY COURIER also.

Columbia City is aroused over a bill of $3,142.35 for plumbing the jail. The commissioners did not accept it as they had expected to pay not more than $600 or $900, Let them be patient over there, Burford will strike the county clerk some day.

A grand battle is said to be likely to occur soon in Cuba, which may decide the trouble one way or the other. A big victory for the insurgents would so encourage them that they would likely succeed. On the other hand a defeat would make their success doubtful, and at least defer it a year or two.

A postal card from Indianapolis says that on last Friday evening there came to Eugene and Mrs. Altenberg a daughter. Mrs. Altenberg and baby both doing well. The COURIER joins with their host of friends here in greetings to the little one and congratulations to the parents.

Two of our Garrett friends, L. J. Gengler and John W Eaton, were over yesterday from Garrett, and made us a brief call. Mr. Eaton is a postal clerk, having the fast runs over the B. & O.

Hamilton Advocate:—Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Wartenbee, of near Newville, Ind., were in this city a few days since, visiting their old friends Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sewell.

There is nothing that causes women greater discomfort and misery than the constantly recurring Headache. My wife's health was very indifferent, having Headache continually, and just two packages of Simmons Liver Regulator released her from all Headache and gave tone and vigor to her whole system. I have never regretted it's use." M. B. DeBord Mt. Vernon, Ky.

Gov. Matthews son, Seymour died at Atlanta last Thursday very unexpected of typhoid fever. He was buried Sunday at the old home in Vermillion county. He was a young man of great promise and was studying to be an electrician. The governor's family have deepest sympathy of all the state.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

GOOD FOR EVERYBODY

Almost everybody takes some laxative medicine to cleanse the system and keep the blood pure. Those who take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR (liquid or powder) get all the benefits of a mild and pleasant laxative and tonic that purifies the blood and strengthens the whole system. And more than this: SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR regulates the Liver, keeps it active and healthy, and when the Liver is in good condition you find yourself free from Malaria, Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick-Headache and Constipation, and rid of that worn out and debilitated feeling. These are all caused by a sluggish Liver. Good digestion and freedom from stomach troubles will only be had when the liver is properly at work. If troubled with any of these complaints, try SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR. The King of Liver Medicines, and Better than Pills.

EVERY PACKAGE
Has the Z Stamp in red on wrapper.
J. H. Zeilin & Co., Phila., Pa.

Court

We give the closing work of the week as the term ended Saturday and began yesterday at Angola.

The case of Gaskell vs Keller from Ft. Wayne is set for next term and comes up Dec. 30. An Ashley case of McClure and Carr, to close up a partnership case, Geo. E, Strayer was appointed receiver and bond filed, and an order of sale of land so changed that he may sell at private sale, notices of same to be put up in five public places in the township for three weeks.

PROBATE WORK.

Geo. W. Erwin guardian of Chas. B. Erwin makes final report, which is approved and he is discharged. The same in the case of Wm. Henderson, guardian of Lewis Fisher and the same for Samuel Miller, guardian of Eliza McClellan's heirs. Adelbert McEnterfer was appointed guardian of Vivian McEnterfer and bond approved. Frank A. Borst is made guardian for Geo. W. Reeder, non comp. and bond approved. D. N. Fitch was appointed guardian for T. J. Vandusen non comp. and bond approved. Andrew S. Wooton was made guardian for his minor children, the heirs of Martha V. Wooton and bond approved. H. C. Shull was made guardian of Elmer Weaver, non comp. and bond accepted. Isaac Hague, administrator of the late H. J. Shaffer, made two reports of lots sold in the cemetery—Woodlawn, which reports were approved. Cornelia C. Butler was allowed $363 out of the estate of the late David Seery, and J. A. Shull, $200 from the James Till estate. Albert Buchanan, administrator of the John Buchanan estate, is ordered to sell lands at public sale. The same for Wm. Seely in the Winfield Nelson estate.

BUTLER.

M. F. Campbell submitted to another operation for his neck last week in the Chicago College of physicians and surgeons, and is reported doing well and improving.

John Madden is slowly recovering from his illness.

Sol. Hose living three miles south of town is building a substantial dwelling on his farm.

Mrs. J. A. Campbell is caring for her sick sister near Angola. At last reports she was improving.

Eugene Pinkin, a former well known Butler boy is reported dangerously ill at Indianapolis.

Rev. Smith of the U. B. church has move to Butler and taken up his residence in the U. B. Parsonage on East North street.

The ladies of the U. B. church were quite successful last week in their chrysanthemum show and fair. Their net earnings were over $40.00.

The Christian society have their improvements on their church so far completed as to be able to hold services in their house again.

Orla Campbell, of Bloomington, Ill., was at home a short time last week. He is firing an engine on the Alton.

Flossie Freeburn, daughter of of Dan Freeborn was reported ill last Sunday,

James Campbell, living three miles east of Butler has lost two horses and one cow within about two months. Last week all his cattle were sick, he attributed their illness to eating Golden Rod, which some of the agricultural papers have recently claimed was poison.

Mede Stoy, only son of Cyrus Stoy and Alice Stoy, died last week, after a long and tedious illness brought about by typhoid fever. The funeral rites took place from their south side residence last Friday p. m. and were novel to our people in as much as no religious ceremonies of any kind took place

Henry C. Graffe, the Ft. Wayne jeweler, to close out his stock of fine art pottery, onyx cabinets and tables, pedestals, piano and table lamps, will sell at 20 per cent. below the importers original cost. This is the opportunity of a life time as these goods are not to be had outside of the larger metropolitan stores.

New goods are coming in, so you see the advantage of an early visit to Mr. Graffe's at the corner of Calhoun and Columbia streets, Ft. Wayne.

Selections made at an early date will be held as advised and promptly delivered at specified time.

Special inducements Mondays and Fridays. 47 48

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - - PUBLISHER.

The wood that a politician saws never helps his wife much in running the kitchen fire.

It has been discovered that Shakspeare's grandmother's name was Alice. It is due the bard to add that she was not the Alice referred to in "Ben Bolt."

It is reported that thousands of dolls which have been shipped from New York to Havana recently are filled with cartridges for the insurgents. Pretty toys, those, for the Cuban infantry.

A San Francisco woman announces that she will start for Chicago on her bicycle as soon as she obtains a divorce. This is rather reversing things. Ordinarily the trip to Chicago is made before the divorce is applied for.

The Monroe doctrine is an indefinite quantity so far as the details are concerned, but in a general way it means that no European nation should be allowed to colonize any part of the Western Hemisphere, or monopolize any of its commercial advantages.

Kansas boasts that it has a school for every 182 persons while Massachusetts has but one for every 600 persons. It should be remembered, however, that Massachusetts has no sparsely settled counties where only a dozen or so pupils are within reach of the school house. The Old Bay State is not particularly noted for illiteracy.

An English writer on naval affairs is preparing a work called "Ironclads in Action," which will deal with the history of fighting on the ocean during the last forty years. He should give the United States credit for revolutionizing the navies of the world a few months after the civil war broke out, and all through having an armored "cheesebox on a raft" at the right place at the right moment.

Some people say that advertising is all a matter of luck; that you cannot tell what advertising is going to do, or whether or not it is going to pay. This may be true; but it is very strange that the man who gives intelligent thought to his advertising, and does it in an intelligent, earnest, straightforward way, usually has the luck on his side. He is lucky in his advertising because he reduces it to a science. Advertising is just as certain as paying rent. Advertising is governed by the same common-sense business lines that govern buying a lot of tomatoes or codfish.—Grocery World.

The Territory of Oklahoma seems to be one of those phenomenal States that are liable in the future to revolutionize even our American ideas of rapid development. It seems only yesterday that we were reading of the skurrying of the multitude over the barren and unimproved land of the Indian Territory in a desperate rivalry to secure the most desirable sites for settlement. Now we are informed that there is established upon the Territory a population of 275,000, with a taxable valuation of $40,000,000. Surely this is out doing even the usual wonderful rapidity of American growth and verging upon the miraculous. The best of it all is that the Territory seems to have as well established a public morale as many of the older communities, as well as all the other elements necessary to the highest social and political development.

England is getting herself well equipped with ultimatums of various sorts. She has presented ultimatums to China and Turkey, neither one of which has been regarded as very serious. It was recently reported she had an ultimatum ready for Venezuela, but if this be so it has not yet reached Caracas. Her latest has been forwarded to the King of Ashantee and it will go into effect immediately. He has been notified by must stop his favorite pastime of human sacrifices and let neighboring tribes under British protectorates alone. An expedition is all ready to start into Ashantee, and if its king does not come to terms it will be all the worse for him. Fortunately the Monroe doctrine does not apply in Africa and none of the other powers have any interests there. Great Britain, therefore, will make short work of the dusky sovereign, and after that is over it may be safely presumed that she will swallow his kingdom.

A contemporary laments the fact that in rebuilding the Hartford her identity as Farragut's flagship has been destroyed, and hence that the object of the appropriation for her reconstruction has been defeated. It is unfortunate, of course, but what else could have been expected? You cannot turn an old hulk into a serviceable cruiser and keep it an old hulk. The idea of reconstructing the Hartford for cruising purposes was a piece of sentimental folly. She ought to have been laid up as a relic, with only such repairs as were needed to protect her from the weather. The money that has been wasted in rebuilding her would have provided a useful modern gunboat. When Holmes wrote the stirring poem that saved the Constitution from the boneyard he did not advocate turning the old frigate into an up-to-date cruiser and sending her out on squadron duty. The English keep Nelson's flagship Victory as a venerated memento, but they do not attempt to make her available for service in a modern line of battle. If our sailors should prove as gallant in the future as in the past, and so should provide us with a new stock of famous names, the policy that has led to the reconstruction of the Hartford might end in filling our entire navy with crippled and patched-up monuments to sentiment, without a ship that could fight.

Death came gently to our dear friend Eugene Field. While he slept beside his little son the mystery of eternity was opened to him as in a dream and the children's friend passed into "the far off land of Ever-Plaisance." His verses and prose are read gratefully in every corner of the earth where English is spoken. He was beloved of children and the friends of children. Although with characteristic modesty and distrust of his own genius, he made no pretensions to the front rank among authors, the best of the day welcomed him to their fellowship. To the last he was a busy journalist. A poet of the people, the people bear testimony to the depth of his feeling and the deftness of his art. The news of his death fell with a painful shock upon many a bruised heart that has found comfort in his tender verses. The people of Chicago who knew him well and had come to understand and appreciate him feel they have suffered a personal loss. The gentleness of his disposition will live in the memory of his friends when all thought has passed of the pranks, born of boisterous, boyish love of fun, which gave him his earlier fame. As a journalist he had to deal satirically sometimes with the failings and foibles of friend as well as foe, but his shafts left no deep scars, none that were not effaced by after contact. He was, as he has written of another: "Good to the helpless an' the weak; a brave and manly heart." He had not written much that he deemed of permanent value, but the seven or eight little volumes of prose or poetry are so exquisite in their style, so simple, so human, so pure, that they will carry his name far beyond our day. Thousands who have read his writings with affectionate interest and awaited the coming of new work from his pen with eagerness will grieve for the passing of the children's friend—Eugene Field.

"Up from the sea there floats a sob
Of the waves that are breaking upon the shore,
As though they were groaning in anguish, and moaning,
Bemoaning the ship that shall come no more."

The Youngest Hunter.

In the far West boys begin to be hunters at an early age. Eight-year-olds who go off with dog and gun are not extremely rare; but successful deer-slayers of six probably have not yet been developed—except in a single well authenticated case. The papers of Portland, Oregon, tell the story, and it is a simple one, but rather inspiring to a hunter.

Mr. O. D. Garrison, of Scappoose—a town not far from the Columbia River, between Portland and St. Helen—went deer-hunting recently. He had with him a friend to whom he wished to show some large game. They hunted with dogs.

The dogs started a deer, and gave chase. Closely pursued, the deer took water, jumping into the Scappoose Creek. Along the bank coursed the dogs, following the swimming buck down the stream.

Mr. Garrison's house is on the Scappoose, and in the course of time this was reached. Here the deer left the water, and standing on the bank, held the dogs at bay.

In front of the house Mr. Garisron's little boy, six years old, was playing. He heard the barking of the dogs, and the hunter spirit in him was aroused. He went and got a loaded rifle of his father's, marched to the bank of the stream, cocked the gun, rested it on a log, aimed deliberately at the deer's head, and fired.

The deer fell; and when, after a time, the hunters came running up, they found that the ball had entered the animal's forehead in exactly the right spot to cause instant death.

It is said that the little boy was "not nearly so excited over the event as his parents were." This may well be believed.

Marriage.

Marriage is, of all earthly unions, almost the only one permitting of no change but that of death.

It is that engagement in which man exerts his most awful and solemn power—the power of responsibility which belongs to him as one that shall give account—the power of abnegating the right to change—the power of parting with his freedom—the power of doing that which in this world can never be reversed.

And yet it is perhaps that relationship which is spoken of most frivolously and entered into most carelessly and most wantonly. It is not a union merely between two creatures; the intention of the bond is to perfect the nature of both by supplementing their deficiencies with the force of contrast, giving to each sex those excellencies in which it is naturally deficient—to the one strength of character and firmness of moral will, to the other sympathy, meekness, tenderness.

And just so solemn and just so glorious as these ends are for which the union was contemplated and intended, just so terrible are consequences if it be perverted and abused, for there is no earthly relationship which has so much power to ennoble and to exalt.

With a Modern Model.

An ungainly Kangaroo and a squatty Dachshund met in the field. "What ungainly limbs!" rudely remarked the Dachshund. "Of what use are they, pray?"

"They are good for jumping," replied the Kangaroo, making several prodigious leaps.

"Oh, that I could jump like you."

"Easy enough; let me stretch your banty legs for you."

The Dachshund agreed and the Kangaroo, exerting all his strength, elongated the nether limbs of his little friend until they compared favorably with his own.

At this juncture a huntsman espied the pair, who took alarm. The Kangaroo pushed the field out from behind him in a remarkably ungraceful but sudden manner. The Dachshund, however, being unaccustomed to his new stilts, tumbled down and was shot for a kangaroo.

Moral: This fable shows but one of the many evil results of having your leg pulled.—New York World.

Dr. Pillem—Did you administer the opiate at 9 o'clock as I directed? Mrs. Gamp (with a sniff)—That I did, but it seemed a pity to wake the poor man out of the first sound sleep he's had in four days to give it to him!—New York Morning Journal.

Caulor—Should think you'd run a woman's page in your paper? Eddy Tory All—We do; three of them. C.—Where are they? E. T. A.—The ad. pages, man.—Boston Courier.

GIVE THEM THE ROPE

REPUBLICANS CAN HANG THEMSELVES BEFORE '98.

G. O. P. Followers May Find the Disagreeable Lessons of 1890 and 1892 Set Before Them Again Next November—Remarkable Confessions.

Success Is Not Sure.

Republicans cannot be blamed for saying that their recent sweeping victories make their success in the next presidential election certain. Yet even the most elate of them have a haunting recollection that they felt just as certain in 1884 and 1890. The conservative vote which their Blaine and tariff and force bill debauch alienated has now no doubt returned to them; but there is time for it to be alienated again before next November. Let them only give Tanner, Foraker, Chandler and McKinley, to say nothing of Platt, Quay and Sewell, rope enough, and the hanging of the party will be among the easy possibilities. Senator Sherman already threatens a duty on wool and a general and speedy tariff upheaval. He and too many other leaders are deceived by the idea that the country wants them to "do something." But that is precisely what the country is sick and tired of. Doing something is what has undone one party after the other. As the Antinomian hymn says: "Doing is a deadly thing, doing ends in death." The voters of the nation are prepared to hail a party which will frankly say that it proposes to legislate as little as possible; that it is not going to insist upon making everybody rich, wise and virtuous by law. All the Republicans have to do is to stand still and see their salvation. If they are too eager to help things along by going to war with England, or ripping up the tariff, or inflating the currency again, they may easily find the disagreeable lessons of 1890 and 1892 set them once more.—New York Evening Post.

The Cause of Business Troubles.

Thinking that the people have such poor memories that they can be easily deceived as to the origin of the recent trade depression, the New York Tribune revives the old story that it was the fear of Democratic legislation which in 1893 closed mills and factories, and brought ruin and bankruptcy. If that paper had been content with its bold assertion it might have convinced its partisan readers that it was telling the truth. But when it proceeds to explain the closing down of many factories in 1892, while the Republican administration was still in power, by saying that the branches of industry affected were those in which it was expected that the tariff duties would be changed, it becomes ridiculous.

The people are not so stupid as the Tribune imagines. They know that industry of all kinds is carried on to supply human wants. They know that the total volume of exchanges which we call trade, depends on the ability of each consumer to find some one who wants the things made by other men, and has something to offer in exchange. They know that business activity depends on the purchasing power of the masses, and not on high taxes on foreign goods. These are some of the simple truths on which the common people have got a good hold.

With these principles in view the cause of business depression can be readily seen. If the people who are engaged in producing wealth of all kinds are robbed annually of a large share of their product, as was the case under the McKinley tariff, it is evident that they cannot buy as much of the proceeds of other men's labor as they need. The loss of a portion of the goods they make means that they will be unable to take less of other goods. While each man's annual loss through high tariff robbery may be small, yet the total means an enormous amount, and the result is a generally decreased demand for goods, and the consequent closing of factories.

This is exactly what happened in 1892 and 1893. The consumers of goods needed just as much of everything as they did a year or two years before. But they had been annually giving so large a share of their products to protected monopolies and trusts that they were unable to buy back the things they wanted. Factories therefore found that they had too many goods on hand, and were forced to close down and to discharge their employes.

There is no mystery about hard times. Factories cannot run if goods cannot be sold. The people cannot buy goods if their money is taken in high tariff taxes, and in profits of protected trusts. Under natural conditions each man's purchasing power would exactly equal his power to produce goods, and panics and over-production would be impossible. When Democratic principles are fully carried out, the prosperity which has followed their partial application will be perpetual.

Fat Fryers and Rail Manufacturers.

A calamity organ asserts that the reason ex-Congressman Tom Johnson wants no protection for his steel rails is that they are "protected by numerous patents." If this be so, there are other manufacturers of steel rails who have no such protection. Mr. Andrew Carnegie is not crying for more protection, as the present duty on steel rails, small as it is, is in effect prohibitory in its operation. At the ruling prices for steel rails the manufacturers have no need of any protection at all, patents or no patents. But that is not the question. What the manufacturers desire above all is to be let alone, in order that they may extend the markets for their industries at home and abroad. The only yelps for more protection come from the professional tariff agitators and the politicians who wish to fry more "fat" out of the manufacturers. It is perfectly safe to predict that not a manufacturer of steel will be found in the lobbies of the next Congress begging for higher duties.—Philadelphia Record.

Ohio's Busy Mills.

Five hundred tons more to England? The bats and owls do not appear to be nesting in the chimneys, for if they try to find one that is not sending out fire and smoke they fail. Neither are the cows browsing around the furnaces, as they told us would surely happen. There is no use denying the facts any longer. When Youngstown industries, situated hundreds of miles from the shore, can send their products by rail, under heavy freight rates, to the ocean and then across the deep to the Old World, it proves conclusively what tariff reformers have always claimed. The era of trade is just begun.—Youngstown (O.) Vindicator.

How Protection Has Robbed Farmers.

In spite of the warnings of the Democrats that the protective tariff was steadily crushing the farming industry of the country, the farmers continued to vote for the party which was plundering them by indirect taxation. For thirty years previous to 1894 a high tariff policy has been in force, and during all that time the Republicans have been telling the farmers that the "home markets" built up by protection was making them rich. The farmers themselves knew better, but allowed their partisan bias to prevent them overthrowing the system which was responsible for their condition. Finally they revolted, and in 1892 elected an administration and Congress pledged to establish a tariff for revenue only.

With the repeal of the McKinley tariff the eyes of even the most bigoted protectionists were opened to the truth about the farming industry. It was then no longer necessary to conceal the facts, and instead of picturing the prosperity of the farmer, Republican papers began to talk of his poverty. A conspicuous instance of this change is found in the Manufacturer, the organ of the Manufacturers' Club of Philadelphia, a body which includes about one thousand prominent Pennsylvania protectionists. The Manufacturer is an ardent advocate of the most extreme McKinleyism, and favors practically the prohibition of foreign goods. Yet in its issue of Nov. 2 that paper makes the following editorial statement in regard to the American farmers:

"The prices of farm stuff have been falling, almost without interruption, for twenty years. But taxes have been advancing and the indebtedness of the agriculturists has not been decreasing. What is to be the conclusion of this remarkable movement? Is it not plainly indicated by the fact that between 1880 and 1890, in this one State of Pennsylvania, the number of men working their own farms decreased by 11,000, while the number of tenant farmers increased by 9,000? The Americans who cultivate the earth are becoming hirelings instead of owners. The land is passing from the hands of the men who till it. Prices for farms are now quoted within thirty miles of this city, in localities nearly in touch with railroads, as low as $20 an acre, and even $15. This does not represent the value of the buildings and other improvements. The land itself is given away more cheaply than in the patents of William Penn, or even the deeds of conveyance to him, signed by the Indian chiefs."

This is the deliberate assertion of a protectionist organ. If it had been made by a Democratic paper two or three years ago, the Republican press would have called it a free trade slander. But coming from one of themselves, how can the Republicans answer it? They cannot say that the state of affairs described by the Manufacturer is due to the Wilson tariff, for the record of increasing tenant farmers is taken from ten years in which protection was in full operation. And the decline in prices of farm products is stated to have been going on for the past twenty years. Certainly tariff reform had nothing to do with what occurred under a high tariff.

Our Prosperous Woolen Trade.

Not only have there been large exportations of wool from the United States under the new tariff—an unprecedented circumstance—but the exportations of woolen goods have greatly increased. In 1892 our exports of woolen goods amounted to about $367,000; in 1895 they reached $670,000. The exports of carpets have risen from $9,000 in 1892 to $161,000 in 1895, while those of flannels have doubled, and those of other woolens have likewise increased. Statistician Ford declares that the woolen industry of the United States is now more prosperous than ever before.—Buffalo Courier.

The Shelving of McKinleyism.

The efforts of Mr. Harrison's friends to acquit him of complicity in the McKinley tariff indicate a realizing sense upon their part of the enormity of that monumental blunder. It is quite safe to say, in view of the present tendencies of trade, that no party will dare to advocate a return to McKinleyism. The attempt to make the tariff again a campaign issue has signally failed, and the anxiety of the more level-headed partisans to drop the subject is simply a recognition of evident truth.—Philadelphia Times.

Business Steadily Improving.

The McKinley law found the country prosperous and left it prostrate. The present law found the country prostrate and helped it to its feet. To say that full prosperity returned at once would be to talk nonsense, for business, when so grievously wounded, cannot recover in a day. But it is not too much to say that business has been improving steadily ever since.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Lived Under Every President.

An event of great interest was celebrated in the village of Fayetteville on Friday, when Peter Johnson reached the hundredth anniversary of his birth. Mr. Johnson has lived under all the Presidents of the United States, being born when Washington had served six years in that office. His first vote was cast for James Monroe, and he has voted for every President since then. Mr. Johnson's mind is clear, and he is in good health. Sixty descendants assembled on Aug. 16 in his honor. His wife is 87 years of age, and they have been married 64 years. Mr. Johnson's first wife died, and in 1831 he married Eliza A. Perry of Rome, who was born in 1809. There are five children living and the grandchildren are twenty-two in number, and the great-grandchildren twenty-five in number, the eldest being 24 years old. Mr. Johnson is able to walk supported by two canes. His recollections of early times are very interesting, and he remembers historical events of eighty years ago easily.—Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

Worst One of the Year.

Sir Lionel should pull down his West.—Philadelphia Record.

SOME NOTED WIDOWS.

WELL-KNOWN WOMEN WHO LIVE AT WASHINGTON.

Society Has No Attractions for Mrs. James G. Blaine—Mrs. Nellie Grant-Sartoris, Mrs. Harriet Lane Johnson, and Mrs. Phil Sheridan.

Many Who Are Interesting.

Washington is not the only Mecca toward which the eyes of all the politicians turn, but it is the goal of the hopes of many fair women whose names are known over the Union. Perhaps the best known of the women in Washington is Mrs. Blaine, the widow of the late Secretary of State under President Harrison. Her home is a large brick on a fashionable avenue, and its interior is furnished in handsome style with warmth and luxury. Mrs. Beale, who was Hattie Blaine, spends most of her time with her mother, and young James Blaine, who is a law student at the University of Virginia, also manages to pass a great deal of his time at his mother's home.

MRS. BLAINE.

MRS. BLAINE'S RESIDENCE.

Mrs. Nellie Grant-Sartoris has a lovely home. It is of white carved stone, and has all the interior work of oak, while the polished floors are covered with rich rugs, and the whole house is decorated in the light, cozy modern style. Mrs. Sartoris is believed to be quite wealthy. There have been many rumors of her marriage, but these reports are believed to be without any foundation at all.

Mrs. Harriet Lane Johnson's house is a large brick of yellow tint, it having been remodeled last year when she bought it. A good many years ago Mrs. Johnson, as Miss Lane, was the fair mistress of the White House under the administration of her uncle, Buchanan. She lives almost alone, having no one with her, except a niece.

WHERE MRS. SHERIDAN LIVES.

Perhaps Mrs. Phil Sheridan is one of the prettiest of the young widows at the capital. She is a tall woman with a slight, graceful figure, dark hair combed back from a high brow, brown eyes, and a small head well poised on a straight pair of shoulders. She is slender and youthful in appearance, being a child when married, about nineteen years ago, and is a woman of fine manners and attractive presence. Her home is a brick standing alone in a square, and the interior is cut up into queer corners and full of interesting souvenirs of her famous husband. There are four children. No one has ever succeeded in winning the heart of the charming widow, and it is likely that she will always be Mrs. Phil Sheridan to the American Nation.

MRS. SHERIDAN.

Mrs. John A. Logan has a lovely old-fashioned home in the suburbs of the city, and the house is in the center of a big yard full of flowers. In one part of the house is a hall full of medals, flags, and hundreds of other souvenirs of the dead statesman, and it is a veritable treasure house. Mrs. Logan is a handsome woman, with a fine, intellectual face and a wealth of gray hair, which is worn high on her shapely head.

HOME OF MRS. JOHNSON.

Dyeing the Burglars.

A good story is told by a German paper of the way in which a dyer treated two burglars whom he caught in his establishment, as they were in the act of making off with some valuable dyes. Mr. S., the owner of the color works, is often engaged in experiments late into the evening, and occasionally spends the night in the chemical laboratory, which opens into the room where the great dye vats are.

The thieves made their visit, as it chanced, on one of the nights when Mr. S. was sleeping at the laboratory. He is naturally a light sleeper, and a little past midnight he was aroused by the sound of voices in the vat room. He saw the flash of a light, and suspecting thieves, arose quietly from his sofa, took his revolver, and concealed in the darkness, watched the movements of the two men. He saw that each bore a package of new and valuable dyes.

Thinking that matters had progressed far enough, he stepped forward, cocked his revolver, and said, quietly, "I have a use for those dyes. You'd better leave them alone."

The thieves, taken completely by surprise, dropped their plunder and started to run, leaping from the side of one vat to the next. In the darkness one of them miscalculated the distance and fell headlong into an indigo vat; and his companion, hearing the splash, glanced back to see what had occurred, lost his balance, and toppled into the same vat.

"That's all right," said Mr. S., half jocosely, as he stepped to the edge of the vat and covered the thieves with his revolver. "I won't grudge you enough of that indigo to dye your clothes and your skin. You needn't hurry about getting out. We must give the dye a chance to take effect."

For fifteen minutes or more he kept the two men in the vat, where they several times plunged beneath the surface of the liquid, and came up spluttering and choking, and finally begged for mercy.

"Well," remarked Mr. S., good-naturedly, "I think you probably are as blue outside as you feel inside, so I won't detain you longer. And now," changing his tone to one of stern command, "if you don't want the police put on your tracks, you'll make yourselves scarce in this town. Out now, and be off!"

Without a word the two men climbed out of the vat and hastened away.

A few days later a friend from an adjoining town called on Mr. S. and mentioned incidentally that two men came to him and offered him five dollars to tell them what would remove indigo stains from the skin. "They were the bluest looking fellows you ever saw," he added. "They said they got to fooling in the dye house, and fell into the vat."

A RAILROAD MAGNATE

Who Began Life Very Poor in a Little Maine Village.

M. E. Ingalls, president of the Big Four Railroad system, which ramifies Indiana, Ohio, and Illinois, began life poor. Harrison, Me., a little Yankee village whose inhabitants are persons of exceedingly simple ways and habits, is his native place, and there, before he entered his teens, he attended the village school sixteen weeks every year. Later his yearly schooling was cut down to six weeks. He had to work the remainder of the time on his father's farm. But he never stopped studying, whether in school or out, and he never lost sight of a big resolution he made when he was a small boy that he would get away from the farm as soon as he could. At 15 he managed to get a school teacher's certificate, and then for three winters he boarded 'round and wielded the birch, working on the family farm every summer. When he was 18 he began to study law, and after a heroic struggle was admitted to the bar.

Later he tried to teach school and practice law in the town of Gray, Me., but that wouldn't work. He moved to Boston, where he got on better, was soon admitted to partnership in a prosperous law firm, caught political fever and became a State Senator. He went West in 1871 to become receiver of the Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Lafayette Railroad, now embraced in the Big Four system.

Exposition at Tokyo.

Some of the enterprising citizens of Tokyo have organized a company to promote the plan of holding an international exposition in that city five years hence. They have selected a site on a low island in the river opposite the foreign concession called Tsukiji (pronounced Skeegee), where most of the missionaries and other foreigners live, and propose to raise it several feet above the high water mark by dredging a deeper channel. Fifty or sixty acres have already been reclaimed, and demonstrate that the scheme is practicable. It is estimated that 250 acres can be reclaimed and made permanently valuable for a park or manufacturing purposes for about as many dollars. It is expected that the government will take hold of the matter very shortly and lay before the new parliament a detailed plan for the proposed exposition.

The Largest Oak Tree.

The largest oak board ever sawed was ripped from the body of a mammoth tree which formerly stood near Scottsburg, Ind. The tree was 27 feet in circumference, and was said to be the largest perfectly round oak in the State. It was purchased by H. Hermann, the New York lumber dealer, for the sum of $75, and was cut down and sawed into boards. The largest of these boards was 10 inches thick, 5 feet 2½ inches wide at the butt and 5 feet exactly at the top. It was 35 feet long and required the combined strength of two yoke of oxen and eight horses a whole day to remove it one and one-half miles on a "broad tread" wagon from the saw mill to the depot. Lumber men say that this was the largest oak board ever sawed in America.

It Was Suspicious.

One of the principal men in the bureau of printing and engraving had a somewhat peculiar experience in New York recently.

He had occasion to visit the metropolis on business, and after a stay of several days at one of the principal hotels he called for his bill. When it was given him he tendered in payment a brand new $20 silver certificate. The clerk looked at it and then passed it back.

"What's the matter?" said the official.

"I can't take that," replied the clerk. "I don't think it's good."

"Not good!" exclaimed the official. "Not good. Why, man, it's good; I made it myself."

"Yes," said the clerk, "so I thought."—Washington Post.

Invaluable.

Mrs. Witherby—What a great aid Mr. Van Wicket must have been at your reception.

Mrs. Von Blumer—Indeed he was.

Mrs. Witherby—I understand that he introduced you to most of your guests.—Truth.

Watts—"Do you think a man can be a Christian on a dollar a day?" Potts—"I don't see how he can afford to be anything else."—Indianapolis Journal.

WANTS COAST DEFENSES.

Gen. Miles Says We Are Inadequately Protected at Seaport Places.

The annual report of Gen. Miles, commanding the army, has been made public. The personnel is shown to be in excellent condition, well instructed, efficient and attentive to duty. Liberal appropriations are required for public buildings at the posts, many of which are out of repair. Under the head of coast defenses Gen. Miles states that the condition of these defenses is such as to require decided and immediate action for their improvement. The unguarded condition of our coast is known by every first-class power, and our people should not be led into false security. He recalls what he said in his report of 1889 upon the absolute importance of the defense of the entire Pacific coast in view of the fact that it was possible for any naval power to blockade every important port within ninety days, while it would take many years to make a successful resistance, and the country might be required to pay indemnity of $5,000,000,000. While the railroads might transport a million brave men to the coast they would be useless without appliances to cope with the modern engines of war, and with all our intelligence, pride, inventive genius and enterprise we are as far behind in the modern appliances of war as China or Japan.

While he does not anticipate war in the near future he shows that in the last 200 years in less than 10 per cent. of the wars has there been any formal warning or declaration before hostilities, and as it would require years of time to construct modern weapons of war it would be unwise to disregard the lessons of history. In our own country, for nearly 200 years, there has never been a period of thirty-five years in which it has not been involved in war. He points to the case of China, which made the fatal mistake of relying upon its vastly superior numbers for safety, and argues that the best guaranty of peace is a condition of readiness for war. Touching the infantry, Gen. Miles recommends the three-battalion organization and regimental posts to keep the companies of regiments together. He thinks that at least one full regiment of cavalry should be assembled at Fort Riley, Kansas, where field maneuvers might be undertaken annually. To thoroughly demonstrate the utility of bicycles and motor wagons in the army it is recommended that a force of twelve companies be equipped with these devices, to be manned from the 4,000 officers and men in the army able to use a bicycle, which has been already found extremely useful.

DARING EXPRESS HOLD-UP.

Robbers Secure $20,000 in Santa Fe Depot at Colorado Springs.

At Colorado Springs, Colo., two masked bandits robbed the Wells-Fargo express office Monday night of $20,000. They presented revolvers to the head of Assistant Agent George Krout and compelled him to open the safe. After they had helped themselves they made their escape.

The Santa Fe fast Chicago train arrived there at 9:42 and stopped. The agent, George Krout, stepped out on the platform to attend to the express matter, and after arranging everything waved his hand at the messenger on the train and it pulled out of the depot, south-bound toward Pueblo. Waving a parting salute to the messenger, who stood in the door, Krout turned to enter his own office. As he crossed the threshold he saw two forms in the far corner of the room. The men had flour sacks over their heads. Each figure held a revolver and as the agent entered he was ordered to throw up his hands and give up the money in the safe. As the men spoke they emphasized their actions.

The agent passed back into the room, where he was told to open the safe. When the robbers first entered the place they found a $15,000 package lying on the table. This Krout told them was all he had, but he finally admitted that there was $5,000 more in the safe. They forced him to open the strong box and give the $5,000, but when he closed the door he shut in $35,000 that the robbers knew nothing about. Krout was then made to undress himself and go to bed and cover himself up, and while lying there the thieves made their escape.

The place where the robbery occurred is on the outskirts of the town east of the city and is brilliantly lighted by great arc electric lights on all sides. The place where the money was kept was in a small house two hundred yards from the depot and divided into two compartments.

REPORT ON THE MAILS.

First Assistant Postmaster General Makes His Report.

First Assistant Postmaster General Frank H. Jones has made his annual report for the year ending June 30, 1895. Mr. Jones shows that the divisions under his supervision have saved during the year $1,395,577, the principal items being in the saving in the carrier service by stopping overtime and reduction of the force, amounting to $1,300,000. The salaries of all presidential postmasters amounted to $5,897,290, and the gross receipts of postoffices $60,538,097. Mr. Jones recommended the abolition of experimental free delivery unless $10,000,000 is appropriated for the purpose; also free rural delivery unless $20,000,000 is appropriated.

Of the espionage, investigation and discharge of carriers for cause Mr. Jones says that 385 carriers have been removed. He reviews the conditions which make the investigations necessary, the principal one being that the accumulation of overtime claims showed that something was wrong. An estimate of $12,960,300 is made for the free delivery service next year. The money order report shows that there are 19,691 domestic money order offices and orders to the amount of $156,709,089 were issued and $156,159,689 paid. Mr. Jones recommends legislation requiring clerks handling money order business to give bonds.

How He's Feeling.

—Washington Times.

Told in a Few Lines.

John Guren was killed in a friendly wrestling bout with F. J. Collette at Columbus, Ohio.

The boiler of Lehigh & Hudson Railway engine No. 13 blew up at Warwick, N. Y. Two men were instantly killed and two died later from their injuries.

Melvin Heiterbran, while crossing the mountains at Elkhart, Ind., was carried down to death by a snowslide. The body was shipped to Rock Island, Ill., for burial.

Sylvester W. Shumard, a retired business man of Elkhart, Ind., has just established the fact that he is one of six heirs who have inherited a $60,000,000 estate in Amsterdam, Holland.

I Gave Up

Hoping I would ever be better, I had suffered so much from sour stomach, kidney troubles, and other ailments. But Hood's Sarsaparilla was the means of saving my life. After taking it I was strong and muscular, gained 14 lbs. I recommend to all who long for health and strength." NICHOLAS SCHIEHSER, Summerdale, Ill.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Hood's Pills are tasteless, mild, effective. All druggists. 25c.

Now is the time to make your plans for your winter California trip. Ask agents of the Nickel Plate road about low rates and connections with the fast California trains out of Chicago.

Doughnuts Under Divers Names.

An old New Yorker says that "olekoeks" were made by the Dutch the same as doughnuts are made, but a raisin was inserted in the center of each.

The art of making doughnuts is said to have been learned by the New England people from the Hollanders during the stay of the Puritans in Holland. These sweet and wholesome cakes are known by many names nowadays and are made in various forms. The modern New Yorker calls them crullers, although the crullers he eats are not always made according to the recipe for doughnuts.

In some parts of the south they are known as Friday cakes, a name due partly to the fact that they are fried in lard, and partly to the fact that where so called they are generally made on Friday.

THE destruction of life in modern warfare is something frightful. In the Franco-Prussian war from August 4, 1870, to August 18, 100,000 Germans and French were killed outright, to say nothing of the many thousands more who afterwards died in the hospitals from their wounds.

A NOBLE LIFE

SPENT FOR AND WITH SUFFERING WOMEN.

A Life's Work Perpetuated through a Faithful Daughter, and Records of Priceless Value.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

What a vast amount of misery and suffering has been prevented by the clear-headed foresight of one noble woman!

She had struggled, labored, and sacrificed for the welfare of her sex.

The eyes of the women of the world were upon her.

As she recalled the past, and tried to penetrate the future, a smile of supreme satisfaction passed over her honest face as she remembered that her life's work would be perpetuated.

The room in which she sat contained hundreds of volumes of records; and, turning to her daughter, she said,—

"My daughter, this room, as you well know, contains the records of my life's work, in which for many years you have so diligently assisted me.

"By earnest application you have compassed my methods; and it is a happiness to think that when I leave, the glorious work will, through you, go on.

"The mission is a noble one. Do as I have done: never permit a woman's appeal to go unheeded.

"These records tell of every case ever submitted to me; and it is my wish that the facts they contain shall in time prove a much-needed education to the women of the world."

Thus did Lydia E. Pinkham hand over to her daughter, Mrs. Charles H. Pinkham, what may be termed the salvation of her sex; and that wonderful remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which all druggists consider as standard as flour, goes on redeeming hundreds of women from the fearful consequences of female diseases.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, OF ROXBURY, MASS.,

Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

EDUCATIONAL COLUMN

NOTES ABOUT SCHOOLS AND THEIR MANAGEMENT.

The United States Pays Too Little Attention to the Foundation of Learning—Foot Ball Fever Again On—General Educational News.

A Defect in Education.

The worst fault with education in the United States is that it pays too little attention to the foundation and too much to superstructure. This is observed all along the lines from the common school to colleges and universities. The first requisite is education, whether in the country district schools, the graded schools of the cities or the higher institutions of learning, is, or ought to be, a knowledge of one's native tongue. The first purpose of schools in the United States should be to teach their pupils how to speak, read and write the English language. But it is believed that they conspicuously fail in this regard. It is known that boys and girls graduate from the best high schools, and that men and women go through the higher educational institutions without having learned how to pronounce many common words in conversation or how to spell them in writing. They know more about Greece and Rome than they do about the United States. They can read Homer and Cicero, can converse in German, French, Spanish and Italian, but they cannot write a letter to a friend without betraying ignorance of their native tongue.

There is no excuse for the existence of this disgraceful deficiency in the education of graduates from even the high schools of our cities and towns, but it shows more glaringly and regretedly in the graduates of institutions for what is called liberal education. This fact appears to have impressed itself on the management of Harvard which is investigating the matter through its committee on composition and rhetoric. The first report of this committee was made two or three years ago and attracted attention by its frank statement of fact. Another report is now made public, and it is the reverse of complimentary to the preparatory schools. It says, among other things:

"There is no conceivable justification for using the revenues of Harvard College, or the time and strength of her instructors, in the vain attempt to enlighten the Egyptian darkness in which no small portion of our undergraduates are sitting. The college must do something to redeem herself from disgrace, and to put the disgrace where it belongs; but she must no longer spend time, strength and money on the hopeless task which she has recently undertaken."

It is intimated that some of the large and well-known preparatory schools in New England are the worst offenders. The committee accuses these institutions of "neglect and contempt" of the English language. Extracts from examination papers are given which justify the committee's strictures. Translations from Latin into English are the usual means employed by the authors of these papers to display their learning. "Behold, however," writes a pupil, "the bull smoking under the hard plowshare fell and threw out from his mouth blood mixed with froth and stifled his last groans. The sodden yeoman departs unyoking the bullock sorrowing at his brother's death, and leaves his implements fixed in the midst of his work."

If Harvard University can successfully inaugurate and vigorously push on such a reform in education as this committee desires, it will do a greatly needed and long neglected work. And if the entire system of public schools throughout the country will pay greater attention to fundamental work, their usefulness will be enhanced. In most respects our schools are a great improvement on the schools of the fathers and mothers of this generation. But, in the matter of imparting a knowledge of the English language, of teaching how to pronounce and spell, the old-time schools excelled their successors.—Washington Post.

Foot-Ball Fever.

The foot-ball fever is beginning to attract the attention of the public again. There is no doubt that many students are attracted to colleges where most attention is given to athletics. This seems to be the prevailing fad at present. The question with the boy is, not where I get the best practical training? Where shall I look for the profondest scholarship and the most valuable teaching, but which college stands highest in foot-ball or general athletics. Some day this will be all different. Our habit is to swing educationally, as well as otherwise, like the pendulum from one extreme of the arc to the other.

We admire the talk of the great moral courage developed on the foot-ball field. We have often looked for it in our classes, but we fail to find it. Some of those most courageous physically are not by any means those most courageous morally as most teachers have not failed to observe.—Educational News.

A Talk with Primary Teachers.

As we enter our schools this month many of us will determine to do more than we have ever done before. We are feeling fresh and enthusiastic after our vacation. Have any made resolutions concerning this work during the coming season? I have made one which I certainly do not intend to resign to oblivion and it is one which I want all to make. I have resolved to do more work in the line of "Nature Study." Will not all of you resolve to do more?

Do not say "I cannot take the time from reading and numbers to have nature study." If you cannot do more, devote ten minutes a day to a "General Exercise" period and in that time give bright little lessons on animals, plants, physics, health lessons, etc. If the children are tired one of these lessons will rest them. Let us do all we can and I am sure we shall feel amply repaid for the time spent.—Exchange.

Swedish Schools.

Sweden educates the child for the state. The state pays all educational bills. Only the lower grades are supported in part by local funds. The government has the supervision of all grades. In the lower schools no tuition is charged; in the higher grades a small fee is paid by each pupil. The lower grades are assumed to be for the poorer classes. There is no foreign language taught in these grades.

The teachers are largely women. Teachers are rarely university trained, but they are normal trained. There are no girls in the secondary schools. A boy must be at least 9 years of age to enter a secondary school. German is taught in the secondary schools. At the beginning of the fourth year of the secondary school there is a division, some of the boys choosing English, others Latin. The study of Latin languages must be much better than in the classical department.

A Girl's Essay on Boys.

Boys are men that have not got so big as their papas, and girls are women that will be young ladies by and by. Men was made before women. When God looked at Adam he said to himself: "Well, I think I can do better if I try again," and then he made Eve. God liked Eve so much better than Adam that there have been more women than men. Boys are a trouble. They wear out everything but soap. If I had my way half the boys in the world would be girls and the rest dolls. My papa is so nice that I think he must have been a little girl when he was a little boy.

Educational Intelligence.

There are 400 in the freshman class of the University of California.

Two hundred and sixty-four women receive the bachelor's degree from Cornell University up to June, 1894.

Cornell University has broken ground for the veterinary college for which the State Legislature appropriated $150,000.

The average salary of teachers and supervisors in the public schools of New York is $677; Brooklyn, $762; Chicago, $780; Cincinnati, $808; San Francisco, $883; Boston, $1,000.

The will of Mrs. Martha A. Williamson, late of Cambridge, Mass., leaves of $50,000 in public bequests. Bates College, Lewiston, Me., and Carleton College, Minn., each receives $20,000; $1,000 goes to the National Council for Ministerial Relief. The American Board is residuary legatee.

The University of Michigan has received a magnificent gift in the shape of a fine art collection valued at $300,000; Mr. Henry C. Lewis, of Coldwater, Mich., was the donor. The collection comprises 725 pieces, made up of paintings, bronzes, marble statues, and medallions.

Of the four great women colleges in America, two, Wellesley and Bryn Mawr, have Cornell women as presidents, and college professors may be counted by the dozens among Cornell's alumnae. This influence must spread rather than decrease, if the growth in numbers of the women entering Cornell is any criterion.

How Buffalo Overreached Itself.

An interesting state of affairs is developing at Buffalo, which seems to prove that too little haste may be as impolitic as too much. It will be remembered that the Buffalo municipal authorities were originally disposed to insist on several somewhat arbitrary conditions in negotiating an arrangement with the Niagara Falls Power Company for the supply of current to Buffalo. The negotiations, moreover, were conducted by the city authorities very leisurely, on the assumption that the power company could not well do without them. Presently, however, the new town of Depew, a few miles from Buffalo, made a large bid for Niagara current, and before long it became evident that the whole of the electricity that can be generated by the present Niagara Falls plant could be disposed of entirely outside of Buffalo. So that that city, in which many large real estate and other deals have been based on the assumption that electricity from Niagara would be available for light and power purposes, is now waiting on the power company. The franchise proposed by the city has been blankly refused by the power company on the terms which the city offers. The company objects to the manner in which the city wishes it to erect its poles, string its wires and build its conduits. It objects to the proposed tax of 5 per cent upon the receipts of the company, and it objects to the limiting of the grant to twenty-five years, and also to the penalties for violation. If an agreement is arrived at it will be on different terms.

The Doctor Got Even.

"That horrid little Bimley boy!" exclaimed Dora, pouring tea; "he was just as insulting to Dr. Craver as he could be."

"What did he do?"

"Why, the doctor was walking quietly along, and, meeting Willie, put his hand on his head and said: 'How do you do, Willie?' just as nice, and that boy up and made the horridest face, stuck his tongue out at the doctor and said, 'Yah! Yah!' in the hatefulest way possible. I declare if he was my boy I'd whip him. I wonder what Dr. Craver thought?"

"You needn't worry about Craver," David said complacently. "I met Bimley just now and he had his bill."

"The doctor's bill?"

"Yes."

"What for?"

"Five dollars, for looking at Willie's tongue."—Rockland (Me.) Tribune.

Husbandry in Sweden.

The number of farms in Sweden amounts to 258,650—under five acres, 65,000; between five and fifty acres, 165,000; between fifty and 250 acres, 26,000; over 250 acres, 2,650. The numbers of domestic animals are: Horses, 455,900; cattle, 2,181,400; sheep, 1,695,400; goats, 121,800; swine, 421,800. There is a farm for every seventeen inhabitants, a head of cattle for every two, and one horse for every ten persons. Large and small tracts of cultivated land on fruitful glens and valleys bounded by woods or rocks, with farm houses and cottages, round which fair-haired children play, present a striking picture of contentment.

Money in Hunting Frogs.

Laws have been enacted in Belgium prohibiting the hunting of frogs. The Belgium hunters, however, have found it easy to continue their occupation in the neighboring country of Holland. Recently, in one day, these hunters sent as many as 20,000 frogs' legs to Paris. As these delicacies bring from four to five cents apiece the calling is a paying one to some of the hunters.

Needless Task.

Authors have to submit to criticism of all sorts, humorous and otherswise. An amusing story is told in connection with Dr. Macknight, a Scotch clergyman who was the author of several books upon religious subjects which displayed his knowledge and studious research.

Among his parishioners was a blacksmith who had a certain dry humor, of which he was by no means chary. This man, while he admired and loved "his pa'son," thought the doctor's writing learned books was a great mistake and a sad waste of time.

One day this blacksmith was asked by a stranger if Dr. Macknight was then at the manse. "Na, na," replied the blacksmith with a shake of his Shaggy head, "the mon's gone to Edinbro on a vera useless job."

The doctor had gone off to the printers with his learned and valuable work called "The Harmony of the Four Gospels."

The stranger inquired curiously what the "useless job" was which had taken the doctor to Edinburgh at that time.

"A weel," said the blacksmith, looking at his questioner sharply to see if his answer met with the appreciation it merited, "he's gone to mak' four men agree wha' ne'er cast out!"

Tidal Wave in Western Tennessee.

Reelfoot Lake, in Western Tennessee, is one of the most remarkable lakes in the United States. It is popularly supposed to have a subterranean source from the Mississippi River, it having no visible outlet or inlet, but the evidence seems to be decidedly against this theory. There is a considerable area in the center where no line has yet been found long enough to reach the bottom. It is not affected by the rise and fall of the river, but has a tide corresponding with that of the sea. The oldest settlers can remember when the land where the lake is now was a fertile farm. One night there was an earthquake, distinctly felt, but doing very little damage to the surrounding country. The next morning the land was gone and Reelfoot Lake was there and has been there ever since. It is one of the most noted fishing resorts in the South.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Mrs. Burnett's Frivolity.

"I was a great admirer of Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett," says a Chicago woman. "I had read all her books and was actually crazy to meet her; so while I was in Boston I was offered the opportunity I long had sought. I think I was the most disappointed person in all the world. Mrs. Burnett impressed me as being wholly absorbed with society; she was overdressed, and it was clear to me that she used cosmetics freely. During the half hour I spent with her she talked only of herself and of the little society frivolities of which she seemed to be completely enamored."—Chicago Record.

Looking Glass in a Coffin.

One of the ancient customs connected with Swedish funerals was to place a small looking-glass in the coffin of an unmarried female, so that when the last trumpet sounds she might be able to arrange her tresses. It was the practice for Scandinavian maidens to wear their hair flowing loosely, while the matrons wore it bound abound the head and generally covered with some form of cap. Hence the unmarried woman was imagined as awakening at the judgment day with more untidy locks than her wedded sisters and more in need of a glass.

A Valuable Find.

One of the most interesting of Dr. Girolama Segato's petrifications has just been found after a long hunt in a Bavarian village, and will be sent to the Florence Anatomical Museum. It is the head of a young woman who died of consumption sixty years ago, kept as perfect as the day she died, with the blonde hair wavy and as soft as that of a living person. Dr. Segato's wonderful secret for petrifying the dead so as to retain the appearance of life forever died with him, but specimens kept in the Italian museums show no signs of deterioration.

A Hearty Welcome

To returning peace by day and tranquillity at night is extended by the rheumatic patient who owes these blessings to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Don't delay the use of this fine anodyne for pain and purifier of the blood an instant beyond the point when the disease manifests itself. Kidney trouble, dyspepsia, liver complaint, la grippe and irregularity of the bowels are relieved and cured by the Bitters.

Daniel Boone's Gun.

The gun of Daniel Boone has been taken to Charleston, W. Va., and it is said to be still capable of good execution. Its stock and barrel are five feet long, and it carries an ounce ball. It is a flintlock, of course. This gun has been in the family of Nathan Boone Van Bibber, back in the wilds of Nicholas County. Matthias Tice Van Bibber received the gun from his friend Boone, and he carried it at the battle of Point Pleasant in 1774 and throughout the war of 1812. The original powder horn and bullet molds are with the gun. Matthais Van Bibber left these relics to Capt. C. R. Van Bibber, who left them to his son, Nathan Boone Van Bibber, the present owner.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

☞ Sold by Druggists, 75c. per bottle.

Easy.

Some questions are not half so hard as they sound.

"Doctor, I have an important physiological question to ask you. When I stand on my head the blood rushes into my head. Now, when I stand on my feet why doesn't it rush into my feet?"

"Because your feet are not hollow."—New York World.

California passengers should ask agents of the Nickel Plate road for rates and connections before purchasing tickets elsewhere.

PARIS has established a municipal laboratory for bacteriology in the old Loban barracks, where analyses of suspected cases of diphtheria are made within twenty-four hours after the materials have been handed in.

A STANDING army gives its supporters little time to sit.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

"The Republic of Jones."

"There was a government in existence within the limits of my State during the late war that I find no mention of in the histories," said F. M. Holden of Mississippi, at the National Hotel, in Washington, the other day. "In the early days of secession the County of Jones, through its leading citizens, withdrew from the Confederacy, declared itself a free and independent people, and organized a government, and adopted a Constitution modeled after that of the United States, called this new government 'the republic of Jones,' elected a president and a full quota of officials, and refused to furnish men or money to the Southern cause. On the approach of Confederate troops they would retreat to the swamps and other inaccessible places and remain in hiding till the danger had passed. They kept up this queer attitude of hostility to their own brethren, so far as I am informed, to the close of the war, but the republic of Jones passed out of the memory of men with the event of Appomattox, and the mention of it now in that locality is only a cause for smiles."—Minneapolis Journal.

Stevenson and Carlyle.

Robert Louis Stevenson used to tell this story of his early days: He was entering in an absent-minded way the famous second-hand bookshop of James Stillie when he ran into a fumbling old gentleman who was leaving the establishment. The latter exclaimed in an angry tone:

"Man, can you not look where you are going?"

Stevenson apologized for his awkwardness, and was then confronted by Mr. Stillie, who was also excited. The bookseller exclaimed:

"The creature has been trying to make out that an old book I sold him is spurious! He may be able to write, but he knows nothing about black letter books. He's the most disagreeable customer that ever entered my shop."

"Who is he?" asked Stevenson.

"Oh, that's the great Mr. Carlyle," was the answer.

Facts Conclusive.

We expect your patronage because the Nickel Plate road operates conveniently scheduled trains, equipped with unexcelled dining cars and luxurious sleepers between Chicago, Cleveland, Erie, New York and Boston. Lowest rates.

AS IT is characteristic of great wits to say much in few words, so it is of small wits to talk much and say nothing.

Jayne's Expectorant is both a palliative and curative in all Lung Complaints, Bronchitis, etc. It is a standard remedy for Coughs and Colds, and needs only a trial to prove its worth.

A BECOMING decency of exterior may not be necessary for ourselves, but it is agreeable to others.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething: softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

Shopman's Clever Reply.

An English lady is told of, in the Spectator, who complained to a shopkeeper that, in sending parcels to her, he would address her as "The Honorable."

"Don't mention it, ma'am. It doesn't signify at all."

"But it does signify. My parcels may go to the wrong person. I am not 'Honorable.'"

"We, madam, have always found you so."

A CHILD ENJOYS

The pleasant flavor, gentle action and soothing effects of Syrup of Figs, when in need of a laxative, and if the father or mother be costive or bilious, the most gratifying results follow its use; so that it is the best family remedy known, and every family should have a bottle on hand.

VIRGINIA is not so wealthy as before the war, at least in the estimate of the first families, but still has a valuation of $318,331,441.

A 50-Cent Calendar Free.

The Publisher of THE YOUTH'S COMPANION offer to send free to every new subscriber a handsome four-page calendar, 7x10 in., lithographed in nine bright colors. The retail price of this calendar is 50 cents.

Those who subscribe at once, sending $1.75, will also receive the paper free every week from the time the subscription is received to Jan. 1, 1896. Also the Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Double Number free, and THE COMPANION a full year, 52 weeks, to Jan. 1, 1897. Address THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, 199 Columbus Avenue, Boston.

THE state of Florida has a smaller valuation than most of the Southern states, being estimated at only $30,938,309.

Nickel Plate road, low rates and perfect service are all synonyms. A through sleeping car service between Chicago, Fort Wayne, Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston.

MODESTY is bred in self-reverence. Fine manners are the mantle of fair minds. None are truly great without this ornament.—A. B. Alcott.

Flannel next the skin often produces a rash removable with Glenn's Sulphur Soap.

"Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye," Black or Brown, 50c.

IN the war of the revolution Massachusetts furnished more troops to the army than any other State.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh gives immediate relief, allays inflammation, restores taste and smell, heals the sores and cures the disease.

THE sick do not exercise all the patience.

The Nickel Plate road operates a perfect passenger service composed of first and second class day coaches, attended by colored porters. Excellent dining cars and through sleeping cars to Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, New York and Boston. Rate always the lowest.

COLD sunshide makes the most shivers.

FITS.—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

TRIFLES make perfection: but perfection itself is no trifle.

Loss of opportunity is life's greatest loss. Think of suffering with

NEURALGIA 5 Years 10 Years 15 Years

When the opportunity lies in a bottle of ST. JACOBS OIL. It cures.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

"I firmly believe that Piso's Cure kept me from having quick Consumption."—Mrs. H. D. DARLING, Beaver Meadow, N. Y., June 18, 1895

Cures Where All Else Fails. BEST COUGH SYRUP.

TASTES GOOD. USE IN TIME. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS. 25 CTS.

You might just as well

try to blow around a weather vane as to help some people by pointing out the right way. They won't see it. Even if you prove to them that it's the easiest way, and the safest, and cheapest, they won't walk in it.

But this isn't so with all. It's only a few, comparatively. We're not complaining. There are millions of women who have seized on Pearline's way of washing—glad to save their labor, time, clothes, and money with it. Most women don't need much urging when they fully understand all the help that comes with Pearline. 600

Millions NOW USE Pearline

AGENTS WANTED

"I made Josiah a han'some dressin' gown out of some soft covering I had in the house. It was very dressy with its beautiful tassels."

"SAMANTHA IN EUROPE."

A NEW BOOK BY JOSIAH ALLEN'S WIFE.

Agents Wanted Over 100 Illustrations by De Grimm. Agents Wanted

She that is Josiah Allen's Wife Has Been to Europe. Josiah went along, and Baron C. de Grimm, the famous artist and caricaturist, followed them. They went to England, Ireland, Scotland, and Wales; also to France, Germany, etc. The results are that we have now in press Samantha's latest and greatest of all her books, telling the "strange and skairful" story of their adventures in strange cities, royal palaces, and in out-of-the-way places. They also visited the Duke of Veragua, Eulalie, and others they had met at the World's Fair in Chicago. Baron de Grimm has made over 100 illustrations of the events of the trip, all of which will appear in the book. With its profound interest, depth of wit, genuine humor, and sound philosophy, verily this book will sweep all before it. Not only Americans, but English, German, French and other folk are eager to read it. As many copies will surely be sold as were of all Samantha's other books combined. Wide-awake agents know what this announcement means—a bonanza to those who secure territory. And Ho! for the Holidays.

About 700 pages, large Octavo. Price, by Mail or Agent, Cloth, $2.50; Half Russia, $4.00.

Write for terms and territory At Once.

FUNK & WAGNALLS CO., Publishers, 30 Lafayette Place, New York.

It Was Before the Day of

SAPOLIO

They Used to Say "Woman's Work Is Never Done."

BEST IN THE WORLD.

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH. For durability and for cheapness this preparation is truly unrivalled.

PASTE STOVE POLISH. DUSTLESS LABOR SAVING BEST IN THE WORLD.

THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH in cakes for general blacking of a stove.

THE SUN PASTE POLISH for a quick after-dinner shine, applied and polished with a cloth.

Motse Bros., Props., Canton, Mass., U. S. A.

Friends' Oats

(Kiln Dried)

Superior to any . . Rolled Oats...

Sold only in 2-pound Packages

At All Grocers

MUSCATINE OAT MEAL CO. MUSCATINE, IOWA

THE DOWN-HILL ROAD!

Once give a disease a start, and the road from health to sickness is smooth, and declines rapidly. Sometimes just a little irregularity, just a little drain, just a faint "bearing-down" feeling, indicates the existence of a disorder that nearly always leads to the most serious consequences.

There are very few women in perfect health. Nearly always there is some weakness in the female organs. Neglect of these little things is sure to push the sufferer farther down the hill to disease. Put a stop to them.

McELREE'S WIN OF CARDUI

will quickly stop and cure all displacements and and drains and weaknesses peculiar to women. It cures by building up the whole system. Disease can't exist in a strong, healthy body.

Wine of Cardui enables women to cure themselves. It enables them to keep secrets from the doctor that he must know if she goes to him for help.

One Dollar a Bottle.

Sold by all Druggists.

Wabash Line

GRAND TOUR OF OLD MEXICO.

THE EGYPT OF THE NEW WORLD.

On Tuesday, January 14, 1896, Gates' annual tour of Mexico will leave Toledo by special train at 11 a. m., via Wabash Railroad, and pass Fort Wayne about 1:30 p. m. The tour this season will far surpass all former efforts, several new features have been added. The Gates' special Pullman train will consist of vestibuled sleeping and compartment cars, observation and library car, and a palace dining car, also a baggage car, the entire train making the thirty day tour and covering 6,600 miles. Mr. Gates will accompany the train, and give every detail personal attention. For a handsome book of the tour giving itinerary and much other interesting data apply to the following representatives Wabash Railroad.

C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.
CHAS. H. GATES, Tkt. Agt., Toledo, Ohio.
P. E. DOMBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
J. M. MCCONNELL, P. & T. A. Lafayette, Ind.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. D. M. Cobb, of 1034 Union avenue, Kansas City, Mo., under date of June 16, 1895, says: "For a number of years I have suffered from constipation in its severest form. My liver failing to act for a week, I have tried any number of specifics and have also had physicians prescribe for me, but only received temporary relief. During the early part of the past winter I had my attention called to Ripans Tabules by a small sign on a telegraph pole, which said 'One gives Relief.' I procured a box and was at once attracted by the neat form in which they were put up. Before I had taken half a dozen doses I began to feel the good effect, especially from the pain I would suffer when my liver was trying to act. I have now taken three boxes and have no more trouble. My bowels act regular and free and as a result my health is much improved.

(Signed) D. M. COBB."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

THE AERMOTOR CO. does half the world's windmill business, because it has reduced the cost of wind power to 1/6 what it was. It has many branch houses, and supplies its goods and repairs at your door. It can and does furnish a better article for less money than others. It makes Pumping and Geared, Steel, Galvanized-after-Completion Windmills, Tilting and Fixed Steel Towers, Steel Buss Saw Frames, Steel Feed Cutters and Feed Grinders. On application it will name one of these articles that it will furnish until January 1st at 1/3 the usual price. It also makes Tanks and Pumps of all kinds. Send for catalogue. Factory: 12th, Rockwell and Fillmore Streets, Chicago.

WE SELL

PRINTING OFFICE OUTFITS

at reasonable rates and upon liberal terms. WRITE FOR PARTICULARS. FORT WAYNE NEWSPAPER UNION, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Cutler's Carbolate of Iodine Inhalent and Pocket Inhaler.

Will positively cure CATARRH, BRONCHITIS and ASTHMA. Give it a trial. Price, $1; by mail, $1.10. All Druggists. W. H. CUTLER & CO., Proprietors, 402 Michigan St., Buffalo, New York.

F. W. N. U. - - - - No. 47-95.

When writing to Advertisers say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

ROOT'S ✠ ROOT'S

FT. WAYNE.

THE CARPET DEPARTMENT

We like to tell about the new things in Carpets. Carpets are so handsome and the new low prices bring the rich Axminsters, Moquettes and Body Brussels within the reach of almost every home.

We Show the Best Qualities,

Prettiest patterns and most stylish and artistic colorings. The carpets we sell wear and look well. Come and see the new attractions in this pretty section of the store.

RUGS.

We make a showing of these useful and decorative floor coverings that will be of special interest at this time of the year. A new line, a large line of all kinds and manner of Rugs imported and domestic, big and little.

JAVANESE RUGS.

Special attention is called to this new line, made by the little people seen at the Columbian Fair at Chicago. The Rugs are 5 feet long by two and a half wide, price $1 38. This low price should clean out the 5 bales in 24 hours.

JARDINIERES.

You'll find these in the carpet room, with and without stands, all colors, all sizes, a big line. 39c each up.

NEW DRESS STUFFS.

New bright goods of the high class order, all foreign made, fine novelties, scarce two can be seen alike at the big offering.

Boucle Mixtures, red and black, brown blue, green and grey and black 42 to 52 inches wide, 90c to $1 40.

Llama Cloths, black on colored grounds, 52 inches wide, 85c the yard.

Mohair mixtures, in all colors, 40 to 52 inches wide. The finest collection shown this season, 85c to $5 00 yard.

RARE NEW PLAIDS.

Priestleys, black and white, grey and black, solid and broken plaids, the scarcest thing in the market, 50c to 85c a yard.

BRIGHT PLAIDS.

34 inch half wool.....25c.
36 inch all wool.....37½c.
40 inch Silk and Wool..75c.

These are all new, scarce as hen's teeth, got them only because of a watchful buyer. The pretty fabrics and the low prices are the wonder.

SATEENS for Comforts at 20c.

We don't believe another lot of pretty good sateens at the price can be got again this season. Find these at low price dress counter.

LADIES' COMBINATION SUITS.

This store shows these popular under garments in such varieties as to make buying of them a pleasing business.

Winter Weight, Cotton Ribbed, Heavily Fleeced, 50c. to $1 00, Half Wool Combinations, $1 75.
All Wool Combinations, $2 50.
Ypsilanti Wool, $3 50 to $5.00.
Stuttgarter, fine flat goods, all wool, $2.50 to $4.00.

Ladies' All Wool Black Tights, price $1.35.
Misses' All Wool Tights, $1.00.

CALIFORNIA BLANKETS

These justly Famous and Good Wool Blankets we show in every grade. They come up to the mark of a good serviceable blanket in every particular. $3.75 to $12.00 pair.

ROOT & CO.

This is no Secret.

They are talking about the Low Prices at the

NEW GROCERY

at the South End. A full stock of everything usually kept in a grocery store may be found at Wiles' grocery in the Watson building.

REMEMBER ✠ OUR ✠ PRICES ✠ ARE ✠ THE ✠ LOWEST

We solicit a Share of your Patronage.

Cash Paid for Butter and Eggs.

Married

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Croy in Auburn on Sunday, Nov. 17, 1895, Mr. Wm. G. Bush to Miss Anna Felt, Rev. H. A. Croy officiating. The groom is a respected and prosperous farmer who has for three or four years owned and cultivated a farm in the central part of Wilmington township, his former home being near Edon, Ohio. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. H. A. Croy by her first husband. The ceremony was witnessed by a few of the intimate friends of the family, the most of the relatives living at a distance, of whom only Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Croy of this place were present. After the ceremony, there was a splendid dinner was served. Quite a number of appropriate gifts were received. The bride and groom returned that evening to their home in Wilmington. The COURIER hopes their future life may be happy and prosperous.

Silver In Trouble

The recent trouble on the Isthmus has got into court. And even if it had not, the appeal to the Central American governments is a new thing in the money question, as it shows what queer phases the question as to gold and silver values may assume. The latest from the "seat of war," reads:

The financial situation on the Paris bourse was reported easier Monday. The relief was afforded by the decision of the great financial houses to form a large fund, variously stated at 50,000,000 to 200,000,000 francs, to facilitate liquidation. This action will undoubtedly arrest the panic in Paris and mitigate the crisis elsewhere. Americans may congratulate themselves that it will tend to minimize shipments of gold from this country.

A London dispatch says that the merchants of that town and Panama formed a syndicate some time ago to corner the silver coin on the Panama Isthmus. Silver has been the common currency under free coinage and, consequently, it has circulated at its bullion value and gold has been at a premium of 245 per cent. The syndicate locked up silver and shipped it abroad, producing a scarcity of this coin so great that it rose in value until the premium on gold fell to 200 per cent. The canal and railroad companies couldn't get the silver coin to pay their men except from the syndicate on its own terms. The railroad company imported a lot of Columbian coin which had been shipped to New York. But the syndicate appealed to the governor of Panama to enforce a law prohibiting the the importation of silver coin less than 900 fine. The governor accordingly prohibited the landing of its foreign purchase, although it was the coin of the country of which Panama is a part. The railroad company then appealed to the central government for relief with what effect remains to be seen. Thus they have a silver question of their own in Panama, affording an opening for our own silver agitators out of a job. But which side will they take? Will they espouse the cause of the silver-fly corporations or the gold-bug merchants? And which side will the employes of the corporations take?

Free Pills.

Send your address to H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, and get a free sample box of Dr. King's New Life pills. A trial will convince you of their merits. These pills are easy in action and are particularly effective in the cure of constipation and sick headache. For Malaria and liver troubles they have been proved invaluable. They are guaranteed to be perfectly free from every deleterious substance and to be purely vegetable. They do not weaken by their action, but by giving tone to stomach and bowels greatly invigorate the system. Regular size 25c per box. Sold at Robbins & McCord drug store. 4

Never Out Of Season.

There is no time in the year when Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is not a benefit to mankind. It cures constipation and indigestion, and cures diarrhoea caused by bad condition of the digestive organs. Trial size bottles 10c, also in 50c and $1 size of F. E. Davenport. 48

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad,

Time Card in Effect June 30 1895.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
	p m	a m	a m	p m
Bellaire lv	7 15	*11 13	9 42	*4 13	.....
Defiance.....	3 15	5 18	p m 7 40	a m 1 20	11 00
Hicksville.....	.....	.....	8 22	.....	11 45
St. Joe.....			8 34	.....	p m 12 01
Auburn Jc ..	4 15	6 17	8 54	2 26	12 25
Garrett.....	4 28	6 30	9 00	2 40	12 50
Avilla.....		6 40	.....	.....	1 00
Albion.....	‡4 50	†6 55	.....	.....	1 20
Syracuse	.....	.....	.....	3 33	2 00
Chicago.. ar	9 00	11 00		7 25	6 40

Stations.	EAST BOUND.
	p m	p m	a m	p m	a m
Chicago	*4 25	*7 20	*6 05	3 00	10 15
Syracuse....	.....	10 50	10 45	.....	.....
Albion.....	.....	.....	11 25	6 57	.....
Avilla	.....		11 45	7 15	.....
Garrett....	a m †4 45	12 04	12 15	7 30	2 35
Auburn Jc.....	4 52	12 09	12 2	7 35	2 40
St. Joe....	5 09	.....	12 43	7 50	.....
Hicksville	5 24	.....	1 00	8 00	.....
Defiance.....	6 03	1 10	1 40	8 27	3 36
Bellaire	3 55	.....	3 55	.....	11 36
(EASTERN TIME) Washington.....	a m 6 38	....	....	.....	.....
Baltimore	7 50	....	.....

*Train run daily. †Daily Except Sunday. ‡Stop on Signal.

For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Ag't, Chicago. City Office Auburn Ind.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R,

TRAINS LEAVE AVILLA.

GOING NORTH.

For Grand Rapids and Mackinaw .. 3 47 p. m.
For Grand Rapids and Traverse City 9 11 a. m.

GOING SOUTH.

For Cincinnati.....12 01 p. m.
For Fort Wayne.....6 22 p. m.
For Cincinnati.....10 27 p. m.

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. & T. A.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

Instant Relief for that Choking Sensation in Catarrh

A pain in the head is not always headache, quite frequently this pain is caused by an inflammation that has existed in the passages of the head and the pain is from this inflammation. This is catarrh and in this country there are few people who are not afflicted with it in some form. The passages sometimes become so clogged from this inflammation that the mucous matter cannot find any egress, and the painful hawking choking is simply nature's effort to create a passage. Some poor sufferers cannot sit through their breakfast, but are forced to leave the table to relieve the horrible congestion. Instant relief can be obtained when one of these spasms seizes a victim by snuffing Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm into the nostrils thoroughly; almost as if by magic the passages to the head will become open. The causes of this is that this Balm is a salve containing healing camphors that instantly allay the inflammation. Catarrh of the head, where it is of long standing, and where scabs have formed in the mucous membrane, or where the disease has reached the stage where the membrane is rotting and the stench from it is insupportable, requires more than one bottle to effect a cure, but every case of nasal catarrh can be cured by the use of this Balm. A lady residing in Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, said that one bottle of this, that cost her 50 cents, had done her more good than over $200 spent on other preparations. It can be obtained of all druggists, and is one of the simplest and most easily applied remedies indorsed by physicians. Pretzinger Bros., Chemists, Dayton, O., will send a mail sample on receipt of two cent stamp.

St. Joe Ladies' Club

The ladies at St. Joe have formed a woman's literary club, something on the model of the L. L. C. at Auburn. At the organization they numbered fourteen members, and the following were elected the first set of officers: President, Mrs. Minie Bennington; vice-president, Mrs. Dr. Sheffer; treasurer, Mrs. M. E. Olds; critic, Mrs. T. J. Baker. We believe the organization of this worthy enterprise is largely due to the efforts of Mrs. Olds, who has often been invited to the meetings of the Auburn ladies. Mrs. E. Zimmerman of Auburn was down there last week and we presume they took occasion to make her visit in the neighborhood of service to them as she is experienced in this work. They are now studying United States History and will we presume, later extend their studies into other fields. Being acquainted with many of the ladies in this new club, we prophesy they will succeed finely.

Friday's Daily.

In our yesterday's report of the ladie's literary society at St. Joe, we had omitted the name of the secretary, Mrs. W. C. Patterson. This was in the original copy but some how was missed when put into type and passed the proof reading without being noticed. In spite of care and painstaking these errors will now and then creep in.

Auburn Junction

Monday Uncle Jacob Link was called to Jackson township by Tom Staff rd to treat his wife who was suffering with a severe sore throat. He returned yesterday reporting his patient much improved.

David Ham was thrown from the top of the cars by putting on the air and stopping too quick. He had only one foot taken off instead of both legs.

Yesterday being the 29th birthday of Perry Link, his wife managed to give him a grand surprise in the evening which she well accomplished. On returning home from work in the evening and stepping in the front room Perry was completely bewildered at the number of friends that had come to spend a few social hours with him. The evening was spent in chatting and social games. About nine o'clock an elaborate supper was served of which all participated of reducing the fracture which seemingly appeared in there stomachs and which is generally natural in such cases. Those present were: Jacob Link, wife and mother, L. Bovee and wife, Frank Murzfelt and wife, Geo. Morr, and wife, Adam Carper, wife and daughter Mrs. T. Link and Family, Mrs. Fred. Carper, Mrs. D. Swihart, Mrs. C. S. Clark, Mrs. L. Powell, Mr. S. L. Cook. About 11 o'clock they started for there respective homes claiming they had not spent as pleasant an evening in a long time.

RIGHT TRACK

The COURIER is on the proper track, in the Garrett matter and not on the wrong one as the Dispatch would have people believe. We refer the Dispatch to the article itself for proof of this. It is the proper business of a newspeper to tell the news. This was just what we did, and had our contemporary been enterprising enough to attend court and see what was done it could know we were right. The article shows we gave no opinion of the merits of the case, and what we said of the character of the testimony was what the witnesses swore to. We even went so far as to say in the article that we did not believe these men would swear to a lie. But these men did swear repeatedly that they did not know what was done with this or that matter at certain council meetings. And it was this that we reported. So it will be seen we did not "impeach their honesty." If reporting the news is "sticking one's nose into other people's business," journalism would be a hard road to travel, though we admit the Dispatch's skirts would not be in any great danger. Had we desired to give all we knew about the matter, we could have said much more. But if the people of Garrett want water works or any other works, we don't care. We only add, that a compromise may yet take place, by which the city will agree to give up the electric light part, and to this both the city and Mr. McIntyre are willing to agree. But the B. & O. company still holds back and don't want them to incur any more debt, as it is the heaviest taxpayer. So it will be seen that McIntyre is not so much out of the way after all. No one can blame him for making a fight to avoid loss.

To Washington

Hon. J. D. Leighty starts for Washington next week, so as to have time to get settled and look about him till congress meets, which is the first Monday in December, on the 2nd day of the month. Mrs. Leighty will go with him and will no doubt enjoy life at the capital and find it very profitable in adding new ideas to those she acquired on her recent trip to Europe. Mr. Leighty himself, will no doubt have a busy winter adjusting himself to his new duties.

Seed Oats For Sale.

At J. Loewenstein's at Waterloo. Farmers when in town, take a look at these oats and then you will want some for seed. Three reasons why. First, they are earlier. Second, they stand up better. Third, they are heavier. 45 47tf

WM C SHERWOOD.

Hallowe'en

Our readers should not think this a belated item of our own hallowe'en evening of racket, shelled corn and cabbage. It is about the more pleasant ways by which the American "Walpurgis Night" may be remembered and enjoyed. At the time of the Auburn bal low we alluded to the many ways in which it might be celebrated and yet be able to retain our standing among civilized communities. Since then we have read of the manner in which several other places celebrated. A letter from Miss Servoss, now a teacher at Anderson, this state, is in point. It was written to her former pupil, Miss Margaret Ford, and in it she says:

"Hallowe'en was celebrated here with a great deal of pomp and show. More than a thousand people, all masked, headed by the band, the members of which were also masked, marched the streets until nine o'clock, when all masks were removed. There were thirty masquerade balls in this city that night. It was great fun, and we who had never witnessed one of Anderson's carnivals, enjoyed it very much indeed."

Here is a pattern for better things. Suppose we all do not care to mask, or to go to balls, there are plenty who enjoy both. And there are many other pleasant ways of having fun on that occasion. Let us study it over till next year and devise a more sensible way to pass the evening, than annoying people.

MIXING IN A LITTLE FUN.

One of Auburn's young men who is yet living in single blessedness seems to be in trouble and in revealing the fact to a COURIER representative last night, among other things, said:

Yes, verily, girls are of few days and full of mischief and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise. When the fair one cheweth gum with much haste and stampeth her pretty foot with vigor, then beware. She cometh forth in the evening with low neck and short sleeves, but in the morning she lieth in bed while her mother bustleth. She eateth all winter of the devoted young man's oysters, and partaketh with glee of his sleigh rides, but when the gentle spring cometh she winketh the other eye and goeth with a new beau.

TO THE SUFFERERS OF RHEUMATISM.

After using Groff's Rheumatic Cure for some time in my practice I take great pleasure in saying that it is a most wonderful remedy for Rheumatism; in fact, it is the only one I have found for the cure of this disease in all its various form. Dr. E E Tull, Chicago.

You Have Seen

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin advertised for months, but have you ever tried it? If not, you do not know what an ideal stomach remedy it is. A 10c bottle (10 doses 10c) will show you its great merits as a cure for constipation, indigestion & sick headache. Regular size, 50c and $1 at F. E. Davenport's. 48

Homeseekers' Excursion.

On November 27 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell Excursion Tickets to points in Virginia on the Harper's Ferry & Valley Branch, south of and including Winchester, at rate of one fare for the round trip plus $2.00. Tickets good for return 30 days from date of sale.

For full information call on or address any B. & O. Ticket Agent, S. P. Kretzer, Land and Immigration Agent, Philadelphia, Pa., or L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Chicago, Ill.

GREAT REDUCTION IN TIME TO CALIFORNIA.

Once more the North-Western Line has reduced the time of its transcontinental trains, and the journey from Chicago to California via this popular route is now made in the marvelously short time of three days. Palace, Drawing-Room Sleeping cars leave Chicago daily, and run through to San Francisco and Los Angeles without change, and all meals on route are served in Dining cars. Daily Tourist Sleeping car service is also maintained by this line between Chicago and San Francisco and Los Angles, completely equipped berths in upholstered Tourist Sleepers being furnished at a cost of only $6 00 each from Chicago to the Pacific Coast. Through trains leave Chicago for California at 6:00 p. m. and 10:45 p. m. daily, after arrival of trains of connecting lines from the East & South.

For detailed information concerning rates, routes, etc., apply to ticket agents of connecting lines or address A. H. Waggener, T. P. A., 7 Jackson place Indianapolis, Ind. 52

Your Boy Wont Live a Month.

So Mr. Gilman Brown, of 34 Mill St South Gardner, Mass., was told by the doctors. His son had lung trouble, following Typhoid Malaria, and he spent three hundred and seventy-five dollars with doctors, who finally gave him up, saying: "Your boy wont live a month." He tried Dr. King's New Discovery and a few bottles restored him to health and enabled him to go to work a perfectly well man. He says he owes his present good health to use of Dr. King's New Discovery, and knows it to be the best in the world for Lung trouble. Trial Bottles Free at Robbins & McCord's Drug Store. 4

B. & O. Excrsions.

On November 19 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell Excursion Tickets to points in Virginia on the Harper's Ferry & Valley Branch, south of and including Winchester, at rate of one fare for the round trip, plus $2.00. Tickets will be good for return 30 days from date of sale.

For full information call on or address any B. & O. Ticket Agent, S. P. Kretzer, Land and Immigration Agent, Philadelphia, Pa., or L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Chicago, Ill.

ROYAL Baking Powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—U. S. Government Report.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Printer Wanted

[In a Country Office]

Wanted—A steady printer,
One who can run a press,
Also take care of an engine—
Two horse power or less,
One who can oil up the shafting
And mend all the belts that break
One who can set type without copy
And never make a mistake.

Wanted—A steady printer,
A single man preferred;
Who can fire up in the morning
Without using a profane word
One who believes in the Bible
And keeps holy the sabbath day,
Who never retires in the evening
Without kneeling down to pray.

Wanted—A steady printer,
One who is faithful and true;
Who would work all night if required
When there's plenty for work to do
One to read proofs and run errands,
And sometimes assist at the plough,
When work is slack would expect him
To take turns in milking a cow

G. W HARRIS

Farewell Reception

To Congressman Leighty and his Estimable wife.

Special to the COURIER.

ST. JOE, Ind. Nov. 15.—Tonight amidst the glow of brilliant lights, the rich festooning of flags and bunting and a profusion of flowers the G. A. R. and W. R. C. together with the W. C. T. U. and many special invited guests will render to congressman J. D. and Mrs. Leighty a farewell reception and banquet ere they take their departure for the National Capital where Mr. Leighty will take up his arduous duties as congressman of the 12th District of this state. Mr Leighty is one of the few men of this state who has gained a wide spread reputation in the national politics of country. Mr. and Mrs. Leighty are held in the highest esteem and affections by hundreds of people in this section of the county and it is with one accord that almost to night to say farewell to these estimable people. Mrs Leighty is one of the best educated ladies of this state and will be a great help to Mr. Leighty in all of his duties in a National Congress. St Joe feels proud of the fact that it can send out a man who is worthy of the name of Congressman and especially that Mr. Leighty is that man.

A Big Mansard.

The third story of the south block of the Kinlinger factory begins to boom up in majestic proportions. It is a mansard story and gives quite a city air. The company gave up the idea of building a brick story as the brick cornice that runs entirely around the block would all have to be torn down so as to have a smooth brick wall from the bottom up to the final cornice at the top of the new story. It was to avoid this change and the consequence expense, that the mansard was decided on. With a mansard third story, the brick cornice is all right and looks well, giving the great building an appearance of completeness. This third story is to be a occupied by the carriage trimming department, giving the second story when the trimmers now work, up to other departments. It looks now as if they are getting ready for an immense business for next year.

Bringing Smalley Back

THE KESSLER TRAIN ROBBER TAKEN TO MICHIGAN,

Saturday's Daily.

A special dispatch from Chicago says that Sheriff Woodworth and Detective Jakeway, of Grand Rapids, Mich., passed through that city yesterday having in charge Oscar Smalley, the alleged train robber, who was arrested at Richfield, Kan. They left for Grand Rapids at 5 o'clock last night. The detectives arrived in the city in the morning with their prisoner, whom they placed in the Harrison street station for the day, while they rested from their long journey. Smalley is a typical country lad, and is charged with participation in the Fenville, Mich., train robbery, which occurred some two months ago.

SPINAL weaknesses easily cured by Bradfield's Nerve Plasters.

Visit Butler

Saturday's Daily.

Quite a delegation of both ladies and gentlemen from the W. R. C. and G. A. R. of Auburn went over to Butler last night and attended the anniversary exercises given by the G. A. R. and W. R. C. of that place. They report a very pleasant evening's entertainment. Those from Auburn who were in attendance were R. H. and Mrs Weamer and G. W. and Mrs. Gordon of the Dispatch; A. P. and Mrs. Green, Capt. John Otto, Mrs. Cowan, Mrs. Suver, Mrs. J. D. Merd, Mrs Jim Prosser, Mrs. Shoemaker, Mrs Leroy Gregg, and others.

OBITUARY

Michael Luther Rohm was born in Richland township DeKalb Co. Ind., Dec. 8, 1868, and died Nov. 12, 1895 at the age 26 years, 11 months and 4 days. He was baptized Jan. 3, 1870. Few years ago, he was converted and joined the Lutheran church at Sedan. He was married, Dec. 2, 1893 to Miss Ida Dellenbaugh, who with one child survives him, and numerous other relatives to mourn his loss. He received an injury about six years ago, that caused him great suffering and resulted in his death. He was greatly respected by all who knew him. The funeral services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. J. A. Burnett, Nov. 16 and interment in the Sedan cemetery.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Have Been Licensed

The marriage records at the clerk's office show that the following persons have been licensed to wed.

Geo. W. Craig, to Frannie Lee Walters,
James L. Tillett, Emma B. Muhn
Ezra Brand, to Alice Belz,
Frank L. Pine, to Lulu Cobey
Frank Wilkison to Lola Keesler.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Heart Disease Cured

By Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

Fainting, Weak or Hungry Spells, Irregular or Intermittent Pulse, Fluttering or Palpitation, Choking Sensation, Shortness of Breath, Swelling of Feet and Ankles, are symptoms of a diseased or Weak Heart.

MRS. N. C. MILLER.

Of Fort Wayne, Ind., writes on Nov. 29, 1894: "I was afflicted for forty years with heart trouble and suffered untold agony. I had weak, hungry spells, and my heart would palpitate so hard, the pain would be so acute and torturing, that I became so weak and nervous I could not sleep. I was treated by several physicians without relief and gave up ever being well again. About two years ago I commenced using Dr. Miles' Remedies. One bottle of the Heart Cure stopped all heart troubles and the Restorative Nervine did the rest, and now I sleep soundly and attend to my household and social duties without any trouble.

Sold by druggists. Book sent free. Address Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Dr. Miles' Remedies Restore Health.

DELICATE WOMEN Should Use BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR.

IT IS A SUPERB TONIC and exerts a wonderful influence in strengthening her system by driving through the proper channel all impurities. Health and strength are guaranteed to result from its use.

My wife was bedridden for eighteen months, after using BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR for two months, is getting well.—J. M. JOHNSON, Malvern, Ark.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Sold by all Druggists at $1.00 per bottle.

WHEN OTHERS FAIL CONSULT

DOCTOR SWEANY

so well and favorably known as CHICAGO'S LEADING & MOST SUCCESSFUL SPECIALIST, for his many and wonderful cures in all

BLOOD AND SKIN diseases, sores, spots, pimples, scrofula, syphilitic taints, tumors, tetter, ECZEMA & Blood Poison of every nature.

KIDNEY AND URINARY Weak back, pain in side, bladder, abdomen, sediment in urine, brick-dust or white, painful urinations, Bright's disease and all diseases of the bladder.

PRIVATE Diseases—Gleet, Gonorrhœa, Inflammations, Discharges, Strictures, Weakness of Organs, Syphilis, Hydrocele, Varicocele and kindred troubles quickly cured.

LOST MANHOOD and all its attending ailments, both of Young, Middle-Aged and Old Men. The awful effects of early indiscretions, producing weakness, NERVOUS DEBILITY, night emissions, exhausting drains, pimples, bashfulness, loss of energy and weakness of both body and brain.

WRITE your troubles if out of city. Thousands cured by correspondence and medicines sent secretly. Book sent free on request. DR. F. L. SWEANY, 338 State St., cor. Congress, Chicago.

Webster's International Dictionary

Invaluable in Office, School, and Home

Successor of the "Unabridged."

Standard of the U. S. Gov't Printing Office, the U. S. Supreme Court, and of nearly all Schoolbooks.

Warmly indorsed by the State Superintendents of Schools, and other Educators almost without number.

THE BEST FOR EVERYBODY BECAUSE

It is easy to find the word wanted. Words are given their correct alphabetical place, each one beginning a paragraph.

It is easy to ascertain the pronunciation. The pronunciation is shown by the simple, critically marked letters used in the schools.

It is easy to trace the growth of a word. The etymologies are full, and the different meanings are given in the order of their development.

It is easy to learn what a word means. The definitions are clear, explicit, and full, and each is contained in a separate paragraph.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Publishers, Springfield, Mass., U. S. A.

Specimen pages, etc., sent on application.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY. NOVEMBER 28. 1895. NUMBER 48.

We are still having a good trade on Stoves!

-WHY?-

Because!

we carry the most

Complete Line

in DeKalb county, and sell them at the very

Lowest Prices

—We have the Finest—

BASE HEATING WOOD STOVES

you have ever seen. They are guaranteed to

HoLd ❊ Fire ❊ All ❊ Night

and every night. Why not come and see us? We will save you money.

BROWN, CULBERTSON & BOLAND

North Side of Public Square.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect May 19, 1895.

TRAINS GOING NORTH

Stations	Mail	Express	Freight
Fort Wayne,	p 11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 00
New Era	12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc.	12 25	5 25	7 38
Auburn	12 29	5 29	8 37
Waterloo	12 41	5 41	9 24
Summit	12 52	5 52	9 45
Steubenville	12 57	5 56
Pleasant Lake	1 05	6 03	10 12
Angola	1 15	6 14	10 30
Jackson	3 25	8 35	2 30 pm

TRAINS GOING SOUTH

Stations—	Freight	Express	Mail
Jackson	dp 6 55 am	11 35 am	6 30 am
Angola	2 25 pm	2 19 pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake	1 03	2 29	9 01
Steubenville		2 36	9 07
Summit	1 25	2 39	9 11
Waterloo	2 39	2 55	9 24
Auburn	3 00	3 10	9 35
Auburn Junc.	3 14	3 14	9 38
New Era	4 05	3 24	9 50
Fort Wayne	5 20	3 55	10 05

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address F. T. DEKAPP, Agent at Auburn

Wabash Line

GOING EAST.

Boston Express.....5:21 a m—Daily
Detroit Accom'n.....2:01 p m—ex Su
New York Limited.....7:35 p m Daily

GOING WEST

Logansport Accommodation...7:15 am—Daily
Mail and Express.....12:23 pm—ex Su
Chicago & St. Louis Lim(53)...7:35 pm—Daily

All these trains stop for passengers

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

CHAS M HAYS V. Pres. and Gen'l Manager
C. S CRANE, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

DR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you. Imparts new life to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and makes a new man of you. Mailed on receipt of price, $1.00 per box.

WILLIAMS M'F'G CO., Props., Cleveland, O. Sold by FISCHLER & SON Auburn 1y30

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

LEWIS' 98 % LYE

POWDERED AND PERFUMED (PATENTED)

The strongest and purest Lye made. Unlike other Lye, it being a fine powder and packed in a can with removable lid, the contents are always ready for use. Will make the best perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling. It is the best for cleansing waste pipes, disinfecting sinks, closets, washing bottles, jaints, trees, etc.

PENNA. SALT M'F'G CO. Gen. Agts., Phila., Pa.

WILCOX COMPOUND TANSY PILLS

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS. The only safe and always reliable Relief for Ladies. Accept no worthless and dangerous imitations. Save money and guard health by taking nothing but the only genuine and original Wilcox Compound Tansy Pills, in metal boxes bearing shield trade mark; price $2.00, all druggists. Send 4 cts. for Woman's Safe Guard, securely sealed.

WILCOX SPECIFIC CO., 228 South Eighth Street, Phila., Pa.

Rickel & Sprott

-HAVE-

MONEY to LOAN

on long time, with privilege of partial payments, lawful interest.

FARMS for SALE and EXCHANGE

for large or small farms, and for stocks of goods:

FARMS

-and-

RESIDENCE PROPERTIES

-and-

VACANT LO S

for sale or exchange.

WHAT HAVE YOU TO TRADE?

RICKEL & SPOTT

A FLIP UP

JAMES MAY MEETS WITH AN ACCIDENT

Thursday evening James May, who lives on McIntyre street met with quite an accident. He had just hauled a load of hay to his barn and was in the act of taking off the binding pole. The pole was draw down very tight, and Mr. May could not loosen it from the pins by his weight alone so he got on it with both feet. He made a terrible effort and did loosen the pole, but as it flined up the end of the pole struck him on the nose knocking him backwards. The blood gushed from the wound very freely. The ground where Mr. May stood, looked as if a hog had been stuck. The bones in his nose were broken, and nothing but the flesh remains. Our informant said that yesterday Mr. May's nose had swollen up as large as his fist.

GAS MEETING.

very encouraging. Last evening, as announced in several issues of the DAIDY, was the meeting in the court room, to see once more, about organizing a company to bore for gas. About fifty were present, and a good deal of interest was shown. I. O. Bachtel was made chairman, and J A. Barns secretary. The chairman made a brief statement as to the object of the meeting, and Dr. Swarts, was callled on, and he stated that the former effort had resulted in getting over $2000 subscribed, but that some of these were now dead. In the course of the evening, this paper was read by the secretary, and found to show $2365 subscribed. It was also learned the Mr. Coffinberry at Garrett, has another paper on which is a small amount. Mr. Coffinberry himself has a subscription of $100 on this. T. H Sprott, was called on, as it is known he has been doing a good deal in the gas field at Albany. He stated that the well they put down at that place, cos $850, as they had to go only about 900 feet. But he believed we could get gas here, and was willing to help in effort, time and money. But we must make up our minds that any venture of this sort would take money. And even if we fail to get a good suppy of gas or oil, it would pay in the renewed impetus the effort would give the town. G. A. Bishop made a motion, which was seconded by J. C. Lochner, that the chair appoint a committee of four, he making the fifth, to get subscriptions. Carried. The committee is: I O Bachtel, John Pyle, T. H. Sprett Sherman Hollister and A N. Wilson. Geo Henderson agreed to make copies of the article of subscription and furnish to each committeeman, and every one was asked to solicit aid to the enterprise. A meeting of the committee will be held in the office of Rickel & Sprott, this evening A paper was prepared, and Mr. Bachtel started the subscription with $50 and a promise to double it if needed. It is believed that a good way will be to let every one subscribe what he can afford, if but $10. This will enlist all our people, so that all will feel a solid interest in the success of the move. Let us not forget, that we have put down only three wells here, and everyone was a good well, not one was a failure. This should be borne in mind. Let all our people study up the gas well matter and decide to help it on.

DeKalb Again.

Not only do DeKalb men become prominent wherever the go but in several cases the ladies themselves have taken advanced places. Our Richland people will remember Mrs. J. C. Jackson, so long a resident of Sedan, as our business men also remember her husband who is through here every little while. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson have been some years, at Howard, Elk Co, Kansas, where they are prominent citizens and where Mrs. Howard is especially prominent in church work. Nov. 9, the Presbyterians of that place celebrated the tenth anniversary of the organization of their church, and among other exercises was a paper by Mrs Jackson on the growth of the church The "Howard Courant" in speaking of the meeting says;

Mrs. Jackson was referred to in one of the meetings, as "the mother of Presbyterianism in Howard" and surely merits all that has been said and more, for the sincerity and earnestness of her work in this line She was one of the charter members of the church, and so could speak with absolute knowledge of all the church history. She has been identified with the work of the church and Sabbath school from the beginning, and to day is the only teacher in the Sabbath school who has taught all these ten years Her paper was very interesting and was listened to with close attention throughout.

Old People.

Old people who require medicine to regulate the bowels and kidneys will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whiskey nor other intoxicant but acts as a tonic and alterative It acts mild on the stomach and bowels, adding strength and giving tone to the organs, thereby aiding Nature in the performance of the functions Electric Bitters is an excellent appetizer and aids digestion. Old People find it just exactly what they need Price fifty cents per bottle at Robbins & McCord's Drug Store. 5

Talked 300 Miles.

Sam. Nickey, last evening, went into Davenport's and made an appointment to have a talk over the long distance elephone at 7 o'clock, with his brother, W. E. Nickey at Princeton, in Gibson county, this state. Promptly at 7 he was on hand, and it was found that the brother was also on hand, at the other end of the wire, 300 miles away. And then the conversation between the two brothers began. It was an easy thing to do, and they transacted their business and exchanged greetings over the long wire as easily as if they had been both in the same town. It should be noted also, that they talked by way of Chicago, making the really length of the metallic conductor much greater. It is a wonderful thing.

Would'nt pay 2 Cents.

[Goshen Times]

A countryman about 40 years old approached Delivery Clerk Miller at the postoffice yesterday and offered a letter to be mailed. Mr. Miller announced that two cents would carry it, but the fellow refused to pay the price, declaring the letter would have to go without a stamp. The government has a way of being independent in these matters and does not seem to care for trade. Mr. Miller would not stamp the letter when the farmer threatened to do his mail business at a rival office, and did not seem to care when he put the missive in his pocket and went off in a huff.

Twenty-Four Rows

Most people know something about corn, and it is generally condeded that an ear with 18 rows is quite a common thing. But we have an ear that was raised on the Baird farm as noticed a few weeks ago that has 24 perfect rows, which is said to be unusual. Squire Walborn, however, says there are many of them this year, a thing he never noticed before. Farmers speak of the "flint" or "King Phillip" corn as having the smallest number of rows to the ear, the rule with that variety being eight A singular thing, however, is the fact that all corn has an even number of rows to the ear, no matter how imperfect the ear may be, and farmers report that an ear with an odd number of rows has never been found and they are ready to bet it never will be.

Old County Orders.

Yesterday there were presented to Treasurer Fair, two old county orders amounting to about $50. The interest on them had been stopped by the publication of notice by Treasurer L. J. Miller, in 1880, the orders themselves being dated April 1879 The orders had been sold to a Ft. Wayne bank, and they have held them ever since, evidently considering them good property even after interest had stopped. They were now sent to one of the banks here and yesterday presented at the county treasury and promptly cashed. From this, we conclude that DeKalb is not considered such a bankrupt county as certain papers have been trying to show. There is also a queer coincidence about the calls for orders, those called in 1880 came up as close to time of call as the call that will be made this time.

Painting The Town

The Hamilton Advocate has been posting up on scripture so as to keep a little closer up in the procession along with the COURIER, and in doing so has found the origin of "painting the town red." It says;

"The origin of the phrase about "painting the town red" has been solved. Turn to Jeremiah the 22nd chapter, and 14th verse, it says, not exactly a town, but the houses thereof were "painted with vermillion."

Same Like Pharoah

Maj. John writes in the United Service Magazine that while he was employed between Port Said and Kantara he saw the waters of the Lake Menzaleh "driven beyond the horizon" by a violent wind, so that the natives walked about where the day before they were fishing This convinced him that he had seen exactly what happened when the Israelites passed dryshod through the Red sea.

Awarded Highest Honors—World's Fair

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant. 40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

DeKalb's Teachers.

THE COUNTY TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION MEETS AT ST. JOE THIS TIME

The teachers will hold their annual meeting at St. Joe in the Lutheran church Friday and Saturday, Nov. 29 and 30.

OFFICERS.

C. M. Merica, County Superintendent
J. J. Eskright, President Association
H. H. Keep, Vice President
Alma Husselman, Secretary
Hortense Abrams, Treasurer.
Chairman Program Committee, J. P. Bonnell

PROGRAM.

FRIDAY MORNING.

Song — By the Teachers
Devotional Exercises — W. W. Lineberry
Welcome Song — St. Joe School
Welcome Address — H. G. Provines
Greeting Song — St. Joe Schools
Response — Miss Edith Fay
Inaugural Address — J. J. Eskright
Song

FRIDAY AETERNOON.

Song
Declamation — Claude Myers
Hypnotism — Eben Carnahan
Method in Geography — O. B. Arthur
Song
Paper—The School and the Home — A. C. Koeppe
State Constitution — Miss Harriet Simon
Miscellaneous Business
Adjournment

FRIDAY EVENING.

Song
Lecture, Prof. L. W. Fairfield, Subject: "The Relations of the Home and The School." The lecture will begin at 7:30. Admission, 10 cents.

SATURDAY MORNING.

Song
Devotional Exercises — W. W. Lineberry
Song
Recitation—Lecture by Fne of the Sex. — Miss Maud Culberteon
General Methods — B. F. Walter and Austin Eicholtz
Song
Studies in Shakespeare—Henry VIII — Mrs. Alda Bemenderfer
Scientific Temperance
Song

SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

Song
Recitation—Minerva's Disappointment, — Miss May Hamilton
Grammar — J. H. W. Kronz and E. H. Fisher
Don't like the Teacher — H. E. Coe
Recitation — Miss Alma Husselman
Business Meeting
Song
Adjournment

THE NUMBER 13

There was a queer coindence as to the magic number 13, in the Daniel Gonser estate. His will was made June 13; a codicil was added Oct. 13; the will was probated Nov. 13; and three witnesses who came here to attest the will each came 13 miles. It will be hard to find such another series of accidental 13's anywhere.

Important Decision.

The Ligonier Banner has an item of some value to trustees and road supervisors. It says: James Anderson of Kankakee township, Laporte county, in 1893, sued two road supervisors for taking soil from the road in front of his farm and hauling it to another part of the county. Judge Noyes decided against Anderson, and the case was taken up to the appellate court, although Mr. Anderson was given the laugh for so doing. The appellate court reversed Judge Noyes decision. The court's ruling shows that supervisors may remove soil or gravel from one location to another on the same man's land in working the roads, but it must not be taken onto another man's property without permission of the person from whore property the soil is taken. The case of Bennent and Stephens will now come up in the Laporte circuit court and there is no doubt that Anderson will be allowed damages. ther like cases will follow.

Homeseekers' Excursion

On November 27 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell Excursion Tickets to points in Virginia on the Harper's Ferry & Valley Branch, south of and including Winchester, at rate of one fare for the round trip plus, $2.00. Tickets good for return 30 days from date of sale.

For full information call on or address any B & O. Ticket Agent, S. P. Kretzer, Land and Immigration Agent, Philadelphia, Pa., or L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Chicago, Ill.

This has been an extra busy season with us. With the near approach of winter it will be even busier. Our reputation for

HONEST AND STYLISH GOODS

AT THE

LOWEST PRICE

is making us new friends far and near.

WE ARE PLEASED

with our stock We are sparing neither labor nor money in keeping it complete,

TO PLEASE YOU.

Every day we are receiving something new for one or the other of our departments, thus keeping abreast of the times. We ask you to visit us when in need of

Dry Goods, Clothing, Ladies' Wraps & Carpets

We are sure to make your visit both pleasant and profitable for you

Schaab & Bro.

This is no Secret.

They are talking about the Low Prices at the

NEW GROCERY

at the South End. A full stock of everything usually kept in a grocery store may be found at Wiles' grocery in the Watson building.

REMEMBER ❊ OUR ❊ PRICES ❊ ARE ❊ THE ❊ LOWESL

We solicit a Share of your Patronage.

Cash Paid for Butter and Eggs.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

DOINGS OF THE DAY.

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Eventful Happenings in Every Known Hemisphere—Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Politics, Religion, Commerce and Crops, Sandwiched with Minor Affairs.

Students Drowned Like Rats.

London special: A grim story is published here, taken from a private letter from Constantinople, according to which a diver, while recently engaged in assisting in the work of driving piles for a new pier at the Golden Horn, on reaching the sea bottom was surprised to find himself surrounded by the bodies of a number of men apparently standing upright around him. Upon investigation the diver discovered that they were the corpses of students, many of whom were known to him personally, who were recently arrested by the Turkish police and afterward taken out in boats and drowned in the Bosphorus for taking part in the recent disturbances at Stamboul. All the bodies had leaden weights attached to the feet, which kept them erect. The diver said there were from forty to fifty bodies in that spot alone.

Horrible Death of a Distiller and His Two Sons.

A shocking affair occurred a few nights ago in the mountain section of Stackes County, North Carolina. Thomas Mabe was running a brandy distillery. He went to fill one of the stills when it boiled over and the liquid took fire. The owner was standing near the still, where his two sons lay on the floor. The burning liquid ran over the boys. The father and his sons made a rush for the door, but it was locked, and by the time they succeeded in opening it the three men were burned so badly that they will die. The house and its contents were burned.

Smothered by Gas.

The 1-year-old son of E. H. Jones, of Struthers, Ohio, died of asphyxiation, and the mother and two other children are in a serious condition. When the father returned from work as soon as he entered the the door he fell to the floor, overcome by the gas. A crowd of neighbors gathered around the house and doctors were summoned, but they were just able to drag the afflicted people out of the house before they themselves were overcome. It developed that the gas came from an old cinder dump on which the house was built.

A Mob Cuts a School Teacher's Throat.

A special from Ailley, Montgomery County, Ga., reports a sensational lynching there before daylight the other morning. Professor Perdue, a school teacher, was held prisoner at Ailley in custody of Sheriff McGregor, on a charge of ruining Miss Willie Grady, a student in his school. A mob overpowered the Sheriff, took Perdue from him and then cut Perdue's throat and riddled his face and body with bullets. Perdue was a married man and leaves a wife and grown children.

College Wrecked.

The south wall of Poland Union seminary, at Poland, Ohio, fell, seriously injuring four young lady students. There were thirty-eight students in the building at the time, but being warned by the sound of cracking walls, all escaped but four—Misses Axie Reed, Margaret Reed, Margaret Simons and Annie Simons. They will probably recover. The building is a wreck. The old institution was attended by Governor McKinley when he was a boy.

Fell One Hundred and Twenty Feet.

Patrick H. Thomas, an iron worker on the new Mabley & Co.'s fourteen-story building at the corner of Woodward and Michigan avenues, Detroit, lost his footing and fell a distance of 120 feet to the roof of an adjoining building. Both of Thomas' legs were broken in two places, as were both arms. His jaw and several ribs were also fractured, and he suffered internal injuries. The physicians believe he has a chance for life.

Papa and Uncle Were Dead.

Chas. and Henry Shaffer, two brothers, were working near Oakland, Md., in a limestone quarry, and after setting off a blast of dynamite, were caught in the falling stone and crushed to death. They were working alone, and the accident was not known until Henry's little girl came to bring her papa's dinner, and the child discovered the remains of her parent and uncle crushed into a lifeless mass.

May Cause Trouble.

Cleveland (O.) special: The action of Allegheny Seminary in acceding to the request of the Presbyterian General Assembly that all seminaries of the church shall so change their charters that these institutions will be entirely under the authority of the Assembly, caused a stir among the Cleveland Presbyterians, many of whom belong to the Liberal party.

Ohio Coal for Canada.

A car ferry between Cleveland, Ohio, and Port Stanley, Ont., across Lake Erie, may be established next season. O. W. Shipman of Detroit, is back of the enterprise. Two big boats with a capacity of twenty-five cars each, to cost $225,000 each, are contemplated. The object is to transport coal across the lakes for the use of the Dominion railways.

Disastrous Wreck.

The breaking of an axle of an engine pulling a south-bound freight on the Norfolk and Western road, at Patrick Creek, W. Va., caused a disastrous wreck. Ten box cars and the engine were demolished, and John Comer, a tramp, was fatally injured. All trains were delayed nine hours and the loss to the company will be heavy.

Masonic Temple Theater, Ft. Wayne, Indiana.

Dec. 2.—"Miss Harem Scarum."
Dec. 5.—"Midnight Special."
Dec. 13.—"Country Circus."

Applied the Torch.

A special from Havana says: An insurgent force of 1,500 men has burned the villages of Guinea and Miranda, near Trinidad, south of Sancti Spiritus, in the Province of Santa Maria, from which vicinity General Maximo Gomez, the insurgent leader, was recently reported to have been driven across the river Zaza.

Shaking Up the Greasers.

A sharp shock of earthquake occurred at the City of Mexico. Water pipes were broken and a few small houses came down.

A Double Murder.

A special from Nashville, Tenn., says; Henry Johnson, colored, who had been absent from his home several days, returned unexpectedly. He found his wife in bed with another man and drawing a knife stabbed them both. The wife is dead and her paramour, whose name has not been learned, is in the City hospital and will die.

Ordered to Armenia.

Secretary Herbert has ordered the cruiser Minneapolis, now at Norfolk, to take on coal and sail at once for the European station to assist the San Francisco and Marblehead in looking out for American interests in the sultan's possessions.

AMERICANS ARE SAFE.

The Advices from Aleppo Are to That Effect.

Constantinople special: Advices from Aleppo are that all the Americans at Aintab, Marash, Orfah, and Mardin are safe. The missionaries at Kharput are leaving and returning temporarily to Constantinople. The Armenian provincial refugees here have petitioned the patriarch to avert a famine in their country, and asked him to appeal to Europe.

It is stated that the ministers refuse to receive the patriarch unless he publishes an encyclical calling on all Armenians to maintain order, and condemning their intrigues and demands on the Turkish Government. The patriarch's position is becoming extremely difficult. He has again appealed to the embassies, informing them of various massacres and begging their good offices to put an end to the situation. The officials insist that the Armenian journals here shall publish articles approving the government policy and condemning the Armenians.

Several Armenian prisoners who have been released for lack of evidence upon which to convict them, declare that they were beaten daily in prison to compel them to reveal the plans of the Armenian committee. None yielded.

The sultan has sanctioned the scheme of reforms prepared by the powers and is proceeding to effect them. To this end it has become necessary for the leaders of the people to persuade the latter to desist from revolutionary attempts, abandon idle hope of foreign intervention, stop all disturbances and co-operate in the restoration of peace.

BURNED THE TOWN.

Thirty-Two Buildings Wiped Out at Purcell, I. T.

Fire broke out in the Star store, in the middle of the principle block of Purcell, I. T., on the north side of Main street. A heavy wind was blowing from the north and the flames spread with frightful rapidity, soon sweeping the entire side of the street, made up of frame buildings.

The Chickasaw National Bank building and Kanoff's hardware store were the only buildings left standing on the north side of the street.

The high wind increased almost to a tornado and drove the flames across the thoroughfare, and in a few minutes all the frame buildings on the routh side were burning. Two brick buildings containing Blanchard & Wood's dry goods store and Campbell's drug store, which had just been rebuilt, were also consumed. Every building in the block is more or less injured, some of the stocks being seriously damaged. The east side of Canadian avenue was swept for one and one-half blocks.

A. Froug, of the Star store, dry goods and clothing, is now lodged in jail charged with arson. Parties testify to having seen him leave the building just as the flames burst out. P. Glucksman, manager of the Chickasaw Mercantile company, is also in jail for the same charge. Witnesses claim to have seen him during the progress of the fire enter his store, which was throught at that time to be out of danger, pour coal oil around and light it.

Thirty-two buildings were destroyed. The total loss foots up about $150,000.

COWBOYS

Terrorized the Village of Medina, Mich.

The sleepy and ancient village of Medina, six miles from Hudson, Mich., was the scene of a Wild West raid and abduction that is thrilling and romantic in all its details. Years ago, while a sweet girl of 17, Mrs. Asa Manning, now a prepossessing matron of 35, was married to a man named Davis, who disappeared when the honeymoon was sped, and, after years of search and waiting, she gave him up for dead and was married to Manning, a farmer in Medina, and has lived a happy life.

The other day Davis arrived in Medine from the West with a lot of cowboy companions and terrorized the little hamlet by riding up and down the street in the way of the wild and woolly West. He saw the wife of his youth and made several desperate attempts to capture her single-handed. Failing in this he called upon his companions, and they seized and gagged her and started with their victim for the Ohio line, a few miles distant. The greatest consternation and excitement followed. The officers were hastily notified, and are now in hot pursuit of the abductors, and the country is wild with excitement.

SENSATIONAL FIRE

A Horror Narrowly Averted At Chicago.

A fire, which caused a property loss of /500,000 and imperiled the lives of half a thousand persons, mostly young women, broke out on the third floor of Charles Emmerich & Co.'s feather and down goods factory, 175-181 South Canal street, Chicago. The conflagration was attended by scenes of intense excitement, and a score of firemen narrowly escaped being killing by fire and falling walls. When the flames were raging most furiously, in spite of the best efforts of twenty-five engines and a small army of firemen, firebrands were carried by the wind to adjacent manufacturing buildings, and it looked as if many more would have to go.

The seven-story brick building extending from 175 Canal street south to the corner of Jackson street, the nine-story brick building adjoining on the north and the greater part of the four-story brick building in the same direction were entirely destroyed. These buildings occupied nearly the whole of the block on the west side of Canal street, between Adams and Jackson streets.

DEBS IS FREE.

His Admirers Grow Frantic Over His Release.

Chicago special: Eugene V. Debs spoke in Central Music hall in this city to an audience that taxed the seating and standing capacity of the hall. Most of the leading labor organizations were represented. Eight carloads of Debs' friends went to Woodstock to greet him on his release from jail, and several thousand men were at the station of the Northwestern road when the train bearing Debs and his friends arrived here. The reception given Debs as he stepped from the train bordered on the frantic. Hundreds of men pushed and struggled to get a grasp of his hand, many of them hugged him, and some went to the length of kissing him. Finally he was tossed upon the shoulders of four men, followed by the dense throng that never for an instant stopped its shout and cheers, and was escorted to the hall about a mile distant.

The Valley of Death.

A special from Bogota, Columbia, November 20, says: Three weeks ago a small body of soldiers were ambushed and killed crossing the Department of Caucau. Gen. Reyes immediately sent a large force in pursuit of the Indians, who were surprised in a canyon, both ends of which were held by troops who hemmed the Indians in while others went to the top of the mountains, from where they rolled heavy rocks on the Indians, killing many, while those who tried to escape from what they supposed to be an earthquake, were shot down in cold blood. It is calculated by an eye witness of the massacre that 200 Indians were killed, not a solitary one escaping death.

Dastardly Deed.

A deliberate attempt was successfully made at a point one mile west of Rome, New York, to wreck train No. 6, on the New York Central railway, the engine and all of the cars being ditched and completely wrecked. The engineer of the train, Nate Hager of Albany, and two tramps were killed. The fireman, Chris. Wagoner, of Albany, and Mail Clerks Porter and M. J. McCarthy were injured. This is the second attempt within three weeks to wreck the same train near the same spot, which is an ideal one for the commission of such a crime. The wreckers broke into the section tool house and stole some tools, with which they removed the fish plates which fasten the rails to the ties and pulled out the spikes.

Negro Murderer Killed by a Mob.

Charles Hurd, the negro who murdered James D. Keely, near Harriman, Tenn., ten days ago, was taken from jail at Warlburg by a mob, who affected an entrance by breaking down the jail doors, and lynched.

A mob of 200 masked men gathered at a point three miles from the jail and marched in fours to the prison. A demand was made on Jailor Langtry to "open up." This he refused to do, and the door was broken open with a sledge hammer. When the mob was on the inside the jailor was placed under the point of pistols and guns and finally gave up.

To Equip the Erie Canal with Electricity.

A special from Albany, N. Y., says: Information has been received here of a contract for the equipment of the Erie Canal with electrical propulsion. It is understood that the Erie Canal Traction Company has entered into a contract with the Erie Construction Company to install a system of canal boat propulsion from Buffalo to Albany, at an expense of $2,250,000, and that work will proceed as the work upon the canal enlargement progresses. The electrical power to be introduced will be generated at the falls of Niagara.

Loser Took Morphine.

Frank Smith, a printer, 21 years of age, went into Charles Carpenter's saloon at Indianapolis and asked for a glass of beer, poured into it a dose of morphine and drank it down. He was taken to the City Hospital and resusitated. Smith told afterward that he had joined a suicide club, the members of which the night before had shaken dice to see who should go first. Smith lost, and was prevented from complying with his contract by medical interference.

Will Lay Waste the Country.

Havana special: The Constitutional Union party of Cuba, at a meeting recently held at Matanzas, renewed its adhesion to the government and Gen. De Campos and expressed confidence that reforms would be introduced at the opportune moment.

Mamimo Gomez, the insurgent leader, has re-issued orders for the destruction by fire of plantations and threatening with death all who assist in gathering the crops.

Will Go to Switzerland.

The President has appointed John L. Peak, of Kansas City, Mo., United States Minister to Switzerland, to succeed Minister Broadhead, resigned, and Otto Munchmeyer, as United States Consul at San Salvador. John L. Peak is a distinguished member of the Missouri bar. He graduated from the law school in 1860 at Louisville, Ky., in which State he was born in 1839.

Broke Her Back.

An elderly woman, dressed in Black, was caught on the Big Four bridge at Springfield, Ohio, by a train the other morning, and falling from the bridge broke her back, dying instantly. Thousands viewed the corpse, but it was midnight when she was identified by her son as Mrs. Devine, of 265 East Pleasant street.

Murder in a Hotel.

At the St. James hotel in Springfield, Ohio, Billy McGruder, head waiter, in a quarrel with an underwaiter, Channon Prophet, was fatally shot by the latter. Prophet escaped, and has not yet been captured. The shooting occurred at the breakfast hour, and caused consternation among the guests.

Fire at Geneva.

Geneva, in the southern part of Adams County, Ind., was visited by a disastrous fire. About ten business rooms and several dwellings were burned. An incendiary caused the fire and a young man named Oliver Martin has been arrested, charged with touching the match.

Big Oil Tank Explodes.

A 15,000-barrel storage tank of the Standard Oil Company exploded violently at Whiting, Ind. The force of the explosion shattered many of the windows of the buildings in the vicinity of the tank and aroused the whole town. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

Sunk With Their Ship.

Particulars of the loss of the Italian bark Brom Carlo, off the Horn, have reached San Francisco. The bark collided with the British ship Condor, and it is now known that not only was the Brom Carlo sunk, but that only four of nineteen men were saved.

Colored Women Burned.

Two colored women are reported to have been burned to death near Rockhill Station, ten miles from Bowling Green, Ky. It is said their home was set on fire by persons who had a grudge against them.

Murder and Suicide.

At English, Ind., Alvin Thomas, 13 years old, killed his brother, two years younger, and committed suicide. The murder was caused by William, the younger brother reporting Alvin for playing truant.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.75 to $5.25; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 56c to 58c; corn, No. 2, 28c to 30c; oats, No. 2, 18c to 19c; rye, No. 2, 36c to 38c; butter, choice creamery, 21c to 23c; eggs, fresh, 19c to 21c; potatoes, per bushel, 20c to 30c; broom corn, common growth to choice green hurl, 2½c to 4c per pound.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.00; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, common to prime, $2.00 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2, 62c to 63c; corn, No. 1 white, 27c to 28c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 22c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.00; hogs, $3.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 62c to 64c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 24c to 26c; oats, No. 2 white, 17c to 19c; rye, No. 2, 33c to 35c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $2.50 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2, 66c to 68c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 31c to 33c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 21c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 39c to 41c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $2.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 63c to 65c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 29c to 30c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 23c; rye, 40c to 41c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 64c to 65c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 29c to 30c; oats, No. 2 white, 19c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 39c to 41c; clover seed, $4.25 to $4.30.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 68c to 70c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 35c to 37c; oats, No. 2 white, 23c to 24c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 56c to 58c; corn, No. 3, 28c to 29c; oats, No. 2 white, 19c to 21c; barley, No. 2, 35c to 37c; rye, No. 1, 37c to 38c; pork, mess, $7.75 to $8.25.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $4.50; sheep, $2.00 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 66c to 67c; corn, No. 2, 36c to 37c; oats, No. 2 white, 23c to 24c; butter, creamery, 16c to 24c; eggs, Western, 21c to 24c.

WIPED OUT BY FLAME

EXCELSIOR BLOCK, CHICAGO, TOTALLY DESTROYED.

Aggregate Loss Will Reach $621,000—Plants of Twenty Firms in Ashes—$300,000 Blaze in Woolen Exchange Block—Many Firemen Buried.

Burned Like a Tinder-Box.

FIRE at Jackson and Canal streets, Chicago, destroyed two big blocks owned by Warren Springer, ate up the plants of twenty firms, threw 700 persons out of employment and caused a loss of $600,000 Thursday afternoon. The fire burned for three hours. Four hundred women and girls on a sixth floor were in danger at one time of being cut off by the flames, but they were saved by the presence of mind of a policeman. The firemen were threatened by the frequent falling of the tall walls and by explosions of oil. They had several runs for their lives, with narrow escapes, but they luckily came through unscathed.

The Springer buildings were occupied by manufacturing concerns, and the flames spread so rapidly that the occupants had barely time to seize their books and a few personal belongings and escape with their lives. The buildings were equipped with automatic sprinklers, but these were as helpless as garden sprinkling pots to stay the fire. There were also two fire walls, but the flames passed these barriers as easily as though they were but lath. Feathers and oils and inks carried the fire from floor to floor and from end to end of the big blocks with lightning speed, and in half an hour the whole Canal street front was ablaze. This front presented a surface 184 feet long by seven and eight stories in height. A half-hour later the Jackson street side, 164 feet deep and seven stories high, was spitting fire from every window. So much valuable property adjoining was threatened that the fire department turned out with thirty-five engines, the largest number called into use at a single fire in five years. The fire broke out about 3 o'clock. Three hours later there was little left of the two Springer buildings but parts of their walls, and their contents were all burned or lay in hot heaps of debris in the basements. Less than $500 worth of property was saved by the occupants.

When it became known that hundreds of women were in danger in one of the tall buildings the crowd wanted to make a rush for it, but was kept back by a detail of police from the Desplaines street station. Officer Thomas Brennan had gone into the building and had prevented a fatal panic by barring the stairway with his stalwart figure until he could reassure the frightened women and send them down the stairs in platoons. Even then some of them fell and bruised themselves in their hurry to escape, but as they poured out of the doomed building the crowd sent up a shout for the women and the gallant officer who had saved them.

Oil Explosions.

It was reported that the basement under the rooms occupied by the Shober & Carqueville Lithograph Company was filled with oils, and the firemen worked in constant fear of an explosion. Fortunately when the explosions came their force spent itself upward. The loud reports were followed by a cloud of timbers and debris flying toward the upper floors, which fell back into the seething pit without injury to firemen or spectators. Many of the floors were filled with printing presses and other heavy machinery. As the supports were weakened by the flames the machines broke through the floor and went down to the bottom with crash after crash as they struck each succeeding floor and landed in the basement in jangled masses of rods and wheels.

As the flames spread from one section of the buildings to another, and floor after floor gave way, the noise resembled a battery of artillery in action. Then falling walls added their thunders to the occasion. The first section to tumble was the sixth and seventh stories of the Excelsior Block on Canal street. A warning crack and a shout from the crowd sent the firemen flying for their lives. The wall fell half way across the street and sent bricks with sufficient force to have killed the firemen, who escaped the danger by barely a second. The next section to fall was on the north, but it struck the Wilson building and went through the roof without a rebound. A little later three upper stories of the Jackson street wall toppled outward and across the street, but it had been expected, and the firemen were out of the line of danger.

Edward B. Gallup, manager for Mr. Springer, put the loss on the seven-story Excelsior Block, 175 to 183 Canal street, at $225,000 to $250,000; that on the eight-story block at 171 to 173 Canal street at $75,000, and that on the No. 10 building on Clinton street at $25,000. He intimated the insurance would come near the value of the buildings. The property of the tenants in the buildings was all heavily insured.

The origin of the fire is a mystery, although the supposition of employes about the Emmerich feather renovating institution was that a gas jet by accident communicated its flame to some of the chemicals used in the cleaning of feathers and that an explosion followed which filled that floor with flame. The blaze spread rapidly and caught the woodwork that surrounded an air shaft in the corner of the floor, and which ran from the basement clear to the roof. It served as a chimney for the flames to leap to the floors above. The burning wood fell to the floors below and started the blaze among the material stored on them. In fifteen minutes after the first spark of fire was seen, the seven stories of the Excelsior Block were blazing like a furnace.

Breaking out in the afternoon of a raw, snowy November day, just as the first travel from the Union station to suburban points was about to begin, the fire created a tremendous sensation among the dirty ways of Canal street, in the dark depths of the station, and in the Springer buildings themselves, where hundreds of men, women, girls and boys fled down the narrow stairways for their lives, and, finding themselves safely in the streets, laughed and clapped their hands for the joy of safety. Then they watched the shell pass more quickly than any building of its size in Chicago has ever burned before since 1871. The character of the interior construction of the Springer buildings has always been condemned by the wage earners of the West Side and feared by the firemen of the city department.

EXCELSIOR BLOCK ON FIRE.

SIX FIREMEN DEAD.

Horrible Results of Another Fire in a Seven-Story Building.

At 9:30 Friday morning fire which was the cause of death and the loss of property worth $500,000 broke out in the fourth story of Kuh, Nathan & Fischer's new building, the Dry Goods and Woolen Exchange, at 215 and 217 Van Buren street and 276 and 278 Franklin street, Chicago. The flames burst through the windows all along the front of the building, and in an instant the whole structure was a mass of curling fire. Jumping from the upper windows, a number of people were dashed upon the pavement and sustained fatal injuries.

Hanging between life and death, a score or more of shrieking, screaming girls clung to the window casements of the building. With lightning-like rapidity engines and hose carts surrounded the blazing structure. In a twinkling every fire escape in the building was alive with helmeted firemen bent on saving the lives imperiled above. Catching its breath, the spellbound crowd gazed upward as one of the girls, driven to frenzy by the choking, blinding smoke, leaped in midair to what appeared certain death. A fireman's strong arm extended from the fire escape was almost wrenched from its socket as he caught the flying human figure. A second later another girl threw herself headlong. But no protecting arm saved her, and, turning over and over, she fell to the sidewalk below, a mangled, bleeding mass of humanity.

After the fire was entirely under control and while the firemen were on the first floor of the structure, throwing water on some still smoldering flames, the second and third floors suddenly gave way and crashed on the first, covering the firemen. Captain Louis Feine, of fire company 2, and the lieutenant and four pipemen of the same company were buried beneath falling floors of the building.

EXCELSIOR BLOCK BEFORE THE FIRE.

WOULD RETIRE GREENBACKS.

Secretary of the Treasury Declares His Policy in a New York Speech.

The address by Mr. Carlisle, Secretary of the Treasury, at the annual dinner of the New York Chamber of Commerce was a plea for the retirement of the legal tenders. He took the ground that no change made in our currency system will afford relief unless it provides for this retirement, as the circulation of the legal tenders has a tendency to drive out of use and out of the country the very gold in which the Government is compelled to redeem them. His exact language was this:

"No change that can be made in our currency system will afford the relief to which the Government and the people are entitled unless it provides for the retirement and cancellation of the legal tender United States notes. Anything less than this will be simply a palliative and not a cure for the financial ills to which the country is now subject." He added that "no other Government in the world is required to supply gold from its treasury to discharge the private obligations of its citizens."

Notes of Current Events.

A Sister of Charity in St. Vincent's Asylum, St. Louis, has been appointed a notary public.

The Choctaw Legislature has rejected the Dawes commission proposition to accept lands in severalty.

Joseph Kilgore and John Jones were killed, and John Handley fatally wounded in a street duel in Birmingham, Ala.

Two pretty New York women are going to Atlanta in a twenty-foot rowboat. They are making the voyage to win a bet.

Five theaters on the Midway at the Atlanta fair have been closed on account of immorality. The proprietors were fined $100 each.

A Salvation Army invaded a Muncie, Ind., theater and changed the variety program to a religious service. Four converts were made.

Details of the loss of the Italian bark Brom Carlo off Cape Horn by collision with the British ship Condor, show that only four of her nineteen men were saved.

The trials of the notorious Scatterfield whitecaps have begun at Anderson, Ind. Another attempt to kidnap Miss Hudson, the State's principal witness, has been frustrated.

Retail druggists of Kansas City will manufacture all the patent medicines consumed by the local trade in order to fight those manufacturers who supply patent medicines to department stores.

Assistant Secretary Reynolds, of the Interior Department, has decided that where a pension has been obtained fraudulently the attorney procuring the pension is not entitled to the fee and must refund it.

Citizens of Thompson Township, Ohio, are being terrorized by a lioness and two leopards, which escaped from a circus some time ago and traveled from Marion County. Many sheep and calves have been killed. Farmers go to their field work heavily armed. Travel after night has been entirely stopped. A hunting party will be organized.

WARNING FOR TURKS

AN ULTIMATUM TO BE PRESENTED TO THE PORTE.

Powers Will Make Demands When the Fleet Is Assembled—Sultan Will Not Be Allowed to Parley—Minister Terrell's Action.

Massacre and Murder Continue.

A dispatch to the London Chronicle from Rome says that information has reached its correspondent to the effect that when the combined fleet of the powers has assembled in the Turkish waters, an ultimatum will be sent to the sublime Porte and that only a short time will be allowed him in which to make a reply.

MRS. GATES.

The cable received by the State Department from Minister Terrell at Constantinople stating that a massacre of Christians had taken place at Kharput, Armenia, and that the American missionary property had been destroyed was later confirmed by a telegram from Boston giving another cable from Constantinople addressed to the American Board of Foreign Missions from Rev. H. O. Dwight.

The missionaries at Kharput are all from Eastern States. The property destroyed is valued at between $75,000 and $100,000. The telegram from Terrell said that the number killed was 800 and this is confirmed from other sources. The scene of the massacre is far inland and beyond the reach of a man-of-war which would be obliged to pass the Dardanelles and enter the Black Sea to approach even the neighboring coast. It was at this very point, Kharput, that the State Department sought to establish a consulate, in which purpose it has been defeated so far by the refusal of the Turkish Government to issue an exequatur to Mr. Hunter, sent there from the department as the first consul. The latest news is so appalling that in Government circles it is a matter of wonder that the European powers can longer remain inactive. The news of the destruction of American missions has started the friends of the missionaries all over the country to telegraphing the State Department. Assistant Secretary Uhl has replied declaring that "nothing is being omitted by the State Department in the direction of appropriate and energetic action." In this connection a cable from Marseilles, France, says the cruiser San Francisco has sailed for Turkish waters.

A. W. TERRELL, MINISTER TO TURKEY.

When it first became apparent that a disturbance was imminent the American missionaries at Kharput applied for protection to Mr. Terrell. The latter called personally at the Porte and sent several notes on the subject to the Minister for Foreign Affairs, insisting that the Turkish officials should protect the American missionaries and notifying the Sultan and his ministers they would be held responsible for the safety of the missionaries.

In view of these representations the Turkish officials promised to protect the lives of the missionaries and detailed gendarmes to guard their property. The American and other missionaries at Bitlis have been compelled to return to Van, under an escort of Turkish troops, which was accorded them upon the strong representations of Mr. Terrell to the Porte. Mr. Terrell demanded and obtained from the Turkish Government categoric orders for the protection of the American missionaries, and nothing which can provide for their safety has been left undone by the United States officials.

The Sultan is said to be alarmed to the verge of insanity at the assembling of the foreign fleet at Salonica Bay, and it is known that he has sent urgent messages to the Vali of the disturbed districts, ordering them to suppress the disorders. In addition a number of special commissioners have been hurriedly dispatched from this city to various parts of Asia Minor, armed with power to quell the revolutionary outbreaks.

NO NEWS OF MR. AND MRS. GATES

Chicago Missionaries at Kharput, Armenia, in Peril.

No tidings have been received from Kharput, Armenia, relative to Rev. and Mrs. C. Frank Gates, Chicago missionaries, whose lives are thought to be in danger from the Turks. Mr. Gates is president of Euphrates College, which has been partly destroyed. The college is a Congregational institution, organized and dedicated in 1878. Up to 1893 it was presided over by Rev. C. H. Wheeler, D. D., its founder. In 1893 Dr. Wheeler retired and Mr. Gates was appointed president. The college is one of co-education, and the attendance numbers yearly, from 600 to 1,000. It is the largest and most important educational institution in Asia Minor, and has been most successfully conducted by missionaries of the Congregational church. Kharput, the seat of the college, is a populous town on the Euphrates River and the headquarters of the Christian population of Armenia. The college property consisted of twelve buildings, eight of which have been looted and burned by the Turks.

REV. GATES.

EUPHRATES COLLEGE, KHARPUT.

1. Dr. Barnum's House. 2. Mr. Gates' Present House 3. Stable. 4. Mr. Allen's House. 5. Mr. Barrows' House. 6. Misses Bush and Seymour.

WOMAN'S BIBLE IN PRINT.

Part First Seems Little Less than a Handbook of Infidelity.

Religious and social circles are much worked up over part 1 of the woman's bible, which has just been published. A correspondent says that an inspection of advance sheets of this work shows it to be little less than a handbook of infidelity. It ridicules the biblical story of the creation, denies that God ever talked directly with any man, strips the patriarchs of their halos, and denounces Moses as a common "fakir." Indeed, Moses could not have fared worse in the book if Col. Ingersoll had written it. The style is not so flippant as he would have used, but it is none the less irreverent and blasphemous. As an example of the iconoclastic tendencies of the new woman, it is something awful to contemplate. Mrs. Elizabeth B. Grannis says the book will be a decided detriment to the cause of woman suffrage. Mrs. Anna H. Shaw says it is the brilliant effusion of prejudiced women. Dr. Joseph H. Rylance says the very title of the book is ridiculous and is a mere cloak for a bitter attack upon Christianity.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton is the head and front of the woman's bible enterprise. Joined with her in the production of this first part, which consists of comments on the pentateuch, are Lillie Devereaux Blake, Rev. Phoebe Hanaford, Clara Bewick Colby, Ellen Battelle Dietrick, Ursula N. Gestefeld, Mrs. Louisa Southwork and Frances Ellen Burr. The method of work adopted by these leaders of the new woman movement is described by Mrs. Stanton in the preface as follows: "Each person purchased two bibles, ran through them from Genesis to Revelations, marking all the texts that concerned women. The passages were cut out and pasted in a blank book and the commentaries then written underneath."

TITLE PAGE OF THE WOMAN'S BIBLE.

The feminine audacity of this plank is not apt to commend itself to theological students. The international committee on the revision of the bible labored twenty years before their work was anywhere near completion.

GOLDEN CURRENT TO EUROPE.

Sums Paid for Foreign Titles Within a Quarter of a Century.

Within a quarter of a century American heiresses have conveyed to European aristocrats in the form of marriage settlements the vast aggregate of $166,153,000, or an average of $6,646,120 a year. More than half this total has gone within the last ten years, so that the recent drain from that source has been much greater in proportion than the average for the twenty-five years. Nearly one-sixth of the total, or $25,000,000, has gone within the year now approaching its end. Miss Anna Gould, now Countess de Castellane, carried off $15,000,000. Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, now Duchess of Marlborough, takes $5,000,000 with her, and Miss Mary Leiter, now the Hon. Mrs. G. N. Curzon, took away the matter of $5,000,000, all within the period of a year. Of those who have contributed to this drain upon the resources of America to the extent of $1,000,000 and upward may be mentioned:

Miss Virginia Bonynge	$4,300,000
Mrs. J. T. Ives	5,000,000
Miss Jay	1,000,000
Miss Constance Kinney	1,000,000
Miss Frances M. Lawrence	1,000,000
Miss Mary Leiter	5,000,000
Mrs. Charles F. Livermore	1,000,000
Mrs. George Lorillard	1,000,000
Miss Cornelia Martin	2,000,000
Miss Anna Theresa Murphy	2,000,000
Miss Phelps	2,000,000
Mrs. Marshall O. Roberts	12,000,000
Mrs. Cornelia Roosevelt	1,500,000
Mrs. Isaac Singer	5,000,000
Miss Winnaretta Singer	2,000,000
Miss Isabella Singer	2,000,000
Miss Florence Emily Sharon	3,000,000
Miss Sarah Phelps Stokes	5,000,000
Miss Ellen Stager	1,000,000
Mrs. Frederick Stevens	7,000,000
Miss Minnie Stevens	1,000,000
Miss Belle Wilson	5,000,000
Miss Wheeler	1,000,000
Miss Frances Work	1,000,000

It is a curious fact that very few marriages of this kind occurred previous to twenty-five years ago. This fact may be variously accounted for. There were less large fortunes in this country before than since the war; there were less facilities for association among the people of opposite sides of the ocean, and, may be, the women of the earlier period were more patriotic than those of the present day. It is possible that there were more marriages for love and fewer for mercenary considerations then than now, which would also be a factor in any statistical record of the subject. One thing is certain, that the marriages between American women and European men during the earlier period of the century were without the financial consideration which is now as conspicuous a feature as it is in buying a house or a parrot. It may be added that there is only one well-known American who has married a European woman of noble family.

Reassuring.

An American tourist in Switzerland, who was about to make the ascent of a mountain, thought best to ask some questions as to the capabilities of his guide.

"Is he a thoroughly skillful climber?" he asked of a hotelkeeper.

"I should say so!" exclaimed the innkeeper. "He has lost two parties of tourists down the mountainside, and escaped without a scratch both times!"

No insulator of magnetism is known.

CHAPTER XVII.

The next day brought the news of Captain Dene's death, and as she wept in sorrow for her friend's sudden bereavement, Jane could, without suspicion, indulge her own heart's grief.

The funeral, in accordance with the wish that had been generally expressed, took place at Alipore; and Jane, standing at the window, watched the procession pass, through a mist of sympathetic tears.

Jane had written a few lines to Mrs. Dene, not attempting to condole with her, but only to tell her how she felt for her sorrow; and a few days after the funeral she received a note begging her to go and see her.

The meeting was naturally a painful one, both remembering how and where they had been last together, but the widow was the more composed of the two, and could but see that something else was grieving Jane beside simple grief for her.

"You have been in trouble yourself, Jane; can't you tell me what it is?"

And only too glad to pour out all her woes into such a sympathetic ear, Jane told the whole story.

"But, Jenny," Mrs. Dene said, tenderly, "you knew of this when we were at Cawnpore together, yet it did not seem to grieve you then."

"I scarcely realized it," sobbed Jane.

"And something since has opened your eyes to what it is you stand committed to?"

Jane bowed her head.

"May I guess what it is?" whispered Mrs. Dene. "You love some one now, and know what you are giving up—am I right, Jenny?"

Again Jane bowed her head—this time to hide the vivid blushes which suffused her face.

"And does he love you?"

"Perhaps; I thought so, and yet—yet——"

She broke down in utter confusion. She could not explain what she thought even to the friend she loved so well.

Mrs. Dene remained for awhile in puzzled silence; she wanted to help the girl, but could not tell how.

"I do not wish to force your confidence," she said at length; "but something was told me once, and I was wondering whether I ought to tell it to you."

"Not anything against Jacob Lynn?" sharply.

"My dear, how should I know anything about him?" with a little gentle scorn that showed Jane perhaps more clearly than anything else could what a gulf would divide her from all her new friends should she marry the man to whom she was betrothed.

"I beg your pardon," she said, humbly.

Mrs. Dene went on as though nothing had occurred to interrupt.

"I certainly should have let it reach you through—through the proper channel, only that now the knowledge of it might influence your decision, and otherwise it might come too late; I don't know if you are ambitious, Jane, but, if you liked, you might some day be Lady Larronmore!"

"Lady Larronmore!" echoed the girl, surprised, for the name conveyed nothing to her mind.

"It is the title to which Major Larron will succeed; and he wishes—I know, for he told me—to win you as his wife."

"Me!" said Jane, opened-eyed and breathless.

"Yes, you," answered Mrs. Dene, with a faint smile that showed how sad the expression of her lips had been before. "You are quite a heroine of romance, Jenny; surely no woman had ever such a choice of positions. You might be a queen of society, or——" She stopped a little awkwardly.

"Or a soldier's wife in barracks," concluded Jane, quietly.

"I have no right to ask you if you care for Major Larron," went on Mrs. Dene. "I only thought you ought to know he cared for you."

"It has made no difference," said Jane; "but I thank you all the same for the intended kindness. No, I don't even like Major Larron; and I dare say he has changed his mind, too, since he spoke to you, for he has never said a word I could construe into anything of the sort."

To Mrs. Dene it was evident that the girl had spoken the truth, yet who could it be that she loved and was thinking about now, if her blushes were to be believed? Not Valentine Graeme surely—he was too young, too frivolous to inspire such a tender passion; nor Colonel Prinsep—why, how blind she had been; of course, it must be he! Lately her thoughts had been so much with herself and her own affairs, that she had forgotten the fancy which Jane had always so artlessly shown for the eligible bachelor colonel. Now it returned to her in full force, and she understood that the fancy had become a love as ardent as it was ill-advised—what she had always feared for her protege had unhappily come to pass, for that Stephen Prinsep returned the girl's affection she could not credit.

"My poor child, it is all very hard on you," she said, presently, thinking that, now she knew all, she could understand the struggle that was going on in Jane's mind between a hopeless love and an engagement that promised to be more hopeless still.

"It is very hard," sighed Jane. "My mother is, of course, against my marrying back into the position which she thought we had left behind us forever; and even my father, I think, is disappointed, though he is so good he will not say so. Yet I know I am right. You think so, too, don't you?" longing for some one to uphold her in her resolution.

Mrs. Dene hesitated, afraid of giving her the wrong advice.

"If you loved him," she answered at last, "I should counsel you to hold to your word at all hazards."

"I do not love him," replied Jane, in a low, ashamed voice, feeling that it was the saddest confession she could make, for was he not the man that she was pledged to marry?

"Then do not marry him, Jenny."

"You forget that he loves me, and though it must have been in momentary madness, I promised of my own free will. If he had been rich or in a good position, I might not have felt so bound; but he is poor and almost friendless. He has nothing but me."

"Perhaps you are right. I only hope it will turn out to be the best; but I shall not be here to see how it ends. I am going away to-morrow."

Then they said "good-by," and Jane was soon on her homeward road, thinking over all that had occurred.

Some one overtook her as she walked, and looking up she saw it was Major Larron.

She gave her hand to him with a somewhat nervous smile, relapsing at once into unnatural gravity as he clasped it closely in his own.

"I am very glad we have met," he said, earnestly. "I began to think it must be decreed we should never meet again."

"That was hardly likely in a small place like Alipore," she answered, brusquely. She felt it incumbent on her to avoid a silence, which might give him the opportunity of saying what she did not wish to hear.

"It is in these small places where one is most likely to miss one's friends. I have been looking for you everywhere for the last week."

"I have not been out much lately. Just now I have been saying good-by to Mrs. Dene."

"She is leaving here?"

"Yes. She goes with her father to Hattiabad to-morrow."

"What, Mr. Molnet? Is he here?"

He looked positively angry when Jane assented. He had not seen Nora Dene's father for more than a year now, and the last time they had met, he had been obliged to listen to plainer truths than he exactly relished; another such meeting was therefore decidedly to be avoided.

Jane, stealing a furtive glance into his face, saw that something had disturbed him, and was relieved that his thoughts were evidently withdrawn from her.

Just then he turned and caught her criticising glance.

"You have been playing cricket?" she stammered, blushing.

"No, tennis. I had the honor of playing with Miss Knollys."

"What is she like?" asked Jane, eagerly, for she, as well as every one in Alipore, was full of curiosity as to the appearance of the commissioner's daughter, who had only arrived from England two days ago.

"I scarcely noticed her; but I believe she is handsome. It is to be hoped so, since, I suppose, she is brought out with the intention of being sold to the highest bidder."

"How can you say such things?" cried Jane, indignantly.

"Is it not true—or is it because of its truth you think it ought to be suppressed?" he questioned, cynically.

"For neither of those reasons."

"Then why? Don't all men marry those who can offer the biggest settlements?" he persisted, looking keenly into her face.

CHAPTER XVIII.

In spite of the Hon. Barry Larron's somewhat deprecating description, Diana Knollys was very handsome, and might have been more so had her manner been less in accordance with her appearance.

She was a little above the medium woman's height, and her figure, neither very slim nor girlish, had the graceful languor which characterizes those of Southern birth. Her eyes were large, and of a gray so dark as to be almost black, and all the color in her face seemed centered in her small scarlet-lipped mouth. Her dark hair was gathered high upon her head in a somewhat uncommon fashion that added to her height, and gave a certain queenliness to her presence. Yet it was her haughty demeanor that robbed her beauty of half its charm. She was cold as an icicle, and her voice, though musical and clear, had a metallic ring in it that grated on the ear.

She was just twenty-five, not too young, she thought herself, and determined, pleasant as was her present position, to obtain as soon as possible a more assured one.

Before she came out from England she had studied the army list to see what regiment was stationed at Alipore, and after consulting Burke as well, had come to the conclusion that the Hon. Barry Larron was the most eligible bachelor in the station; and that after him came Colonel Prinsep, who, though he had no title, nor any very probable claim to one, had a large income and a beautiful estate in Herefordshire. Either of these would be a desirable match.

She had been there nearly a week, when she decided that to give eclat to her debut, her father should give a dance to introduce her to his friends; and having settled this in her own mind, she went at once to consult him upon the subject.

Jane did not get an invitation. Indeed, she never expected it, and would have refused it even had it come. But still she felt the slight. She was so young, and her one short glimpse of gayety had been so sweet that she felt it hard to be left out in the cold. And her mother was indignant.

Stephen Prinsep, on the contrary, was glad that Jane was not there. His sole idea was to put away the remembrance of that one sweet hope, which from its very brevity had seemed the dearer. Yet had it been her loss only which he had had to deplore, there would have been nothing to rankle so in his mind. Had she refused his love because she could not love him, he was too manly to have wasted his life in vain regrets; even had she died he would not have sorrowed as one without hope. But to his short dream had come such a bitter, humiliating awaking that no wonder he felt dissatisfied and sad. He loved her so well, perhaps even she loved him; yet neither fact had the power to prevent her marriage with one immensely his inferior, who would, if there was anything in the theory propounded by the author of "Locksley Hall," drag her down to his level.

He was not thinking of that then. He was watching the commissioner's daughter, and acknowledging her good looks—was wondering whether he could not by any means fall in love with her, and so banish from his memory the unwise passion he had contracted for Jane Knox. For the better furtherance of this plan, he had attached himself to Miss Knollys early in the evening, and scarcely left her side, while she, nothing loath, only too graciously accepted his attentions.

It pleased her that people should notice his apparent devotion and draw the inevitable conclusion. Even if she never married him—and she would not if a better match offered—it was a distinction to have such a man as Colonel Prinsep in her train, such a distinguished soldier, such a declaredly eligible parti. Her eyes grew bright with triumph, and she held her head very proudly, when, though the small hours were approaching, and many of the guests were gone, he still lingered at her side.

Out beneath the quiet stars he could think and almost forget that he had a companion, but presently a well-known name falling upon his ear aroused him from the reverie into which he had fallen, and he felt the necessity of returning something more than the mechanical assents which he had given to each of her remarks.

"It has been a success, has it not, Colonel Prinsep, in spite of the heat? And only yesterday I was gravely assured that, if I did not ask the quartermaster's daughter, I must expect a failure. They told me she was quite the station belle, and a tremendous favorite in your regiment."

"A favorite in the regiment—is she?" he repeated, awkwardly.

"You mean that she is not," she observed, smiling. "Well, for my part, I think it is quite a mistake to notice people of that sort. It only makes them feel uncomfortable and out of place."

A vision rose before his mind's eye. As plainly as though she were in reality before him, he saw Jane as he had seen her on the night of the ball at Cawnpore. He saw her gauzy garments, all of snowy white save for the fluttering straw-colored ribbons that seemed to have fluttered themselves into his brain and wrought there irremediable confusion. He could almost fancy that the scent of the tea-roses she had worn then was wafted now across his face, but looking down at his companion, he saw that she, too, wore some in her belt.

"Don't you think so?" she persisted, as she met his glance.

"I dare say; I am not very well up in these social questions. Have you ever met Miss Knox?"

"I? Oh, no! I have never even seen her."

"I think you will like her when you do meet. She is very sweet, and graceful, and womanly—I don't suppose more than that is required in the very highest circles," said Stephen Prinsep, with the slightest suspicion of sarcasm.

Miss Knollys assented immediately; but to herself decided that Colonel Prinsep was neither so gentlemanly nor so nice as she had at first supposed. She concluded he was getting bored; and knowing that nothing was more fatal to her chances of success, proposed they should go back to the drawing-room.

(To be continued.)

A Russian Story.

Mr. Barry, in his work on Russia in 1870, tells a story of the time when slavery was an institution in the country. A certain ironmaster caused a man who had offended him to be locked up in an iron cage, and kept him confined in it for a length of time. At last, while he was absent on a journey, the case of his wretched prisoner came to the knowledge of the governor of the province. The governor caused the man, cage and all, to be brought to the government town, and invited the tyrannical ironmaster to dinner. After the dinner was over, the governor sent for a quail in a wooden cage, and offered to sell it to his guest for ten thousand roubles. The offer being treated as a joke, the governor said he had a more valuable bird to sell, and told his servants to bring it in. Folding doors flew open, and the iron cage with its miserable captive was set down before the astonished guest. "Now," said the governor, "what do you think of that for a quail? But this is a very expensive bird; I want 20,000 roubles for him." "All right," said the alarmed proprietor, "I will buy this one; send him down to my works without the cage, and your messenger shall bring back the amount." The matter was thus pleasantly settled, and the company adjourned in undisturbed harmony to their papirosses and coffee.

A Book Warning.

Be careful what you write in your books, if you do not want your heirs or administrators to make unkind remarks about you. An old book chaser, just home from Chicago, relates an instance in which trouble was created by a man who thoughtlessly marked his collection of books in a peculiar manner. He owned a large library, and, as he had probably suffered from borrowers and purloiners, he stamped with indelible ink on the one hundredth page of every volume on his shelves: "Stolen from George E. Hord." In due time death and the mutations of fortune brought this library to the hammer and the second-hand shops; but, owing to the accusatory phrase on the one hundredth page of each book, they were sold with difficulty, and brought almost no price whatever.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Left and Right Limbs.

The physiologists and scientists in general have been making some curious experiments in London, with a view to determine the relative length and strength in "right" and "left" limbs. Fifty and nine-tenths per cent of the men measured had the right arm stronger than the left; 16.4 per cent had the two arms of equal length and strength and 32.7 per cent had the left arm stronger than the right. Of women 46.9 per cent had the right arm stronger than the left, 24.5 per cent had the left stronger than the right. In order to arrive at the average length of limbs 50 skeletons were measured, 25 of each sex. Of these 23 had the right arm and left leg longer, six the left arm and right leg, and four the right arm and right leg, while in 17 cases all the members were more or less equal in length.

He's Now Famous.

The editor of the Public Men of To-day Series, when a little boy at Uppingham, was detected at a Greek Testament lesson with a Bible on his knee, from which, of course, he was cribbing. His class master stalked up to him. "What have you there, my boy?" The boy, seeing that no escape was possible, brazened it out with: "A book, sir, of which no one need be ashamed." He, too, is credited with the famous reply to the dean of Trinity College, Oxford. He was being hauled up by the dean for some audacious breach of college rules, and made a perfectly glib and satisfactory excuse. "No, no, sir," said the dean; "that won't do this time. You told me the exact opposite last term." "I know I did," said the culprit; "but that was a lie!"

Language of Insects.

Another learned man has been studying the "language" of insects. He says he has discovered satisfactory evidence of telepathy among them. Telepathy is described as a sixth sense, by which the insects are able to communicate ideas to one another at a great distance.

What Papa Said.

Ethel—What did papa say, Algie, when you asked him for me?

Algie Softe—Your papa, darling, is a very naughty man, and I would not repeat his language in your hearing for anything.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

MEMBERS OUTLINE WHAT WILL BE DONE.

Some of the More Important Measures to Be Introduced by Senators and Representatives—The Ship Canal Project to Receive Attention.

Capital City Chat.

Washington correspondence:

THE coming session of the new Congress promises to be full of interesting work for its members, and from first to last will hold the attention of people generally. With a view of getting advance information the writer has made inquiries of a number of the distinguished members of both houses for a fair outline of the prospects for legislation of interest to the people. Answers made to these inquiries by Senators and Representatives substantially agree in the main in two things. One is that the revenues of the Government must be increased. The other is that the outlook for general legislation is poor. The session promises to be one of inactivity, enlivened by stage plays in the interest of parties and Presidential aspirants.

While there is general agreement that the revenues should be increased the manner of providing this increase promises to make a conflict between Congress and the President right at the start, for many Republicans insist that the revenue bill shall be drawn on protection lines, and there is an intimation of a possible conflict and even deadlock between the President and Congress on this question. The principal subjects singled out for tariff protection are lumber and wool. There are suggestions also of an increased tax on beer for the purpose of increasing the revenues.

Cuba, Venezuela and the Monroe doctrine promise to furnish sufficient material for discussion and for resolutions. The Nicaragua Canal, a railroad pooling bill and the Union Pacific situation will receive attention, as will also the pension question. An effort will be made to deprive the Commissioner of Pensions of the right to cut off pensions arbitrarily or to reduce their allowances. It looks as if the question of retiring the greenbacks, if pressed by President Cleveland, as it probably will be, will overshadow in importance the silver question. It may be made one of the leading issues in the next campaign. On the whole, very little legislation of importance may be expected from the coming session of Congress. Fortunately the party strength is so divided between the two houses and the Executive that very little dangerous or disturbing legislation need be feared.

Treasury Stock Is Sinking.

Recent withdrawals of gold for export by New York banking houses have reduced the balance in the treasury to $89,439,039, which is about $11,000,000 below the lawful reserve, and within $14,000,000 of what is considered the danger point. The bullion in the vaults is valued at $54,088,730 and the coin was $88,073,948 before the withdrawals of Saturday, of which $50,338,739 represents outstanding gold certificates. This leaves a margin of less than $36,000,000 in coin available for the redemption of greenbacks and other United States notes. All the mints have been working steadily through the summer coining gold with the hope of escaping another such emergency as occurred in February, when coin had to be borrowed from trust funds to redeem notes and replaced with bullion.

The shipments of gold last week amounted to $3,267,000, and it is expected that they will reach $5,000,000 this week unless something unusual happens to affect exchange. It is believed, too, that the flow eastward will continue at the rate of $3,000,000 or $4,000,000 a week during the remainder of the year, and after the first of January, when dividends are payable, it will be even greater. The best authorities anticipate a depletion of the treasury gold to $50,000,000 or $60,000,000 before Feb. 1, unless some action is taken to stop it or replenish the reserve by the sale of bonds. No aid can be expected from the public revenues. The deficit is piling up larger and larger every month.

The exports in October were only $12,000,000 in excess of the imports, while they were $23,633,135 in excess during the corresponding month last year. For the ten months of 1895 ended Oct. 31 the balance of trade in our favor was only $31,119,749, while during the corresponding period in 1894 it was $96,661,396, and this difference is not sufficient to settle balances in Europe and meet mercantile obligations. Assistant Secretary Curtis went to New York last week to confer with the bankers of that city concerning this situation, and he was advised by every one that it would be necessary for the treasury to issue another loan in order to maintain the Government credit until Congress takes some action. The same syndicate that has been supporting the treasury all summer and manipulating exchange so as to prevent the withdrawal of gold is willing to come to the relief of the Government again on much better terms than they demanded last February, but stipulates that action be taken at once before public confidence is unsettled and the reserve is reduced below the danger point. They agree to furnish $25,000,000 in gold coin in exchange for $20,000,000 par of 4 per cent. bonds, and it is believed the President will accept their offer without taking the risk that he did early in the year, and then call upon Congress for permanent relief.

The New York bankers told Mr. Curtis that while the Government can place bonds at the rate of 3 per cent. now it will be compelled to pay at least 3½ per cent. if the reserve is reduced below $60,000,000, and if the administration gets into the same fix as it was in last February he will be compelled to make another contract similar to that made then with the Morgan-Belmont syndicate.

Carter's Two Hats.

The Hon. Thomas H. Carter, the member of the United States Senate from Montana and the chairman of the Republican National Committee, wears two hats. The change is made when he crosses the 88th meridian of longitude. One is of the broad, sombrero kind, about the complexion of a dun-colored mule, and carries around the crown outside a strap of leather, which may be tightened or let out to accommodate the alterations in Senator Carter's head. That is the hat he wears in Montana, where he is one of the boys, drinks his whisky straight, chews plug tobacco, greases his boots and uses double negatives and other forms of bad grammar. But as he crosses the 88th meridian this hat is folded up carefully and tucked away in the pocket of his gripsack, so that he may resume it when he reaches the same point on his next journey westward. At the same time Mr. Carter folds up his frontier manners and lays them aside to keep until they are needed again. His other hat is a sleek and glossy example of the stovepipe variety, cut after the pattern of that which the Duke of Marlborough wore at his wedding. This he only wears in the East, when he puts on a bold face, white shirt, and his manners are those of a prosperous New York banker. While he wears this hat he shaves and has his boots polished every day, he abstains from chewing tobacco, smokes expensive cigars, and his vocabulary is gauged to the Boston standard. But once in awhile Senator Carter gets tired of the frills and formalities that go with his silk hat and takes a night off. He releases himself entirely from his eminently respectable obligations and relaxes all over. He gets out his old dun-colored hat, puts on a common-looking overcoat, dulls the polish upon his boots with a wet towel, shoves his necktie around under his ear, musses up his hair and whiskers and his shirt, gets a big plug of tobacco and leaves the gilded halls of the Holland, Waldorf and Fifth Avenue hotels and goes to a cheap chop house where you can buy a plain but wholesome dinner for 40 cents and most of the patrons eat with their knives. I met the Senator there the other evening and to my inquiry he responded: "Yes, by gosh, I've been high-toned as long as I can stand it and I'm laying off to-night."

T. H. CARTER.

SUNDAY SHAVING LAW INVALID.

Decision by a Chicago Judge that the Law Is Class Legislation.

Judge Gibbons, of Chicago, in a carefully written opinion, holds that the Coxy law, making it a misdemeanor for a barber to shave a man on Sunday, is class legislation and invalid. This is the result so far of the fight waged by Chicago barbers against the law. The case will be reviewed by the Supreme Court next.

The Judge, in the course of his opinion, said: "The basic question of this case is, Can the Legislature single out any one calling or avocation, which in and of itself is not harmful to others, and make it the subject of special legislation. It can not be urged that barbering is a pursuit inimical in itself to the health or morals of the community as it has long been recognized as a handiwork that very materially ministers to the cleanliness and comeliness of the human family.

"In truth, we find that this occupation was known to man long before many of the learned professions found a place in human economy. The prophet Ezekiel said: 'And thou, son of man, take thee a sharp knife, take thee a barber's razor, and cause it to pass upon thine head and upon thine beard.' The courts cannot take cognizance of the moral aspect of the case, even though a seventh day of rest seems to be established by divine decree or natural necessity."

EFFECTS OF CLOSING CHICAGO BARBER SHOPS ON SUNDAY.

SINGULAR RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

Elevated Train Crashes Through a Station and Falls to the Street.

A remarkable accident occurred about two weeks ago in Paris, by which an engine and tender were precipitated from an elevated platform at the Montparnasse station. The train rolled into the train shed at a rate of about thirty-five miles an hour without being able to arrest itself, crashed through the bumpers at the end of the track, as well as the front wall of the station, and after traveling about forty-five feet tumbled into the street below, the engine fairly on its nose. Fortunately at this moment the air brake was put on and the rest of the train was prevented from going over. It was to this circumstance that the 123 passengers in the coaches owe their lives. As to the engineer and fireman they were saved by being thrown from the engine at the first shock and the only fatality, strange to say, that resulted from the whole affair, was the killing of a merchant in the street below by the fall of a block of stone detached from the wall by the shock. The cause of the accident—quite the most singular in French railway annals—is attributed to a defect in the hand brakes, which, strange to say, are always used on French trains, save in cases of emergency, when the air brakes are called into play, and in this case the air force could not be applied quickly or effectually enough.

The Undertaker in the Antipodes.

We see in a daily paper that an undertaker in a country town not a hundred miles from Launceston announces that he has supplied a long-felt want in the district by securing a hearse of the latest design, and is now prepared to carry out his work on terms to suit these depressed times. That, as our contemporary remarks, is not at all bad in the way of grim humor, but it is hardly equal to that of the gentleman who advertised, "Why live and be miserable, when you can be comfortably buried for three guineas?"

Medieval knights often took a voluntary oath that they would never spare the life of an enemy.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

SOBER OR STARTLING, FAITHFULLY RECORDED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crimes, Casualties and General News Notes.

Condensed State News.

Black diphtheria is raging in parts of Tipton County.

A good flow of oil has been developed in a well at Fortville.

Leonard Wild's $40,000 opera house at Noblesville has been completed.

An oil well has been drilled in at Fortville, which is flowing in paying quantities.

Washington is having a great religious revival. Meetings are being held in the streets.

The Kokomo pottery works have closed down until the wage question is settled, and 300 men are idle.

A Richmond man has a marriage certificate that is 145 years old. It was drawn in Philadelphia in 1750.

To vent his spite against a woman, a Richmond man took a kitten belonging to her and nailed it to a board.

The wire nail works at Anderson have shut down indefinitely and 650 men are idle. It cannot get steel billets.

A horse driven by G. W. Wilson ran away at Shelbyville, and Mrs. Wilson received dangerous internal injuries.

The 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kranninger of Elwood, was kicked in the stomach by a horse and fatally injured.

Kim Atawata, a Miami Indian, committed suicide at Marion, with a pistol. He was once well to do, but had squandered his property.

Chris Groover of Elwood, an employe at the Radiator Works, was fatally scalded by one of the steam pipes bursting under heavy pressure.

Stone thowers have been annoying train crews on the Panhandle, near North Judson, for some time. The company has its detectives at work.

John Kane, an old resident of LaPorte, was caught by a cave-in, while working in a water-works trench, and received injuries from which he died.

Joseph Leonard, a Valparaiso bachelor who died two months ago, left $200,000. While cleaning out his room, recently, $10,000 in cash was found in an old pillow.

John Dice, of Elwood, a plate glass worker, was dangerously cut on the arm by a plate falling on him, and he came near bleeding to death before the wound could be dressed.

William Rassman, engineer at the Frankfort hoop works, was oiling the engine, when his clothing caught in the line shaft. Every stitch of his apparel was torn off and he was badly bruised.

The merchants at Rochester are declaring war on the railroad for advertising a cheap excursion to Chicago Dec. 2, to be known as a "Bargain day trip." The merchants claim it will take all of their holiday trade out of town.

The Peace Association of Friends, of which Daniel Hill, of Richmond, is Secretary, has issued a circular to all ministers of the United States asking them to preach on "International Arbitration and Peace" on Sunday, Dec. 15.

Robert O'Hara, a farm hand, married the 14-year-old daughter of his employer, H. Hoover, a farmer living near Wabash. The father followed the couple and compelled his daughter to return home. O'Hara is now suing his father-in-law for $3,000 damages.

Ward Leonard of Vincenness, aged 60, was drowned in Wabash River. He was an old fisherman, having followed that vocation for over thirty years. He was an expert swimmer also. A strange fatality seems to hang over the Leonard family. His father, mother, two brothers and a sister, were drowned in the Ohio at different times.

West-bound passenger train No. 35 on Big Four ran over and killed a man at the Union City. His age is about thirty-five. His complexion is light, has brown hair, sandy mustache, light blue eyes and about six feet tall, weighing about 175 pounds. He had a full set of teeth and four vaccination scars on the left arm. Nothing could be found on his person to identify him.

The office of Dr. Frank Sweetland, the leading physician of Mattville, a few miles east of Elkhart, was completely wrecked by dynamite, and a patient named Charles Grey, who was waiting for the doctor, was severely injured. The dynamite was thrown through a window, evidently under the impression that the physician was in the room. There is no clew to the perpetrator of the outrage, but the affair is supposed to have grown out of recent difficulties between the doctor and residents of the town.

Sheriff Clausmeir and Deputy Harrod of Fort Wayne, frustrated the attempt of two criminals to escape jail. William Duffy, under arrest for attempted murder, and who is wanted for murder in Mansfield, Ohio, and Henry Shreddoo, robber, were the prisoners. They had sawed their way from their cell to the corridor, and were lying in wait with iron bars in their hands to kill the jailer. The sheriff received a tip, and watched through a peephole until the prisoners were in the corridor, when the doors were thrown open, lights turned on and the men covered with guns before they knew what was up.

Patents have been issued to Indianians as follows: Horace R. Allen, of Indianapolis, artificial limb; Edward O. Bryden, of Lafayette, wrist pin; Thomas Joliff, of Newberry, fence; Wiley Kenyon, of Crawfordsville, hot air radiator; Harry D. Modes, of Monroeville, revolving book rack; Henry B. Morris, of Michigan City, loom for weaving cane; James F. Orebaugh and F. M. Huddleston, of Shelbyville, photographic lighting machine; Marshall T. Reeves, J. N. Kailor and J. N. D. Reeves, of Columbus, thrashing machine; John Seitz, of Haysville, mole trap; Henry C. Williamson, of Michigan City, railway car bolster.

The forthcoming report of the Auditor of State will show that the State debt was reduced $400,000 during the last year. Bonds aggregating $1,085,000 were refunded advantageously. The premium received in the transaction amounted to $27,000. The State's interest charges have been considerably reduced. March next $300,000 of 3½ per cent. bonds will fall due, and it is the purpose of the financial board to pay them off. The State's total foreign debt at the end of the fiscal year was in round numbers $7,000,000. The next legislature will be asked to increase the sinking fund tax so that the debt can be paid with more rapidity.

Dr. Davis M. Hammond, aged 42, an influential citizens of Spencer County, was accidentally killed at his home at Grand View. He was out driving, and his horse became frightened and dashed down Main street at a rapid speed. When near the Doctor's office friends ran out to check the horse, causing him to suddenly dash to one side, throwing the Doctor violently from his buggy against the sidewalk, and mashing his head, from the effects of which he died two hours later. He leaves a widow and four children.

A new court house, new jail, new Catholic church, several business blocks and an opera house are to go up in Rushville next year. Water works and electric light plants are to be completed by May 1.

·HORSEMEN·

SAVE YOUR STOCK BY USING THE CELEBRATED

Morris' English Stable Powder
For Loss of Appetite, Constipation, Rough Hair, Hide Bound, and all Diseases of the Blood. Price, 25c. per package.

Morris' English Stable Liniment
Cures Lameness, Cuts, Bruises, Scratches, Galls, Sweeney, Spavins, Splint, Curb, etc. Price, 50c. per bottle.

Morris' English Worm Powder
Warranted to cure any case of Worms in Horses, Cattle, Sheep or Dogs, also Pin Worms in Colts. Price, 50c. per box.

Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure
A Specific for Distemper, Coughs, Colds, Heaves, Pink Eye and all Catarrhal diseases of horses. Price, 50c. $1.00 per bottle.

Wells' Hoosier Poultry Powder
Makes Hens Lay, Cures Cholera, Gapes and Roup, and keeps poultry healthy. Price, 25c. per package.

Every remedy guaranteed satisfactory or money refunded. Our new book, "The Horse: His Diseases and Treatment," mailed free.
Wells Medicine Co., Lafayette, Ind.
For sale by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

BE A MAN

Ajax Tablets

have cured thousands and will cure you if you are suffering from Loss of Vigor, Impotence, Sterility, Seminal Weakness or any of the other effects of Self-Abuse or excesses of early life. We give positive Written Guarantee to effect a cure in each case or to refund money in case of failure. Price $1.00 per box, or Six boxes for $5.00. Sent prepaid upon receipt of price. Send for free circular. Address
AJAX REMEDY CO.,
70 Dearborn Street, CHICAGO, ILL.
For sale by F. E. Davenport, Druggist, Auburn.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00.
DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., - Cleveland, Ohio.
Fischer & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!
Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!
Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epilepsy, Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing and given up by Doctors as incurable. By our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with a deposit of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest Bank references furnished on application.
1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00, 2 Qt. $5.00.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES
Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature will find our FAMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.
By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

Every Woman
Sometimes needs a reliable monthly regulating medicine.
Dr. PEAL'S PENNYROYAL PILLS,
Are prompt, safe and certain in result. The genuine (Dr. Peal's) never disappoint. Sent anywhere $1.00. Peal Medicine Co., Cleveland, O.
Sold by Fischler & Son., Auburn.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS

but ship from our factory at wholesale prices. Ship anywhere for examination; pay freight both ways if not satisfactory. 100 styles of Carriages, 90 styles of Harness. Send 4cts. for 112 page catalogue.
ELKHART CARRIAGE AND HARNESS MFG. CO.
No. 7134 $35. W. B. Pratt, Secy, Elkhart, Ind.

Sexine Pills

RESTORE LOST VIGOR
Before and After Using
New discovery. Will brace you up in a week. Sold with a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to Cure Nervous Debility, Loss of Sexual Power in either sex, involuntary Emissions from any cause. If neglected, such troubles lead to consumption or insanity. $1.00 per box by mail, 6 boxes for $5.00. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Address PEAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

RESTORED MANHOOD.
DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex such as Nervous Prostration, Loss of Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

TRY US FOR JOB PRINTING!

DON'T WAIT

Until all the Good Things are Gone,

—BUT—

COME AT ONCE

Remember, Everything goes

At Cost

NOTHING RESERVED

Crowds have been Flocking in, thus saving themselves Dollars. we will do the same for you.

Don't Wait, Come Now.

Globe Clothing and Shoe Co.,

Morth Side of Square, Auburn, Ind.

Safe, Showcase and Mirror for Sale.

Buy the Boy a WATCH

It is he Most Acceptable of Gifts,

and will encourage habits of punctuality at school and elswhere.

A boy is more apt to be on time when he knows what time it is. We show a splendid line of

Silver, Silverine, Nickel and Gold Filled Watches For BOYS

The Cases are Handsome Designs and the movements are accurate timekeepers.

All are Guaranteed

and prices lower than the lowest, Call and see them.

D. A. HODGE,

Kiblinger Building

E. C. SHEETS

Fashionable Merchant Tailor.

Over Farmers' Bank.

COME AT ONCE

and bring your pictures that you intend to have framed for the holidays.

We have a beautiful new assortment of mouldings in the latest styles and our prices are the lowest.

BRING IN YOUR PICTURES and let us frame them in the best style.

OLDS BROS'.

North of Court House.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY,....NOVEMBER 28, 1895

A Valuable Citizen Dead

Mr. Frederick Gfeller of Smithfield township died last night after a sickness of some 5 or 6 weeks. Mr. Gfeller was one of Smithfield's most prosperous farmers. He began life with practically nothing; but by hard work, frugality and careful management he became the owner of a fine large farm. A few years ago he built a large barn and only a little over a year ago he completed a house, one of the finest in his township, little thinking he would be privileged to enjoy it so short a season. Mr. Gfeller has served his people as constable, Justice of the Peace and two terms as Township Trustee. In public office as in his private life he shirked no duty nor responsibility, always exercising the same care, good judgment and economy so characteristic of the man. In the death of Mr. Gfeller his township has lost a valuable citizen, his neighbors, a true friend, and his family, a kind, considerate and indulgent husband and father.

Their New Duties.

Township Trustees Find Plenty of Bock Work

(Goshen Times.)

This new law requiring township trustees to publish an itemized statement of their official transactions also provides for a new system of book keeping. The trustee is required to make a triplicate copy of all poor accounts and this is no small job in townships containing a city. The trustee, after giving an order and its return to him he is required to make three direct copies, the blank book being so arranged and numbered as to prevent recourse to manifold copying. One copy goes to the county auditor, another to the secretary of the State Board of Charities and the other he keeps himself, while the original order is filed with the bill, and also retains a summary on the order stub and a ledger account. The copies referred to must give the name of the party receiving aid, his or her color, sex, age, occupation, nationality, how long a resident of the township, from what township, what makes aid necessary if for family, how many, if for others not in family how many, and all of above points relating to these outsiders, age of each male and female member of family and answers to similar questions.

Florida Letter

Mrs. F. A. Warner, now in Florida, writes to us, sending some lovely shells and the following letter which explains itself.

Dear COURIER Readers:

Since coming South I have received many letters of inquiry from home friends asking if I could send them shells from the Sea Shore Yes, and now is a good chance to get them for we have just had a heavy storm at sea, and the shore is strewn with fine shells, corals etc., and our editor, willing I will say to one and all that I will pick up and mail a variety of shells, to anyone who sends a stamp or two for postage. Anyone is welcome to send and as the holidays are so near, you may if you wish call them a Christmas remembrance from

MRS. F. A. WARNER,
Jacksonville, Fla.

Convinced Against His Will.

Nearly everyone for miles around Morley, Mich., knows Chas. A. Jones, whose farm lies two and a half miles northwest of that village. His friends, and they were numerous, feared he would not long be spared to them, for the doctor pronounced him afflicted with heart disease and said he might drop dead any minute. This was not very pleasant reflection for his wife, who watched him almost constantly; once she found him where he fell unconscious in the yard. His appearance indicated paralysis, the doctors were called again, but they did understand his case, consequently couldn't do much for him. He was in this condition when he heard of Dr Wheelers Nerve Vitalizer and its effectual use by others. He sent to Nelson Pike's drug store for a sample, and as he expressed it: "I had little faith in patent medicines, but something seemed to convince me that this was a good one and could be relied upon. Do you know I felt better and slept well after taking two doses? I want to say to you that Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer is the most wonderful medicine ever made. It cured me so completely that I never felt better in my life."

Mr Pike, who sold him the medicine, says: "I wouldn't have believed such a cure possible if I had not seen the change with my own eyes; it is certainly the most remarkable cure of my twenty four years' experience in the drug business." It is equally as valuable for other nerve diseases, such as nervous prostration, spasms, fits, sleeplessness, mental depression, exhausted vitality, despondency, sexual and general debility. For sale by F. E. Davenport. 40 44

Seed Oats For Sale.

At J. Loewenstein's at Waterloo. Farmers when in town, take a look at these oats and then you will want some for seed. Three reasons why. First, they are earlier Second, they stand up better. Third, they are heavier 45 47t

WM C SHERWOOD.

OPERA HOUSE OPENS

Carrie Louis a Dandy

The Inclement Weather was no Barrier.

to the large crowd that attended the opening. The play was up to date and the specialists were fine. The people who filled the Parquet and Dress Circle showed what style and taste in dress could be gotten at a first-class furnishing house. The sweel dressers are walking advertisements for

G. H. YESBERA'S Porular Clothing. Merchant Tailoring and Gents' Furnishing Establishment.

Our new invoice of Collars and Cuffs and Gents' Neckwear represented there shows that our efforts are appreciated in trying to get the new and latest things for you. Our new shape Pedora and Stiff Hat captures the eye of those that want a nobby hat. Glance at our show window for a few things in our furnishing line; our Dotted Silk Mufflers are beauties and the price makes them popular; wear one to-night, for the rest of the people have them. Come in and see if there is anything we have will complete your dress for the evening

The People's Outfitter, G. H. YESBERA,

—A—

Chance to Mae Money

I have a number of town and country properties to sell at remarkable low prices, splendid chances for good investments.

Real estate bought and sold.

Money to loan on good security.

Fire Insurance in best companies.

Collection promptly made.

JOSEPH LINK
Auburn, Ind.

Office with Jacob Walborn.

C RUNNA ITEMS.

Born to John Keen and wife, a boy.

Geo Daily moved to Flint last week.

Rev. Speckein, is holding a series of meetings at Custer.

Quince Finch and Davison are shipping on an average about five cars of hogs cattle and sheep per week.

Martin Rice had to undergo a severe operation lately, but under judicious treatment he is able to be around again.

Miss Cora Colt, who has been visiting with the family of James Finch for same time, returned to her home last week at Roann Indiana.

While Mrs C. Wise was wringing clothes her little 3 year old daughter accidentally got her finger between the cogs. The third finger of the left hand was taken off at the first joint, hanging only by a piece of skin. Dr. Phillips thinks he can save the finger.

A blind man by the name of Fleming lectured at the M. E. Church last Sunday night.

While Mrs. C. Wise was wringing clothes her little 3 year old daughter accidentally got her finger between the cogs. The third finger of the left hand was taken off at the first joint, hanging only by a piece of skin. Dr. Phillips thinks he can save the finger entire.

Mrs. Emma Casey returned to her home at Metz. last week after a visit of about ten weeks with her sister, Mrs. M. C. Cheffee.

There will be a Thanksgiving supper in the Gushwa building on Thanksgiving evening, by the ladies of the M. E. church. Everbody come.

One day last week while engaged in hauling home a load of corn and fodder, Benjamin Osborn, in some way lost his balance and was precipitated to the hard ground. He was pretty seriously hurt about the head and shoulders Dr Phillips was called and the patient is slowly recovering from his severe injuries.

The cold wave and blizzard predicted for Saturday night and Sunday, failed to put in its appearance, at least on schedule time.

Corn Crop.

As far as reported from the state up to this time, the corn is said to be one of the best ever had in the state. The average so far, is at the rate of 35 bushels to the acre. The largest estimated total for the state in any one year before this, was 128 million bushels in 1888, when the average was 37 bushels per acre. This year the total yield is estimated at 131 million bushels.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE

Notice is hereby given, That I, Wm Seely Administrator of the estate of Winfield Nelson deceased, will offer for sale at public Auction, to the highest bidder, on Saturday, December 7, 1895.

at 10 o'clock a. m. at the door of the Court House, in Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, the following described real estate, belonging to the estate of said decedent, to-wit:

Forty-six (46) acres of land in the east half (½) of the northeast quarter (¼), of section one (1), in township numbered thirty-three (33), north of range fourteen (14) east, in DeKalb county, in the state of Indiana, bounded by a line as follows, to wit;

Commencing at the northeast corner of said section and running thence west on the section line fifty (50) rods, thence south parallel with the east line of said section to the center of the highway running from Newville to Auburn and passing over said quarter section thence east along the center of the highway to the quarter post on the east line of said section, and thence north on said east line to the place of beginning, excepting from said tract thirteen and one-third (13 1-3) acres off the south end thereof, the north boundary line of said thirteen and one-third (13 1-3) acres being parallel with the north line of said section.

TERMS:

One-third cash, one-third in six (6) months and one third in twelve (12) months. Deferred payments to be evidenced by interest-bearing notes waiving relief and secured by mortgage upon the premises sold.

Wm. SEELY, Administrator.
Baxter and Brown, Att'ys.

EXECUTOR'S SALE.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned Executors, of the will of Daniel Gonser deceased, will sell at public sale at the late residence of said decedent on Gonser Avenue in the town of Ashley, DeKalb County Indiana, on said sale commencing at ten o'clock a. m. The personal property of said Daniel Gonser not taken by the widow consisting of household furniture, beds, bedding agricultural implements road cart, sleigh wheat, oats, corn, hay, carpenter tools, grind-stone iron kettle, fishing outfit, sausage grinder, & stuffer, one cook stove, one heating stove, chairs, and other articles too numerous to mention.

Friday, December 20, 1895

TERMS OF SALE

Under $5.00 cash on day of sale. On sums of $5 and over a credit of six months will be given the purchasher giving note with approved security, without interest if paid when due, if not 6 per cent from date, waving relief from valuation appraisement laws and attorney fees and payable at Ashley, Ind., no property to be removed until settled for.

FRANK B. GONSER
HIRAM H. SLAYBAUGH
Executors.
Wm. H. Leas, Atty.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned have been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Executors of the Will of Daniel Gonser, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

FRANK GONSER,
HIRAM H. SLAYBAUGH
Executors.
November 14, 1895.
Wm. H. Leas, Att'y.

STEAM AND GASOLINE ENGINES

Portable and Marine

If you think of buying an engine of any size or kind send for our Catalogue No. 30 containing illustrations an prices of every kind of small engines up to 20 horse power, at bottom prices, or List No 29 for yacht engines, boilers and boat machinery. Either sent free.

CHAS. P. WILLARD CO.
197 So. Canal Street CHICAGO

Poland China Hogs

Four full blood Poland China male hogs for sale. Call on A. B. Walsworth, 4 miles east of Auburn. 48-49

BUTCHERING DONE.

I will help do your butchering. Have had long experience. Call on me.

ALVIN BAKER,
48 49 Auburn.

Pitcher's Castoria.
Children Cry for

WATCHES

CLOCKS

PERHAPS you are thinking of buying a WATCH.
PERHAPS you are thinking of buying a CLOCK
PERHAPS you are in need of SPECTACLES.
PERHAPS you want to get a WEDDING PRESENT.
PERHAPS your wife is in need of some article in SILVERWARE,

Well, that being the case, we advise you to go straight to

FRED. J. YESBERA'S

Jewelry Store and get what you want.

The above cut represents W. R. WHITE Gate, now on exhibitson at Auburn, Ind. It will be to everyone's interest, who uses gates, to call and see this one, as it is handy, oftimes saves runaways, any lady or child can operate it without getting out in the mud; can be raised over snow, or to let pigs pass to and from fields; made of Bessemer steel, will last a lifetime and many other claims no other gate has. Call and see it and get prices on gates, Farm, Township, County and State Rights, of

A. M. CARDNER,
U. S. Agent,
Auburn, Indiana.

DR. W. W. CAREY,

AUBURN, - - INDIANA

Office on Second Floor Kiblinger Building formerly occupied by the COURIER.

CALLS ANSWERED PROMPTLY.

Residence 3rd house west of the Methodist church on West 7th street

DR. CASS

Treats Piles or Hermorrhoids without using the knife or hypodermic needle, successfully.

CASH PAID FOR

SCRAP CAST IRON

AT THE

AUBURN FOUNDRY

DR A F PHILLIPS,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON

CORUNNA - - INDIANA

Office formerly occupied by Dr. Rudolph. Calls promptly answered at all times

The U. S. Gov't Reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

Trilby Photos will please you
Platino Photos are fine work
Flash Light Pictures at Night ask about it.
Aluminum Frames and Fine Mouldings for Christmas.
Pictures Matted and Framed Neatly.

Canvass and all kinds of artists supplies. Leave your orders now.

J. G. CLAPP,
Photographer and Picture Supplies.
AUBURN, IND.

First National Bank

AUBURN, INDIANA

Capital and Surplus, $60,000 00

Certificate of deposits issued, drawing interest 4 per cent per annum, on time deposit. County and town orders bought Money to loans

C. A. O. MCCLELLAN, President.
CHAS. MCCLELLAN, Cashier.

Cloaks New from our Busiest Department.

Coats are selling rapidly; the garment makers evidently hit the mark, for this season's coats struck the public's fancy as never before Boucle Cloths, Meltons, Beavers, from the lightest tan to the deepest black, very choice and dainty styles for stylish women; and on an average the prices fall 25 per cent. below expectations. Stylish garments were never lower in price here. The stock is very complete.

Black Dress Goods Buyers Will Read This.

Black Dress Goods are apparently much the same everywhere. They are not. Te cents a yard difference in the price may cover a multitude of sins, of which you are only made aware when the cheap black dress turns rusty and its quality is no more. We have studied the Black Goods question, and experience tells us that seekers of quality will pay for it We have black goods of quality, and you are not asked to pay a single penny more than is right.

Linens For the Thanksgiving Table,

Look through the stock of Linens before Thanksgiving. It may need replenishing with a few things, and a chance to buy them extra cheap isn't to be passed. We are offering very special values in Table Linens It's an odd time for a Linen Sale, but then Thanksgiving gives us the opportunity.

Blanket Business is Brisk,

And why not? We knew that these superb blankets would sell. A pure wool blanket is better and cheaper than a cotton one How cheaper? Because it is next to impossible to wear out a good blanket short of a half dozen years, usually longer. We sell cotton Blankets, have to have them. Rather sell you a pair of pure wool, however because more satisfaction for you. We are showing and selling Blankets to dozens of shoppers daily.

BISHOP & LACKEY,

Leading Merchans.

A Prominent Railroader's Remarks.

TERRE HAUTE, May 1, 1894.

Lyon Medicine Co., Indianapolis, Ind.:

DEAR SIRS—I wish to speak a kind word for LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. During an attack of la grippe, from which I suffered greatly with stomach trouble, loss of appetite and general bad feelings, I was induced by a friend, who said it would remove all these troubles, to try your remedy. I admit I did not have much faith in them, but tried a box, and one box made me feel like a new man and did all my friend claimed they would. I believe them to be a long felt want in the medicine line.

Yours very truly,

J. W. CASKEY,
Conductor Vandalia Line.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

LOST - MANHOOD - RESTORED!

—BY THE USE OF—

Dr. LagrOes Nerve and Brain Pills.

The Greatest Remedy Known in Mental Overwork.

Sextual Debility, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors and Lost Manhood; Excessive Use of Opium or Tobacco all of which leads to insanity if not checked. Sent by mail or express prepaid on receipt of $1 per box; 3 boxes $2.50; 6 boxes $5.00. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded

J. D. CAMPBELL, General Agent for Indiana, WATERLOO, INDIANA.

MONEY - TO - LOAN

On Real Estate Security,

In large or small ammounts at a low rate of Interest, long or short time. No Commission. Inquire at Farmers Bank.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

Albert Robbins, Pres. J. C Henry V. P

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock.--
--$45.000.00.

—UNDER STATE SUPERVISION.—

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.

--Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private All calls attended promptly, night or day.

ABSTRACTS OF TITLE

To all lands in DeKalb County, Indiana at reasonable rates. I have the only set of Abstract Books in the County Also Mortgages, Deeds and Notary Public Work of all kinds promptly attended to.

Inquire at Auditor or Surveyor's office, Auburn, or leave orders at Postoffice, Garrett.

J P Cummins
Abstractor and Notary Public

Notice of Sale of Real Estate.

Notice is hereby given, that I, William Seeley, administrator of the estate of Philander Smith, deceased, will sell at private sale, on Saturday, at 10 o'clock a. m., December 14, 1895, at the residence on the premises sold, the following described real estate, belonging to the estate of said decedent, to wit:

The undivided two-third (⅔) of the south half (½) of the south east (¼) of the southwest quarter (¼) of section five (5) township thirty-three (33) north, range fifteen (15) east, in DeKalb county, in the state of Indiana.

TERMS OF SALE:

One-third cash, one-third in six (6) months, and one-third in twelve (12) months. Deferred payments to be evidenced by interest-bearing notes waiving relief and secured by mortgage upon the premises sold.

WILLIAM SEELEY, Administrator.
BAXTER & BROWN, Att'ys.

STRAY NOTICE.

A stray pig can be had by calling at the Doty farm 3½ miles southwest of Auburn, by describing property and paying for this notice.

WILL H. ZIGLER.

Wednesday's Daily.

Pain has no show with Dr. Miles' Pain Pills.

M. F. Long was over from Butler today.

Frank Jolliff will open up a new boot and shoe store at Ashley. He left for that place to-day.

A. L Kuhlman went to Adrian, Mich. this afternoon where he expects to sell a big bill of buggy bodies.

A. J. Ralston and C. M. Merica have just completed a good curbing in front of their residence properties.

Mrs. Fred Funk and Mrs Chas. Henky went to Columbia City this morning to visit in the family of Mike Lumm.

John Picker and Holly Lawrence did not go to Adrian yesterday on account of the storm They went this afternoon.

In Chicago, they are using postal cars on the street lines and they find them a valuable help in getting mails to all parts of that great city

It is truth in medicine that the smallest dose, that preforms a cure is the best De Witt's Little Early Riser are the smallest pills, will preform a cure, and are the best.

Mr. and Mrs, Geo Quince are the happy parents of a new daughter born this morning. The COURIER is pleased to announce this new arrival.

It's just as easy to try One Minute Cough Cure as anything else. It's easier to cure a severe cough or cold with it. Let your next purchase for a cough be One Minute Cure. Better medicine; better results; better try it.

Sheriff Stroh informs us, that we were mistaken when we said he got his first clue in the Parrett matter, through the letter to a girl in Butler. We make this correction in the interest of fair play, though we presume the point is not valuable either way. We gave the story as we had understood it.

An exchange is responsible for the following: "A man named Moon was presented with a daughter by his wife. That was a new Moon. The old man was so overcome that he went off and got drunk. That was a full Moon. And when he got sober he had 25 cents left. That was the last quarter."

The following invitation was issued today:

A Proclamashun to the people of Auburn and Vicinity.

You are axed to a Party that us young folks air a goin to hav at Lena Zimmerman's house on West Seventh St., Saturday evenin, Nov. the twenty-three times.

—Mind your p's. Persons who patronize papers should pay promptly, for the peculiar power in pushing forward proper public property. Pay the publisher promptly and his pocket-book is kept plethoric by promptly paying patrons, he puts his pen to his paper in peace, his paragraphs are more pointed and pungent, and he paints pictures of present passing events to the perusing public. Paste this precious piece of proverbial philosophy in some particular place where all persons can peruse it.

Thursday's Daily.

S. S. Potter and Fred Funk are putting down new sidewalks.

Isaac Jones is building a nice new residence in Gas Addition on the lot next west of Mrs. White's.

Geo. Bishop and wife are now domiciled in their new home just west of Hugh Culbertson's.

Say, why don't you try De Witt's Little Early Risers? These little pills cure headache, indigestion and constipation They're small, but do the work.

CHAS. P WILLARD & Co., 197 Canal St, Chicago, make and handle everything in the way of small steam launches and yachts and boilers, engines and machinery for same. Catalogue sent free.

There are many good reasons why you should use One Minute Cough Cure. There are no reasons why you should not, if in need of help The only harmless remedy that produces immediate results.

E P. Refner returned home from a few weeks dear hunt in Wisconsin. He and the other fellows that were with him killed in all fifteen. Mr. Refner brought three home with him. He reports a very pleasant trip.

Peter Shull and wife were in town today, and say a letter has been received from Phillipsburg, Montana that Uncle Henry has reached there in safety. After a stay with the children there, he will go on up to Washington and spend the winter on the coast, with his son Eli.

Mrs. Shreeves in Gas Addition has added a new kitchen room and cellar to her house, and Porter Depew has put in a fine cellar under his dwelling. There is an addition just finished to another house near the east end of Ninth street. Gas Addition has done better this year than any other of the additions.

The friends of Miss Bessie Baer, planned a surprise on her last evening by calling on her at her home. They were the B. Y. P. U. of the Baptist church who wished in this way to show their appreciation of the work she has done for them. The occasion was her leaving for Elkhart, where she went to day. They presented her a fine gold pen. It was a pleasant meeting for all.

To show many useful and salable things may be made and sold here at home, notice the device for use in mending shoes, now on sale at J. L. Davis' hardware. It is an iron standard on which can be fastened an iron last to be used in nailing or pegging soles onto boots and shoes. There are three sizes of lasts, and many people are buying them, so as to fix up any little trouble of their shoe soles. They are made at the foundry here.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

What stops Neuralgia? Dr. Miles' Pain Pills.

Friday's Daily.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lanning celebrate their "tin wedding" Dec. 2.

Bert Penniman, of Grand Rapids, Mich is visiting the family of L. Spitler.

Don't forget the meeting at the court house to-night.

Frank Baker has sold his interest in the blacksmith shop to Mr. Scott and now Frank is clerking for Ed Weeks.

M. B. Willis, sr returned to-day from Indianapolis where he attended the Grand Lodge meeting of the I. O. O. F.

Dr. Buchtel reports a ten and a quarter pound boy born to Mr. and Mrs. Chas Witt in Gas addition.

Chauncey Patterson had the first sleigh of the season on the streets to-day. It was not good sleighing, and the sun was thawing off what little snow there was.

Stomach and Bowel Complaints are best relieved by the timely use of De Witt's Colic & Cholera Cure. Insist on having this preparation. Don't take any other.

Snow fell last evening to the depth of about two inches, and this morning the small boy and small sled were numerous and active.

R B. McKahan, who for a time had the Union Bakery here, is now a collector for the Ligonier Banner. He is putting in his time among the subscribers.

The healing properties of De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve are well known, It cures eczema, skin skin affections and is simply a perfect remedy for piles.

S. J. Tarney and daughter, of Jackson township, left this morning for Fort Wayne. Mr. Tarney is having his daughter's eyes treated by Dr. Wheelock.

G. W. Bates and wife returned home yesterday from a couple weeks' visit with their two daughters in Michigan. Their little granddaughter accompanied them home.

The mother of Mrs. Calvin Grube, Mrs. Jessie Rhodenbaugh an old and respected citizen of this county died at Altona yesterday, after a lingering sickness of many months. She was buried today.

After Dec. 1, the Lake Shore company will charge odd cents for fare same as the Wabash. The fare to Fort Wayne will be 68 cents instead of 65. It will be noticed it costs three cents more. The fare to Steubenville will be 34 cents, less 6 cents as the fare to that point was 40 cents.

The Wabash Railroad company have laid off all section men but the foreman of the gang. This was done to reduce the expense of the company. It is a hard blow on the men who worked on the section all summer and intended and expected a steady job this winter.

All diseases of the air passages especially catarrah and chronic, Bronchitis, as well as first stages of consumption can be cured. I am treating these diseases with great success by the use of the latest and most improved medicines and instruments. Dr. W H. Nusbaum, Auburn, Ind. 42tf

A special dispatch from Allegan, Mich, says:—Oscar Smalley, who was arrested in Omaha and brought here on suspicion of being connected with the Fennville train robbery, was arraigned before Justice Stockdale yesterday morning and promptly dismissed from custody, No witnesses could be produced to indentify him. Smalley took the first train out of town

Saturday's Daily.

Eugene Altenburg returned to Indianapolis on the 12:23 Wabash to-day noon.

The most attractive place in town is Roger's Music Store. He now has a crank organ for those to play who can not manuplate the piano keys.

B. F Sponhour, who has been helping Eugene Wyatt husk corn, reports the corn about all in the crib quite a crop as there were 1100 shocks at the beginning.

Mrs, G. W. Lackey, left Thursday night for Newburg, West Virginia being called there by the death of her father Geo. R. Anderson.

Miss. Grace Cribbs and Miss. Zella Chew, of Garrett, are the guests of Miss. Anna Trentman, to day

Mr. and Mrs S. C. Snyder began moving into his new residence yesterday, and to day will be settled in their lovely home on North Main. It is one of the finest of the many fine dwellings in Auburn.

Co. Supt. Merica drove up into Franklin township this morning, where he held a township institute today. No lazy man could be a county superintendent. It takes energy and courage to do the work.

All who attended the recital of Miss Hoffman's class in music last evening are enthusiastic in praise of the work done by the class. All are young, but they showed the value of skilled training in every exercise undertaken, It is always a treat to hear these little folks, and we feel like complimenting them for their success, and Miss Hoffman for her ability and faithfulness as a teacher.

A switch light which was sitting in the coal house at the Wabash depot exploded this forenoon and set the building on fire. "Shorty" the genial roustabout at the depot would make a good man for the fire department. A five gallon can of kerosene was in the coal shed and it had got so hot that the top melted off the can and the oil was steaming. He plunged in and carried out the oil can which was quite a risk. As there was plenty of snow the fire was put out before much damage was done. If the buildings would have burned there would then be a possibility of getting a new depot.

SPINAL weakness easily cured by Dr. Miles' Nerve Plasters.

Monday's Daily.

Dr. Miles' Pain Pills are guaranteed to stop Headache in 20 minutes. "One cent a dose."

W. H. Leas was down to-day from Waterloo

Time well spent in calling to see the White gate.

Ed Koons, of South Bend, was in the city over Sunday the guest of his friend Miss Della Weaver.

Special Sale of Bromo-Hygeia at Brandon's 2 1-2 gal. including jug for $1.20

Fred Baltz son of Mr. and Mrs Geo Baltz of Fairfeild, was in town Saturday visiting Sherbie Teneyck and other little friends.

If you need an engine of any kind, steam, gasoline, kerosene oil, send for free illustrated circular to CHAS. P. WILLARD & Co., 197 Canal St, Chicago

One of the recent windy dry days, two barns and a house were burned on Reuben Lockwood's farm over in Ohio, entailing a serious loss.

Nothing so distressing as a hacking cough. Nothing so foolish as to suffer from it Nothing so dangerous if allowed to continue. One Minute Cough Cure gives immediate relief.

The small boys played a game of football Saturday. They practiced on the necessary "yell" all the forenoon, and by the way they got it off, we feel that they can probably play football.

Mr. Brosy reports one of the best and most satisfactory meetings he has held, was that at the Lutheran church Sunday It was communion day, and the attendance was very large. Six persons were added to the church membership.

S. B Mottinger sends in his subscription from New Berne, North Carolina, this week. He promises a letter on his southern experiences, at an early date. We are glad to hear that he is getting along all right.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

There was venison at the hotels Sunday, a luxury that guests do not often enjoy. At Hidy's Home Restaurant there was other game, besides chicken etc. Scores of our people find these Sunday dinners a great relief from home cares and get an excellent meal for only a trifle more than it would cost at home. And the good wife is saved a good deal of work and worry on a day which should be a day of rest.

Bishop & Lackey do not receive the weather reports by wire any longer, but receive them by mail. This change is made in the interest of economy, as it costs too much to send by telegraph all over the United States. The trouble in sending by mail is that it does not come regularly.

A curious use for a husband is reported from Clerkenwell, near London, where a Mr. Lamb and his wife keep a small shop. For fourteen years the firm has avoided paying taxes by the wife's sending the husband to jail to serve out the legal time for unpaid taxes, while she remains at the store attending to business.—N. Y. World.

The supreme court of Indiana on divorce says: "You voluntarily chose a drunkard for a husband and you should discharge the duties of a drunkard's wife. His failure to keep a pledge of reformation, before marriage, does not justify you in deserting him. Having knowingly married a drunkard you must make yourself content with the sacred relations."

One of the cleverest inventions evolved passed by the Patent Office is the machine for sticking common pins in the papers in which they are sold. The contrivance brings up the pins in rows, draws the paper in position, crimps it in two lines, then at a single push passes the pin through the paper and sets them in position.

Wabash College at Crawfordsville is in trouble. The students got too wild and wanted to "holler" at all hours. To this this the faculty objected, and finally had to expel a student. All the rest then rebelled. Just which side will succeed is hard to tell.

A man up near Adrian Mich. last week sold his wife to her former lover, for $10, paid in farm truck. An attorney at Morenci, named Ingalls, is reported to have drawn up the bill of sale. Mrs. Manning of Medina is the woman and the man who gets her is named Fuller. A strange business transaction that may get the parties into trouble.

The following may induce our young men to do some heroic act and thereby secure a handsome and lovely wife: Joseph Kries, a leading merchant was married at Madison, Wis., to Miss Effie Comstock. Mr. Kries rescued the young lady last summer as she was about to be swept over Niagara Falls, and the match is the result of that romantic meeting.

The heavy sleet last night did more or less damage in town. At the Kiblinger factory the water came through and the books and carpets in the office were soiled. Mr Snyder informed the COURIER at noon that the damage would not amount to more than $5.00 except the labor of cleaning up. At the COURIER office, water came through in many places but did not soil our carpet, we haven't any. The ceiling in Raut & Co's. shoe store was also spotted and the paper will likely be spoiled.

Tuesday's Daily.

No morphine or opium in Dr. Miles' PAIN PILLS. CURE All Pain. "One cent a dose."

FOR SALE;—One-half million feet good cull 1 inch lumber, at $6.00 per thousand feet. A. B. Nickey & Sons.

FOR SALE;—One-half million feet good cull 1 inch lumber, at $6.00 per thousand feet. A. B. Nickey & Sons.

Chas Kinsey, the clerk at Olds Bros. wore coal oil pants to day. He was filling his lamps and upset a quart of oil on his pants legs.

The great majority of people carry fire insurance. Generally those who have none suffer from fire. Insure now with Walter Hartman's leading agency.

Acts at once, never fails, One Minute Cough Cure. A remedy for asthma and that feverish condition which accompanies a severe cold The only harmless remedy that produces immediate results

While attending the opera house opening see that your property is insured by one of Walter Hartman's strong companies.

This is the time of year that fires are likely to occur. See Walter Hartman quick. Ask your new rate. Place your insurance. That's his business.

Bro. Gardner and Bro. Higly, over at Butler are having a little spat over the street fair expenses. Let us see. Which of these friends was it, that used to give such good advice to the COURIER about quarreling?

Capt. Anson, the famous base ball player, has gone on the stage as an actor The base ball season has closed and he can put in his time through the winter in this way. He is said to succeed very well, the parts he takes being those in reference to his favorite game.

A scheme is being talked up to have government make contracts with telephone lines as it does with railway lines, for the transmission of news, letters, etc Stamps for use on telephones could be sold to the people, at a cheap rate, and they could be used as postage stamps are now used. The plan may some day be put into operation.

Economy is something tent everybody tries to practice, and yet just a little oversight will sometimes rob the most frugal and thrifty family of a year's savings You want to do as J. P. Hickmann, of Monticello, Ga., did. He writes, "For six years I have kept Simmons Liver Regulator in my house, and used it in my family and have had no need for a doctor. I have five as healthy children as you can find."

Farmers' Institute.

The farmers' institute for DeKalb Steuben and Allen counties will be held at Butler Dec. 18 and 19, and it is hoped all our people will take a part in it and make it a success. The president Hon. R. M. Lockhart was over there last Friday, and goes again on Friday of this week, to meet the citizens and make arrangements for the institute. Good lecturers are to assist, and other exercises had all of which will be interesting and instructive. At this institute also, will be entitled to free tuition at Purdue University, Lafayette This will be an item of interest to such farmers or others, as have bright young men who desire to get a course in the school as cheap as possible.

Henry C. Graffe, the Ft. Wayne jeweler, to close out his stock of fine art pottery, onyx cabinets and tables, pedestals, piano and table lamps, will sell at 20 per cent. below the importer's original cost. This is the opportunity of a life time as these goods are not to be had outside of the larger metropolitan stores.

New goods are coming in, so you see the advantage of an early visit to Mr Graffe's at the corner of Calhoun and Columbia streets, Ft. Wayne.

Selections made at an early date will be held as advised and promptly delivered at specified time.

Special inducements Mondays and Fridays. 47 48

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to express our deepest gratitude to the many friends who so kindly came to our assistance when misfortune placed us where we so much needed friends. Words can not express our appreciations but those friends will always be deld in tender remembrance.

MR. & MRS AMIZIAH BROWN.

Clocks Stopped

A story comes from Hamilton, Ohio, that beats the song of "Grandfather's Clock" which "stopped short, never to go again, when the old man died." Wednesday of last week the dispatch states Peter Farner died at the residence of his daughter, on W. Main st., Mrs. W. S. Eaton, he looked up at the family clock and said to his daughter:

"By 4 o'clock I will be gone."

He died at nine minutes to 4. Shortly after his death every clock in the house stopped, and, although they have been wound up and every effort made to induce them to run, they refuse to go and remain silent. He always attended to the clocks in the house and paid them special attention.

Public Sale

C. A. Mead will sell his household goods of all kinds, including, beds, bedding, chairs, tables and a fine lot of choice canned fruit. Sale at 1 p. m. on Saturday of this week, Nov. 30.

GOOD FOR EVERYBODY

Almost everybody takes some laxative medicine to cleanse the system and keep the blood pure. Those who take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR (liquid or powder) get all the benefits of a mild and pleasant laxative and tonic that purifies the blood and strengthens the whole system. And more than this: SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR regulates the Liver, keeps it active and healthy, and when the Liver is in good condition you find yourself free from Malaria, Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick-Headache and Constipation, and rid of that worn out and debilitated feeling. These are all caused by a sluggish Liver. Good digestion and freedom from stomach troubles will only be had when the liver is properly at work. If troubled with any of these complaints, try SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR. The King of Liver Medicines, and Better than Pills.

EVERY PACKAGE
Has the Z Stamp in red on wrapper.
J. H. Zeilin & Co., Phila., Pa.

A Splendid Opening.

THE NEW OPERA HOUSE CHRISTENED IN GRAND STYLE.

The Carrie Louis Company Greeted By Throngs of Happy Auburnites.

Tuesday's Daily.

In spite of the fearful, ice-cold rain last evening, the new opera house was crowded with theater-going people, and in fact, some who seldom appeared before, for they had learned through the DAILY the fact that a talented company would appear. The audience, many of whom had never seen the interior of the new building passed the waiting time admiring or commenting on it, and enjoying the lovely scene on the drop curtain. But of course it was the play they waiting for and when at last the curtain rose, all were in a proper mood to enjoy the treat that followed. The play chosen by the company for opening night, was a fine one. "The Buckeye," and one can hardly imagine a play better suited to the especial talents of the various members of the company. At the first flush there may have been a slight feeling of awkwardness in the new room and new stage machinery, but if so, it soon disappeared and there was nothing but success and applause to the final drop. The leading lady, Miss Carrie Louis, is improvable, is a perfect actor, and is best free from many of the little shortcomings so common to those who take the part of the harum scarum girl. And her part of grew better and better to the close work support in general was exceedingly fine. Especially the lady who was "Aunt Betsey" and the two "old gentlemen" were especially excellent. The large audience went wild over them. This will evidently be a great attraction to our people the most of whom take special pleasure in the songs on a stage. But all success depended upon the merits of the play. What with the company, the play and the merits of sitting as well as the pleasure of in our own opera house the final judgment of the audience, was "It was splendid." As to the audience itself, the bad storm was quite a disappointment, for many fine dresses etc. had to be put away for safe keeping till better weather. Still there were many costumes and there was more than the usual flashing of diamonds in several parts of the house. Right here we want to compliment our ladies on their good taste, especially in the matter of head gear for the bonnets are small this year and we noticed several ladies, who even took off their bonnets. They evidently begin to realize that a well dressed head of hair is lovelier than any work of the trimmer's art. And they can show their lovely bonnets well enough before and after the play. The bad weather brought out several cabs and the people were in that way enabled to reach the opera house "dry shod." On behalf of a pleased public, the Daily also feels like complimenting Mr. Henry, on the success of his opening night, and the confidence and good taste of the building that his enterprise has secured for us. Every citizen should help him to make this week a success in every way. The plays are all good and will well be worth the cost. To-night are two new plays, "Lady Fortune," and "Penelope" We should add that Prof. Ott in his musical specialties is wonderful. No lover of fine music should fail to hear him.

There are two "boxes" in the house, and for this week they are occupied by Ex-Congressman McClellan and W. H. McIntyre. The one at the south was last evening occupied by Judge and Mrs. McClellan and Ex-Auditor Coffinberry and wife from Garrett, and the two little granddaughters of Judge and Mrs. McClellan, Aileen and Helen Garwood. The north box was occupied by W. H. and Mrs. McIntyre, and Miss Lillie McTigue of this place and Dr. Thompson and wife of Garrett.

This company has been engaged by Mr Henry, at a great expense. He has paid extra for Matinee and on Thursday and Saterday afternoon they will play especially for the farmers and their children. Don't fail to come in and hear this excellent company. Admission 10 20 & 30 cents.

Two good furnished rooms on South Main street only a few steps from Public Square to rent to gentlemen. Any one desiring a room or rooms will do well to call and see them before locating elsewhere. Entrance to rooms direct, without going through any other part of the house. Mrs. C. M. Merica

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - - PUBLISHER.

A man may be a great fighter without being a pugilist. Governor Clarke, for instance, isn't much of a pugilist.

Mr. John D. Rockefeller's rule of action appears to be, when in doubt give a million or two to the Chicago University.

It is said that a San Francisco man, after reading Punch, fell asleep and did not awaken until four days later. He escaped very luckily.

A Philadelphia dispatch says that "Holmes doesn't smoke much now, owing to his nervous temperament." Never mind; he'll probably smoke enough hereafter to make up for it.

Dr. Reilly thinks Chicago's typhoid fever comes from impure water and Health Commissioner Kerr believes it comes from impure milk. Perhaps both are right; Chicago milk is not waterproof.

Millions of human gullets have been made glad by Ephriam W. Bull, who died in Concord, Mass. He was the originator of the Concord grape, which has done so much to please the palate and interest the vermiform appendix of mankind.

A Boston judge the other day refused to issue naturalization papers to a ragged and dirty teamster with a cabbage hook hanging to his belt. He was advised to try again with a clean face and in his Sunday suit. The right of American citizenship is not quite as cheap a thing as some of the applicants imagine.

Mr. Rockefeller is to give Chicago University $1,000,000 in two months, and two millions more in 1900 if the trustees can raise a similar sum by that time. It is needless to say the sum will be raised. Rather than see the university lose so good an offer, Mr. Rockefeller will contribute the amount himself.

Great Britain is unloading some of its recent quarrels. It has withdrawn all claims to the little Brazilian island of Trinidad, a rocky point in the Atlantic Ocean about 700 miles from Rio Janeiro. Great Britain made a "grab" at the island for use as a telegraph station, but the act was proved to be so clear a case of larceny that it disavowed and recalled. It looks as though John Bull might be stripping for a fight. With whom?

At last it has come. The inexorable law which governs destiny made it inevitable. The news is conveyed in the dispatches: "Holmes is writing a book." He had done nearly everything else. He has fractured the commandments and, according to the detectives, he had piled up cellarfuls of the victims of his malign passions. But the roster was incomplete. He had left something undone. And now, in the solitude of his dark prison cell, he has discovered what it was, and hastens to round out his career with one final artistic touch.

An American girl worth $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 was married in New York and by some very extraordinary freak married an American. The New York newspapers gave her marriage publicity to the extent of a stickful in their columns. If she had married a penniless British lordling her choice would have been celebrated in pages of type and the pictures of her trousseau would have filled countless columns. Perhaps, as the feminine mind is not wholly averse to publicity, all the able editorials in the New York newspapers condemning the penchant of the American maiden to marry the alien peer will carry less influence than the remarkable zeal with which the news editors celebrate the heroines of these international marriages.

The women of Massachusetts are supposed to be fully as progressive as those of any State, but it is settled that they do not want suffrage—just yet. The last Legislature submitted to the male and female citizens of the State the question whether women should vote at municipal elections. The latter were given an opportunity to register on the same terms as men. But only a small fraction of the adult females of the State did so. Those who refused to register—and they numbered about 95 per cent of all the women—said substantially that they did not want to exercise the voting privilege. Of the few who did register about half voted against the proposition. So did an overwhelming maority of the men. Yet such is the persistency of the professional advocates of woman suffrage that they will probably go before the next Legislature and demand that suffrage be given the women whether they want it or not, after they have emphatically refused to bother with it.

Hysteria seems to have taken possession of a portion of the British press over the Vanderbilt-Marlborough marriage. The Daily News says that "This pomp of rank and wealth comes at the right time to unite the two nations in the ties of a common worship after the estrangement of the yacht races." The "common worship" must mean of title and gold, and it is scarcely fair to say that the American people as a nation are yet wholly devoted to that cult. Equally ridiculous is G. W. Smalley's dispatch to the Times of London, to the effect that "the marriage is exceedingly popular." Its popularity is limited to the creditors of Marlborough and favored florists, musicians, caterers and the few hundred purses invited to assist at its celebration. As it was not in the power of Dunraven to estrange two friendly peoples by boorish behavior over a yacht race, it is not in the power of descendants of "the public be damned" Vanderbilt nor of a still less worthy Churchill to unite them. Nations are not subject to such influences in modern days.

In each of the States of Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin a census was taken this year. The Constitution of these various States provide for a census in the middle of the decade. This count, following the Federal census taken at the beginning of each decade, gives a census every five years. The expense is not great and statistics of population and material progress are furnished which are instructive and valuable. In these four States the total increase of population is about 750,000 since 1890. The gain is much smaller than that which occurred during the semidecade from 1885 to 1890. The falling off in the rate of increase doubtless is due to the fact that European immigration has decreased, but more so by the fact that people migrating from the East to find Western homes have gone farther West, to the newer States and to the Pacific coast. A striking feature of this year's census statistics, however, is the disparity between the estimated increase and the actual increase of population in the minor Western cities. The increase of urban population has been much less than the guesses based upon directory and school statistics had led the public to suppose. In fact, the city increase has been but little or no greater than the increase in the farming districts. The growth of the city population and the rural population has proceeded along on substantially parallel lines. This fact tends to show that the farming interest during the last five years has been as prosperous as the commercial and manufacturing interests. The increase in population is a test, and the best test, of general prosperity. When the population stands still it is a sign of business and industrial depression. Increase of population is a sign of growth in all the interests of the people. Prices of many farm products, especially wheat and some other grains, have been very low for the past four years. In 1894 it appeared as if the lowest possible range of prices had been reached. Fifty-cent wheat was a phenomenon that appeared like an omen of universal agricultural disaster and decay. Yet the evidences of agricutural prosperity are numerous and are everywhere dispayed. In spite of low prices at the markets, of high prices for transportation, of the exactions of middlemen and of all the "scalps" and profits which are gathered between producers and consumers the producers have been increasing in wealth and numbers as rapidly as any other class of population. The country has grown as rapidly as the cities in the number of inhabitants and in the results which industry and thrift produce.

Facing Death.

In a recent number of the Contemporary Review, the late Mrs. Alexander Ireland gives an account of an experience she had during a visit in October, 1889, to the home of James Anthony Froude, the historian, in Scotland. Mrs. Ireland went on a boating expedition with Mr. Froude and his daughter. The young lady spoke somewhat apologetically of the wild look of the sea and her father's love of danger, and begged their visitor not to feel compelled to go.

But I was in no mood to manufacture fears, and felt none. The wind and tide were both against us, and it was slow work for the three strong boatmen to pull against both, and there was a sense of labored strain in our progress.

After two or three hours the order was given to go homeward, and a large sail was hoisted. Now, with wind and tide in our favor, and the wind beginning to blow most violently, we literally flew along the water. The sensation was exhilarating and deeply exciting.

Suddenly there was a change in sea and sky. An ominous blackness lay on the water around our little boat. The sun still shone at a distance, but we seemed in night. The cry of the wind was a wild shriek, the water rose tumultuously, and rain and hail fell abundantly. We shipped a good deal of water. The little craft could not be righted.

"Are you afraid?" asked Mr. Froude in a loud but thoroughly unmoved voice, and with what seemed a sardonic smile.

"Not in the least," was my reply.

The storm grew more violent. Miss Froude, who was self-possessed but very pale, said, so as to be heard, "I think we are in danger, father." To which the reply, given without a tinge of emotion, was, "Very likely."

I realized that there was a near possibility of our being drowned. Suddenly Mr. Froude called, close to my ear, "Are you ready?"

And something nerved me up to add distinctly, "Quite ready." The place and the hour and the company will do very well, if it is to be now and here."

"Well," he said, "if 'tis not now, 'tis yet to come—the readiness is all."

Almost as the words were spoken the boat righted, the storm abated, and we got under shelter of some rocks. Then Mr. Froude said, coldly:

"Don't trust to first impressions, Mrs. Ireland."

And he gave me one of his unfavorable, searching looks.

Rapid Tree Growth.

An illustration of the rapidity with which certain kinds of trees grow is curiously connected with the story of the uprising of the Cubans against their Spanish masters twenty-five years ago. At that time, during a fight near Manzanillo, the insurrectionists destroyed the buildings belonging to a large sugar plantation. In one of the mills there were some gigantic wheels which were left lying upon the ground. A young jaguey tree sprouted up from the ground between two spokes of one of the wheels, and now, with its trunk enclosed between the spokes and the rim of the still existing wheel, has grown so big that a score of men could sit together in its shadow. A pawpaw tree on the Hawaiian Islands has been known to attain a height of twenty feet, bearing a plentiful supply of melon-shaped fruit, and leaves two feet broad, within six months after it began to sprout from a seed.

Mrs. Gray—How could you go and tell what I told you to that gossiping Mrs. Black? I thought you could keep a secret. Mrs. Green—So I can; but that wasn't a secret, you know, after you had told it to me.—Boston Transcript.

Benny Bloobumper—What do they do in bucket shops, papa? Mr. Bloobumper—You should say: "Whom do they do in bucket shops?" They do the bucket-shoppers.—Life.

By "perfect confidence" a man means that his wife should not believe any thing about him that is not creditable.

THANKSGIVING BEAR.

AN ADVENTURE THAT ENDED WITH HIS DEATH.

Thrilling Fire Hunt on the Little Red by Two Boys in Search of a Thanksgiving Feast—Results Were Dangerous but Satisfactory.

Bagged Big Game.

NEAR the Little Red, a swift stream that flowed through a region but little opened as yet and still inhabited by the animals of the West, were situated the homes of the Duncans and Taylors. Bear roamed at will through the dense cane-brakes, and not infrequently made reprisals on the scattered settlers. Wolves, too, abounded in the region, and in winter their long, dismal howling made the cold nights hideous. The Duncan and Taylor boys—Roy and Phil—had been companions from childhood, and when their parents settled in the new country they were in their element, as now they could roam the woods or paddle down the Little Red, every now and then picking up a bear or turkey with their trusty rifles. It was not long before they became known as the best young Nimrods in the whole district, and whenever they started on a hunt it was taken for granted that they would return with plenty of game. One evening in November they started for a fire hunt on the river for the purpose of, as Phil expressed it, "bagging a Thanksgiving bear." "We can float past the big brakes near the bend," said he, as he laid his proposition before Roy. Tom Hunter, who came through there the other day, saw lots of fresh signs, and we may be able to get a big one for to-morrow's feast." Taken with the prospect of some exciting adventure, Roy at once acquiesced, and the two boys began to prepare for the fire hunt.

The canoe was dragged forth, and the pine knots for the torch gathered and made ready.

Taking the paddle, Roy, with a sharp lookout along shore, drove the light bark into the middle of the river, while Phil under the torch watched the tall canes that lined the edge and tried to catch the first sight of game.

All at once the paddles in Roy's supple hands seemed to rest, and he glanced at his companion. Phil at the same moment had seen what had caught Roy's eye. On the right, where the tall canes seemed to seek the solitude of the stars, gleamed a pair of intense eyes, very close together, and near the ground. "It is old Ephraim," whispered Phil as he moved his rifle and leaned forward for a better look. "We have found our Thanksgiving bear at last!"

Slowly, with a cool hunter's deliberation, Phil lifted his rifle to his shoulder, and while he watched the shining eyes, Roy seemed to hold his breath. The crack of the weapon awoke the echoes along shore, and as the smoke lifted both boys leaned forward with eagerness and looked toward the shore. "You missed him!" cried Roy. "No. Look yonder! The old fellow has tumbled into the water and is in the death struggle. Quick! row toward him before the eddy sucks him in."

"Lost!" exclaimed Roy, disappointedly. Before Phil could reply something dark and wet rose almost underneath the frail canoe, and the next moment he saw the taffrail in the grip of the bear. The great paws, looking doubly formidable in the unsteady light of the torch, while the weight of the bear, threatened to overturn the boat, and the ugly head, with the wide mouth bleeding from the boy's shot, was enough to send chills of terror to the Nimrod's hearts.

"Back off!" cried Phil, as he saw that the canoe was almost among the rocks, and liable to be capsized by their foe. Roy sprang anew to the paddles, and, as Phil rose in the boat to thrust the rifle into the bear's face and terminate the contest, the animal made a desperate effort to climb aboard. The situation was now full of peril, and the rocking of the boat in the swift waters caused the torch to scatter a rain of fire over the devoted boys and the bear, but the beast only blinked his little eyes and redoubled his efforts to scale the fragile rampart.

Finding that he could not get a shot at the bear as Roy backed the boat off, Phil struck with all his might with the gun, bringing the heavy stock down upon the huge head. He shattered the weapon by the blow, while he apparently left the skull of his antagonist uninjured. In another moment the bear lunged forward again, and the canoe at the same time striking a rock, was capsized, spilling its occupants into the water and putting out the torch. All this happened in a second, as it seemed, and the boys, thus thrown into the stream and at the mercy of the bear and current, struggled to right the canoe and clamber in again.

After awhile they succeeded, and Roy, who was fortunate enough to retain one paddle, pushed the boat from the rocks and sent it out into the river, where it was caught in a swift current and carried along like a feather. "This is better than drowning among the rocks—or being eaten up by the bear," said Phil, as he looked back. "But we've lost our Thanksgiving bear steak, I guess." "Lost the bear!" cried Roy sharply, as his face whitened. "Look yonder. He is still clinging to the stern of the boat."

This was true, as could be seen by the moonlight, which at that particular place fell through the trees upon the eddying waters. The two boys stared at the homely head lifted above the tide and at the sharp claws that seemed to dig their way into the woodwork at the stern. The bear held on with a death grip as the current bore the canoe and the young Nimrods rapidly down stream, now narrowly missing some half sunken tree, and now nearly capsizing again as Roy tried to escape a hidden rock.

CAPSIZED THE CANOE.

"What shall we do?" cried Phil at last, as he turned a frightened face toward his companion. "The bear is determined to prove our Jonah, and in a short time we shall reach the falls." "Cut him loose," said Roy. "You have your knife, haven't you?"

Phil hailed the suggestion with a cry of joy, and brought from the depths of his pocket a big jack-knife, and in another moment he leaned toward the bear in their wake. Instead of striking at the throat which was exposed, he drove the keen blade into one of the feet near the root of the claws, and drew it toward him. The bear growled savagely, but Phil bravely faced the beast and severed the other foot likewise.

"A tree! a tree!" rang out Roy's voice at this moment, and before Phil could duck his head the canoe struck the obstacle in the middle of the Little Red, and in a jiffy they were in the water again and struggling to grasp the limbs of the lodged tree. In this they were successful, and when they had drawn themselves up among the branches they looked at one another with grim smiles. They knew that they were destined to pass the night in the tree, which they did, and when day came they found themselves near a plantation. By dint of shouting until they were hoarse they made themselves heard, and were rescued by several plantation hands, one of whom discovered the bear lodged in another tree a little farther down the river.

The animal was dead, and when he was drawn ashore the boys related their thrilling experience with his bearship the night before. A wagon was procured and the homeward journey begun, and in ample season for dinner the boys arrived with the Thanksgiving bear.
—New York Press.

ARRIVING WITH THE THANKSGIVING BEAR.

Thanksgiving as It Used to Be.

Another Thanksgiving Day is here.
It comes fraught with memories dear
Of home, and friends, and by-gone days,
With all the hallowed olden ways
Of celebrating and giving praise
To Him, the infinite, the good,
Whose bounty's shown in all our food
That fills the larder year by year,
And gladdens hearts, promotes good cheer.
The observance of this time-honored day
Is Puritanic, so they say,
But Thanksgiving now does not seem to me
As first I knew it, or as it used to be.
'Tis strange that we drift so far away
In our observance of this honored day.
The plum puddings, pies, and jelly cake
That our dear mother was wont to make,
The brown stuffed turkey, with oysters fine,
Crab-apple cider, home-brewed wine,
Apples crisp, of rosiest hue,
Shellbark, hazel, and walnuts, too;
Thus the menu year after year
Abounding ever with good cheer.
The dance that followed in the night
Which gave such inexpressible delight
To each hearty lad and buxom lass
The closing hours of the day to pass.
O joyous day! for which our recollections grow
Brighter as each fleeting year departs
And thrills and sets again aglow
Most tender mem'ries in our heart of hearts.

Thanksgiving Eve.

And now the wintry winds do moan and roar;
The sky at eve grows dim and murky;
From o'er the fields we hear the plaintive cry
Of some forlorn Thanksgiving turkey.

A PURITAN HOLIDAY.

A HERITAGE FROM THE PILGRIM FATHERS.

God-Fearing Folk of Plymouth Colony First to Associate the Day with Pie and Turkey—Earliest Thanksgiving Proclamation.

Formerly a Movable Feast.

THE earliest Thanksgiving proclamation printed is now in the possession of the Massachusetts Historical Society and bears the date of 1677. Long before this, however, New England knew the meaning of Thanksgiving, and the pumpkin pie had been discovered by the inhabitants of Massachusetts and Connecticut. Cranberry sauce is of less ancient origin, for we find no mention of it much before the early part of this century.

Days set apart for thanksgiving were known to the Israelites and are mentioned throughout the Bible. They were common in England before the reformation, and were in frequent use by Protestants afterward, especially in the Church of England, where they were a fixed custom long before they were in the colonies.

"Gyving God thanks" for safe arrival and for many other blessings was first heard on New England shores from the lips of Popham colonists at Monhegan, in the Thanksgiving service of the Church of England. The first Thanksgiving week—not day—in Plymouth was observed in December, 1621. This was a week of feasting. Venison was brought in by the Massasoit Indians and dozens of wild turkeys, rabbits and smaller game were slaughtered for the feast. The Indians were invited to join the whites in the merry-making, an invitation which was promptly accepted. The records make no mention of any special religious exercises during this week of feasting.

In July, 1623, a fast day of nine hours of prayer was observed by these same colonists, who were suffering from the effects of a prolonged drought, which had scorched their corn and stunted the beans. The rain which soon afterward fell they believed could not have come but for their united and public petition.

The next public Thanksgiving was held in Boston by the Bay Colony, on Feb. 22, 1630. This was an expression of gratitude for the safe arrival of food-bearing ships from England.

From then until about 1684 there were about twenty-four Thanksgiving days appointed in Massachusetts, but it was not a regular biennial custom. In 1675, a time of deep gloom in both Massachusetts and Connecticut on account of the many attacks from fierce savages, no days of thanksgiving were celebrated.

Rhode Islanders paid little heed to the days set apart by the Massachusetts authorities, and many of them were punished for this lack of conformity. Gov. Andros caused William Veazie to be set in a pillory in the market-place at Boston for plowing on the Thanksgiving Day of June 18, 1696.

In Connecticut the festival was not regularly observed until 1716. The earlier Thanksgiving days were not always set on Thursday, nor were they always appointed for the same token of God's beneficence. Days of thanksgiving were appointed in gratitude for great political or military events, for the safe arrival of "persons of special use and quality," for the "dissipation of pirates," for the abatement of disease, for victories over the Indians and for plentiful harvests. The frequent appointments for the last cause finally made autumn the customary time.

To the early Puritan Christmas smelt to heaven of idolatry; so, when his own festival, Thanksgiving, became annual, it took on many of the features of the English Christmas. It was a day devoted to family reunion, to feasting and to the giving of presents. Such "superstitious meats" as baron of beef, bear's head, and plum pudding were excluded, and turkey, Indian pudding and pumpkin pie were eaten instead.

Many funny stories are told of the early Thanksgiving days. The town of Colchester, for instance, calmly ignored the day appointed by the Governor and held its own Thanksgiving a week later, when the sloop from New York, bringing a hogshead of molasses for pies, had arrived. In revolutionary times Thanksgiving was not forgotten. The council of Massachusetts recommended that Nov. 16, 1776, be set aside for "acknowledgments for mercies enjoyed." In the next year Samuel Adams recommended a form of Thanksgiving proclamation to the Continental Congress. During the war of independence Congress appointed eight days of Thanksgiving. They fell in April, May, July and December. The appointments were made in the form of recommendation to the heads of the various State Governments. With one exception Congress suspended business on the days appointed.

Washington issued a proclamation for a general thanksgiving by the Continental army, Thursday, Dec. 18, 1777, and again at Valley Forge May 7, 1778. A few days before the adjournment of Congress in September, 1789, Representative Elias Boudinot moved in the House that the President be requested to recommend a day of thanksgiving and prayer as acknowledgment of the many signal favors of Almighty God, and especially his affording them an opportunity of establishing a Constitution of government for their safety and happiness. Roger Sherman, of Connecticut, supported the motion. Aedanus Burke, of South Carolina, did not like "this mimicking of European customs," and Tucker, of Virginia, intimated that it might be as well to wait for some experience of the efficiency of the Constitution before returning thanks for it. In spite of these objections the motion was carried and President Washington issued a proclamation appointing as Thanksgiving Day Nov. 26.

Thanksgiving Day proclamations were issued in an irregular way for many years after that date, but the day was not a fixed holiday. After the battle of Gettysburg in 1863 President Lincoln recommended the people to set apart the fifth day of August "to be observed as a day of national thanksgiving, praise and prayer to Almighty God." In the following year the President issued another proclamation, and the Presidential proclamation has been an annual fixture ever since.

To Serve with Turkey.

After boiling half a dozen onions in three quarts of water for one hour, pour off the liquor and cut the onions into small pieces. Season with salt and pepper, and pour a pint of cream sauce over them. Serve very hot. To make the sauce, first put a pint of milk into a saucepan to boil. Rub to a cream two tablespoonfuls of butter and one generous spoonful of flour, and when the milk begins to boil stir this cream into it. Continue the stirring until the sauce is smooth. Season with salt and pepper and boil up at once.

LONG'S THE OLD NEST STANDS.

YA-A-S, they're comin' home Thanksgivin'
An' the gobbler's gittin' fat,
An' the hubbard squash's a ripenin'
For the pies an sich as that,
So we'll send the double waggin
Tew the deepo fer all hands,
An' we'll bring 'em home Thanksgivin'
As long's the old nest stands.

The robins in the maples
Hatched thar leetle brood this spring,

An' before the leaves got yaller
They was big enough tew sing,
But they left us in October
F'er tew sing in other lands,
But the spring'll bring 'em homewards
As long's the old nest stands.

An' thar's other nests as lonesome
In the winter time of life,
Whar the little brood is scattered
In the great world's noisy strife,
An' I s'pose the busy singers
An' the workers fold thar hands
As they dream uv glad homecomin'
As long's the old nest stands.

Human nests uv boards an' shingles,
Batten doors an' ceilin's low,
Clabberds warped an' weatherbeaten,
Homely hearts whar homefires glow,
An' the ole folks gray an' stoopin'
Reachin' out weth lovin hands
In all airth the truest welcome,
As long's the old nest stands.

Lemme tell ye which it crumbles
Or the roof-tree falls weth age,
Then b'gosh in all yure readin'
Yew will turn the saddest page,
For thar's somethin' fame nor money
Nor success nor power commands,
It's the love ye git fer nothin'
As long's the old nest stands.

What's that, mother, got a letter?
"They'll be down on Wensday noon."
Sayz we better air the chambers,
'Cause we cain't begin tew soon.
Fix the cradle fer the baby,
Darn these tears an' tremblin' hands,
Mother's singin', I'm whistlin',
An' right here the old nest stands.

How to Roast a Turkey.

Select a large, fat, tender turkey, and have it nicely dressed, drawn, washed, wiped dry and well singed. Rub it all over, inside and outside, with pepper and salt. Make a stuffing of the following ingredients: One pound of light bread-crumbs, half a pound of butter, a heaping tablespoonful of finely minced onion, salt and pepper, one raw egg and enough water to mix rather soft. Stuff the breast first, and sew it up, then stuff the body. Rub the turkey all over with melted butter, and dredge well with sifted flour. Lay it in the pan on its breast, and pour in a quart of cold water. Have the oven well heated but not too hot, as the turkey must cook slowly to be done. Allow a quarter of an hour to each pound. Have some butter in a plate with a larding mop. From time to time baste the turkey with the gravy in the pan, rub over with the larding mop and dredge again with flour. As it browns turn from side to side, and last of all brown the breast. Frequent basting, dredging and turning will insure perfect cooking. When done it should be a rich, dark brown all over, and when a fork is stuck deep into it no red juice should run. Remove it to a hot dish and, if the gravy is not quite thick enough, add a teaspoonful of flour creamed smooth with some of the grease skimmed from the gravy. If while cooking the gravy in the pan boils away too much, more water should be added. When the turkey is done there should be about a pint of gravy.
—Ladies' Home Journal.

An All-Round Thanksgiving Dinner

Bronco Pete—Whar's th' turkey?
Alkali Ike—I set him outside to cool an' th' cat ate him.
Bronco Pete—Whar's th' cat?
Alkali Ike—A cayote et him.
Bronco Pete—Whar's the cayote?
Alkali Ike—Th' greyhound et him.
Bronco Pete—Whar's th' greyhound?
Alkali Ike—An Injun et him.
Bronco Pete—Whar's th' Injun?
Alkali Pete—A grizzly et him.
Bronco Pete—Whar's the grizzly?
Alkali Pete—Out thar.
Bronco Pete—Waal, we'll have ter eat th' grizzly, Ike, but I hate ter take th' heavin's uv a Thanksgiving turkey like that.—Harper's Bazar.

Thanks, Awfully.

The question on Thanksgiving day
Will be of national interest quite;
From coast of Maine to Georgi-a:
"Which will you have, dark meat or white?"
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

OUR PURITAN FOREFATHERS.

They Hunted the Wild Indian and Not the Wild Turkey on Thanksgiving Day.

Hopeless,

The doctor and intimate friends considered my case, I was so weak and exhausted. I decided to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and soon began to improve. After I had taken ten bottles I was entirely cured, and have ever since been free from all ills peculiar to my sex. I confidently recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. H. L. LAKE, Meredosia, Illinois.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

is the only true blood purifier prominently in the public eye to-day.

Hood's Pills cure habitual constipation. Price 25 cents per box.

Great Reduction in Time to California.

Once more the North-Western Line has reduced the time of its trans-continental trains, and the journey from Chicago to California via. this popular route is now made in the marvelously short time of three days. Palace Drawing-Room Sleeping Cars leave Chicago daily, and run through to San Francisco and Los Angeles without change, and all meals en route are served in Dining cars. Daily Tourist Sleeping car service is also maintained by this line between Chicago and San Francisco and Los Angeles, completely equipped berths in upholstered Tourist Sleepers being furnished at a coast of only $6.00 each from Chicago to the Pacific Coast. Through trains leave Chicago for California at 6:00 p. m. and 10:45 p. m. daily, after arrival of trains of connecting lines from East and South.

For detailed information concerning rates, routes, etc., apply to ticket agents of connecting lines or address:

W. B. KNISKERN, G. P. & T. A., Chicago.

Brooklyn Trees.

Brooklyn possesses some beautiful tree-lined streets, due in great measure to the work of its tree-planting and fountain society. This organization, after careful study, has adopted a new plan of operation, which could be followed with profit in any other city where arboriculture has been advocated, but not practically carried forward. Under the new plan all members of the society can place their trees and shrubs under the watchful care of the skilled experts of the same, who will nurse and doctor them at all times for an amount sufficient to cover bare expenses. By the payment of $5 any person can become a member of the society, and as nearly all tree lovers and tree growers are members it is easily understood why Brooklyn leads in the shade and shrub line.

TORPEDOES, when first employed by the Americans against the English in the Revolutionary War, were called American turtles, and their use was pronounced infamous and worthy only of savages.

"For years I had suffered from falling of the womb, inflammation of the stomach, and weakness of the female organs. "I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and found a perfect cure in it for these troubles." MRS. LIZZIE DECLINE, 224 Grand Street, Jersey City, New Jersey.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

World's Fair! HIGHEST AWARD.

IMPERIAL GRANUM

Always WINS HOSTS of FRIENDS wherever its Superior Merits become known. It is the Safest FOOD for Convalescents!

Sold by DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE! John Carle & Sons, New York.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief. Price 25 cts. ASTHMA. Sherman & Kidder & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

VICIOUS INFLUENCE.

"PROTECTION" A CONSERVATOR OF CORRUPTION.

Blunts the Public Conscience and Makes of Politics a Mercenary Scramble—Mr. Lubin's Challenge—A Study in Wool—The Iron Trade.

Ambassador Bayard on Protection.

The Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, ex-Secretary of State, and now ambassador to Great Britain, delivered an address before the Philosophical Society of Edinburgh on Nov. 7. After an earnest protest against all forms of paternalism and state socialism he said:

"In my own country I have witnessed the insatiable growth of that form of state socialism styled protection, which, I believe, has done more to foster class legislation and create inequality of fortune, corrupt public life, banish men of independent mind and character from public councils, blunt public conscience and place politics upon the low level of a mercenary scramble than any other single cause. Step by step, and largely owing to the confusion of civil strife, it has succeeded in obtaining control of the sovereign power of taxation, creating the revenue into an engine for selfish and private profit (its allied beneficiaries and combines are called trusts), and gradually the commercial marine of the United States has disappeared, the few vessels lately built being an exception and proving the rule, as they were only built by making a breach in the general tariff and navigation laws."

No clearer statement of the evil effects of protection has ever been given. The loss to the material interests of the country which was due to the high tariff system, was but a secondary result. The most important and far-reaching injury was the degradation of national statesmanship into a cunning balancing of the claims of privileged interests. The money lost through protection amounts to billions of dollars. But who can calculate the effects on private character of the establishment as a principle of public life of the doctrine that governments may justly take away the property of the people and bestow it on a favored few? Is it any wonder that the business man who in 1888 raised the largest fund for corruption purposes should have been rewarded by President Harrison with a seat in the cabinet? Were not those funds contributed by men who wished to purchase government favors for themselves?

By cleverly appealing to the selfishness of the various protected interests the advocates of a high tariff policy succeeded for a long time in holding office. If after the experience of the beneficial results of a low tariff on trade and industry the country should again elect a protectionist administration, it would be the strongest evidence of the lack of public conscience caused by the unjust and dishonest protective system.

Combination in the Soft Coal Trade.

With the approach of cold weather comes the announcement that practically all the bituminous coal operators of central and western Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia have completed arrangements for the joint control of production and prices. It is stated that the combination will be able to maintain or increase prices by preventing the competition which has hitherto existed.

When a Democratic House of Representatives put coal on the free list the Republican apologists for protection denied that the effect of the McKinley duty of 75 cents per ton was to increase the cost of soft coal to the consumer. So the Republican Senators, with the aid of a few protection Democrats, put a duty on coal of 40 cents per ton.

Had foreign coal been made duty free its importation would have been confined to the New England States and the Pacific coast. But its effects would have been felt in practically the whole soft coal markets of the country, since with the possibility of cheaper coal from Canada, the domestic operators would not have been able to raise prices through their combination. Owing to the immense deposits coal can be mined more cheaply in the United States than in any other country. But so long as protection is continued the coal pool will continue to charge high prices and pocket big profits.

The Republicans who are agitating for a restoration of the McKinley tariff know that with higher duties the coal trust will be strengthened. Do the American consumers want to pay higher prices for their coal?

"Wool Is Higher, and So Is Labor."

"Bradstreet's" of Nov. 6 has an editorial on the "Improved Woolen Goods Situation," which reads quite differently from the editorials in Republican organs. It says that within the past week salesmen have been out with samples of heavy weight woolens for next fall's delivery, and that "if samples continue to take as well for a few weeks as they have during the first, manufacturers will be well employed getting out orders, and wool dealers will have to dispose of a good deal of wool to manufacturers."

It says that slight advances in prices are asked for next year because "goods are costing more to produce. Wool is higher, and so is labor." It says that "most of the manufacturers, too, have made up their minds that wool is as low as it will be for some time." It declares that "the markets for carpet wools everywhere are very strong," and concludes that "taken all in all, the outlook for wool and woolens is encouraging."

Prices of wool now differ but little from McKinley prices of July, 1894; some grades are lower, some higher. A slight advance will put them above what they were when they had the advantage of 60 or 70 per cent protection.

Such talk as this from the leading commercial journal of the country must be wormwood and gall to the editors of G. O. P. McKinley organs.

The Challenge to Protectionists.

Mr. David Lubin, of Sacramento, Cal., has had on deposit in a San Francisco bank for nearly a year a check for $1,000. This amount is offered as a contribution to the Protective Tariff League, provided that an impartial committee of five would decide that the present system of tariff protection is just and equitable to the producers of agricultural staples as long as there is a surplus of these exports. So far the League has not attempted to win the thousand dollars.

As the Republicans will appeal to the farmers next year on a high-tariff platform, it is certainly incumbent on them to accept Mr. Lubin's challenge and try to prove that protection is just to the farmers. It is an encouraging sign to find that the Democratic campaign of education has had the effect of showing many farmers that they cannot possibly be helped by the protective system. If the McKinleyites fail to prove that a restoration of their high taxation scheme will benefit the farming industry, how can they expect to gain the farmer vote? Their only hope lies in dodging the issue. But they may be assured that their cowardice will be of no use. In the words of the West, the farmers are on to the high-tariff dodge. Not just to the farmer? Then no vote for protection. See?

What the President Will Do.

Certain impudent Protectionist editors and politicians have taken upon themselves the liberty of advising President Cleveland that if the incoming Congress should pass a bill increasing duties, he would be bound to sign it, in view of the Republican successes in the recent State elections. And with unequalled insolence these petty partisans declare that the President "would not dare" to veto a bill restoring the McKinley tariff.

The Republicans in Congress need not worry about the Democratic President. If they choose to hamper industry and check the business revival which has been going on since the Wilson tariff became law, by threatening to re-establish McKinleyism, they are welcome to go ahead. The sooner they show their hand the quicker will the people realize that they are prosperity destroyers and opposed to the country's best interests.

There need be no question as to what President Cleveland will do with a protectionist bill. The man who refused to sign the law repealing the McKinley tariff because it retained too much protection, will veto a Republican tariff bill so quickly that the Congress which passed it will hear something drop right hard. No scheme for more protection will become law while Grover Cleveland is President.

Wonderful Production of Pig Iron.

In its latest issue the Iron Age states that the current production of pig iron in the United States "is at the tremendous rate of 11,250,000 tons per annum."

It adds that preparations now under way "will probably carry the make up to 220,000 tons per week," and that "nearly every furnace manager in the country has been driving his plant furiously."

This intense activity in the iron industries does not comport very well with the multiplied and manifold predictions of our calamity-howlers. Prosperity in the iron trade is usually recognized by commercial men as a precursor of prosperity in the majority of other manufacturing industries. Certainly never before in the history of American industry was the activity of the iron and steel works of the country so great as it is now.

The output of American iron and steel mills is now much larger than that of any other nation, and it can be indefinitely increased. Is this not a good time for them to enlarge their export-trade? There may be a slackening of demand for their products at home, but the foreign markets are open to them.—New York Herald.

The Tariff Is a Tax.

If the tariff is not a tax, will the Buffalo News kindly tell us why the consumer is obliged to pay more for the taxed article than he would and does were it untaxed.—Niagara Falls Cataract.

The Cataract begs the question. He doesn't.—Buffalo News.

That is sheer nonsense. If the consumer does not pay the tax, why then is there so much attempted smuggling of taxed articles on his part; and why is it that when the tax is taken off the price immediately falls? How, for instance, does it happen that woolen goods are cheaper now than ever before; how, that the price of natural gas to the consumer in Buffalo, as the Express of that city pointed out, is greater by reason of the import tax than it would be? And what would be the effect in this last case if there was no tax?

The News apparently entirely loses sight of the economic fact that the less the cost of putting any ware on the market the cheaper it can be sold. Any addition to the expense, whether arbitrary in the form of a tax, or otherwise, means a raising of the price to the consumer. And if the price be raised to him he must assuredly pay the tax.—Niagara Falls Cataract.

Creditable to Democrats.

The total vote in Pennsylvania gives an explanation of the Republican plurality of 175,000. Compared with 1892 the Democratic stay-at-homes number 170,000 this year. The Republican vote, so far from increasing, is 60,000 behind that of 1892. Compared even with last year the Democrats fall behind 118,000 and the Republicans 50,000. Considering the ascendency of Boss Quay in their party, it is much to the discredit of the Republicans of Pennsylvania that they permitted the Democrats so greatly to surpass them in disgust and apathy.

Sealed Markets.

The calamity howlers of the Boston Home Market Club have doubtless observed that during the operation of the new tariff a Boston shoe firm has been very successful in supplying many people in Germany with "Hessian" boots. But to the members of this club a foreign market for American manufactures is not worth considering. What they desire is an exclusive home market, in which there will be neither exports nor imports.—Philadelphia Record.

Sherman on Free Wool.

Senator Sherman tells an interviewer that free wool has cost the country $40,000,000 or $50,000,000. It would be interesting to know how much the free wool which Mr. Sherman has pulled over the country's eyes in his role of financial wiseacre has taken out of the pockets of the people.—Philadelphia Record.

Wrong principles are as wrong in politics as they are in religion.

1623 Folio Edition of Shakspeare.

The first edition of Shakspeare ever published was the 1623 folio, which was issued seven years after the poet's death. Very few copies of this editio princeps are known to exist, and therefore, the one that has lately been discovered in the university library of Padua may be regarded as a most valuable addition to our literary treasures.

It is complete with the exception of the title page. The librarian found it in a box of uncatalogued books. It is thought that the loss of the title page explains its having had a place in the literary treasure, for there is a piece of paper pasted on the cover inside on which is written: "Tutte le opere di Shakspeare, Comedie e Tragedie, Manco il frontispicio. In capsa ad laevus." (All the works of Shakspeare, Comedies and Tragedies. The frontispiece lacking. In the left-hand drawer.)

The book must have belonged to an actor, as it is marked for the stage and these markings are restricted to three plays — "Macbeth," "Measure for Measure" and "A Winter's Tale." "Macbeth," is the play most annotated. The volume is in a good state of preservation.—New York Herald.

An Indian's Grave.

Two Muscongus, Me., men, who were digging a cellar for a house, found a skeleton of an Indian warrior, at least 6 feet 6 inches tall, and with it were found old iron implements, spear and arrow heads, while around the bones of the arm were copper bands six inches in diameter, carved and curiously wrought. The body had been buried in a sitting posture, facing the east, and the set of teeth which had done their owner good service during life, were still perfect.

Scarlet Fever Settled in the Back.

AN OPERATION WAS UNSUCCESSFULLY PERFORMED.

The Patient Was Finally Restored, After Eighteen Years.

From the Evening News, Newark, N. J.

About eighteen years ago, when Mrs. Annie Dale, of 88 Bruce street, was a bright, merry school girl, she was taken ill with scarlet fever. She recovered, but she was a very different girl from a physical standpoint. She was cured of the scarlet fever, but it left her with an affection of the back. As she grew older the pain seemed to increase. Her sufferings were intensified by her household duties, but she never complained, and with one hand pressed tightly to her back she did her work about her cozy home.

"I was fourteen years old when I was attacked with scarlet fever, and have now suffered with my back for eighteen years.

"Night and day I suffered. It really seemed as if I must succumb to the pain, and then to make matters worse, my head ached so badly that I could scarcely see, at times. Finally I went to St. Michael's Hospital, at the corner of High street and Central avenue, and there the surgeons performed a difficult operation on my back, but it did no good; it was like everything else. I was told at the hospital to return for another operation, but the first had left me so weak I could not go back. Then again I had become discouraged and my three children needed my attention and care at home. The pain became harder to stand, and my back was almost broken, it seemed. I thought I would never know what it would be like to be well again, when I was told to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. With many doubts, a faint heart and an aching back I went to get the pills, and little dreaming that they would prove the elixir of a new life to me, I began to take them. Only a short time elapsed before I began to improve. Could it be possible that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were doing what everything else had failed to accomplish? I asked myself the question many times and before long I was enabled by my improved condition to answer the query with an emphatic 'Yes.' Now the pain of almost twenty years is cured by these Pink Pills in a few months. I have no pain of any kind now, but I have got some of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and while I do not think it will ever be necessary to use them again, I shall certainly never be without them in the house."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Education in the United States.

In no other country in the world is there so much money appropriated by government and donated by private citizens to the cause of education as in the United States. And as a result there were gathered during the past year into our schools, colleges and universities 15,530,268 of the youth of our land. This is equal to nearly one-fourth of our entire population.

False Witnesses.

There are knaves now and then met with who represent certain local bitters and poisonous stimuli as identical with or possessing properties akin to those of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. These scamps only succeed in foisting their trashy compounds upon people unacquainted with the genuine article, which is as much their opposite as day is to night. Ask and take no substitute for the grand remedy for malaria, dyspepsia, constipation, rheumatism and kidney trouble.

A Centenarian, but a Rascal.

William Morris, who has passed through 100 years of existence, has been convicted of counterfeiting in Birmingham, Ala., and will likely be sent to prison for a long term. He has been making spurious coin for years. Morris is a mechanical genius, and it is said that he can make anything from a needle to a whisky still.

California passengers should ask agents of the Nickel Plate road for rates and connections before purchasing tickets elsewhere.

Artist Melchers' Wooden Shoes.

An American lady traveling in Holland writes that Melchers, the Detroit artist who won the Paris exposition prize in 1889 and has since enjoyed extraordinary vogue on the continent, is quite unspoiled by the honors heaped upon him. Though he has dined with the German Emperor he still wears a peasant blouse and wooden shoes, on the plea that he is too poor for anything better. When he went to dine with the wife of the Burgomaster of a Holland town he appeared in this costume, and soaked to the skin by a hard rain. He apologized, not for the clothes, but for the fact that they were wet, and maintained that it was the only suit he had. His hostess thereupon provided him with a dry suit of her husband's.

TARIFF was the name of the Moorish chieftain, Abou al Tarifa, who had a fortress near the Straits of Gibraltar, and levied toll on ships and merchandise passing through.

THE steps of faith fall on the seeming void, but find the rock beneath.—Whittier.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Counting the Stars.

Numbering of the heavenly bodies, whether planet, satellite or star of the smallest size, has been commenced at the Paris observatory by Miss Klumpke, doctor of sciences and assistant astronomer, in view of the publication of an international catalogue of the stars. The idea was formed at the astronomical congress in 1887, and already 189 photographs have been taken. Some only contain a dozen stars, this being a celestial desert; but others are crowded, even to the number of 1,500. The average number is 335 stars per photograph. Altogether the catalogue is expected to contain about 3,000,000 stars. A census of the heavenly bodies has long been needed. Now a woman comes forward and will count all the stars. She will be some time at it, but when the work is done it will be finished.

To Remove Freckles.

An excellent freckle lotion is as follows: Tincture of benzine, one drachm; juice of one lemon; rectified spirits of wine, one ounce; rosewater, eight ounces. Permanent freckles, however, will not be affected by this preparation and can only be removed by electrolysis.

Nickel Plate road, low rates and perfect service are all synonyms. A through sleeping car service between Chicago, Fort Wayne, Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston.

ALL love has something of blindness in it, but the love for money especially.

Asthmatic troubles and soreness of the Lungs or Throat are usually overcome by Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant—a sure curative for Colds.

OBEDIENCE is not truly performed by the body if the heart is dissatisfied.

Now is the time to make your plans for your winter California trip. Ask agents of the Nickel Plate road about low rates and connections with the fast California trains out of Chicago.

SIR PHILIP SIDNEY at a great fete sported a hat worth $20,000. It was felt, broad brimmed and turned up at the side, with a rosette of diamonds.

How's This!

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

We the undersigned have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligation made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Prices 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

IF a man can have only one kind of sense, let him have common sense. If he has that and uncommon sense, too, he is not far from genius.—Beecher.

The Nickel Plate road operates a perfect passenger service composed of first and second class day coaches, attended by colored porters. Excellent dining cars and through sleeping cars to Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, New York and Boston. Rates always the lowest.

THEY that on glorious ancestors enlarge produce their debt, instead of their discharge.—Young.

Piso's Cure for Consumption cured a case of Pneumonia after the family doctor gave up all hope.—M. F. McDowes, Conowingo, Md.

ALL that is human must retrograde if it do not advance.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething: softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

Facts Conclusive.

We expect your patronage because the Nickel Plate road operates conveniently scheduled trains, equipped with unexcelled dining cars and luxurious sleepers between Chicago, Cleveland, Erie, New York and Boston. Lowest rates.

FITS.—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

ST. JACOBS OIL

Is a prize fighter and champion in every contest with RHEUMATIC PAINS. It knocks out in every round, and on its belt is written "I CURE."

Timely Warning.

The great success of the chocolate preparations of the house of Walter Baker & Co. (established in 1780) has led to the placing on the market many misleading and unscrupulous imitations of their name, labels, and wrappers. Walter Baker & Co. are the oldest and largest manufacturers of pure and high-grade Cocoas and Chocolates on this continent. No chemicals are used in their manufactures.

Consumers should ask for, and be sure that they get, the genuine Walter Baker & Co.'s goods.

WALTER BAKER & CO., Limited, DORCHESTER, MASS.

BEST IN THE WORLD.

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH

For durability and for cheapness this preparation is truly unrivalled.

THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH is cakes for general blacking of a stove.

THE SUN PASTE POLISH for a quick after-dinner shine, applied and polished with a cloth.

Morse Bros., Props., Canton, Mass., U. S. A.

FRIENDS' OATS

REMEMBER THE TRADE MARK. THE Little Friend's Girl. BEST CEREAL FOOD. NO ROCKING NECESSARY WHEN YOU FEED THEM.

Friends' Oats

FOR OLD AND YOUNG. ALL GROCERS SELL FRIENDS' ROLLED OATS

Wabash Line

GRAND TOUR OF OLD MEXICO.

THE EGYPT OF THE NEW WORLD.

On Tuesday, January 14, 1896, Gates' annual tour of Mexico will leave Toledo by special train at 11 a. m., via Wabash Railroad, and pass Fort Wayne about 1:30 p. m. The tour this season will far surpass all former efforts, several new features have been added. The Gates' special Pullman train will consist of vestibuled sleeping and compartment cars, observation and library car, and a palace dining car, also baggage car, the entire train making the thirty day tour and covering 6,600 miles. Mr. Gates will accompany the train, and give every detail personal attention. For a handsome book of the tour giving itinerary and much other interesting data apply to the following representatives Wabash Railroad.

C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.
CHAS. H. GATES, Tkt Agt., Toledo, Ohio.
P. E. TOMBAUGH, P. & T. A. Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
J. M. MCCONNELL, P. & T. A. Lafayette, Ind.

THE AERMOTOR CO. does half the world's windmill business, because it has reduced the cost of wind power to 1/6 what it was. It has many branch houses, and supplies its goods and repairs all over the world. It can and does furnish a better article for less money than others. It makes Pumping and Geared, Steel, Galvanized-after-Completion Windmills, Tilting and Fixed Steel Towers, Steel Buzz Saw Frames, Steel Feed Cutters and Feed Grinders. On application it will name one of these articles that it will furnish until January 1st at 1/3 the usual price. It also makes Tanks and Pumps of all kinds. Send for catalogue. Factory: 12th, Rockwell and Fillmore Streets, Chicago.

If afflicted with SORE EYES Dr. ISAAC THOMPSON'S EYE-WATER

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION

Comes Every Week.
For all the Family.
Profusely Illustrated.
Read Every Week in more than Half a Million Homes.

The Volume of The Companion for 1896—the 70th year of its publication—will give weekly entertainment and instruction in abundance for every member of the family.

Notable Series. The Lord Chief Justice of England and Judge Oliver Wendell Holmes have contributed articles of national importance, together with those by Hon. Thomas B. Reed and Justin McCarthy, M. P.

Serial Stories. Four Fascinating Serial Stories have been selected from the large number offered, with the following titles: "The Ventriloquist," "In the Clutch of the Tsar," "Rosamond's Violin," and "In Indian Meadow."

Cabinet Ministers. Popular articles on subjects of unusual interest are written by Hon. Hoke Smith, Sec'y of the Interior; Hon. H. A. Herbert, Sec'y of the Navy; Hon. J. Sterling Morton, Sec'y of Agriculture.

More than 200 Famous Men and Women have contributed to the next Volume of The Companion. Send for Full Illustrated Prospectus and Sample Copies Free.

50-ct. CALENDAR FREE

REMARKABLE OFFER! New Subscribers who will cut out this slip and send it AT ONCE with name and address, and $1.75, will receive:
FREE—The Youth's Companion every week till January 1, 1896.
FREE—Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Year's Double Numbers.
FREE—Our Handsome 4-page Calendar (7 x 10 inches), lithographed in nine colors. Retail price, 50 cents. 43
AND THE COMPANION 52 weeks, a full year, to January 1, 1897.

SEND This slip with $1.75

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, 201 Columbus Avenue, Boston, Mass.

"The More You Say the Less People Remember." One Word With You,

SAPOLIO

nothing lost

Scott's Emulsion makes cod-liver oil taking next thing to a pleasure. You hardly taste it. The stomach knows nothing about it—it does not trouble you there. You feel it first in the strength that it brings; it shows in the color of the cheek, the rounding of the angles, the smoothing of the wrinkles.

It is cod-liver oil digested for you, slipping as easily into the blood and losing itself there as rain-drops lose themselves in the ocean.

What a satisfactory thing this is—to hide the odious taste of cod-liver oil, evade the tax on the stomach, take health by surprise.

There is no secret of what it is made of—the fish-fat taste is lost, but nothing is lost but the taste.

Perhaps your druggist has a substitute for Scott's Emulsion. Isn't the standard all others try to equal the best for you to buy?

50 cents and $1.00 All Druggists
SCOTT & BOWNE Chemists New York

RIPANS TABULES

Stella M. Godfrey, writing from Hoffman, N. C., under date of June 12, 1895, says: "My sister has used your medicines. She was a sufferer from dyspepsia and indigestion for several years, and after having your Tabules recommended and given them a trial, she speaks in the highest terms of them, and says that they cannot be excelled in keeping the system well regulated. Her name is (Miss) Katherine Godfrey Postoffice Hoffman, N. C."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

ASTHMA POPHAM'S ASTHMA SPECIFIC. Gives relief in FIVE minutes. Send for a FREE trial package. Sold by Druggists. One Box sent postpaid on receipt of $1.00. Six boxes $4.00. Address THOS. POPHAM, PHILA., PA.

When writing to Advertisers say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

THEN

Bring in Your Feet and we will make them comfortable and warm.

LOOK AT US!

Out line of School Shoes is the largest and best in the county.
Call and Take a look at Them.

SHULL'S
CASH - SHOE - STORE

We are

HEADQUARTERS
—FOR—

STOVES,
RANGES,
FURNACES,
COAL HODS,
STOVE BOARDS
MICA, ETC, ETC.

J. BEURET.

ROOT'S + ROOT'S
FT. WAYNE

JACKETS and CAPES

Our great cloak room is now at its best. Not one thing missing that should be here We've been searching the market all over, picking out the choicest novelties in fur and cloth wraps. We always want something extra for the holidays. We want the best. This cloak room is now making that exposition of lovely wraps. Ladies and Misses

COME EARLY IF YOU CAN.

It is the best of the season, Get the best out of this beautiful lot.

Come Too

And see the beautiful Creamy White Long Cloaks for Infants, made of Cashmere, Bengaline, Eider Down, some trimmed with Silk Embroidery, some with Ribbons, some Hemstiched and Embroidered.

Prices $1.50 to $7.50

Children's Furs.

All the Dainty Light Colored Furs in Muffs and Boas, Muffs and Collarettes, Single Muffs,

At $1.50 a set up to $3

Black Cascade Silks.

It's the only Silk for you to buy Every yard warranted. We now show them in full lines in all the popular weaves.

$1 up to $2 a Yard

Bengaline,

The article just suited for making over Ladies' Cloaks—Putting in new Sleeves—Black only.

85c, $1 up to $1.50 Yd

Those cheap Embroideries are going, Prices less than half what they are worth.

Down Comfortables.

Made of nice quality Sateen. Reversible sides Some figured on both sides; some figured on one side and plain on the other. Filled with Down

$4.50 to $10

Tabourettes.

The new tea table. Call at Carpet room and see these handsome new novelties. Oak, Ebony and Fancy Maple.

$3 to $10 Each

Aprons.

We show an exceedingly pretty line of Ladies' White Aprons. The entire line bought for the Holliday season is now in store Its well to pick now.

Prices 35c To $3.00 Each.

Ladies' Under-Skirts.

Made of Moreen, Sateen, Mohair Cloth and Satin Plain and Quilted. One ruffle, two or three ruffles.

Prices $1 To $7.50 Each.

These will be found at Muslin Underwear counter.

ROOT & CO.

GROFF'S Rheumatic Cure

Is the only positive Cure known to the Medical Profession for the Cure of Acute and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Ovarian Neuralgia, Dismenorrhœa, Psoriasis, Scrofula, Liver and Kidney Diseases. A positive Cure effected in from 6 to 18 days. For Sale by Groff Medicine Co., Chicago, Illinois.

Effect of Dress.

W. E. Curtis, writing in the Chicago Record, gives, some of the things he learned during his recent travels in Japan, and among them are some new ideas as to the effects of dress. He says:

The effect of European clothing upon Japanese women is quite remarkable, for whenever it is adopted modern manners and customs usually go with it. The educated Japanese say that when a native woman adopts modern dress she insists upon the same treatment and courtesies that her sisters in Europe receive. It is a curous fact that when a woman is dressed in the Japanese costume her husband always precedes her when entering a room or in walking the streets, and treats her as Japanese husbands generally treat their wives—that is, like servants. But when the same woman puts on modern dress the conditions are reversed. Her husband pays her the same deference that European and American husbands show their wives and recognizes her as an equal. Therefore dress reform has had a powerful influence in the advancement of Japanese women, and those who have embraced Christianitly and are laboring for the emancipation of their sex are all working quietly, zealously and effectively to promote the reform that is going on in the home and the wardrobe.

Change of Firm.

Miser Bros. yesterday bought of Geo. C. Clark the Union Bakery. These gentleman will conduct the business at the same stand and will also keep the wagon on the street. The Union Bakery will continue to turn out a fine line of bread, cakes, and cookies. The COURIER hopes that they may be successful

HOPES BLASTED

It is with deepest sympathy that we are compelled to break the news to our readers of the death of the little daughter, Helen Pauline, of our young friends Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Altenberg of 423 College Avenue, Indianapolis. As noted in the DAILY one week ago last night a bright little jewel came to their home and gladdened the hearts of both the parents and grandparents. But it seemed for some unknown reason this household treasure could not remain to help make the home of Mr. and Mrs. Altenberg and on Thursday night it joined the happy throng above. It was a constant sufferer until its death. The remains were brought to Auburn by the stricken father and Dr. J. B. Casebeer, reaching here on the 7:35 Wabash last night, and were taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Zimmerman. At nine o'clock this morning at the residence, prayer was offered by Mrs. J. K. Walts and the little one was buried beneath the sod in beautiful Evergreen, which spot will always remain dear to the bereaved parents The COURIER joins with the entire community in sharing the sorrow of Mr. and Mrs. Altenberg.

PHOTOS BY TELEGRAPH

A very novel method of transmitting a photograph, map or picture by telegraph has been invented and copyrighted by W H. Lowd, of Duluth, Minn., an old telegrapher. The method is comparatively simple, the different points of the physiognomy of a portrait in relation to each other being located similar to that of locating a capitol or other city on an indexed map, and when so indicated on the chart, which is a part of the method, they are very easy to sketch, and the resulting portrait is surprisingly like the original.

Queer Cure.

A queer cure comes up from Michigan. The Howard City Record, published by B. J. Lowrey, is authority for the statement that a man up there saved his cow from choking to death, by shooting a gun under her. This reminds us of the way the "vigilance committees" in the far west, save men from choking to death by a noose, they shoot a gun at them.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her, and she says it saved her life. Mr Thomas Eggers, 139 Florida St., San. Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching consumption. He tried without result, everything else, then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medecine in coughs and colds. Free trial bottles at Robbins & McCord's drugstore. Regular size 50c. and $1 5

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Never Out Of Season.

There is no time in the year when Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is not a benefit to mankind. It cures constipation and indigestion, and cures diarrhoea caused by bad condition of the digestive organs. Trial size bottles 10c, also in 50c and $1 size of F E Davenport. 48

WANTED—A COMPETENT MAN OR WOMAN in this town to introduce a well known food product to the trade. Good pay. Address VAN CAMP PACKING CO, Indianapolis, Ind. 42-4

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

TRAINS LEAVE AVILLA.

GOING NORTH.

For Grand Rapids and Mackinaw ... 8:47 p. m.
For Grand Rapids and Traverse City 9:11 a. m

GOING SOUTH.

For Cincinnati ..... 12:01 p. m
For Fort Wayne ..... 6:22 p. m
For Cincinnati ..... 10:27 p. m.

G. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. & T. A.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

Mrs. Mike Miller

We are favored with the following by G S. McCord of the Schaab Furniture Co: Mrs. Mike Miller died at her home on south VanBuren street, opposite the Trentman factory at 6 o'clock this morning. She has been sick for some time with malarial fever. She was fifty two years of age. As we go to press no arrangements have been made for the funeral.

The Greenback.

Secretary Carlisle made a speech at the dinner of the Chamber of Commerce, in New York Tuesday evening in which gave a vigorous protest against continuing the greenbacks in circulation. He says it is the greenback money that is brought in every little while to the treasury with a demand for gold and that empties the treasury and compels the issue of more bonds to buy more gold. The same greenbacks, after being redeemed are put into circulation again and soon get into the hands of men who want the gold on them again, and again they are brought back for the government to redeem them in gold, and the same thing goes on over and over again The same greenback is redeemed over and over again, but under law is never paid up and canceled, but must be sent out again to be again used in taking gold from the treasury. He thinks they should all be redeemed once for all and destroyed. It looks as if we would have to do this. The greenback was all right till they got to using it to clean out the government treasury. Now there is no question but some means must be taken to stop it. The plainest way seems to be to do away with the greenback. And while they are about it, they should change some of the other certificates that have been taking out the gold.

State Officers' Salaries

[Goshen Times]

The county officers are not the only ones affected by the new salary law. The state officers who have been making fortunes out of one or two terms of office will be able to do so no longer. The cut makes them squirm but it was in the interest of the people. The new law catches the state officers January 1st.

The state auditor now receives a salary of $4,000 and fees that bring the total compensation up to $10,000 or $15,000 a year. Under the new law he will receive $7,500 straight salary. The secretary of state now receives a salary of $3,500 and fees that increase that amount considerably. After Jan. 1, says the Indianapolis News, he will receive $6,200 and no more. The treasurer of state now receives a salary of $3 000, after the new law goes into effect he will receive $6,500. The law says he shall not lend the public money. The present salary of the attorney general is $2,500, and he has been receiving fees that made the total remuneration of the office probably $15,000 a year. After the new law takes effect he will get $7,500 and no more.

Wooden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Marian B. Willis celebrated their fifth anniversary or wooden wedding last night Invitations were issued to about thirty friends who assembled at their home to enjoy the occasion. Prof. C. W. Wolfersberger of Columbia City furnished sweet music on both the guitar and mandolin which delighted everyone. At about 10:30 an elegant luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. Willis were kindly remembered by their guests in many ways. They were the recipients of many presents appropriate to the fifth anniversary. Among them were two fine rockers and also two center stands. At about midnight the guests departed for their homes wishing them prosperity until another anniversaity. Those present were;

Mr and Mrs. G. L. Lanning,
Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Brown,
Mr. and Mrs. J. G Clapp,
Mr and Mrs. Alt Moody,
Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Baker,
Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Schnell,
Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Smith,
Mr. and Mrs. Will Eckhart,
Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Harris,
Mr and Mrs. A. N. Wilson,
Miss Carrie Turner,
Mr. C. B. Weaver,
Miss Ida Green,
Miss Maud Kiblinger, Albion,
Prof. Wolfersberger, Columbia City.

GREAT REDUCTION IN TIME TO CALIFORNIA.

Once more the North - Western Line has reduced the time of its transcontinental trains, and the journey from Chicago to California via this popular route is now made in the marvelously short time of three days. Palace Drawing-Room Sleeping cars leave Chicago daily, and run through to San Francisco and Los Angeles without change, and all meals on route are served in Dining cars. Daily Tourist Sleeping car service is also maintained by this line between Chicago and San Francisco and Los Angles, completely equipped berths in upholstered Tourist Sleepers being furnished at a cost of only $6.00 each from Chicago to the Pacific Coast. Through trains leave Chicago for California at 6:00 p. m. and 10:45 p. m daily, after arrival of trains of connecting lines from the East & South.

For detailed information concerning rates, routes, etc., apply to ticket agents of connecting lines or address A. H. Wagener, T. P. A., 7 Jackson place Indianapolis, Ind. 52

TO THE SUFFERERS OF RHEUMATISM.

After using Groff's Rheumatic Cure for some time in my practice I take great pleasure in saying that it is a most wonderful remedy for Rheumatism; in fact, it is the only one I have found for the cure of this disease in all its various form. Dr. E E. Tull, Chicago.

The President And Utah

[The Chicago Daily Chronicle.]

The vote of Utah, which is largely Mormon, with polygamous inspiration, is in favor of state admission. The republican candidates for state officers, with a republican legislature, are chosen. The conspiracy of the Mormon hierarchy and the republican machine was successful as far as indicated by the popular vote

The constitution of Utah, as adopted, prohibits polygamy in the new state if it shall be admitted to the union. But this prohibitory enactment is inoperative unless it shall be followed by efficacious legislation which the officers of the law will administer in its letter and spirit.

While the Mormon vote of Utah has adopted a state constitution and is in favor of admission, populous Mormon colonies have been established in Mexico, where all the institutions of Mormonism, including polgamy, are protected by local law and usage. The Mormon colonies in Mexico are similar in their laws, regulations and usages to those founded by Brigham Young and his followers nearly fifty years ago in the vast mountain recesses by the Great Salt lake, which he believed would be unapproachable by civilization for centuries to come.

Railroads abolished Brigham Young's dream of muncipal and religious isolation and made the city that he founded a mere half-way house for travelers between the east and west. The Mexican Mormon colonies at no distant day will be surrounded and invaded by adventurers of all classes and polygamy will be ostracised by civilized law here as it has been ostracised in Utah.

But, in the meantime, what is to be done with Utah? Here is a state knocking for admission to the union that has an established political church, by the influence of which the vote for admission was procured. The new state is connected by political and sectarian ligaments with colonies in a foreign state where polygamous practices, banished by law from Utah, are openly tolerated and protected. The admission of Utah implies recognition of the polygamous colony in Mexico, which is a mere outside county and a hierarchical dependency of the Mormon church.

The duty of President Cleveland under the enabling act authorizing Utah to frame a state constitution is one of the gravest and most delicate that ever was placed before a president of the United States. It approaches near in importance and in its nature to that which confronted Abraham Lincoln when he was required to abolish slavery as the main prop and support of the rebellion.

On the presentation of the election returns from Utah to the president he may issue a proclamation by which the new Mormon polygamous state will become a member of the union. Should the president issue such a proclamation?

The Future King

Albert Edward, prince of Wales, is perhaps the most popular man in England. This popularity is due to his love of sports and all manly traits which are particularly commendable in the eyes of the average Britisher. As a youth his audacity and appreciation of a joke either as a perpetrator or victim, were well known.

One of his early escapades resulted in her majesty, the queen, footing a bill for broken crockery and wrecked furniture which the young prince caused in the house of one of the lesser members of the nobility. A rather elderly countess whose quick temper and sharp tongue drove even her servants away form her, advertised for a footman. The prince to whose ears tales of the peculiarities of the old lady had come, resolved to teach her a lesson. He therefore presented himself in disguise at her ladyship's house and applied for the position of footman.

The countess had just finished her breakfast, and pushing her chair back from the table, instructed the servants to bring before her the applicant. The prince was thereupon ushered into the room. The countess looked him over from his feet up Apparently pleased with the appearance of the prince, she said: "Let me see you walk."

Albert Edward did as commanded, and walked backward and forward several times across the floor from one end of the room to the other, now walking briskly at the request of the old lady, and then pacing slowly, as she wished to obtain points on this score.

This performance over, the countess ordered him to trot. The dining-room, still the theater of action, the prince trotted round it several times. When this exercise was completed he again came to a standstill near the head of the table, where the countess was seated. Her ladyship seemed pleased, and was just on the point of asking the young man some questions about himself when he shouted:

"Now see me gallop!"

Grasping a corner of the table cloth firmly in one hand, the prince rushed around the room, pulling the crockery off on the floor in a heap, knocking over the furniture and finally winding her ladyship up in the folds of the cloth. He then bolted for the door, leaving the countess spattering and shouting and the servants running about in a distracted way to liberate their mistress and quiet her rage.

In the hubbub and confusion the prince escaped The next day a check from the keeper of the privy purse settled the amount of the damages, and likewise established the identity of the mischief maker.—Exchange.

You Have Seen

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin advertised for months, but have you ever tried it? If not, you do not know what an ideal stomach remedy it is. A 10c bottle (10 doses 10c) will show you its great merits as a cure for constipation, indigestion & sick headache. Regular size, 50c and $1 at F E. Davenport's. 48

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

LIST OF PATENS.

Granted to Indiana Inventors this week. Reported by C. A. Snow & Co., Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents. Opp. U. S. Patent Office Washington, D. C.

F. Burger, Fort Wayne, Balanced gas-engine. T. Dear, Indianapolis, Gas-forming apparatus. G. Glascock, Vedersburg, Hay press. T. H. Haberkorn, Fort Wayne, Valve mechanism for operating air-brakes. C. B. Lockwood, Deedsville, Pitman-rod connection. E. Morris, Michigan City, Machine for inserting threads into woven fabrics. C. M. Newlin, Linton, Clockwork advertising apparatus. T. J. Nolan, Logansport, Fish-hook. E. J. Schrock, Goshen Windmill. C. G. A. Stein, Fort Wayne, Band sawing machine. J. R Seroy, Carlisle, Appliance for utilizing waste heat. E. T. Warner, Elwood, Weilpacking. F. B. Yarbro, Kewanna, Rein-holder.

About Mosquitos.

The Fort Wayne Sentinel has the following to say concerning the male mosquitoes:

"The people of this part of the earth fortunately will not be troubled with mosquitoes, and the subject of their bites may not be of prime importance, while they are paralyzed by frost into innocuous desuetude, so to speak. But it may not be amiss to say that a Baltimore scientist assumes to have discovered that the male mosquito, while a good singer is not a biter. Now this is an extraodinary piece of information added to the sum of human knowledge, and ought to be placed alongside the recent supreme court decision to the effect that beans are vegetables. It is to be hoped now that for the next thousand years the earth will jog along without any further vicissitude of fortue. At any rate let us trust that some means may be devised by an inventive genius to separate the sexes so that the female may be banished and permit us to lie down in peace while the males sweetly sing us to sleep.

State Finances

The auditor of state is getting ready his report as to the financial condition of the state. It will show a summary of the state's receipts for the year. The net receipts of the state have been $5,739,474 62; total receipts of school revenue for tuition, $835,211 69; total receipts soldier's and sailors' fund, $31 001.98.

The report will set out in detail the disbursements for the year. The amounts of salaries, office expenses, fees, etc., will show that during the year the attorney general received fees amounting to $28,783 88. It costs $260,000 to maintain the Central Hospital for the insane; $95 000 for the Northern Hospital for the insane; $94 973.96 for the Eastern Hospital for the insane, and $84,984 89 for the Southern Hospital for the Insane. The cost of maintaining the state prison north was $100,000 and of the state prison south $84 999.67 The last legislature cost $98,723 04 During the year $12,658 was paid out on construction of the monument.

SUMMIT.

Mrs. Catharine Zimmerman is able to be around again with the assistance of a cane.

Mrs Sarah Mortoff is visiting relatives in Battle Creek, Michigan at this writing.

Henry Lawson and family and Mrs. L's. mother, Mrs. Margaret McDougal were the guest of M. Kettering and family last Sunday.

Joseph Reffner and Orlando Elliott with their families were the guest of E. Meek and family last Sunday.

Jonathan Wilhelm of Waterloo and Frank Miser of Franklin were in town last Monday looking after stock.

Born to the wife of G. W. Crays of Duncan, Indian Territory the 7th of Nov., a boy. Her mother, Mrs. Lydia Packman, received a telegram that she was very low. Mrs. P. is almost frantic with grief.

Rev. Erlangher is holding protracted meeting at Barker's Chapel. There have been several accessions to the church.

HUSKING MACHINES

The New Era, Albion, says:

Corn husking and fodder shredding at a single operation, is now done by machinery. The results are wonderful, though the machine is small and quite simple We witnessed Mr. O. Cleland's "Kestore" doing duty last week on his brother's farm in York township. One man "tables" the unhusked fodder, while another feeds it into the machine butt end foremost. The stalks pass between two small corrugated cylinders into the "shredder," which tears and mangles it into soft fine shreds and is elevated into a mow or stack. Before the stalks pass entirely through the corrugated cylinder, the ears of corn are assorted by them the coarse husk is torn off, allowing the ear to drop back and down on a double pair of inclined rollers fixed lengthways in the machine. While passing down these inclines the "husks" are taken off and the ears are elevated into a wagon. We pronounce the corn husker and shredder the most outright and economical machine ever invented for the benefit of the farmer.

Marriage Licenses

John Gunsenhouser to Ida Keller, and William G. Bush, to Annie M. Felt and Walter R. Hamilton to Emma Elbertha Lung, and Jacob Firestone to Malinda Miller.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Nervous Prostration
Cured by Dr. Miles' Nervine.

Prolonged derangement of the nervous system not only affects the brain and mental powers, but develops disease in some of the vital organs. The most dangerous of these indirect results is when the heart is affected. This was the case of the Rev. N. F. Surface, Fawn River, Mich., who writes under date of Feb. 14, 1895:

"Fourteen years ago I had a slight stroke of paralysis. Overwork brought on nervous prostration. I was exceedingly nervous and the exertion of public speaking caused heart palpitation that threatened my life. I used two bottles of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure for my heart trouble, and two of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine for my nervousness and feel better than I ever expected to feel again. I can speak for hours without tiring or having my heart flutter as it formerly did, and I have you to thank that I am alive today."

On sale by all druggists. Dr. Miles' Book on Heart and Nervous Disorders FREE by mail. Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Dr. Miles' Remedies Restore Health.

TO YOUNG WIVES
WE OFFER A REMEDY WHICH ENSURES SAFETY TO LIFE OF MOTHER AND CHILD.

"Mothers' Friend"
ROBS CONFINEMENT OF ITS PAIN, HORROR AND RISK.

"My wife used only two bottles. She was easily and quickly relieved; is now doing splendidly.—
J. S. Morton, Harlow, N. C.

Sent by express or mail, on receipt of price, $1.00 per bottle. Book "TO MOTHERS" mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

WHEN OTHERS FAIL CONSULT

DOCTOR SWEANY
so well and favorably known as CHICAGO'S LEADING & MOST SUCCESSFUL SPECIALIST, for his many and wonderful cures in all

BLOOD AND SKIN diseases, sores, spots, pimples, scrofula, syphilitic taints, tumors, tetter, ECZEMA & Blood Poison of every nature.

KIDNEY AND URINARY Weak back, pain in side, abdomen, bladder, sediment in urine, brick-dust or white, painful urinations, Bright's disease and all diseases of the bladder.

PRIVATE Disease—Gleet, Gonorrhœa, Inflammations, Discharges, Strictures, Weakness of Organs, Syphilis, Hydrocele, Varicocele and kindred troubles quickly cured.

LOST MANHOOD and all its attending ailments, both of Young, Middle-Aged and Old Men. The awful effects of early indiscretions, producing weakness, NERVOUS DEBILITY, night emissions, exhausting drains, pimples, bashfulness, loss of energy and weakness of both body and brain.

WRITE your troubles if out of city. Thousands cured by correspondence and medicines sent secretly. Book sent free on request. DR. F. L. SWEANY, 323 State St., cor. Congress, Chicago.

Webster's International Dictionary
Invaluable in Office, School, and Home

"Successor of the "Unabridged."

Standard of the U. S. Gov't Printing Office, the U. S. Supreme Court, and of nearly all the Schoolbooks.

Warmly commended by State Superintendents of Schools, and other Educators almost without number.

THE BEST FOR EVERYBODY
BECAUSE

It is easy to find the word wanted.
Words are in their correct alphabetical places, each one beginning a paragraph.

It is easy to ascertain the pronunciation.
The pronunciation is shown by the ordinary diacritically marked letters used in the schoolbooks.

It is easy to trace the growth of a word.
The etymologies are full, and the different meanings are given in the order of their development.

It is easy to learn what a word means.
The definitions are clear, explicit, and full, and each is contained in a separate paragraph.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Publishers, Springfield, Mass., U. S. A.

Specimen pages, etc., sent on application.

ROYAL Baking Powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—U. S. Government Report.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 5. 1895. NUMBER 49.

We are still having a good trade on Stoves!

-WHY?-

Because!

we carry the most

Complete Line

in DeKalb county, and sell them at the very

Lowest Prices

—We have the Finest—

BASE HEATING WOOD STOVES

you have ever seen. They are guaranteed to

HoLd ❀ Fire ❀ All ❀ Night

and every night. Why not come and see us? We will save you money.

BROWN, CULBERTSON & BOLAND

No.th Side of Public Square.

Wabash line

GOING EAST.

Boston Express.....5:21 a m--Daily
Detroit Accom'n.....2:04 p m--ex Su
New York Limited.....7:35 p m Daily

GOING WEST

Logansport Accommodation ..7:15 am--Daily
Mail and Express .....12:23 pm--ex Su
Chicago & St. Louis Lim(53) ....7:35 pm--Daily

All these trains stop for passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

CHAS M HAYS V. Pres. and Gen'l Manager
C. S CRANE, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE--In Effect May 19, 1895

TRAINS GOING NORTH

Stations		Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne,	p	11 15 am	4 15 pm	6 10
New Era		12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc.		12 25	5 25	7 38
Auburn		12 29	5 29	8 37
Waterloo		12 41	5 41	9 24
Summit		12 52	5 52	9 45
Steubenville,		12 58	5 58
Pleasant Lake		1 03	6 03	10 12
Angola		1 13	14	10 50
Jackson		3 25	8 35	4 30 pm

TRAINS GOING S.

Stations		Freight	Express	Mail
Jackson	dp	6 55 am	11 35 am	6 30 am
Angola		12 27 pm	2 19 pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake		1 03	2 19	9 01
Steubenville			2 36	9 07
Summit		1 25	2 39	9 11
Waterloo		2 30	2 55	9 34
Auburn		3 00	3 10	9 35
Auburn Junc		3 14	3 14	9 38
New Era		3 05	3 24	9 56
Fort Wayne		4 25	5 35	10 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address F. T. EVANS, Agent at Auburn.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned have been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Executors of the Will of Daniel Gonser, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

FRANK GONSER,
HIRAM H. SLAYBAUGH
Executors.

November 14, 1-95
Wm. H. Leas, Att'y.

DR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you. Imparts new life to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and make a new man of you. Mailed on receipt of price, $1 00 per box.

WILLIAMS M'F'G CO., Props., Cleveland, O. Sold by FISCHLER & SON Auburn. 1y39

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

LEWIS' 98 % LYE

POWDERED AND PERFUMED (PATENTED)

The strongest and purest Lye made. Unlike other Lye, it being a fine powder and packed in a can with removable lid, the contents are always ready for use. Will make the best perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling. It is the best for cleansing waste pipes, disinfecting sinks, closets, washing bottles, paints, trees, etc.

PENNA. SALT M'F'G CO.
Gen. Agts., Phila., Pa.

Rickel & Sprott

-HAVE-

MONEY to LOAN

on long time, with privilege of partial payments, lawful interest.

FARMS for SALE and EXCHANGE

for large or small farms, and for stocks of goods:

FARMS

-and-

RESIDENCE PROPERTIES

-and-

VACANT LOTS

for sale or exchange.

WHAT HAVE YOU TO TRADE?

RICKEL & SPOTT

OUR YELL.

The Auburn High School Foot Ball Team, has developed a yell, which the "foreman" has kindly loaned to the DAILY. No one in the office can sing it however, not even the Devil, but we will transmit it to posterity in harmless type Here it is:

Boom, Bah! Boom, Bah! Boom, Bah! Bah!
Auburn High School, Rah! Rah! Rah!
Rip Roar!
Blood and Gore!
Auburn High School, Evermore!
That's Us,
Every Cuss,
Hear us yell,
We do it well.
Auburn, Auburn, We're the stuff.
Zip, Boom!
Give 'em enough.
Rah. for Auburn!
Rah. for the school!
Rah. for the ball team!
Rip! Rah! Rule!

Fifty-One Years

Dr. Ford remembered Saturday that it was just fifty-one years that day since he first set foot in Auburn. What a flood of memories must come over him as he thinks of the changes since that November, 30, 1844. Then the county was a wilderness. Now it is a vast area of well cultivated farms, and happy comfortable homes have taken the place of the temporary log cabins. Auburn was then but a mere speck, a breathing hole in the forest of tall trees that covered and shaded the land far and near. Now he can look over a town of nearly 3500 with its large and elegant stores, its immense factories, its miles of sidewalks, its half score of churches, its fine set of school buildings, its elegant opera house, mills, etc., etc. Then, there was little music except such as was made by the birds, the crickets and the whistling of the winds through the gigantic trees. Now we can listen to two excellent bands, we have two or three orchestras, and numerous choirs of talented singers. And so on in infinite lines. Then the Doctor could ride the forest trails day and night in a campaign of conquest over the elusive and hardy "fever 'n' ager" microbe. Now he would have to hunt to find anything of that sort to conquer, Diseases change. Then he could go out in the morning and bring down a deer for breakfast, from the forest that is now laid out in the town plat while now he goes for his venison to the wilds of Wisconsin. And so we might go on for chapters. And we have no doubt the Doctor thought of all these when on Saturday he happened to think of that long past event.

Lost In The Woods.

Just think of it! Lost in the woods in one of the "Thirteen Original States;" Sounds funny, don't it? Yet it happened about a week ago. Many newspaper men will remember Moses P. Handy, who helped them so much at the World's fair. Now his son is attending school at the Phillips Academy, Exeter, N. H. and he and another student went out in the late hours of the afternoon, to take a walk in a big piece of woods near by, called the "Oaklands." The darkness came on them while in the timber and they lost their way. The students at the college became alarmed at the failure of the two young men, to return, and about nine o'clock they organized a searching party. All night, students and professors tramped over the rocky hills with lanterns, but in vain. At three in the morning a new party was just starting out to relieve the first, when the two students, wet and half frozen, came in. They had passed the night in the cleft of some large rocks in the hills. It proves that we must now go to the extreme east, as well as the extreme west, for wild adventures.

Call 'Em Off.

Governor Matthews is all right, himself and fit for any position to which he may be called. But some of his fool friends ought to be lassoed and kept in doors for a time, or they will succeed in effectually killing him off as a political quantity. It is never wise to abuse one political leader for the purpose of elevating another. And it is never safe or wise to say that "all democrats are solid" for this man or that when perhaps the writer has not consulted with a single voter. Newspapers and their correspondents are doing too much of this "universal popularity" business which can only result in shelving the man it was intended to benefit. Why not wait till an intelligent people meets in convention and let them tell what they want? It looks too bad to see these fellows killing off as good a man as Matthews.

For hoarseness.

Benj Ingerson, of Hutton, Ind., says he had not spoken above a whisper for months, and one bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar restored his voice. It is used very largely by speakers and singers.

Robbins & McCord's. 52

The 54th Congress

The Congress that meets next Monday, Dec. 2, is the 54th. It will be composed of 356 members all told as follows: House 444, of which 244 are republicans, 104 democrats, with 8 independents and populists. The senate will have a total of 88; 43 republicans, 39 democrats and six populists. Utah will soon be admitted and then the senate will have a total of 90, making it 45 republicans or just one-half, as the two new senators are both republicans. The one republican member of the House from Utah, will add to the membership of that party its one vote. But no extreme legislation can be enacted by this congress, as Cleveland's term lasts as long as their.

THE NEW BRIDGE

We have a photo of the grand new bridge at St. Joe that our people ought to see. We do not believe there is as fine a bridge in northern Indiana as this one and it was got several hundred dollars cheaper than it could be had now, as the commissioners made the bargain before the sharp advance in the price of steel bridge and similar material. We believe all our large bridges should be made on this plan as a wooden bridge soon gives out. It is but a few years since the first bridge was put up on the site of this new one at an expense of of about half what this one cost. Now it is gone and we had to put this in its place, If we had built this steel bridge in the first place it would still be good and remain so for a life time.

THE FLOBERT GUN

John Miller out in Jackson township went out this morning to butcher some hogs, and by an accident, he was shot. The man who was going to shoot the hogs, had a Flobert rifle, and it went off accidentally, owing to some trouble in the lock. Mr. Miller happened to be standing in range and the ball entered his leg about three inches below the knee and come out the other side. It did not break the bones but went around under the skin. Dr. Swarts dressed the wound, and he thinks Mr. Miller will soon be out again.

Taxing Costs.

An exchange of a recent date in speaking of this matter says:

The new law of Indiana provides that all court costs taxed against litigants must be paid into the county treasury and the law makes it imperative on the part of the clerk of the county to issue bills in sixty days after judgment is rendered. As the fee bill adds from $2 to $10 to the costs, it will be well for parties to look after their court costs.

South Carolina.

This has always been a state of queer ideas and extremes in politics. Now they have just finished their new state constitution, and in that they have a new suffrage law. No one will be allowed to vote unless he, either can read and write or else pays taxes on $300 of property. This would disfranchise most of the negroes, and about the same number of poor whites. But they manage to favor the poor whites by giving them two years, during which they may be allowed to vote, in the absence of the two above named qualifications, provided they can explain certain sections in the state constitution. But when the two years are up, they will have to take their chances with the rest.

STRUCK BY A TRAIN.

At about 2 o'clock this morning Will Boger of Garrett met with quite an accident at Auburn Junction. Mr. Boger it seems has been paying a good deal of attention to Mrs Cone who lives on north Main street and yesterday being Sunday he made his usual visit. He left at about midnight for the Junction with the intention of catching the passenger train which is due there at 2:36 a. m. and going to Garrett. As there is no night agent at the Junction he had no means of knowing whether the train was on time, but he supposed it was late. A freight train was just leaving the Junction and the young man stated to the boys he would not wait but attempted to jump on the moving freight. In some way he missed his hold and fell between the platform and the moving train As he fell he struck the corner of the car and knocked him senseless. He fortunately fell with his head down and his feet and a part of his body remained on the platform while his head was between the platform and the moving train. The man was undoubtedly knocked senseless or he would not have remained still in that position till the train had passed. He did however and it was only by doing so that he was not cut to pieces. His left hip was broken besides several other bruises about his head. His clothes were also badly torn. Dr. F. M. Eines was called and his wounds dressed He was taken to his home at Garrett.

This should be a warning to the boys of Auburn who frequently jump on and off of moving trains. At the Lake Shore depot this is practiced quite frequently by small boys. It is dangerous and should be stopped. If parents have no control over their children the railroad officials should attend to them.

DR. HARTMAN SAYS.

Now is the Time to Guard Against Colds The First Cold Weather.

In a recent lecture at the Surgical Hotel Dr. Hartman is reported as saying that no one need catch cold if he is willing to give the matter a slight attention; that a cold is the beginning of chronic catarrh, consumption, diseases of the liver, stomach, kidneys and pelvic organs. All this could be prevented by taking his advice. The doctor's professional duties compelled him, for many years, to be much on the road night and day, by carriage, railroad and steamboat. During all this time he never caught a cold. This could not have been done without Peruna, he says. At the slightest evidence of a cold a few doses of Peruna invariably check it.

This is especially seasonable advice for the cold winter is here, with its storms, sudden changes, slop, rain and snow. Thousands of people will contract diseases from which they will never recover, by catching cold. Dr. Hartman's advice should be heeded. Peruna cures catarrh of any stage or location. It is the most popular remedy for lagrippe, coughs, colds, etc.

Send for a free copy of an illustrated book on catarrh. It contains sixty-four pages of valuable instruction. Address The Peruna Drug Manufacturing Co. Columbus, Ohio,. Ask your druggist for a copy of The Peruna Almanac for 1896.

Stole Hides

Thursday night thieves entered the slaughter house of Knisley & Swarts at Waterloo and stole twelve beeves, three calves and two horse hides and two sheep pelts. They were taken to Fort Wayne and sold to Wile Bros. for $36. A member of the Waterloo firm traced them to Ft. Wayne and notified the police. The police advised him to go before a justice and commence replevin proceedings. This was done to-day. The Fort Wayne Journal says that two Auburn boys are suspected and it is said that a clue exists by which their guilt may be discovered. We have been reliably informed that the men who stole the hides live between Auburn and Butler.

Pitcher's Castoria. Children Cry for Nine Million Steps a Year.

A Swiss statistician, a man of leisure, has taken the trouble to count the number of steps he took in walking during the whole year. The number he finds to have been 9,760,900 or an average of 26,740 steps a day. Going still further into details, he declares that over 600,000 of these steps were taken in going up and down stairs.

A Valuable Prescription.

Editor Morrison of Worthington, Ind. "Sun" says: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for constipation and sick headache, and as a general system tonic it has no equal." Mrs. Annie Stehle, 2625 Cottage Grove Ave. Chicago, was all run down, could not eat nor digest food, had backache which never left her, and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Prices 50 cents and $1.00. Get a bottle at Robbins & McCord's. 6

MOTHER AND BABE.

Both equally benefited by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Is the baby constipated? Then try this pleasant liquid laxative, both sure and mild, and pleasant to the taste. Has the mother indigestion or sick headache? There is nothing so effective. In 10c, 50c and $1 sizes, at F. E. Davenport's.

Cheap Gas

Prof. Letson Balliet, professor of engineering chemistry, at the Arkansas Methodist College at Arkadelphin, has discovered a new method for manufacturing illuminating gas. The gas is colorless and is capable of giving very high heat and yield twelve candle power from an ordinary illuminating burner. The process is purely chemical and is the cheapest known. The discovery is attracting much attention in the scientific world.

Awarded Highest Honors—World's Fair

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

SCHAAB & BROTHER,

The best place to buy

Dry Goods, Clothing, Ladies' Wraps, Carpets.

We will have something of importance to tell you next week.
WATCH THIS SPACE.
Respectfully,

SCHAAB & BRO.

Do you want a

Dinner Set For Christmas?

See us for 100-Piece Set,

Beautifully Decorated, at $5.50 to the finest HAVILAND CHINA SETS

OLDS BROS'.

North of Court House.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

THIRTY years' observation of Castoria with the patronage of millions of persons, permit us to speak of it without guessing.

It is unquestionably the best remedy for Infants and Children the world has ever known. It is harmless. Children like it. It gives them health. It will save their lives. In it Mothers have something which is absolutely safe and practically perfect as a child's medicine.

Castoria destroys Worms.
Castoria allays Feverishness.
Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd.
Castoria cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic.
Castoria relieves Teething Troubles.
Castoria cures Constipation and Flatulency.

Castoria neutralizes the effects of carbonic acid gas or poisonous air.
Castoria does not contain morphine, opium, or other narcotic property.
Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep.
Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk.
Don't allow any one to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose."

See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

AROUND THE WORLD.

INTELLIGENCE FROM ALL PARTS OF THE GLOBE.

News from Foreign Shores—Domestic Happenings—Personal Pointers—Labor Notes—Political Occurrences—Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Etc.

Ghouls in Cleveland.

The other day Mrs. Garvin Malloy, wife of John Malloy, was buried in Calvary Roman Catholic Cemetery, Cleveland. Next day her husband visited her grave, accompanied by Superintendent Callaghan, of the cemetery, who eyed the grave with suspicion, and after Mr. Malloy had gone, dug down to the casket. The body was missing. The police were notified, and immediately detectives were detailed to visit every medical college in the city. At Wooster Medical College the students were discovered in the act of embalming Mrs. Malloy's body. At the side of the grave was found an overcoat button, and its mates were found on the overcoat of Henry Griffin, janator of the college. The coat was short one button, and Griffin was arrested.

Three Persons Killed at a Crossing.

At the crossing of the Lake Shore and Michigan Railway and the Brown road, Toledo, Ohio, two men and a little girl were killed. They were Joseph Reimean, a farmer, about 35 years old, his daughter, Lizzie Reimean, 10 years old, and Ernest Neiver, a farmer, 60 years old. The two men were truck farmers returning home, and did not see the fast express, which was approaching at a terrific rate of speed. A switchman saw the impending tragedy, and called to them, but it was too late. The engine struck the wagon squarely, hurling its occupants a hundred feet. Both men were killed instantly, but the girl lived a few minutes. The horses were uninjured, and ran off home, conveying the first news of the accident to Reimean's wife.

Mother and Son Shot to Death.

At Fort Smith, Ark., Deputy Constable Ben Ayers shot Frank Howard, a colored boy, and almost immediately afterward, the boy's mother was shot and killed by Ike Buttrey, her husband. Ayers had arrested the boy for some trivial offense. At the door of the house the boy made a break for liberty when Ayers shot him in the back. This aroused his mother, who ran out to his assistance. But the boy's stepfather was aroused and mistaking his wife for a burglar who was making the disturbance, seized a gun and shot her in the breast, killing her instantly.

Accidentally Killed.

A shocking accident occurred at Milford near Elkhart, Ind., in which Frank Johnson, aged 8 years, was instantly killed. The lad, in company with his 10-year-old brother, was walking in the country when they met Clifford Robison, aged 16. While showing a gun which he carried, to the boys, young Robison accidentally pulled the trigger, discharging the entire contents into the younger Johnson's face. Owing to the close range the force of the charge was so great as to completely tear off the top of the boy's head.

Madagascar Missionaries Massacred.

London special: A dispatch has been received from Antananarivi., under date of November 22, which confirms the report of the massacre of missionaries in Madagascar. It says: "Two thousand natives yesterday attacked the mission station here. Missionary Johnson and his wife and child were murdered and their bodies were horribly mutilated. A Miss Clark, who was with them, is safe. The mob was actuated by a feeling of hostility against Europeans and other attacks are feared."

Holmes Sentenced to Death.

At the court of oyer and terminer, Philadelphia, Judge Arnold refused to grant Herman W. Mudgetts, alias H. H. Holmes, who was convicted on November 2, of the murder of B. F. Pitzel, a new trial, and sentenced the condemned murderer to death. Holmes, when he came into court, looked careworn and seemed to have lost that air of confidence which has clung to him throughout his ordeal.

Freight Wreck.

At Canterberg Hill, W. Va., on the Norfolk and Western railroad, a bad freight wreck occurred recently. Engineer Walter and Brakeman Hardin are fatally, and several others seriously injured. The loss to the company will run far into the thousands. Further particulars cannot now be ascertained.

Lynched the Wrong Men.

A San Francisco paper prints a letter from Arizona sighed Jean Doe, in which the writer says he committed the murder for which Garland Stemler and Louis Mureno were lynched by a mob at Yreka, Cal., last August. Two other men were lynched at the same time.

Postoffice Robbery.

Burglars entered the postoffice at Auburn, Ala., and blew open the safe with dynamite. They secured about $100, but did not molest the stamps. Several registered letters were overlooked. Judging from the character of their work they were evidently experts.

Terrible Battle.

A terrible battle took place at Hazel Green, Wolfe County, Kentucky, between John Williams and David Rose, two prominent and wealthy stock traders. Williams was killed and Rose is in a dying condition. They fell out during a settlement.

Masonic Temple Theater, Ft. Wayne Indiana.

Dec. 13.—"Country Circus."
Dec. 16—"Texas Steer."
Dec. 18—Camille D'Arville Opera Co.
Dec. 19.—"Darkest Russia."

Robbed in a Box Car.

Harry McCrady, a young man living at McGuffey, Ohio, while going from Kenton to Marion in a box car, was knocked down and robbed of $200 by three men supposed to be tramps. McCrady was found unconscious, and now lies in a critical condition.

Young Men Killed.

Harry March and Harry Shawke, two young men, were killed while trying to cross the Fort Wayne Railroad in a buggy at Leteonia, Ohio. They were struck by a locomotive of a fast freight. They were warned to stay off.

Jem Smith Knocks Dick Burge Out.

The fight between Dick Burge and Jem Smith for £200 and a purse of £300, took place at the Bollingbroke Club, London, in the ninth round Burge, who had been badly punished, fell several times from exhaustion, and referee Angle declared Smith the winner. Burge was not able to hit his opponent. The articles, which were signed in July last, provided for a twenty round fight.

Football Player Killed.

Memphis special: George Phealan, the son of the late Congressman Phealan, of this district, died at the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, from injuries received in a football game.

SLAIN BY THOUSANDS.

Victims of Anatolia Massacre Estimated to Number 40,000.

A dispatch from Sofia, Bulgaria, says: Armenians here who claim to be well informed estimate the property losses by the disturbances in Anatolia alone at $50,000,000, while the number of people massacred is said to reach 40,000.

The powers, instead of ordering their fleets away from Turkish waters, as the sultan earnestly requested, seem to be determined upon keeping them in this vicinity for an indefinite period. A portion of the British Mediterranean fleet, it is reported here, will soon leave Salonica Bay for Smyrna, where the powers are mustering their fighting ships. The warships of Great Britain expected to rendezvous at Smyrna, will consist of nine battle ships, four cruisers, and four smaller boats. The rest of the Salonica fleet will it is said, remain off that port for the present, ready for an emergency. France has already at Smyrna one battle ship, two cruisers, and two smaller ships. Italy's flag fleats from two battle ships, two cruisers, and four small crafts there. Russia has two cruisers on the way, in addition to a powerful fleet cruising in the western portion of the Black Sea. The United States will be represented by two cruisers and Germany has one small gunboat, but it is rumored that two German battle ships are on their way. Austria has one battle ship, two cruisers and two small gunboats. Of course this is not a naval demonstration. It is simply the concentrating of the foreign fleets at a port agreed upon—apparently between the powers.

SHOOK THE ISLAND.

Tremendous Explosion at Palma, Capital of the Island of Majoroa.

Barcelona special: A terrible accident resulting in a said loss of life, occurred at Palma, capital of the Island of Majoroa, 130 miles south of this city. Eighty persons, most of whom were women, were employed in emptying old cartridges outside the walls of the town when one of the cartridges exploded in some unknown manner. There was a large quantity of powder that had been taken out of cartridges lying about over a large area and this was ignited by the discharge of the cartridge. A tremendous explosion followed, which shattered the masonry of the town walls, which were extremely thick, and did considerable damage to houses. A large number of people were killed, but what the exact loss of life was has not yet been ascertained.

The bodies of seventeen dead have been found, but it is feared that many more were killed, their bodies, perhaps, having been blown to atoms, as a number of those who were at work have not been accounted for. Forty persons were seriously wounded and some of them will die. Many of the dead and wounded were found at considerable distances from the scene of the accident, they having been hurled bodily through the air by the force of the explosion. Some of the dead were terribly burned and mangled, so much so in a number of cases that identification will be extremely difficult, if not impossible. An official inquiry into the cause of the disaster will be held.

TRAMPLED ON OLD GLORY.

Canadians Pull Down the American Flag.

The stars and stripes caused a mimic war at Toronto, Ont., and its defenders came out winners. The early days of the present century were renewed at the Ontario Veterinary College, when a number of American students headed by a New York boy named Shaw produced an American flag and hoisted it in the main assembly hall just after Dr. Smith had finished his lecture.

No sooner was the emblem hung when a tall Canadian named Lindsay seized it, tore it from its fastenings and threw it on the floor. In a second Shaw sprung at him and knocked him down. Lindsay was up in a jiffy and he and Shaw clinched. The American was thrown against a desk and had his face badly cut. Then the boys took sides and a hot American and British battle followed. For twenty minutes a bloody and brutal scrimmage raged one of the most exciting features being around the black board, where a couple of American boys were trying to mark out a flag with chalk.

The college authorities finally quelled the riot, but only with considerable difficulty, for fully 150 boys and young men were engaged, about eighty of them being Americans. Many on both sides were seriously injured.

BURIED ALIVE.

More Than a Dozen Men Killed in a New York Mine.

An accident resulting in the loss of thirteen or fourteen lives occurred at a little after 3 o'clock Saturday, at Carmel, N. Y. Foreman Patrick was descending into the pit to take the time of two gangs of laborers, numbering about thirty-five men, who were working at the bottom, when a vast weight of earth and rock slid with the force of an avalanche from the mouth of the pit to the bottom, a distance of 300 feet. The earth crashed over the men with tremendous force. Out of one gang of eleven only five came out alive. Three of the men employed in another gang were taken out dead. Several workmen were seriously injured.

The cave-in caused the greatest excitement, but as soon as possible gangs of men were set to work to remove the bodies of those known to be under the mass of earth. Superintendent Tompkins and Foreman Lynch took charge of the work, and up to 5 o'clock five dead bodies had been brought to the surface.

Darkness prevented the continuance of the work of the rescurers. It is thought that all others in the pit are Italians and Australians. There was some difficulty experienced in identifying the bodies owing to the disfigurment they had undergone.

WITH DYNAMITE

Cuban Insurgents Blow Up Railway Trains.

Havana special: A dispatch received here from Puerto Principi announces that the insurgents have blown up with dynamite the engine of a train in the vicinity of Nuevitas, that province. The engine was demolished, the engineer and two firemen were terribly mutilated, and seven passengers were injured, among them being the widow of ex-Gen. Ygenico Agramente. The insurgents have also blown up a culvert on the railroad between Cajbarien and Remedios, province of Santa Clara, destroying ten cars loaded with cattle, and killing seventy head of cattle. The engineer of the train was seriously wounded and railroad communication between the interior and Remedios is temporarily interrupted.

Two Men Fatally Scalded.

There was a horrible scalding accident at Washington, Ind., and two men, Daniel Evans of Golden, Col., and John Welsh of Austin, Pa., are dying. These two men and four others were sleeping on the boiler frame at the electric light power house, when a mud valve in one of the boilers blew out, filling the room with steam so they could not see and covering the floor two inches deep with boiling water. The men climbed off the frame and, in their frantic endeavors to get out of the room, waded around and fell in the water until their entire bodies were terribly scalded. The screams of the poor fellows were heartrending, and it was four or five minutes before assistance reached them.

Typo Makes a Record.

The championship on the Mergenthaler linotype machine was won in Chicago by George W. Green, of the Boston Standard, whose opponent was Eugene Taylor, of the Rocky Mountain News, Denver. The stake was a purse of $500. Green set 70,700 ems in seven hours, corrected, solid nonpareil, to Taylor's 64,027, smashing all previous records. Mr. Green holds himself ready to defend his title against all comers. At the close of the contest Mr. Green received a challenge from Riley of Boston Much money changed hands.

Our Missionaries Safe.

Washington special: The latest dispatches to the State Department from United States Minister Terrell, states that he is now officially assured of the protection of the three ladies at Hadjin; that the provinces have been quiet for the last three days, and that the outlook is better. He adds that telegrams from Aintab and Marsovan report that missionaries are safe and protected, and that he is pleased to report that all our hundred and seventy-two missionaries in Turkey are now protected. The porte, he adds, gives assurances that tranquility will soon be restored.

Honor to Chicago's Dead Firemen.

Impressive funeral services were held over the remains of Patrick J. O'Donnell, John Downs, Martin Sherreck, and Thos. J. Prendergast, the firemen who followed duty to death in the Woolen Exchange building fire at Chicago. The services were conducted at three churches, great crowds assembling at each. The three corteges met at a designated point and proceeded together towards the cemeteries. St. Louis was represented by Assistant Chief Hillenkoelter and three other members of the fire department.

Hancock's Body to Be Removed.

It has been decided to remove the body of Maj. Gen. Winfield S. Hancock to Arlington Cemetery from Norristown, Pa., where it has rested since 1886. None of the projects to erect a monument at Norristown, Pa., has succeeded, and the committee of the Second Artillery Corps has secured the consent of members of the family to the removal. It is planned to have the burial in Arlington take place next spring, when a monument to Gen. Hancock on one of the public squares in Washington will be dedicated.

Tar and Feathers.

H. M. Rogers, a portrait picture dealer, claiming to hail from London, Ohio, was treated to a rail ride and a coat of tar and feathers at McArthur, Ohio, the other night. He had been paying attention to a young lady, and because of objections by the lady's parents, it is said, wrote an objectionable letter and spoke of her in very unbecoming terms on the streets. A mob of 100 persons aided or witnessed the rail ride from the Will House. He was sent out of town and told not to return.

Barely Four Hundre

Senator Hill was greeted by an audience of about 400 people at his first appearance as a public lecturer in Milwaukee, Wis. The prices of admission to the theater were too high, is given as an explanation of the rather small attendance. The lecture was on the subject of liberty. It was an elaboration upon a former speech of his delivered in New York, explaining why he was a Democrat, and why every true lover of liberty ought to be a Democrat.

Panic at a Funeral.

During the funeral services over Philip Smith, at Milledgeville, Ohio, a large piece of plaster paris moulding fell from the church ceiling upon a man's head, cutting an ugly gash in his scalp. Those present became frightened and started to rush out, but Rev. Wells, the minister, succeeded in inducing them to pass out slowly. The discourse was not finished and the remains had to be viewed on the outside of the building.

Four Miners Killed.

Reports of three accidents in the mining region, with four men killed, were received at Charleston, W. Va. At Eagle a fall of slate killed John Davlin outright, and so seriously injured Bank Boss John C. Bostick that he died. At Cedar Grove a premature blast knocked a lot of coal down on Wm. Stone, who will die from his injuries. At Edgewater George Epline fell off a high perch and broke his neck.

Murdered by Tramps.

Wm. A. Hadden, aged 20, a New Haven (Conn.) man, was thrown by tramps in front of a Lake Shore passenger train at South Bend, Ind. Hadden died four hours later. He was at one time a barkeeper at Chicago. James McMan, a transient, is under arrest.

Deacon Was Chief 'Shiner.

Reports from Union County, Tennessee, say revenue officers captured a still, twenty persons and 1,000 gallons of whisky. The still was run near a church, and a deacon of the church was the leader of the moonshiners.

Hayward Confesses.

A special from Minneapolis says that Harry Hayward, who is to be hanged next month for the murder of Miss Catherine Ging, and who has protested that he was innocent, has confessed his guilt.

A Tripple Alliance.

The Tageblatt, published at Berlin, asserts that Germany, Russia, and France have concluded an alliance committing them to common action upon all questions concerning Turkey.

Fatally Burned.

The home of Wm. Nowlin (colored), corner of North and Missouri streets, Indianapolis, was destroyed by fire. Nowlin and his wife were badly burned. The latter cannot recover.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.50 to $5.25; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 56c to 57c; corn, No. 2, 27c to 28c; oats, No. 2, 17c to 18c; rye, No. 2, 36c to 38c; butter, choice creamery, 22c to 24c; eggs, fresh, 19c to 21c; potatoes, per bushel, 20c to 30c; broom corn, common growth to choice green hurl, 2½c to 4c per pound.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.00; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $4.00 sheep, common to prime, $2.00 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2, 63c to 65c; corn, No. 1 white, 26c to 28c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 22c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 60c to 62c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 24c to 25c; oats, No. 2 white, 17c to 18c; rye, No. 2, 33c to 34c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 66c to 67c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 31c to 33c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 21c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 39c to 41c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $2.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 65c to 66c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 29c to 31c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 22c; rye, 38c to 40c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 65c to 66c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 28c to 29c; oats, No. 2 white, 20c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 38c to 40c; clover seed, $4.50 to $4.55.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 68c to 70c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 35c to 36c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 24c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 57c to 58c; corn, No. 3, 27c to 28c; oats, No 2 white, 18c to 20c; barley, No. 2, 35c to 36c; rye, No. 1, 37c to 38c; pork, mess, $7.75 to $8.25.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $4.25; sheep, $2.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 68c to 69c; corn, No. 2, 35c to 37c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 24c; butter, creamery, 16c to 24c; eggs, Western, 21c to 24c.

REPORTS OF CHIEFS.

SECRETARIES REVIEW WORK AND MAKE SUGGESTIONS.

Herbert Wants More Battle Ships and Torpedo Boats—Eckels Tells All About Banks—Lamont Is Pleased with the Condition of the Army.

Affairs of a Nation.

The total number of national banks organized since June 20, 1863, has been 5,023. There were in active operation on Oct. 31 3,715, with an authorized capital stock of $664,136,915, represented by 285,190 shareholders; average number of shares, 2,136; shareholders, 77. The total amount of their circulation outstanding was $213,887,630, of which amount $190,180,061 was secured by United States bonds, and $23,706,069 by lawful money deposited with the Treasurer of the United States.

During the report year forty-three banks were organized, located in twenty different States, with an aggregate capital stock of $4,890,000. Of these new banks twenty-eight, with a capital stock of $2,530,000, are in the northern and northwestern section of the country, and fifteen, with a capital stock aggregating $2,360,000, in the south and southwest. The number of banks organized during the year was less than 30 per cent. of the yearly average.

There was a net increase during the year of $10,779,597 in the amount of circulation secured by bonds and a gross increase of $6,322,540 in the total circulation.

Of the 3,715 banks in active operation, 2,901, with a capital stock of $536,725,832, are in the northern and northeastern half of the country, and 814, with a capital stock of $126,848,950, in the south and southwest. There are 2,611 national banks located east of the Mississippi River, with a capital stock of $527,612,792, and 1,104 west of the Mississippi, with a capital stock of $135,961,990.

The number of banks leaving the system by reason of the expiration of their corporate existence was four. During the year ending Oct. 31, 1896, the corporate existence of twenty-eight banks will expire. In the succeeding ten years, from 1896 to 1905, the corporate existence of 880 banks will expire. The number of banks leaving the system during the year through voluntary liquidation was fifty-one, having a capital stock of $6,093,100 and circulation of $1,152,000.

Receivers for thirty-six banks have been appointed during the year. The aggregate capital stock of these banks was $5,235,020 and their circulation $1,003,402. Of these banks, two, with a capital stock of $450,000, were reported last year as being in voluntary liquidation, and nine, with a capital stock of $2,750,000, were of the number of banks which closed their doors in 1893 and subsequently resumed business, but through continued business depression and the slow character of their assets were unable to meet their obligations, and were thus compelled to go into insolvency.

The following amendments to the law are recommended:

"1. That the Comptroller be empowered to remove officers of national banks for violations of law and mismanagement.

"2. That loans to executive officers and employes be restricted and made only upon the approval of the board of directors.

"3. That the assistant cashier, in the absence of the cashier, be authorized to sign the circulating notes of the bank and reports of condition.

"4. That some class of public officers be empowered to administer the general oaths required by the national-bank act.

"5. That bank examiners be required to take an oath of office and execute a bond.

"6. That upon a day in each year, to be designated by the Comptroller, the directors of national banks shall be required to make an examination of the affairs of the banks and submit to the Comptroller a report.

"7. That the Comptroller be authorized to issue circulating notes to the par value of the bonds deposited by them with the Treasurer of the United States to secure such notes.

"8. That the semi-annual tax on circulating notes of national banks be reduced to one-fourth of 1 per cent. per annum."

LAMONT'S REPORT.

Some Changes Recommended—Matters Are Generally Satisfactory.

In his annual report Secretary Lamont shows the effective strength of the army to be 20,584 of all arms. The new law regulating enlistments has greatly improved the personnel of the army, and has not impeded required enlistments. Of 7,780 men recruited during the year 5,518 were native born. The strictness of the examinations, physical, mental and moral, may be measured from the fact that 38,249 applicants were rejected. The addition of two companies to each of twenty-five infantry regiments, and two foot batteries to each of five artillery regiments is recommended. Four companies is the size command recommended for one officer's control. Increase from 800 to 2,000 yards in effectiveness of small arms is noted. The battalion organization of State militia is commended. For the contemplated increase in force $1,200,000 will be required annually. Over $5,000,000 reduction of expense for regular force, per year, has been effected. It is said the staff force of officers is too great, nearly one-third of the $5,069,570 of salaries going to this class. The present chiefs of bureaus in the staff organization of the army are pronounced capable and efficient men, in every way worthy of the responsible places they occupy and zealous in the faithful performance of duty. But a plan to insure retirement after a term of years, and promotion of next in rank, is recommended. The relations between regular army and State militia are most gratifying. At need, over 100,000 volunteers, equipped for active duty in the highest sense, could be placed in the field within forty-eight hours. Considerable space is filled by the Secretary in considering the questions of seacoast defenses, dynamite guns, etc., and river and harbor improvements and numerous other subjects are considered.

SECRETARY HERBERT'S DESIRE.

Two More Battleships and Twelve Torpedo Boats Recommended.

Secretary Herbert, in his annual report, shows the progress made during the year in the construction of Government cruisers, and speaks in high praise of the workmanship on the new navy. He also outlines the work under contract, and says:

"An inspection of the relative strength of navies will furnish, it is believed, all the argument now needed for the continuation of the building program heretofore indicated by the action of Congress. We are not in want of ordinary unarmored cruisers or of gunboats, but we are lamentably deficient in torpedoboats, and we certainly need more battleships. An inspection of the building programs of other nations will demonstrate that the lessons taught at Yalu and Wei Hai Wei have tended to confirm the belief of naval experts throughout the world in the efficacy of these two classes of vessels.

"I respectfully recommend the construction of two battleships and at least twelve torpedoboats. The gratifying progress made by our manufacturers of steel and our shipbuilders and the competition among them has enabled the department during the last two years to contract for gunboats and torpedoboats at a very large reduction from former prices. The price per ton for the gunboats Machias and Castine, contracted for in April, 1890, was $302,86, the average price of the three gunboats contracted for in January, 1894, and of the six others just let out to contract is $222.84 per ton, a saving of $80.52 per ton, or 26 per cent. of the price of the ships. The price of the Ericsson, contracted for in October, 1891, was $945.83 per ton. The average price of the six torpedoboats contracted for in 1895 is $766.58 per ton, a reduction of $179.25 per ton, or of about 20 per cent. in the price of the boats. These prices compare very favorably with the prices for similar work done abroad."

Secretary Herbert devotes considerable space to consideration of armor plates, ordnance, projectiles, submarine boats, automobile torpedoes, etc., and to improvements in the business methods of the department.

In Chinese Villages.

Mr. Weldon and I often went into the villages, walking between the fields of shivering rice, but far oftener the villagers came to see us in our houseboat—men, women, babies, dogs and all. Always some little side canal, the offshoot of the main waterway, was the only street between or before the village houses. There was always the towpath, but the best route was by a second path leading behind the houses. By following that we passed through the farms and yards. We saw the men and women thrashing the rice by beating a log with handfulls of it to scatter the kernels on the ground. We saw the farmers turning the soil over and breaking it up laboriously, or punching holes in the thick clay, dropping seeds in them, and then smearing the holes over with a rake. We went into the inner courts of the better houses, and noted how the men, and even the tiniest baby boys, thrust themselves forward to greet us, while the women and girls slunk behind or merely peeped through the doorways and open windows—the latter being Elizabethan contrivances, framed for little panes of oiled paper or the enamelled inner coating of seashells. White goats, wolfish dogs, common-sense chickens, hump-backed cows and nose-led buffaloes make up the animal life that is so painfully missing in Japan and so abundant in China.

The Balky Horse.

Notwithstanding the fact that the press continually admonishes whom it may concern that it does no good to whip or pound a balky horse, almost every owner or driver of one does it today. It is probably the greatest piece of horse folly in existence. It is not a remnant of barbarism, says the National Stockman, but is continued barbarity, and brings out what original and acquired sin there is in a man.

The brain of a horse can retain but one idea at a time. If the idea is to sulk, whipping only intensifies it. A change of that idea, then, is the only successful method of management. This may be accomplished in scores of ways, a few of which will be named: Tie a handkerchief about his eyes; tie his tail tightly to the belly-band or back band; fasten a stick in his mouth; tie a cord tightly about his leg; uncheck and pet him awhile; clasp his nostrils and shut his wind off until he wants to go; unhitch him from the vehicle and then hitch him up again, or almost any way to get his mind on something else. Whipping or scolding always does harm. The treatment should ever be gentle. There are more balky drivers than horses.

The Luciferians, an early Christian sect, took their name from Lucifer, the Bishop of Cagliari.

CALLING HIM OFF.

Uncle Sam—Hi, there! Get out of that! You're getting altogether too near my back yard!—Chicago Tribune.

YELLS AND GOALS.

BIG THANKSGIVING DAY FOOT-BALL GAMES.

Michigan Beats Chicago in the Annual Battle—Chicago Athletics Play a Tie with Boston Athletics—Big Attendance at All the Games.

Results of Battles.

FOOT-BALL games are over, the season having ended with the contests of Thanksgiving day. It has been by far the greatest year the college game has known in the West. University of Michigan went East and lost to Harvard by the narrowest of margins. Then the wolverines returned West and found teams that worried them almost as much as had the crimson. This only goes to show that the East and West are coming quickly to a level in foot-ball matters. As a result of her decisive defeat of Chicago, says a Chicago correspondent, Michigan can, with much justice, claim the championship of the West. She has not played the strong teams west of the Mississippi—Missouri, Nebraska, and Kansas—but there is not good reason for believing that she does not excel them, improved as they are along with the other teams of the West. Purdue's defeat of Illinois after the latter's decisive victory over Northwestern and the close score between the Indiana men and Ann Arbor—12 to 10—places Purdue high in the Western plane. The scores at the close of Thursday's games stood as follows:

University of Michigan, 12; University of Chicago, 0.

Chicago Athletic Association, 4; Boston Athletic Association, 4.

Purdue, 6; University of Illinois, 2.

University of Pennsylvania, 46; Cornell, 2.

University of Nebraska, 6; Iowa University, 0.

Missouri University, 10; Kansas University, 6.

Brown University, 10; Dartmouth, 4.

Stanford, 6; University of California, 6.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS.

Reports on Winter Wheat, Hessian Fly, and Hog Cholera.

Reports have been received from the correspondents of the Farmers' Review in twelve States relative to the condition of winter wheat, ravages of the Hessian fly, and the prevalence of hog cholera.

Winter Wheat.—In Illinois some of the late-sown wheat is not yet up. Dry weather interfered with both the sowing and development of the seed. Some of the early-sown that has come up is weak and small in size. Although the condition is at present hardly fair, yet there is a probability that great improvement will take place. In Indiana the present condition is not good, drought having been the great retarding factor. In Ohio drought has had very harmful effect. Some of the correspondents report the seed rotted in the ground. In other cases it has made small growth. Late rains have done some good. Early sown wheat is doing well in localities. In Michigan it is in bad condition, in some localities the worst for many years. Kentucky reports very poor outlook, the drouth having hurt the crop everywhere. The same causes have operated to the detriment of the crop in Missouri. Kansas reports indicate that the late rains have done some good, but the effects of the dry fall are such that the general condition is poor. In Nebraska little has been sown, and the outlook is poor to fair. The little sown in Iowa is in fair condition. In Wisconsin the condition is very poor.

Hessian Fly.—In Illinois, Hessian fly is reported in only a few counties. Very little injury from this source is heard of in Indiana. In Ohio a little is reported in the early sown wheat, but little harm has been done. In a few localities in Michigan the fly is working, but most of the counties are free. Almost no damage is reported from Kentucky. The fly is present here and there in Missouri, but seems to be of no particular consequence. Kansas reports small ravages of this insect, and the same is generally true of Iowa, Nebraska and Wisconsin.

Hog Cholera.—In Illinois the ravages of hog cholera are causing immense loss to the farmers. In some of the counties half of the hogs have died, and the disease continues. In a large number of localities it is the worst for several years. In some counties it appears to have spent its force, and the losses have ceased. In Indiana many counties are still free from the plague, while in a few the losses have been great. Some loss is reported in Ohio, but taking the State as a whole there is little damage. Michigan reports small loss from this cause, and Kentucky is comparatively free. The disease is ravaging a few counties in Missouri, but most of them have not sustained heavy loss. Kansas and Nebraska report hog cholera prevalent, but not greatly so. Iowa is a sufferer. In many of her counties loss from this disease has been heavy. Little cholera is reported in Wisconsin, Minnesota and the Dakotas.

The Comic Side of The News

California strawberries are in the local market, but they are not in our midst.

Four girls who would kiss one New Yorker ought to be fined; there are enough men to go around.

The Indianapolis Sentinel says that "the big theater hat is going out." Don't give it a return pass check.

Philadelphia reported a slight earthquake shock recently. Probably the same one we had several weeks ago.

Something is the matter with Nellie Bly. We don't know what it is; but she hasn't broken out in print for nearly a week.

A Washington paper announces that that town is now overrun with tramps. The new crop of Congressmen evidently is beginning to arrive.

Two New York thieves have been arrested for stealing a copper roof off a lofty building. Some of these days those fellows will steal a well, cut it up and sell it for post holes.

A Kentucky father took his gun to a train the other day and intercepted his eloping daughter. It begins to look as if Cupid would better swap his bow and arrows for a revolver.

During a political debate the other day, Kentucky's Secretary of State indulged in some cutting remarks and made a few incisive arguments with a dirk knife. They think the other fellow will live.

Spain is about to send 30,000 more troops into Cuba. It is believed that this number will be sufficient to satisfy the yellow fever for a while and give the acclimated soldiers a chance at the Cubans.

INDIANA STATE NEWS.

OCCURRENCES DURING THE PAST WEEK.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crimes, Casualties and General News Notes of the State.

Cures All.

Indianapolis has a healer, who professes to powers possessed by the Denver Messiah, Schlatter. He is George W. Bunting, building inspector under the present city administration. Bunting is a Spiritualist, and the walls of his office are decorated with slate writings, which he claims are messages from the unseen world. Up to date Bunting has concealed his light under a bushel, but when questioned recently, he admitted that he had for years practiced the healing art by the laying on of hands, and that he had cured not less than 2,000 people, for which he had never charged a cent.

Bunting is a Southerner, and served in the Confederate army. He says he possesses the hypnotic power, as well as the curative, and, besides being a believer in Spiritualism, claims to be a medium. He says that the reason he has kept his powers a secret is because he was afraid people would think him a crank, but that now healing by the laying on of hands has come to be recognized as possible, he will openly treat all comers.

He gives a number of illustrations of his alleged cures.

Plenty of Gas.

The opinion of prominent gas men that the first cold snap of the winter will catch the majority of the cities and towns short of gas is not fully shared by State Natural Gas Inspector Leach. He thinks with proper service there should be plenty of gas in all the towns and plenty for factories besides. It has come to the ears of the Inspector that some companies are purposely stinting their patrons by holding back part of the natural supply that the consumers are entitled to. This will be looked after by Prof. Leach. On all complaints of shortage by consumers, he will take measurements of the gas supply, both at the point of consumption and at the wells in the field, and if there is any 'holding back' he will at once detect the deception and prosecute the companies. During the most critical period of the winter, Inspector Leach will make a thorough personal inspection of all the gas systems in the State, extending the investigations to the source of supply in the fields. He proposes that the companies shall give their patrons the best possible service.

Minor State Items.

An anti-saloon war has begun in Greencastle.

Coal has been discovered near Williamsburg.

The soldiers' home at Lafyette will open, Jan. 1.

Bloomington hopes so have free mail delivery by Jan. 1.

Jonathan Gordon, an Osgood farmer, committed suicide. Temporary insanity.

A farm-gate manufactory has located at Franklin and will employ a number of men.

Richard Austin, an old colored man of Kokomo, was found dead sitting in his chair.

James McNutt, aged 90, was found dead in the snow between his house and barn at Goshen.

Elmet Frazer, of Peru, was crushed to death by a log falling on him at Brownell's planing mills.

A running meeting is being discussed at Terre Haute to take the place of a trotting meeting, next fall.

While taking down a gas derrick near New Castle, a heavy piece of timber fell on William Walton, instantly killing him.

The body of John Thompson was found at the foot of a stairway in the Greensburg court house. He fell down stairs and broke his neck.

Charles Walters of Elkhart, aged 21, was running an emery wheel at Elkhart, when the wheel burst, making a large hole in his head. He will die.

While a party of loggers were cutting timber near Brookville a falling timb struck Charles Huddleson on the side producing injuries which will probably cause his death.

In the last two month hogs have been dying by the hundred around Kokomo. They were treated for cholera. It has been learned that they died from eating pumpkin seeds.

The spiritualists and anti-spiritualists are at war again in Anderson. One element has engaged the opera house for Sundays, and the other for week days, and they propose to say some things about each other.

Maj. C. B. Rockwood, of Indianapolis, mustered in a new company of State militia of fifty-three members at Crawfordsville recently. The captain is Joseph McDaniel; first lieutenant, Clint Williams; second lieutenant, Ed Sergeant.

A meeting was held at the M. E. Church at Lebanon, and steps taken to remonstrate against the granting of licenses to saloon keepers. Several speeches were made and from present indications Lebanon will experience a first-class anti-saloon war.

A local business house in Wabash advertised that it would give 5 per cent. of its gross sales for a day to the Wabash County Orphan's Home. There was a rush to buy on the strength of it, and the sales aggregated $1,681, of which $83 was turned over to the Orphan's Home Board.

The annual statement, showing the condition of the ninety-eight State banks of Indiana, has been completed at the Auditor's office. The total resources of these banks are $15,681,343.52. They have a combined capital stock of $4,799,400. Their loans and discounts amount to $10,727,630.07, and their cash on hand at the end of the fiscal year $1,566,551.86. Their demand deposits on hand amounted to $8,380,681.47, and the time deposits were $481,144.50. During the year eight new banks were established. The reports submitted to the Auditor indicates that the year was a reasonably successful one with the banks.

Commissioner Miller's report on internal revenue gives the following figures for Indiana: The State contributed $6,804,164 internal revenue to the national treasury for the fiscal year. Indiana ranked seventh in this regard; 63,651,923 cigars were manufactured in Indiana and 1,000 cigarettes. Seventeen distilleries were operated in Indiana, fourteen of them being grain distilleries, consuming 1,500,000 bushels of grain; 969,478 gallons of spirits were rectified, 8,700 cattle and 7,125 hogs were fed, and 10,538,892 taxable gallons of distilled spirits were ganged. The production of fermented liquors amounted to 592,224 barrels.

Several students have been expelled from Wabash college. They belonged to the order of "Red dragons," whose purpose is to have a good time. One student refused to leave town and he was publicly expelled from school, when the other students hissed the college president.

The following officers were elected by the Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. of Indiana in session at Indianapolis: Grand Master, C. F. Northern, of Greensburg; Deputy Grand Master, Judge G. L. Rhinehard, of Rockport; Grand Warden, Dr. R. Davis, of Portland; Grand Secretary, B. F. Foster, of Indianapolis; Grand Treasurer, James F. Wildman, of Indianapolis; Supreme Representative, M. A. Chipman, of Anderson.

CHAPTER XVIII—(Continued.)

The afternoon after the ball Jane went out driving with her mother, and at the latter's suggestion went round by the gardens where every one usually gathered about that time. The band of the ——th Hussars was playing, and they pulled up for a few minutes to listen to it. Though they were themselves almost out of sight, they could easily distinguish the different people walking about or playing tennis.

The first person Jane recognized was Colonel Prinsep, standing talking to some one who could be no other than Miss Knollys, about whom just now every one was talking.

"Jane, Jane! You will break my heart," cried Mrs. Knox at last.

"What is it, mother?" asked Jane, with quiet patience. She had had so many of these scenes of late, and all had pointed to the same object.

"How can you ask? You think I have no feelings. Do you imagine it is a pleasant sight for a mother to see another woman in the place her daughter might have occupied?"

"What place do you mean?" was the next question, almost in a whisper.

"You must know that if you had liked you might have married the Colonel," was the indignant reply.

"Hush, mother! No one has the right to say such things—not even you; and Colonel Prinsep has never said a word of love to me."

"How could he when you were engaged to a sergeant in his own regiment?"

"No one regrets that I engaged myself so rashly more than I; but it is too late to go back now. Mother darling, won't you help me to do what is right?"

But Mrs. Knox thrust her away and rose angrily to her feet.

"I believe you are in love with the man!" she exclaimed, crossly.

"Heaven help me! I wish I were!" sighed Jane, sadly.

Almost immediately after Jane had passed, Colonel Prinsep on some trival excuse left Miss Knollys' side.

Since the ball he had seen her several times—had called at the house—dined there, and meeting her in different places, had almost persuaded himself that he at any rate liked and admired her. But at the sight of Jane the fallacious hopes he had built up fell to the ground like a house of cards. Her voice—for she spoke and asked if that were the quartermaster's little daughter—sounded harsh and unwomanly, her face lost all its beauty in his eyes; and even her movements, which had been the charm on which he especially insisted, appeared conscious and lacking in natural grace. He had been playing at being in love, and the better to personate the character he had assumed, had bandaged his eyes; but the blindness was only simulated, and seeing clearly, he knew that there at least he was heart-free.

On the following morning he was up betimes, and went for a gallop over the maidan. The animal he rode had not been mounted for some days, and he and horse alike enjoyed the stirring ride. The fresh air seemed to clear his brain, and left him brighter than he had felt for a long time.

Coming back he passed the parade ground, where the men were being drilled by the adjutant, and he drew rein to watch them for awhile.

The first man that he particularly noticed was Sergeant Lynn, on account of the restiveness of his charger, a high-spirited country-bred animal, which was fretting considerably under restraint, and already bore on his steaming flanks the marks of his rider's disapproval. The sergeant sat him steadily with a set, determined face; but directly the adjutant dismissed the parade he set spurs into his sides with such unnecessary vigor that the horse first reared and then set off round the ground at a tearing gallop.

Valentine Graeme cantered up to the colonel.

"We shall be obliged to have parade an hour earlier soon, sir. The sun is getting very strong already."

"Too hot for such violent exercise as that"—pointing to the sergeant, who was still struggling to keep the unmanageable beast in a straight course.

"Too hot for my taste, at any rate," laughed Val. "But Lynn rather prides himself upon being able to ride any horse, and this one has rather put him upon his mettle."

"By the by, I heard in rather a roundabout way that Sergeant Lynn had taken to drink. Has anything come under your notice?"

The good-natured adjutant, who was always the last person to get anybody into trouble, hesitated for awhile.

"Well, he has not been very steady, sir, just lately, and I have had complaints of his irritability as well—just look how he is punishing that horse! The report is among the men that he is in love."

"I suppose you don't know with whom?"

"No, I don't, sir, but I can find out if you wish it."

"On no account. I have no curiosity on the subject," returned the colonel, hastily.

"It would be a thousand pities if Sergeant Lynn went to the bad," remarked Mr. Graeme, meditatively. "We haven't another man so good at tent-pegging and lemon-slicing, and he's a first-rate cricketer. Our sports would certainly suffer if we lost him."

"Perhaps he will settle down when he marries," said the colonel, with a pained frown, which deepened as the sergeant passed with his horse, now entirely subdued.

"I pity his wife, if he is going to break her spirit the same way he tames his horse. Besides, I don't believe in any woman working any permanent reformation with such a man as that. Those weak, obstinate natures require a deal of keeping in the path that they should go."

"I will meet you in the orderly room," said the colonel, abruptly, and galloped off. He could no longer bear the thought that the man they had been discussing was the chosen husband of the girl he loved. What a fate for any delicate woman! And Jane, with her sensitive refinement, would feel it more than most, unless indeed she became hardened from contact with so inferior clay.

CHAPTER XIX.

The next day was Sunday. Jane went to church with her father and mother, and sat throughout the service with her eyes fixed upon her book. A faint, fugitive color flitted across her face as she heard a gay jingling of spurs and the clanking of swords on the stone floor, and by a sudden silence, after a short confusion, knew that the regiment had come in and fallen into their places close behind where she was sitting. But she never looked up, though once she felt that some one was gazing at her by the strange consciousness that came over her. She heard some of the voices raised for the responses, and in the hymns; but the voice that she listened for so hungrily she could not distinguish.

The Knoxes sat near the door, and consequently were among the first to leave church after the service was ended. Only one lady was before them, and as she turned aside, to wait for some one who was still inside, Jane saw that it was the commissioner's daughter.

A sharp pang smote her as she saw all the reports she had heard of her rival confirmed.

Diana Knollys on her side felt reassured. The girl whose influence she had instinctively feared was fair beyond all doubt, but so pale and expressionless, and apparently quite incapable of making the most of the charms that she possessed. But the glimpses that Colonel Prinsep had caught of the small, sweet face which used to be so bright with glowing health, and was now so pitiably white, had confirmed him in his already half-formed purpose. He would see Jane and plead with her again, not from the cold standing of disinterested friendship, but as a lover who would fain win her favor for himself.

He waited till the afternoon, and having seen from his veranda Mr. and Mrs. Knox drive past to the second service, he took up his hat and walked quickly in the direction of their bungalow.

It was very hot that day, and all the windows and the doors were open, while through the fluttering curtains he could see Jane asleep on a sofa at the further end of the room. After a momentary hesitation, he entered and stood beside her.

The intensity of his gaze seemed to disturb her uneasy slumbers. She opened her eyes, and seeing him so suddenly, forgot the barrier between them, starting up with a little cry, a sweet smile lighting up her face. He might have taken her in a close embrace and kissed her into further forgetfulness, only that he would not take advantage of the momentary confusion of thought. He would not surprise her into a surrender; she should come to him deliberately, after due consideration, or not at all.

"My poor little love!" broke from him softly.

As he spoke, remembrance came upon her like a blow. She could only cover her face with her hands and cry silently, and he stood still waiting patiently till she should recover, not daring to attempt any consolation lest he should say too much.

Presently she looked up and tried bravely to smile.

"I did not know that I could have been so stupid, but you startled me. I had fallen asleep—with the heat—and——"

"I ought not to have come as I did," finished Colonel Prinsep, gravely. "I came through the window like a thief."

Then he, too, stopped short, recollecting what it was he would like to steal, not the quartermaster's "ducats," but his "daughter."

"You want to see my father?" asked Jane, rising.

"I want to see yourself—only."

At the meaning tone, she gave one startled glance into his face; then sunk back again on to the sofa.

"Me?" she echoed, faintly.

"Jenny, every man has one try for his life, and there is more than mere life at stake with me now. If I lose you, there is nothing in existence that can console me. Can you wonder that I come to plead my cause?"

He knelt down beside her, but carefully refrained from touching even the hem of her white gown. He only looked earnestly into her face, and repeated what he had told her.

"I love you, Jenny! Is there no hope?"

With tremulous voice she replied: "I am promised to another."

"If you loved me, you would not hesitate in your choice."

She looked at him passionately, as though about to speak, then checked herself, and after a moment, during which he was waiting for her to reply, she went and stood beside the open window.

"You have done enough to vindicate your woman's honor—show a little womanly weakness now," he whispered, after awhile. "I think you love me, Jenny. For my sake make a sacrifice of pride."

"I will write and tell him all," she exclaimed, impulsively. "I will write now."

Moving hurriedly across the room, she knelt down beside the writing-desk and took out some materials. Colonel Prinsep, remaining where he was, listened intently to her pen as it passed rapidly over the paper, knowing that every word she wrote was bringing her nearer to him. Already he felt the certainty of triumph, yet would not forestall the sweets of his success. Even when she closed the letter and placed it in his hand, he only thanked her with his eyes.

"Shall I give it to him myself?" he asked her, touching the letter.

"I don't think that will be necessary. Give it to my father to send. That is he coming back now"—as a sound of wheels was heard outside. "I would give it to him myself, but—but I would rather not speak of this to any one until it is settled."

Finding the hall empty he went out in the veranda, and there encountered Mrs. Knox, slowly pulling off her gloves as she came in. At sight of him she started and seemed surprised.

"How do you do, Colonel Prinsep? You wish to see my husband?" she interrogated, coming unconsciously to the same conclusion that Jane had come to half an hour before. And this time the Colonel did not dissent.

"Can you tell me where he is?" he counter-questioned.

"I dare say he has gone to the mess; but he did not tell me so. We always dine later than usual on Sunday evenings as he is so uncertain. Sometimes he takes long walks, and is not back before nine o'clock."

For a moment the Colonel hesitated. To follow the quartermaster would be a fruitless errand, not knowing in what direction he had gone; and it would be a needless trial to himself, as well as embarrassing to Jane, were he to wait here for his return. The sooner the note was sent the better, and Mrs. Knox could forward it as well as her husband. He gave it into her hand.

"It was to give him this note. But if you see that it reaches, it will do as well."

She glanced at the superscription, but as she saw that it was addressed to Sergeant Lynn, her careless expression was changed for one of vivid interest.

"From Jane? Oh, Colonel Prinsep, have you persuaded her to break off that terrible engagement?" she cried, eagerly.

"Not exactly that, but I hope it will come to the same thing. She has written to beg him to release her. If he does—and I scarcely think he could refuse—you must be prepared to reconsider the subject of a son-in-law, Mrs. Knox."

She stared at him, scarcely understanding. That some happy change of program was impending she realized, but not what the extent of that change would be.

"You won't object to me?" he asked her, smiling.

Her whole face became radiant, as she saw her life's ambition at last likely to be fulfilled. In her gratitude she could almost have knelt before him and kissed his feet, only that she recollected she must keep up her dignity for Jane's sake. Recollecting, too, the fate which had been so nearly hers she could scarcely restrain her delight.

"You have made me the proudest mother in India," she cried.

"You ought to be so," he returned, gravely. "You have the noblest daughter."

Knowing all that she had done in the vain endeavor to shake Jane's determination to be true, Mrs. Knox had the grace to feel and look ashamed.

The Colonel brought the conversation to a close. He had already said more than he intended, but he felt the need of a confidante all the more that he had put such a restraint upon himself in his interview with Jane. He put out his hand to say "good-by."

"Then I will leave the note with you, and you will send it on at once. I expect I shall see you again shortly. Directly Jane writes for me, I will come."

It was eight o'clock when the messenger returned, and Mrs. Knox was the only one who saw him arrive. She took the letter quickly from his hand, and turned it over as though she might guess what was in it from the outside. Then she saw that, if she pleased, she might master the contents before her daughter saw it; the envelope had been either insufficiently gummed, or in the sender's haste he had not fastened it at all.

In her uncontrollable curiosity, she scarcely combatted the temptation which assailed her, but taking it into the sitting-room, drew out the letter and spread it open. To her surprise it was in Jane's own writing, and, as she immediately guessed, the very note she had written two hours before.

She read it through to solve the mystery of its return. The letter, which had no beginning, ran as follows:

"It is with deepest shame I write to you now, to tell you what I ought to have told you long ago. You must have guessed that, even when I first promised to marry you, there was no love for you in my heart; but you could not know that since then I have learned to care for some one else, who also cares for me, or I think you would of your own accord have done as I am going to ask you to do. I want you to give me up. No reproaches you might heap on me could shame me more than the sight of what I have just written—after all my promises to be true to you through all. My only excuse is perhaps that it is truer truth to tell you all now than to deceive you longer. And if you still wish to hold me to my promise, I will do my best to make you a good wife, though I can never be a loving one. Be generous, Jacob, and release me if you can—if not, I am, as always, your sincere friend, JANE."

Not until she had read to the end, did Mrs. Knox discover the reply. It was in one short sentence:

"Heaven help me, I cannot give you up! J. L."

(To be continued.)

WE STAND AT THE HEAD.

Our Postoffice Department the Greatest in the World.

The United States has 70,000,000 population. Europe has 380,000,000. But the United States postoffice handles about as much mail matter as all Europe put together. In 1895 the United States railway mail handled 10,777,875,040 pieces. Mulhall gives the number of pieces in all Europe as 9,237,000,000 in 1888. Some increase has taken place since then, and Russia is omitted from Mulhall's tables; but the aggregate today is not over 11,000,000,000, or just about equal to our railway mail service mail.

The cost of our mail service is far below the aggregate of all Europe. The entire cost of our postal system in 1893 was $84,321,489. A return just made by the Berne International Bureau gives the expenses of the eight European nations, which combine post and telegraph expenses, at $185,000,000. The expenses of the nine nations having a postoffice alone were $25,000,000. In all, Europe handled in 1893 11,000,000,000 pieces for $210,000,000, while this country handled about the same number of pieces for $85,000,000.

This disproportion is, however, no credit to the United States. It is due to the fact that in almost all European countries farmers have their mail delivered at their doors. Here the farmer is required to go for his mail. Abroad rural and city districts are treated alike in free deliveries, save that the deliveries are more frequent in the cities than in the country.

The United States Postoffice Department is not only the greatest in the world—and its expenditure is greater than that of any one country, Germany coming next with $67,700,000—but its growth is more rapid. In the last thirty years in this country the number of letters has grown about five-fold.

Cubans Fight with Dynamite.

The Cubans have adopted dynamite as a means of combatting the Spaniards in the protracted revolution, the echoes of which are now beginning to be heard throughout Europe. In the last battle between the combatants, fought in the mountains near Ramon de las Yagnas, the Cubans had filled holes in the earth with dynamite, and these mines they exploded while Spanish regiments were passing by. At the first explosion a Spanish lieutenant and thirteen soldiers were blown into pieces, and this so terrified the Spaniards that an entire company is said to have deserted to the insurgents. Several other explosions followed, which, though less fatal than the first, spread dismay among the Spaniards and greatly demoralized them.

Welding Lead.

An ingenious method of welding lead has been recently devised in France by M. Blondel. The surfaces to be joined are carefully cleaned, and between them is placed a thin layer of lead amalgam. On passing an ordinary soldering iron along the line of junction the mercury of the amalgam is vaporized, and the lead, set free in an exceedingly finely divided state, fuses and unites the two surfaces together.

INTEREST to-day as never since the Russo-Turkish war is centered on the crumbling Ottoman empire by the Bosphorus. It is tottering to its fall, as it has been tottering during a century, and although the jealousies of European nations may prevent its complete collapse now, the day is not far distant when the Eastern question, so far as the Turk is concerned, shall forever have been settled. It is interesting then to glance at the condition of the "sick man of Europe" and, in doing so, we shall not confine ourselves to connected narrative, but shall deal with those phases of Turkish life that appeal to us as the most expressive and impressive.

Constantinople, the capital of the empire, has three main parts—Stamboul, the Turkish quarter; Galata and Pera, the European quarter, and Scutari, the holy quarter, but in each the Eastern nationalities are mixed in a confusing way. Only half the population is Turkish, the other half is Greek, Armenian, Jewish and European. It is all a jumble of colonies, in juxtaposition the one to the other, divided by insurmountable barriers of customs, of language and of ideals. Each community professes to defy and disdain the others. The Jew is put at the bottom rung of the social ladder; in this hierarchy he hardly passes the level of the bootblack.

The Peasant Turk.

The Turk is majestic. He admits only four vocations fit for him—that of a government officer, a soldier, a priest and an agriculturist. He is just enough of an agriculturist to raise in each instance for himself, leaving his empire to buy her wheat and flour from Hungary and Russia.

The Turk of the country—the peasant, the farmer—whom power has not corrupted nor oppression debased, is said to be a good deal of a man, an upright man. His sobriety is proverbial, for he lives on black bread and cold water. He knows nothing of the dram shop. He is clean in his habits, and yet he lives in what amounts to a hole in the ground, without furniture or windows. Generally speaking, he takes but one wife, and if he takes a second he treats her kindly and adores his children. His kindness to animals is beyond praise. He is generous, rarely refusing alms; he is hospitality itself. He sets forth his best, and with infinite tact. He is not a hard worker. If he produces more than he eats he knows the tax sharks will grab it. Sometimes, when peasants hear that dignitaries or soldiers are coming, they flee to the mountains—they know there is nothing left in the path of such guests. Oppressed by taxation and living from hand to mouth, the Turk cannot but be thriftless and improvident. His honesty often forces him to spend his whole life to pay a skinflint creditor. It is the Mussulman who does the soldiering.

By paying a trifling tax, the Greek and Armenian are exempt. A deplorable law exempts all inhabitants of Constantinople from serving in the army. So the peasant, who should be making the most out of the soil, is the conscript. It is hard lines for a young fellow who is probably married and has children, to leave farm and family and start on a military career that comprises three or four years in regular service, three in the reserve, eighteen in the Landwehr and six in the Landsturm. Immense tracts of fertile land are left untilled. Not only wheat, but meat, is lacking. There is rich pasturage, but there are few fine oxen or cows. Although Turkey furnishes the Syrian breed of horses to the Western world, its own are described as stunted and without nerve or staying powers. The Turk might make wine, but the Koran says no, so it is the Greek and European who are engaged in that industry.

RIOTS IN STAMBOUL—MASSACRE OF ARMENIANS BY POLICE, SOFTAS, AND KURDS.

What a Holy War Means.

The Turk is an excellent soldier. He is well disciplined, respectful, and easily led. All his merits are his own; from his officers he gets none. But by his religion he is a ruthless fellow in battle, for to a Turk every foreigner is a heretic. Unlike the officials of the civil service, the Turkish soldier has an insolent disdain for Europeans. Turkey sacrifices much for its army. All its regulations and theories are German. Its cavalry is splendidly mounted on horses bought in Hungary, and Turkish horsemen are excellent. The Turk errs in war because badly officered. His officer is ignorant, lazy and badly paid, but he is brave, and almost as great a fanatic as the private soldier. When the Sultan declares what is called the Holy War, the Turk becomes a creature to watch and shoot at sight, for the latter fate he will mete to all that oppose him. When the Sultan goes to the old Seraglio, where are the prophet's holy relics, and brings out Mohammed's green standard, then every Mussulman, according to a religious law, must strangle his wife and children, burn his house and destroy everything that links him to life. Such a warrior goes out to rage and slay, and to kill as many as possible before he himself succumbs. Turkey has hired Germans to give her army a modern twist, and the Germans have done their best under hostile conditions. If the Turk is called to arms during the years of his betterment or extinction he will make a desperate fight. His campaigns may lack military science, but man and man he will expire in a way that will add some glory to the creed of Islam.

The Turk in his home lives in a sort of mental and bodily stupor. He does not read much, but, curled on a divan and smoking cigarettes, he looks out of his windows and dreams. If you call you are most cordially received, and cigarettes, coffee, preserves and cakes are served. Your talk has no flash, nobody has read any vital news, nobody is original; everybody, with an overpowering civility of phraseology, converses as though all used the same manual of conversation. If dinner is served it comes in metal dishes on a large tray. Neither knives nor forks are commonly supplied. Put only the right hand into the dish. When the repast is over ablutions follow at a marble fountain in another apartment. Mutton and chicken are the chief meats. The Turk makes many an appetizing dish. He is an artist in cooking vegetables, and equally as great in preparing sweets.

TEWFIK PASHA, MINISTER OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

Brigandage Flourishes.

Throughout the empire brigandage flourishes, and the brigand belongs to many nationalities. Now he is a Bulgarian, now an Albanian, Kurd, Greek, Turcoman or something else. One bandit, when taken, boasted that he had roasted eleven prisoners in tar barrels. A village raid means destruction, cruelty and dishonor. A peasant is safest when he has nothing to lose; so it is more comfortable to have nothing than be knocked on the head. Brigandage in Turkey is not a shameful trade. It is a common boast to have a "brother in the mountains."

The man who rules over this queer empire is the Sultan, Abdul Hamid II., a weak and vacillating despot. For years he has not dared to leave the boundaries of his palace. On each Friday he is obliged to attend public prayer at a mosque; but his excursions from his palace walls have now become so limited that he observes this law by going to a mosque on the slope of palace hill. Like the Pope, the commander of the faithful is a man in prison. When he goes to prayer his guard makes his passage as safe as arms can make it. His palace is a fortress, and everywhere in his capital the spy makes intercourse lifeless and trivial. The importation of all explosives and inflammable matter is prohibited. No blank cartridges are served to regiments on drill. Even the local post was at one time abolished. If you wished to communicate within the city you had to send a friend or servant. Verily, Turkey is a flock without a shepherd, and yet no people is more devoted, patient, trusting and reverent than the Turkish nation. Surrounded by a faithful few, the Sultan nearly always prefers to remain with his master, for sometimes he is placed on a footing of equality with the family. The slave in Turkey, where slavery is nominally forbidden, has little to complain of.

THE SULTAN'S PALACE.

Scarcely a Turkish family of means that has not women and girl slaves, black and white. The blacks are from Central Africa and Nubia, the whites are Circassians, sold by their parents. The "Circassian beauty" is not always a beauty. Slavery in Turkey, so far as it now exists, is not a crying abomination. A white boy may cost $200; a black boy $90; a black girl $75; a eunuch from $350 to $400. A female slave, after a few years of service, is nearly always voluntarily freed by her owners. In the Orient a slave of a people whom he should meet and trust timorously abides in his private apartments, fearing all the ills that royalty is heir to.

THE ARMENIAN PATRIARCH AT CONSTANTINOPLE.

Peculiar to the Locality.

Some interesting discoveries have recently been made about animal life on the Hawaiian Islands. It appears that all the land and fresh water shells are peculiar to the locality. Nor is that all. Fifty-seven out of the seventy-eight species of birds, and seven hundred out of the one thousand species of insects do not exist in any other portion of the globe.

Character Reading.

An observing dentist says that long, narrow teeth denote vanity; those that are long and projecting indicate a grasping disposition. Treachery is shown by the possession of small, white, separated teeth, and inconstancy is revealed by overlapping teeth.

The sixth sense—the sense of our own importance.

·HORSEMEN·

SAVE YOUR STOCK BY USING THE CELEBRATED

Morris' English Stable Powder
For Loss of Appetite, Constipation, Rough Hair, Hide-Bound, and all Diseases of the Blood. Price, 25c. per package.

Morris' English Stable Liniment
Cures Lameness, Cuts, Bruises, Scratches, Galls, Sweeney, Spavins, Splint, Curb, etc. Price, 50c. per bottle.

Morris' English Worm Powder
Warranted to cure any case of Worms in Horses, Cattle, Sheep or Dogs, also Pin Worms in Colts. Price, 50c. per box.

Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure
A Specific for Distemper, Coughs, Colds, Heaves, Pink Eye, and all Catarrhal diseases of horses. Price, 50c. $1.00 per bottle.

Wells' Hoosier Poultry Powder
Makes Hens Lay, cures Cholera, Gapes and Roup, and keeps poultry healthy. Price, 25c. per package.

Every remedy guaranteed satisfactory or money refunded. Our new book, "The Horse: His Diseases and Treatment," mailed free.
Wells Medicine Co., Lafayette, Ind.
For sale by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

BE A MAN

Ajax Tablets

have cured thousands and will cure you if you are suffering from Loss of Vigor, Impotence, Sterility, Seminal Weakness or any of the other effects of Self-Abuse or excesses of early life. We give positive Written Guarantee to effect a cure in each case or to refund money in case of failure. Price $1.00 per box, or six boxes for $5.00. Sent prepaid upon receipt of price. Send for free circular. Address
AJAX REMEDY CO.,
70 Dearborn Street, CHICAGO, ILL.
For sale by F. B. Davenport, Druggist, Auburn.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in the boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00.
DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Fischler & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!

Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!

Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epileptic Convulsions or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. In our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with an offer of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest Bank references furnished on application.

1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00. 2 Qt. $5.00.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES

Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature, will find our FAMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.

By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

Every Woman
Sometimes needs a reliable monthly regulating medicine.
Dr. PEAL'S PENNYROYAL PILLS.
Are prompt, safe and certain in result. The genuine (Dr. Peal's) never disappoint. Sent anywhere $1.00. Peal Medicine Co., Cleveland, O.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS

but ship from our factory at wholesale prices. Ship anywhere for examination; pay freight both ways if not satisfactory. 100 styles of Carriages. 80 styles of Harness. Send 4 cts. for 112 page catalogue.
ELKHART CARRIAGE AND HARNESS MFG. CO.,
No. 1124 $35. W. S. Pratt, Sec'y, Elkhart, Ind.

Sexine Pills

RESTORE LOST VIGOR

Before and After Using.

New discovery. Will brace you up in a week. Sold with a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to Cure Nervous Debility, Loss of Sexual Power in either sex, Involuntary Emissions from any cause. If neglected, such troubles lead to consumption or insanity. $1.00 per box by mail, 6 boxes for $5.00. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Address PEAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

RESTORED MANHOOD.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing of Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

TRY US FOR JOB PRINTING!

DON'T WAIT

Until all he Good Things are Gone,

—BUT—

COME AT ONCE

Remember, Everything goes

At Cost

NOTHING RESERVED

Crowds have been Flocking in, thus saving themselves Dollars. we will do the same for you.

Don't Wait, Come Now.

Globe Clothing and Shoe Co.,

Morth Side of Square, Auburn, Ind.

Safe, Showcase and Mirror for Sale.

Buy the Boy a WATCH

It is he Most Acceptable of Gifts,

and will encourage habits of punctuality at school and elswhere.

A boy is more apt to be on time when he knows what time it is. We show a splendid line of

Silver, Silverine, Nickel and Gold Filled Watches For BOYS

The Cases are Handsome Designs and the movements are accurate timekeepers.

All are Guaranteed

and prices lower than the lowest. Call and see them.

D. A. HODGE,

Kiblinger Building

E. C. SHEETS,

Fashionable Merchant Tailor.

Over Farmers Bank.

Your Attention

IS CALLED TO THE FACT THAT A BOX OF

DINGERS

WOULD MAKE AN ELEGANT PRESEN

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY,....DECEMBER 5, 1895

Have we a Coroner?

That is the question that bothers the Board of Commissioners just now. Monday a bill was received by them for $18 from Dr. V. C. Brunson of Newville, for services rendered as coroner, in the Wm J. Ollis' inquest. The commissioners do not feel justified in allowing it, for two reasons. One is, that Dr. Brunson did not qualify for the office within the ten days specified by law. He was elected at the general election last November and should have qualified soon after, just as the others did. But he waited till last May, about six months months after the election. And here comes in the second objection, which is, that when he did qualify he went before the county clerk, Mr. Moody, instead of going to the commissioners and filing his bond with them. So here is the trouble. If they allow his bill they may be paying for official services to a man who is not an officer. And if Brunson is not a county coroner, he had no right to "sit" on a body. The Board may have to call in an attorney to untie the knot for them. In the meantime Brunson has to lay out of the use of that $18.

Defective Bridges.

The New Law as to the Liability of the County.

The liability of the county to pay for damages caused by poor bridges has been decided as follows:

17,386. Board of Commissioners of Jasper county vs. James H Allman, administrator, etc. Newton C. C. Reversed. Monks, J.

In an action to recover damages for the death of a person caused by a defective approach to a bridge over a water course. Held: (1) That there is no statutory liability by counties for injuries caused by the negligence of its officers in constructing or in repairing or failing to repair bridges over water courses, (2) The duty imposed upon counties to keep bridges in repair does not carry with it an implied liability to answer in damages for injuries sustained as such liability can only arise from express statutory enactment. (3) Subdivisions of a state, such as counties and townships are organized solely for the public good, and no action will lie against them for an injury received by reason of the negligence of the officers of such subdivisions. (4) General powers are not extended to counties either express or implied to raise funds to pay damages for injuries The measure of their privileges must be formed, expressed or necessarily implied from statute. (5) The Board of Commissioners can only cause bridges to be repaired by an appropriation of county funds when the road district is unable to make all of said repairs, by work and tax, the county bearing the residue of expense only. (6) The power to allow claims against a county and pay judgments against the same creates no liability and gives no right of action to any one. (7) Counties are subdivisions of the state, are instrumentalities of government, and exercise authority given by the state, and are no more liable for the acts or omissions of their officers than the state. (8) A road supervisor is a township and not a county officer, and the county is not held responsible for his acts or omissions, He is subject only to the control of the trustee.

TIN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Lanning Celebrate Their Tenth Marriage Day.

In the slang of a generation ago, "there is nothing like having a plenty of tin." Mr. and Mrs. George Lanning are to-day well provided with that much discussed commodity, for last evening was celebrated their tin wedding. They were married Dec. 2, 1885, and on this occasion a large number of their friends gathered in to do them honor. It was the most popular society event of the season, not less than 150 having responded to the invitation. Little Bertha, their nine-year old daughter, was at the door to respond to the frequent bell calls, while, Mrs. Lanning's sister Miss Bertha Yates, assisted by Miss Edna Davis, received the guests as they arrived. Mr. and Mrs. Lanning, as the bride and groom of the occasion, stood under a wedding arch flanked by tin dates, "1885 and 1895" and were the center of attention, receiving the congratulations of the friends who kept filing by. At the proper time, an elegant lunch in three courses, was served, the waiters being six girls, all dressed in white and yellow, the same colors as prevailed over the house. They were: Helen Ralston, Edith Trentman, Blanche Shilling, Bird Shull, Jennie Askew, and Laura Collins We should not omit another very popular feature, which was the department presided over by Miss Etta Heist, an elegant and capacious punch bowl, from whose ice cold, crystal depths, she supplied the guests with delicious orange punch. Everybody enjoyed the hours as they went by in rapid succession, and the hands of the clock were pointing close to twelve when the guests bade the host and hostess "Good night, and many happy returns." Many lovely gifts were received by Mr and Mrs Lanning, not all tin, by any means, but all were more or less decorated with it, or enclosed in tin boxes or casing. A lovely clock, had a box of tin that almost concealed it. A fine lounge, had twenty-five tin cups attached to it all around, like a string of bells. And the cards that marked the gifts were generally of tin. But the most unique gift, was a lantern of tin, in the old style. It was made by James Lewis, and besides the usual forms cut in the tin, it had "1885" and "1895" on opposite sides, and in the same way, the figures "10" while on one was "G. L." and on the other "M. L." the initials of the bride and groom. With a candle inside, it was a much admired article. The whole affair was a splendid social success. Enjoyable music for the whole evening, was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Milo Calkin and Mr. Fanning.

CORUNNA ITEMS.

Quarterly meeting at the M. E. church the 7th and 8th. The presiding Elder will preach Saturday night and Sunday morning.

Miss. Netta Shaffer of Kendallville, was in town over Sunday.

Corunna has another meat market, Barker and Lindsey, are the proprietors.

Mrs. Jennie Steffe has been staying at Mount Pisgah for a couple weeks with a sick sister.

The Thanksgiving supper at Gushwa's hall last Thursday evening was a success both socially and financially. They netted the neat little sum of $14 75.

Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell, an old resident of Corunna, was found dead in bed last Thursday morning about 4 o'clock. Funeral services at the U B. church on Sunday at 10:30 a m. by Rev. O. Fink, of Waterloo, after which the remains were taken to Fairfield Center and laid away in the silent city of the dead. She was aged 69 years, 9 months and some days.

The cold wave which was to have struck us last Sunday a week, and got ditched out west somewhere, finally got started again, and came through on Tuesday night.

Theater WEEK HAS Gone

So has Your Money

And now you begin to Study How you are going to make it back.

You think you will go without a new suit for the holidays. You'll not have to; we're making the prices on Merchant Tailoring correspond with the amount blowed in on the theater.

20 per cent DISCOUNT 20

for the month of December, on Merchant Tailoring. Big stock of fancy Worsteds, Cheviots, Vicunas, Scotches and Cassimeres will be carved 20 per cent., making tailor made on an equal in price to ready made clothing

Don't delay in picking out a suit or pant, as the choicest patterns will go. Our window will give you an idea of what we have in stock. $30 suits at $24 and $40 suits at $32. Remember this sale is strictly cash and lasts the month of December.

A PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

G. H. YESBERA, Auburn's Popular Merchant Tailor

—A—

Chance to Make Money

I have a number of town and country properties to sell at remarkable low prices, splendid chances for good investments.

Real estate bought and sold.

Money to loan on good security.

Fire Insurance in best companies.

Collection promptly made.

JOSEPH LINK
Auburn, Ind.

Office with Jacob Walborn.

LOOK HERE!!!

Walter C. Hartman

has Town Property for Sale or to Exchange for Farms.

Farms for Sale or to Exchange for Town Property.

See him if you wish to buy or sell Real Estate

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDER'S MEETING.

AUBURN, IND., Dec., 3, 1895.

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of The First National Bank of Auburn, Indiana, will be held on Tuesday, January 14, 1896.

at the banking office of said bank in Auburn, Indiana, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, for the purpose of electing seven (7) directors to serve for the ensuing year, and to transact such other business as may regularly come before the meeting.

49-52. CHARLES McCLELLAN, Cashier.

EXECUTOR'S SALE.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned Executors, of the will of Daniel Gonser deceased, will sell at public sale at the late residence of said deceased on Gonser Avenue in the town of Ashley, DeKalb County Indiana, on said sale commencing at ten o'clock a. m. The personal property of said Daniel Gonser not taken by the widow Consisting of household furniture, beds, bedding agricultural implements road cart, sleigh wheat, oats corn, hay, carpenter tools grind-stone iron kettle, fishing outfit, sausage grinder, & stuffer, one cook stove, one heating stove, chairs, and other articles too numerous to mention.

Friday, December 20, 1895

TERMS OF SALE

Under $5.00 cash on day of sale. On sums of $5 and over a credit of six months will be given the purchasher giving note with approved security, without interest if paid when due if not 6 per cent from date. Waiving relief from valuation appraisement laws and attorney fees and payable at Ashley, Ind., no property to be removed until settled for.

FRANK B. GONSER
HIRAM H SLAYBAUGH Executors.
Wm. H. Leas. Atty.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Executrix of the Will of Frederick Gfeller, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

MARY ANN GFELLER,
December 2, 1895. Executrix.
Wm. H. Leas, Att'y.

Hon. W. S. Holman.

There is some disposition on the part of Indiana democrats to push forward, Hon W. S. Holman for the presidency. It certainly is men of his stamp that are needed in public office. The "Watch Dog of the Treasury," the "Great Objector" to the wild expenses of congress would be a godsend to the tax burdened country. It may be all right to talk about the need of more revenue. It is the need of smaller expenses, that should first be considered. Such men as Holman would appeal to the better instincts and more urgent needs of the masses.

BUTLER ITEMS.

John Wilson, recently elected constable seems to be getting nearly all the business to do in his line.

Capp Bro. have purchased the Fred W. Oberlin building formerly occupied by Z L. Kindig, and are remodeling it, and will move their meat market into it in a few days. John Tyson will put a market in the building they vacate. This crowds Z. L. Kindig out of business and leaves only two bakeries in town.

Mrs. J. A. Campbell returned last week from an extended visit with her sick sister near Angola.

Thanksgiving exercises were held at the Lutheran church on Thanksgiving day. The attendance was very small considering the fact that services were held in only one church in town. The address by Rev Smith of the U. B. church was one of the most eloquent efforts ever heard in this old church and elicited favorable comments on all sides.

Rev. Keller of Auburn spent a part of last Monday in Butler.

The deep snow that fell in the mud last Sunday night made very hard wheeling the forepart of the week.

Our schools are prospering very favorably and the attendance is fully up to the standard.

Frank Fanning spent Thanksgiving at home. He makes a very favorable report of his and E V. Campbell's progress in the Chicago college of physicians and surgeons.

Considerable corn remains in the fields unhusked and will suffer considerable in value from the wet snowy weather that prevails.

Mrs. John Crouse is reported seriously sick.

Mrs. Homer Rogers' aged father fell on an icy walk last week and is reported to have broken his leg.

WATCHES CLOCKS

PERHAPS you are thinking of buying a WATCH.
PERHAPS you are thinking of buying a CLOCK
PERHAPS you are in need of SPECTACLES.
PERHAPS you want to get a WEDDING PRESENT.
PERHAPS your wife is in need of some article in SILVERWARE,

Well, that being the case, we advise you to go straight to

FRED. J. YESBERA'S

Jewelry Store and get what you want.

The above cut represents W. R. WHITE Gate, now on exhibitson at Auburn, Ind. It will be to everyone's interest, who uses gates, to call and see this one, as it is handy, oftimes saves runaways, any lady or child can operate it without getting out in the mud, can be raised over snow, or to let pigs pass to and from fields; made of Bessemer steel, will last a lifetime, and many other claims no other gate has. Call and see it and get prices on gates, Farm, Township, County and State Rights, of

A. M. GARDNER,
U. S. Agent.
Auburn, Indiana.

DR. W. W. CAREY,
AUBURN, - - INDIANA
Office on Second Floor Kiblinger Building formerly occupied by the COURIER.
CALLS ANSWERED PROMPTLY.
Residence 3rd house west of the Methodist church on West 7th street

DR. CASS

can be found at his Office Day or Night, unless professionally engaged outside.

DR. A F PHILLIPS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
CORUNNA — — INDIANA
Office formerly occupied by Dr. Rudolph. Calls promptly answered at all times

CASH PAID FOR SCRAP CAST IRON
AT THE
AUBURN FOUNDRY

The U. S. Gov't Reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

Trilby Photos will please you
Platino Photos are fine work
Flash Light Pictures at Night ask about it.
Aluminum Frames and Fine Mouldings for Christmas.
Pictures Matted and Framed Neatly.
Canvass and all kinds of artists supplies. Leave your orders now.
J. G. CLAPP,
Photographer and Picture Supplies
AUBURN, IND.

First National Bank
AUBURN, INDIANA
Capital and Surplus, $60,000 00
Certificate of deposits issued, drawing interest [illegible] on time deposit
County and [illegible] bought. Money to loan
C. A. O. McCLELLAN, President.
CHAS. McCLELLAN, Cashier.

The Sharp Cash Buyer

oftens turns homeward with empty arms, because the sharp buyer failed to visit the right store. Our immense stock, square cash dealing assures the sharpest, shrewdest cash buyers that ours is the right store We are live, up-to-date modern merchants.

100 Winter Styles, elegantly trimmed and un'rimmed Ladies' Hats and Bonnets, ½ off. Now is the time to buy Millinery. Our stock contains much that is desirable Very low prices.

50 Doz. Wool and Ice Wool Fascinators, 25c to $2 00.

25 Doz Ladies Wool Skirts. Warm and Durable.

200 Doz. Desirable Winter Underwear for men, Boys, Women and Children. Lowest prices.

150 Pr. Blankets, 50c to $5 00. Price our Cotton Blankets at 50c. All Wool Factory Blanket $2.50.

300 Cloaks and Capes, direct from Manufacturers. All cheap—some of them at 50c on the Dollar.

5,000 Yds. Canton Flannels, 5 to 10c yard; 2 to 3 cents a yard cheaper than any store in the County.

10,000 Yds. Dress Goods, representing the best Foreign and Domestic Manufacturers. All Wool from 25c to $1.50, per yard.

25 Doz. New and Stylish Neckties for Men and Boys. The very cream of new ideas.

300 Doz. All Wool Hose for Women and Children. Cheaper than you could knit them if you had the yarn.

You will find Muslin cheap at our store. It always is.

We bought before the rise in cotton.

Best Dress Prints any color, 5c yard.

Bishop & Lackey.

Leading Merchants of DeKalb County.

LYON'S 7 WONDERS

A SPECIFIC For all DERANGEMENTS of the STOMACH. PRICE $1.00

Manf by THE LYON MEDICINE CO. INDIANAPOLIS IND.

MONON, IND., May 10, 1894.

Lyon Medicine Co., Indianapolis, Ind.:

GENTS—I think it my duty to send this statement to you of the benefit I have received from LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. I have been afflicted for twenty years with stomach trouble of the severest nature. Would have seasons of the severest suffering from one to two months at a time. Between these times of suffering was never longer than three months. There was never any time that I was entirely free from misery sickness and vomiting and other times would come on in form of rheumatism, but would finally center itself in my stomach. I have doctored with a great many physicians, but none of them could tell me what the trouble was. I was unable to get relief until I got LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. It is now sixty days since I began taking this medicine, and am now for the first time in twenty years free from pain and misery. I am compelled to say it is a blessing to a poor man.

J. J. HACKETT, Blacksmith.

The Laboring Man Speaks.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

LOST - MANHOOD - RESTORED!

—BY THE USE OF—

Dr. Lagrões Nerve and Brain Pills.

The Greatest Remedy Known in Mental Overwork.

Sexual Debility, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors and Lost Manhood Excessive Use of Tobacco all of which leads to insanity if not checked. Sent by mail or express prepaid on receipt of $1 per box; 3 boxes $2.50; 6 boxes $6 00. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded

J. D. CAMPBELL, General Agent for Indiana, WATERLOO, INDIANA.

MONEY - TO - LOAN

On Real Estate Security,

In large or small ammounts at a low rate of Interest, long or short time. No Commission.

Inquire at Farmers Bank.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

ABSTRACTS OF TITLE

To all lands in DeKalb County, Indiana at reasonable rates. I have the only set of Abstract Books in the County Also Mortgages, Deeds and Notary Public Work of all kinds promptly attended to Surveyor's office, Auburn, or have orders at Postoffice, Garrett. Inquire at Auditor or

J. P. Crimmins.
Abstractor and Notary Public

Albert Robbins, Pres. J. C. Henry V. P

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock.--
--$45.000.00.

—UNDER STATE SUPERVISION.—

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement Collections receive careful attention Business solicited.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure diseases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

Notice of Sale of Real Estate.

Notice is hereby given, that I, William Seeley, administrator of the estate of Philander Smith, deceased, will sell at private sale, on Saturday, at 10 o'clock a. m., December 14, 1895, at the residence on the premises sold, the following described real estate, belonging to the estate of said decedent, to-wit:

The undivided two-third (⅔) of the south half (½) of the south half (½) of the southwest quarter (¼) of section five (5) township thirty-three (33) north, range fifteen (15) east, in DeKalb county, in the state of Indiana.

TERMS OF SALE:

One-third cash, one-third in six (6) months, and one-third in twelve (12) months. Deferred payments to be evidenced by interest bearing notes waiving relief and secured by mortgage upon the premises sold.

WILLIAM SEELEY, Administrator.
BAXTER & BROWN, Att'ys.

STRAY NOTICE.

A stray pig can be had by calling at the Dolt farm 3½ miles southwest of Auburn, by describing property and paying for this notice.

WILL H. ZIGLER.

Wednesday's Daily.

Pain has no show with Dr. Miles' Pain Pills.

Miss Julia Hodge came home from Ann Arbor yesterday afternoon for a brief holiday visit at the old home. She goes back Saturday.

No excuse for sleepless nights when you can get One Minute Cough Cure. It will relieve all annoyances, cure the most severe cough and give you rest and health Can you afford to do wilthout it?

Henry McIntyre left this morning over the B. & O. for Chicago. The Motocycle race is to come off there to morrow and it will be remembered that Mr. McIntyre is one of the judges.

Miss Rose Blair of Waterloo came down yesterday and enjoyed the beauties of the new opera house and the good acting of the Carrie Louis company, with the editor's family last evening.

The person who disturbed the congregation last Sunday by coughing is requested to call on Robbins & McCord and get a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar (50c), which always gives relief. 52

Coughing irritates the delicate organs and aggravates the disease. Instead of waiting, try One Minute Cough Cure. It helps at once making expectoration easy reduces the soreness and inflammation. Every one likes it.

Miss Maud Williams of Denver, Col. arrived on the 2:04 Wabash to-day. She came here on surprise, but only one or two of her friends knew of her coming. She will remain some time the guest of her friends and relatives.

The reporter to-day had the pleasure of meeting Chas. Rosler of Buffalo, N. Y. Mr. Rosler is proprietor of the Buffaloo Carriage works and was here looking after buggy bodies. A. L. Kuhlman of the Auburn Mfg Co. closed a contract to furnish him all his bodies. He left on the 12:29 train for his home. He said he would take dinner with his family to-morrow.

Pearl Kelley came up from Ft. Wayne to-day noon to spend the Thanksgiving season with the editor's family. Maggie Ford who is also a student at Westminister came up to spend the vacation at home. Blanche Penfield also came home for the Thanksgiving days, making the entire Auburn contingent from Westminster. The DAILY hopes they will all enjoy the occasion.

Cal. VanAuken is not only an extra good surveyor, but he raises fine chickens as well. The proof of a pudding is in the eating of it, we are told. And as Cal contributed lovely, nice chickens to both editor and reporter, we have a chance to prove what we say. It was a Thanksgiving remembrance to each of us, and adds another reason why we should be thankful on this returning holiday, We are thankful not only for the many blessings of the past year, but for the knowledge that we have good friends.

Thursday's Daily.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness, indigestion, constipation. A small pill, a prompt cure.

By F. L. Welsheimer. Best Building and Loan Association represented in Auburn. Money to loan in large or small sums on good security.

Wife—Here's an account of a man who shot himself rather than suffer pain of indigestion. Husband—The fool! Why did'nt he taken DeWitt's little Early Risers? I used to suffer as bad as he did before I began taking these pills.

It will not be very long until the First Annual exhibit of the Northeastern Indiana Poultry Association will be held in Auburn. The dates are Dec 24 to 28 This exhibit will bring to our city poultry breeders from far and near. Let us give them a cordial welcome.

Miss Minnie Kepler, of Wabash, arrived last night and is the guest of Geo. Henderson. She will remain his guest a couple of days, and enjoy the plays at the new opera.

CHAS. P WILLARD & Co., 197 Canal St., Chicago, make and handle everything in the way of small steam launches and yachts and boilers, engines and machinery for same Catalogue sent free.

If suffering with piles, it will interest you to know that DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will cure them. This medicine is a specific for all complaints of this character, and if instructions are carried out, a cure will result. We have tested this in numerous cases, and always with like results. It never fails.

There are two reasonable things which everybody should do: take good care of one's health; and if lost, regain it quickly and to this everybody will agree, and there are a great multitude of people who are agreed that for both purposes Simmons Liver Regulator is the best helper "I am troubled with torpid liver and nothing gives relief like Simmons Liver Regulator"—R. R. Strang, Lake City, Fla.

The holiday season is approaching and there is a better feeling among local business circles than there was a month ago. Merchants in all lines of business have laid in their usual supplies of articles expecting a profitable trade. The DAILY COURIER pages contain the advertisements of many of the leading mercantile houses of the city and its readers will be able to find whatever they may want in the way of useful and ornamental articles, upon their shelves and counters without going outside of Auburn Patronize our home merchants. The COURIER bespeaks for its advertisers the confidence and patronage of everybody.

BUTCHERING DONE.

I will help do your butchering. Have had long experience. Call on me.

ALVIN BAKER,
48-49 Auburn.

What stops Neuralgia? Dr. Miles' Pain Pills.

Friday's Daily.

Violins Mandolins, Guitars, Banjos, Autoharps, etc. etc., at A. J. Rogers Music Store. 29tf

Married at the home of the of bride's Parents, Allen Co. Ind. Nov. 27 by J. D. Brosy, Joseph Peppel and Celia Griffin.

One Minute Cough Cure is a popular remedy for croup. Safe for children & adults.

Hidy had new onions and radishes for sale yesterday. They were snapped up eagerly by all who enjoy "early vegetables."

Guarantee to flurnish you with a piano or organ of any grade for less money than you can buy elsewhere. A. J. Rogers Music Dealer Auburn.

Mrs. J. Y. McClellan was called home Wednesday evening by a telegram announcing the death of her father, Mr. Elisha Barton, at Ashland, Ohio.

Brown, Culbertson & Boland are preparing for winter. They received a car load of sleighs this week. The snow cannot come too soon to suit them.

Piles of people have piles, but DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will cure them. when promptly applied it cures scalds and burns without the slightest pain.

T. E. Purinton and his neice Effie Wallace, daughter of W. J. Wallace of Hudson spent Thanksgiving with Mrs Purinton. She had been here since Mrs. Steves was taken ill a week or two ago.

Have the following makes of second hand organs in stock that you can buy at your own price: 1 Kimball, 1 Mason & Hawlin, 1 Lyon and Healy, 1 Estey, 1 J. H. Clark, 2 Smith American, 1 Packard. A. J. Rogers, Auburn.

H. T. Johnson D. D. S. from western Illinois, called on Dr. H. Darling Tuesday. He is en route for Bellevila, Ontario, his former home for the holidays, They were classmates in Toronto, Ontario in 1890 91. Dr. Johnson is a graduate of Philadelphia Dental College and also of of Hasi, Ill. past graduate school of Chicago.

Miss Mary Jones of Butler spent Thanksgiving with her relatives of the COURIER family and enjoyed the plays at the new opera house. It was a coincidence to have her present at the opening of the new house, as she was with us at the play on the evening when the former opera house burned a few hours after the close of the play.

Another charming letter from R. W. Cobb today. We have also received from him since that was written a box of of rare mineral formations from Wind Cave in the Black Hills. They are not only lovely but wonderful, and we believe the whole world does not furnish any similar formations. Mrs. Cobb will also receive a larger box soon, and it will pay anyone to infpect them.

Saturday's Daily.

Miss Louisa McMillen, of Laporte, is here, a guest of her cousin, Miss Jessie Boland.

Hickville will have a Farmers Institute, something like the ones we have in this state. The date set is Jan. 3 and 4

Geo. Reed of South Haven, Mich. is here. He has been quite successful in his new location. He is loud in his praises of South Haven.

Kendallville's eleven chrysanthemum heads, butted and pushed eleven ditto from Ft. Wayne Thursday. "Neither beat, neither won." Foot ball is quite a a pushing game.

It is reported that the late storms injured the Postal lines alone, to the amount of $190,000, of which $19,000, was in the city of Chicago.

On Thanksgiving Day all church people in Cleveland united in one grand prayer for Bob Ingersoll, the pagan. To those who know much about Bob, this looks like a great waste of good breath.

Mrs. Ed Baker is an adept in the secret of making the genuine old English plum pudding, as many of our people can testify who got their plum pudding at their bakery for Thanksgiving She learned the art at her old home in London.

Reuben Sawyel is back from the south, having reached home Wednesday night. He had been to New Orleans, and then to Atlanta and to other southern points of interest. We believe Charles Kelley returned with him.

W. H. McIntyre was at Chicago Thursday, as he was one of the injuries in the Motocyle race. The snow was so deep up there, that teams could hardly get about, yet the Motocyles, some of them, made the run of sixty or seventy miles. P. J. Lockwood was up there with him.

Herb Martin of Albion went through here yesterday repairing the Postal Telegraph line where it had been damaged by recent storms. He came back home to-day noon, making a call on his relatives of the COURIER. Herb is getting to be quite an expert in the telegraph repair business.

John Platter has bought out the dray business of Mr. Daily and has rolled up his sleeves and tackled the work like a man that means business. We hope he may succeed in getting plenty to do. There is surely a great deal of dray work to be done here by all those engaged in it.

Mrs. Swineford started for Ohio to day, where she will visit a couple of weeks. She stops over Sunday at Chicago Junction with G. S. Earlston, who is a relative, and then goes on to Ashland, where her husband is buried, and where he spent all the earlier years of his life. There, they have many friends, and both have often visited. We hope she may have a pleasant reunion with them all.

Hicksville High School building has been condemned by the state inspector of buildings, factories, etc., as it had no doors opening outward. no hand railings to the stairways, no means for suppressing incipient fires. So the school board will be obliged to make all these changes as before they can get a certificate that the building conforms to the conditions required by law.

Monday's Daily.

Dr. Miles' Pain Pills are guaranteed to stop Headache in 20 minutes. "One cent a dose."

Time well spent in calling to see the White gate.

L. J. Gengler of Garrett was in the city to-day.

E. R. Shoemaker of Waterloo was in the city to-day.

Yesterday's heavy rain turned to snow and this morning the ground was covered three or four inches deep.

Miss Cora Swander who is staying at Mr. James Hendersons near Spencerville spent Sunday with her parents.

Will allow you more for your old piano or organ in exchange for a new one than any other dealer, at A. J. Rogers' Auburn.

Mrs Swarts is just recovering from an attack of catarrhal fever, and in a few days will likely be able to resume her practice.

I. N. Cool was up from Logansport and remained over Sunday. We are pleased to hear that he is prospering and the family well.

Miss Laura Keeran returned to-day from New Era where she has been caring for Mr. Mrs. Chas. Rugman jr.

Miss Violet Barney of St. Joe is the guest os Miss Ida Stafford. She is on her way to Adrian, Mich. to school.

If you need an engine of any kind steam, gasoline, kerosene oil, send for free illustrated circular to CHAS. P. WILLARD & Co., 197 Canal St., Chicago

The band saw mill shut down Saturday evening for several months. The logs are getting scarce and the bad roads have prevented them from having them hauled in.

Frank Lahnum cut his left hand Saturday while trying to trim up a frozen ham. In some way his knife turned and he now has a very sore hand. Geo Baxter is working in his place at the Home Restaurant.

One Minute Cough Cure is rightly named It affords instant relief from suffering when afflicted with a severe cough or cold. It acts on the throat, bronchial tubes, and lungs and never fails to give immediate relief.

The three Auburn students, Blanche Penfield, Margaret Ford and Pearl Kelley, returned this afternoon to their studies at Westminster Seminary, Fort Wayne. All have reports of good standing in the school, a fact the COURIER is glad to know.

Frank McDowell has come back from the south after a long term of service in the engineering department of the Mississippi Levee improvements. He says he wants to stay north through the winter to freeze some of the ague out of him.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Do not be deceived by the misleading advertisements of the snide eastern would be manufacturers who claim to sell you a $125 organ for $25, or in other words to give you gold dollars for 20c. If you insist on having that class of goods, we can get them for you for less money than you can buy them. A. J. Rogers Music Dealer Auburn. 49tf

Ashley Times:—The railroads have until the first of December to finish equipping their cars with "grab irons" and on most of the local lines the work will be done by the time the law is in effect. The law requiring the improved coupler will not go into force for a year yet, and in that time the lines in Indiana will probably be equippep. The expense to the railroads will be heavy.

An exchange has an item on the new idea as follows: Weeds along railroad tracks are now killed by the electric weed killer. It consists of a car carrying a dynamo which sends a heavy current into a sort of rake of fine wires dragging among the weeds on each side of the track. As the wires touch them the weeds are "electrocuted" down to their smallest roots. It is proposed to introduce the same system in farming.

A letter from Frank Myers, now at Toledo, says their address is 1844 Niagara street and that all are well. Of course the COURIER is to go there. The letter came from Goshen, and we find Mr. Myers is there in charge of a stock of boots and shoes that had to be taken by his house We judge by the amount advertised, $10,000 worth, that the position is a responsible one, as he also has several assistants. The Auburn boy leads, as usual.

given dy the supreme court in case where a man was killed while attempting to cross over a defective bridge. It will be seen that the court holds that no "implied" responsibility can be claimed. The law as found in the statutes of the state, must say so in plain terms, or else the county or township is not liable. This view of it is likely the correct one, and while it is to be hoped that it will not induce officers to be more careless it should prompt people to be more careful and not risk their lives on bridges they know to be unsafe.

For Kidney Troubles

there is nothing better than Clinic Kidney Cure. Everyone who tries it will agree to this. Robbins & McCord. 52

Poland China Hogs

Four full blood Poland China male hogs for sale, Call on A. B. Walsworth, 4 miles east of Auburn. 48-49

Tuesday's Daily.

I. N. Cool returned this morning to Logansport.

Denny Johnson has moved into F. J. Yeshera's house lately vacated by J. H. Gugerli.

David Neff will open a restaurant and lunch counter in the King building on South Main street

A. M. Gardner, the U. S. agent for the White Gate returned to day from a visit with his family in Illinois.

Pianos and organs at A. J. Rogers music store for sale at low prices and on easy terms. 29tf

Mr. and Mrs. Rafter returned to Albion, Mich, yesterday after spending a few days with their son C. A. Rafter and wife.

Commissioner Henderson is now back on the home farm west of Spencerville, but was here to-day attending the board meeting.

If you are suffering from Catarrh or any disease of the nose, throat or lungs, Dr. Nusbaum's specific treatment will cure you. W. H Nusbaum, M. D. 48tf

Do not pay $100 for the antiquity of a name. This is a progressive age. Buy a Kimball piano or organ and keep pace with the times. For sale by A. J. Rogers Auburn Ind.

Geo. M. Ralston is now at Angola where he has a position we believe. We do not know whether it is permanent or not but he is capable of filling any place in almost any line of business.

Dr Chas. E Miller who pays special attention to adjusting lenses to the eye will again be at Yeshera's jewelry store Saturday, Dec. 14, if you have had difficulty in getting lenses properly fitted, you are specially invited to call

The old subscription accounts of the defunct Columbia City Mail were sold at auction one day last week. The amount shown on the books was about $1500, and the highest bid, $33 took the pile. This would be but little over two per cent.

Why go to Chicago or Fort Wayne to buy a piano or organ? You certainly can buy for less money right here in Auburn. That fact is demonstrated right along to customers who have investigated prices. A. J. Rogers, Music Dealer Auburn.

John Skilling, our young Garrett friend was over here yesterday and a business trip, a part of which was with the COURIER His father, J. R. Skilling is still with the B. & O. construction department, being assistant superintendent of bridges for all this division.

Dr. Z. H. Stamets performed a very gratifying and successful operation on Roy Hull's nose, last Saturday. The nose had been broken and injured in several places some time ago, and in consequence it was deformed and its functions impaired. A careful surgical operation, however, bids fair to restore it to its normal condition.

We publish to-day a decision lately

The Warsaw Union in a late issue clips the following from an Ohio paper:

The Ohio campaign just closed developed some amusing things. For instance, there is the case of Manfold Grubbs, editor of the Washington Court House Register-Democrat. Mr. Grubbs has been ordering his "boiler plate" matter from a Columbus association, and, as all newspaper men know, during a political campaign you can order democratic, republican, populist or prohibition plate matter, which consists of editorials, speeches, political letters and clippings, all red-hot for the political party you are fighting for in your paper. Two weeks ago Editor Grubbs ordered a page of democratic plate. He supposed that it was all right, and, without examining it, had the girls who work in his office "make up" the forms and run off the paper. About two hours after he mailed his entire edition he made the startling discovery that he had printed a page of the rankest republican matter. Brice and Campbell were both denounced, and Gen Bushnell and ex-Gov. Foraker were eulogized. There was a large cut of Gen. Bushnell, with the history of the "Great American." Editor Grubbs turned as white as a sheet when he was shown his mistake by a prominent democrat. Mr. Grubbs has been busy explaining the matter since his paper appeared.

The above reminds the COURIER of a little incident in its own experience. A few years ago, the campaign was warming up pretty well, and people, especially newspaper people, got to discussing the queer and very opposite votes Senator Sherman had cast in the senate on the wool tariff question that had been up more or less for several years. This subjected the eminent Senator to a great deal of sharp criticism. While the discussion was at its best, the country papers had their patent sides filled with it As noted above, different political matter was given to papers of different politics But in this case, too, there is a possibility of mixing the politics as was done in the Ohio incident with the plate matter, and on a certain occasion, the Waterloo Press, then as now a strong republican paper, came out one week with its patent side crowded with sharp criticisms on Sherman and calling him to a fierce accounting for reasons why at one session of congress he had voted to reduce the duty on wool and was now fighting to have a higher duty put on it, without even alluding to his previous votes. This matter, so strongly set forth in a republican paper produced a vast amount of fun among papers of the democratic faith, their attention having been called to it by abundant clippings of it copied into the COURIER with appropriate comments. It took Bro. Willis by surprise for his "outside did not know what his inside was doing" He had to come out at last with an explanation, and then the matter was forgotten till this Ohio incident so nearly like it, has come to light.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

GOOD FOR EVERYBODY

Almost everybody takes some laxative medicine to cleanse the system and keep the blood pure. Those who take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR (liquid or powder) get all the benefits of a mild and pleasant laxative and tonic that purifies the blood and strengthens the whole system. And more than this: SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR regulates the Liver, keeps it active and healthy, and when the Liver is in good condition you find yourself free from Malaria, Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick-Headache and Constipation, and rid of that worn out and debilitated feeling. These are all caused by a sluggish Liver. Good digestion and freedom from stomach troubles will only be had when the liver is properly at work. If troubled with any of these complaints, try SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR. The King of Liver Medicines, and Better than Pills.

—EVERY PACKAGE—
Has the Z Stamp in red on wrapper.
J. H. Zeilin & Co., Phila., Pa.

SPINAL weakness easily cured by Dr. Miles' Nerve Plasters.

Commissioner's Court.

The full board met yesterday, including Mr. Henderson, Mr. Hoffelder and Mr. Hague. After calling the court, Mr. Bateman, the new member from the north district was sworn in and took his place, Mr. Hoffelder retiring. Mr. Hague was then made president of the Board for the coming year. Work began at once in the usual lines, the consideration of bills, etc. On Wednesday will be liquor license day. The new member, Mr. Bateman takes hold as if he was going to be a useful member, which we hope he will be.

Seed Oats For Sale

At Bachtel's gristmill in Auburn, also at J. Loewenstein's in Waterloo. Farmers look at them, at the same time look to your own interest and buy seed. These oats command a premium over all other oats when placed on exhibition or sale in the market. Grown by Wm. C. Sherwood, two miles west of Waterloo.

Book Settlement.

Yesterday the township trustees met Co. Supt. Merica to make the regular settlement of book sales, etc. It will be remembered that nearly all are new men and that the accumulation of duties makes the work of the office more difficult than formerly. This was noticeable in the many errors they made in trying to keep their accounts, rendering it necessary to make many corrections and to get more or less help of the county superintendent. It all emphasizes what we have often said, that it is fortunate that we have a man of large experience at their head just now. By another year, the trustees will have learned their work and will be able to get along with little or no assistance.

Masonic Elections

At the Annual meeting of Royal Arch Masons and Royal and Select Masters on last evening the following officers were elected for the ensuing year.

ROYAL ARCH MASONS.

J. J. VanAuken, High Priest.
Chas. H. G. Jones, King.
John Baxter, Scribe.
D. A. Garwood, Recorder.
R. T. Fisher, Treasurer,
W. H. Less, Capt. Host.
G. T. Abbey, Principal Sojourner.
Jas. E. Rose, Royal Arch Captain.

ROYAL AND SELECT MASTERS.

D. A. Garwood, Illustrious Master.
Geo. W. Lackey, Deputy Ill. Master.
F. E. Davenport, Prin. Conductor Work
J. J. VanAuken, Recorder.
Jno. L. Davis, Treasurer.
W. H. Less, Capt. of Guard.
S. Z. Dickinson, Sentinel.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Wyoming Skeletons.

A dispatch from Cheyenne, Wyoming, brings this startling item:

Stockmen have made a ghastly discovery in the great canyon of the wind river in the Big Horn basin. The walls of the canyon at a number of places rise sheer and lofty, and in one of the most inaccessible places there is a grotto visible from below which has been noticed and commented on for years. The turbulent, rushing water of the falls has rendered the task of reaching it impossible.

A party of stockmen going there a few days since turned a field glass toward the place and were surprised to see two skeletons sitting against the rock walls, each in the embrace of the other, a terrible sight.

It is supposed that they are the skeletons of two men who a quarter of a century ago in endeavoring to escape from hostile Indians, tried to force their way over the falls of the Wind river and were never heard of afterward. They reached the ledge and the indians remaining in the vicinity several days, knowing it was impossible to escape, the men starved to death rather than, it is presumed, give themselves up to the torture of a death by barbarians.

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

In Boston 100,000 women of lawful age refused to register and vote on the question of giving themselves the right to vote. Woman suffrage is not popular even among Boston women.

The first assistant postmaster general reports an actual and estimated saving in his bureau during the last fiscal year of $1,395,577. The saving resulted principally from investigation of overtime claims, stopping overtime and undertime and reductions of force. Considering the natural growth of business, the showing is a good one.

The number of pieces of dead mail matter received at the dead letter office during the last fiscal year was 6,319,873, which was a decrease of 781,171 pieces, or about 11 per cent, as compared with the receipts of the year before. This is a very considerable decrease, considering that the quantity of mail matter handled was much greater last year than the year before. Whether the decrease resulted from greater care on the part of the people in addressing mail matter or from greater skill in deciphering on the part of postmasters and clerks is a question that does not admit of a definite answer.

A dispatch from Omaha states that the sugar trust is trying to bar the beet sugar product of Nebraska out of the American market. The story is that the trust has notified jobbers and dealers that if they sell the refined product of Nebraska factories the trust will not sell them the cheaper grades which are not produced by the principal beet sugar refineries. As a consequence it is stated that over $100,000 worth of Nebraska made sugar is stored in warehouses in Omaha. The purpose of the trust seems to be to destroy the beet sugar industry of Nebraska or compel producers to turn over the raw product to the trust to be refined. If a boycott by workingmen is unlawful, as the courts have repeatedly declared it to be, what shall be said of this move of a corporation which has almost a monopoly of the sugar refining business in this country to destroy an industry?

Does it pay a nation any better than it pays a man to persistently meddle in the affairs of others? Did it pay England to step in as she did between Russia and Turkey seventeen years ago and check the progress of events? Russia had fairly whipped the armies of the Porte and had concluded the treaty of San Stefano, by which Turkey gave her important territorial and other concessions, which England, acting in confederation with other European powers, forced Russia to relinquish. What is the result? One result is that Turkey is to-day snapping her fingers in England's face, and perpetrating atrocities upon the Christian population of her dominions identical with the outrages in redress of which Russia went to war in 1877. More than once before this the temper of the English people has been such as to force English statesmen to consider the claims of humanity as well as the suggestions of diplomacy in dealing with the Turkish question. If Russia should undertake to drive the Sultan out of Europe at this time it is doubtful if England would interfere in her behalf. Indeed, the likelihood is strong that England and the other great powers of Western Europe may join Russia in administering the drubbing. In that case there will be a division of the territorial spoils of war. But it is hardly possible that England will be able to longer keep Russia from gaining access to the Mediterranean Sea.

It is time that a special course in the science and art of docking men of war should be established in the United States naval academy or else that some new form of construction of this new navy of ours which has moved so many pens and pencils to flights of poetic and pictorial achievement should be adopted. A few months ago we turned out of our shipyards what was enthusiastically heralded as the fastest cruiser afloat. In our pride we sent her abroad to show her in friendly guise to the Britons—this was before the days of Dunraven and his little international episode. The Columbia had been afloat only a few weeks when it became necessary to put her in dry dock. A war ship has to be docked about as often as a racing yacht and repaired about as frequently and at greater cost. Anyone who follows with any degree of care the career of a modern ship of war from the time it is put in commission will note that the two duties upon which it is most persistently engaged are getting its bottom scraped and going into dock for repairs. Somebody once said that it was more difficult to keep a small sailing yacht than a mistress. To keep a man of war afloat seems to be a task involving more perplexity and diplomacy than the righteous Solomon must have exerted with his whole thousand wives. No sooner did the Columbia come out of the British dry dock than it was discovered that all sorts of things unintelligible to a landsman had happened to her hull. There were dents in her plates and her frames had buckled. Her seams had opened and in general she was reported to be in a state of melancholy maritime collapse. Her commander was court-martialed for his share in the docking and wept profusely on the stand while giving his testimony. What has happened him after his touching display of lachrymose emotion has not been reported. Perchance he, too, is to be taken from the tossing billows and put into dry dock. But his downfall, and punishment, whatever the latter may have been, seemed to have exerted no deterrent effect upon his comrades in the service nor do they appear to have learned any more concerning the mysteries of docking. Only a few weeks ago with much blaring of brass and clanging of cymbals we announced to the world that the United States, which had long lagged superfluous on the naval stage, had launched the most powerful battleship afloat. The world and our people, who incidentally paid some $5,000,000 for this iron-bound craft, were assured that none of John Bull's floating arsenals might longer hope to sail up the Narrows and put New York under contribution. The weight of the armor of the Texas, the power of her armament, her marvelous coal capacity and her superlative speed were all commented upon learnedly by the press of the nation. But the Texas, too, has succumbed to her commander, aided by the sinister devices of the dry dock. She, too, though only eight or ten weeks out of the navy yard, had to be docked, and her frames are buckled and her bottom dented and all the other things horrible and mysterious which can befall a man of war have happened to her. Plates will have to be taken out, frames reinserted, the ship put out of service for two or three months and some hundreds of thousands of dollars expended upon her before the foul work of the treacherous dock can be remedied. Perhaps, however, it is not just to criticise the commanders of these vessels for the disasters that have befallen them. Considering the very considerable time which all men of war spend in the dry dock, the mistake of our naval architects has doubtless been in planning these vessels with a view to any service afloat.

Images You Cannot Count.

Close to an interesting pool in Japan is the avenue of images, representing the Amida Buddha. The idols vary in size, but are similar in design. There are several hundred of them altogether, and they sit facing one another in two long rows. We asked the little Jap who brought us to the place how many of them there were. In an awed whisper he replied:

"Nobody knows."

Then he told us how impossible it was to count them. Each image was made unsightly by having numbers of little bits of paper stuck on to it, and chewed bits of paper which had been spat at it; the object of this disfiguration we failed to discover, though our friend Hojo informed us they were put on by the young priests, a part of whose novitiate it was to attempt to count the Buddhas.

There is evidently something wrong with these idols, for no one has ever been able to reckon them up the same twice over, in spite of sticking a piece of paper to tick each one off. Of course two unsuperstitious Englishmen were not to be humbugged by native stories, so my traveling companion and I, thinking the whole thing ridiculous, decided to count the mysterious images. We started on co-operative lines—each taking a side of the avenue. Our efforts, however, were fruitless, for we had not numbered off more than a dozen each, before my companion—whose eyes were not so good as they had once been—shouted across to me:

"I say, I saw one of them on your side moving; I'm certain I did; they're uncanny—let's give it up."

This interruption, of course, upset all my calculations, but we soon came on the moving image, which turned out to be nothing more than that of an old Frenchman, seated peacefully among the statues, and looking in his white clothes for all the world like a jolly fat old Buddha.

Clearly a Stand-Off.

Some years ago two officers in the British army in India had a difficulty which resulted in a duel. The colonel, the challenged party, was an old campaigner who had won his laurels in the Crimea, and was a gallant soldier. The choice of weapons being his, he named pistols, and elected that the affair should occur in a dark room. We secured a room twenty-feet square (says the narrator of the incident), closed every crevice that would admit light, placed our men in corners diagonally opposite and withdrew. Each man was provided with three charges, and when these were exhausted we rushed in to gather up the mutilated remains. Each man stood erect and soldier-like in his corner, untouched; but directly behind the officer who had given the challenge were three bullet-holes made by the colonel's pistol. "How is this?" said the grizzled major; "had you been standing here when those shots were fired, you would have been killed." The culprit was forced to admit that he had dropped to one knee. "You are a coward, sir, and unfit for the company of soldiers and gentlemen!" cried the major. "Hold on, major!" said the colonel; "it is a stand-off. While he was on his knees in one corner I was on my stomach in the other."

Fiddling for a Howling Mob.

Once Cherubini had to figure as a fiddler in spite of himself. In the stormy days of 1792 it was a perilous experiment to walk the streets of Paris. During an occasion of more than ordinary excitement the composer fell into the hands of a band of sans-culottes who were roving about seeking musicians to conduct their chants. To them it was a special gratification to compel the talent that had formerly delighted royalty to minister now to their gratification. On Cherubini firmly refusing to lead them, a low murmur was heard from the crowd, and the fatal word, "Royalist! Royalist!" went up.

At this critical moment one of Cherubini's friends—also a kidnapped musician—seeing his imminent danger, thrust a violin into his unwilling hands and bade him head the mob. The whole day these two musicians accompanied the hoarse and overpowering yells of the revolutionary horde, and when at last a halt was made in a public square, where a banquet was served, Cherubini and his friend had to mount empty barrels and play until the feasting was over.

A Buster.

Boys and men who have neither traveled far nor read much sometimes have contracted notions as to the size of the globe we inhabit.

A country lad, brought up in the mountains of West Virginia, once accompanied his father on a visit to his uncle, who lived in an adjoining county. After his return home, he put on airs, and often referred to his visit, relating the "sights" he had seen to his associates, who listened with open-mouthed wonder.

One day something was said about the size of the world, when our hero thus delivered himself:

"I tell you what, boys, if the world is as big out the other way as it is the way me and pap was, she's a buster!"

Licking Cubs Into Shape.

The early woodsmen of America devoutly believed that a she bear licked her cubs into shape, these being supposed to be born almost shapeless.

POLITICS OF THE DAY

HARRISON IS INCONSISTENT.

THE Hon. Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana, presided at a great mass meeting in the interest of the Presbyterian foreign missions held in New York city a few days ago. The ex-president made a brief address, in which he praised the aggressive work of the Presbyterian Church, and urged his hearers to consider their duty as church members and contribute liberally to the support of the Foreign Mission Board. In thus aiding to extend the blessings of religion and civilization among the heathen the ex-president deserves the approval of all good citizens. No exception can possibly be taken to his approval of the agencies which have done so much to replace ignorance and barbarism with knowledge and enlightenment.

But as a believer in the gospel of McKinleyism, ex-President Harrison is very inconsistent in his advocacy of foreign missions. Suppose that in response to his appeal larger funds are procured and more missionaries sent to the pagan lands, and that those preachers succeed in converting a considerable number of the heathen. With Christian civilization will come a demand for clothes, agricultural implements, tools, etc. Trade will spring up and the newly civilized foreigners will want to buy goods from America. Of course they will have to pay for them with other goods which they will export. But imagine the surprise of the recent converts who have heard with gladness the message that all mankind are brothers, and that peace and good will come with Christianity, when their products reach our shores! They will find that ex-President Harrison and his Republican friends believe that the foreigner who sells us goods is our enemy, and is described as such by the Republican press. They will learn that instead of welcoming the men who came to exchange their products for ours, the protectionists want to shut out foreign goods with a high tariff wall. They will see trade prohibition extolled as a policy for civilized nations, and will be told that if they wish to prosper they must restrict the importation of goods into their country.

Under these conditions what would the late heathen be likely to think of the wide difference between the preaching and the practice of the ex-president and his party? Would they not be apt to say that American protection was very much like savage exclusiveness? Could they be blamed if they pointed out the absurdity of trying to spread the glorious doctrine of the brotherhood of man, so long as foreigners are looked upon as enemies to be fought with tariff wars? If the barbarians must prohibit trade in order to be prosperous, why, they would ask, have we not prospered in the thousands of years we have lived without intercourse with outside countries?

An attempt to answer these pertinent questions would expose the thoroughly anti-Christian and anti-social theories on which McKinleyism rests, and would show clearly that commerce and civilization go hand in hand in enlightening the dark places of the world. Preaching noble doctrines is good. Putting the same doctrines in practice in our institutions is far better.

No More McKinleyism.

Ex-Senator Edmunds does not favor an increase of the tariff by his party. He says "the industrial and commercial interests of the country are very sensitive on this subject," and consequently he thinks it would be better to seek needed increase of revenue in increased internal taxes. This is a practical admission that the '94 tariff is better for the country than a re-enactment of the McKinley law. The ex-Senator would not favor the retention of the present tariff if he did not believe a return of general prosperity was probable under it. It is far from being perfect, but it is far superior to the "robber tariff" which preceded it.

Edmunds has always been a stubborn Republican partisan, but he knows the country is moving steadily upward toward a new era of prosperity under the Democratic tariff, and he does not think it good Republican policy to meddle with it.

The predictions of the high taxers have failed lamentably. The country was plunged into the abyss of hard times while the McKinley law was in force, and it is climbing upwards into good times under the greatly reduced tariff enacted by the Democratic party.

The precedent of the low tariff period from 1846 to 1860 is in course of repetition. In 1846 the Democratic party, under the lead of Secretary Walker of President Polk's cabinet, adopted what Mr. Blaine called a "free trade tariff." When passed it was denounced by the opposition as fatal to the country's prosperity. The bad predictions were not realized. The country prospered under it, manufactures increased and commerce expanded. So satisfactory was the "free trade" tariff of 1846 that at the end of ten years all opposition to it ceased. Not one of the political parties in national conventions in 1856 mentioned the tariff, and in 1857, after the low tariff had been in force eleven years, it was made still lower, practically without opposition, Republican representatives of Eastern manufacturing States voting for the reduction.

Lower duties than the present tariff have been tried in this country and it flourished under them. When the present Democratic tariff is revised it will be downward.—Quincy (Ill.) Herald.

Export of Manufactured Goods.

Details of the exports of manufacture from the United States in the nine months ended Sept. 30, which have just been published by the Treasury Department, show material gains in the exports of manufactured iron, mineral oils, chemicals, leather and cotton as compared with the same period in the two preceding years. Machinery exported shows a gain of $1,200,000; locomotives, $650,000; agricultural implements, $500,000, and miscellaneous iron manufactures, $1,000,000. Leather exports increased $2,700,000, and mineral oils $9,000,000. The total exports of manufactured products for the nine months were of the value of $145,793,586, a gain over 1894 of nearly $12,000,000. If the present rate of manufacturing exports is continued through the last quarter of the calendar year it will afford a total of $194,500,000, which is more than $10,000,000 higher than the record of any previous fiscal year.—Iron Age.

An Explanation that Does Not Explain

Says the San Francisco Chronicle: "The protectionists have always had to meet the argument that wages are far higher in England under free trade than in the European countries which have a protective tariff. The answer is that in England the trades unions have been able to increase wages by uniting the workingmen."

This is one of those awfully clever explanations which leave the problem as far as ever from solution. For if it is true that trades unions in England can increase wages, why cannot similar labor organizations in protectionist countries do likewise? It is certain that all the European nations have had trades unions for many years. How does it happen that they have not raised the wages of their members as high as those of England? And what is the reason that in England under protection, but with labor organizations, wages were far lower than they now are under free trade? If trades unions could by united action double wages, why not continue the process and quadruple them?

The facts are that wages depend mainly on the quantity of wealth produced by the workers, and that trades unions cannot permanently raise wages unless the economic conditions are favorable to the large production of commodities. Labor organizations are in many respects beneficial institutions, but they are powerless to effect any permanent improvement in the condition of their members so long as a pernicious tariff policy checks commerce, injures industry and decreases the markets for manufactured goods. With the emancipation of her industries through free trade England made it possible for her workingmen to get higher pay. In protectionist European countries wages are still low. This is the gist of the question which vexes the Chronicle. There is no comfort in it for American protectionists.

A Little Off in Its History.

The organ of the Philadelphia Manufacturers' Club joins the small-fry Republican editors who are valiantly threatening President Cleveland with all sorts of disapproval if he should veto a bill imposing higher tariff taxes, and shouts: "The people have now plainly declared that they want protection, and that they repudiate the policy of the President which has filled the land with ruin and wreck for more than two years."

The trouble with this view of the President's duty toward a Republican tariff measure, is that its basis is a falsehood. The Democratic tariff policy has not filled the country with wreck and ruin for two years, for the simple reason that since it was adopted a little more than a year ago, a period of steadily increasing prosperity has replaced the "wreck and ruin" brought on by McKinleyism. In 1893, and the first half of 1894, when business was stagnant and industry idle, the Chinese doctrine of trade restriction was in full force, and doing its perfect work of closing factories and bankrupting merchants. If the people object to "wreck and ruin" they should certainly remember that it was brought on by Republican legislation and disappeared under a Democratic administration.

Besides, there is no evidence that the people want protection. President Cleveland was elected by an immense majority of voters who declared that they wanted protection swept away as quickly as possible. Other issues have since arisen on which a Republican Congress has been elected. But so long as a Democrat fills the presidential chair he represents the people's wishes on the tariff question. No protectionist bill can become law with his sanction.

What Defeated the Democrats.

The Pittsburg Commercial Gazette and other protectionist journals insist that the defeat of the Democratic party is a repudiation of its tariff policy. A closer observation would show these critics that the party has fared worst in those localities where its representatives have been false to its tariff principles. The defeat of leaders who prevented the passage of such revenue laws as were promised by the Democrats in the campaign of 1892 and who sold out their party to the protectionists is the most conspicuous feature of the late elections. The result in 1895 is not dissimilar to that of 1890 and 1892 except in the fact that in one instance the Republican party was the sufferer and in the other the Democratic party. The Republicans obtained power in 1888 on a pledge of tariff revision in the interest of the masses. That pledge was violated by the passage of the odious measure of 1890. The tariff of 1894, though a measurable improvement upon the tariff of 1890, is full of cowardly compromises. It is not the measure the people had a right to expect. In their indignation they have thrust the Democrats out of power in Congress and put the Republicans back. It remains to be seen whether in the interim of popular repudiation the Republicans have learned anything.—Philadelphia Record.

Size for size, a thread of spider silk is decidedly tougher than a bar of steel. An ordinary thread will bear a weight of three grains. This is just about 50 per cent. stronger than a steel thread of the same thickness.

By the use of the mechanical devices now employed it is said that a workman can make the "bodies" for 400 hats a day. By the hand process he could prepare only four or five.

CONGRESS OFFICERS.

DISTRIBUTION OF SENATE AND HOUSE PATRONAGE.

Always a Lively Scramble for Places at the Beginning of Each New Session, When There Has Been a Change of Administration.

Rewarding Party Fealty.

Washington correspondence:

MORE than 200 anxious bread winners are interested in the outcome of the contest over the reorganization of the House at the beginning of each new session of Congress when there is a change of administration, for that number of salaried positions are vacated by the outgoing incumbents to be filled by representatives of the party coming into power. The minor patronage connected with the offices of the sergeant-at-arms, clerk, doorkeepers, and postmaster render the contest for the elective positions interesting, inasmuch as the representatives taking part in the campaign expect to benefit by the result in providing for their customers. The majority of the positions included in the list of patronage at the disposal of the newly elected officials command lucrative salaries, and each Representative has a following of eager constituents anxious to fill the office and draw the emolument therefor.

The clerk and House does not have the largest amount of patronage at his disposal, Washington offices in his department commanding the most attractive salaries. He himself draws $5,000 a year and is required to give a bond of $20,000. His is a position of some honor and more responsibility. The clerk has forty-three employes under him, commanding aggregate salaries of $71,308 a year. His right-hand man, the chief clerk, draws $3,600 per annum. The clerk appoints the journal clerk and an assistant, who keep the official record of the proceedings of the House; two reading clerks, who, of late years, have been selected by competitive examinations, indicating their ability to read to the satisfaction of the House; a tally clerk, who keeps track of the yea and nay votes, together with a number of minor officials. There is one salary of $3,000, four of $2,500 each, seven at $2,000 each, four at $1,800 each, seven at $1,600, two at $1,400, two at $1,200, and ten at $720. He also appoints a carpenter, who earns about $2,500 at piece work.

The sergeant-at-arms gets a salary of $4,500, and is now compelled to furnish a bond of $50,000. His most important duty is to take charge of the disbursement of the salaries of the members, their mileage and other perquisites. He is supposed to be responsible for the good order in the House, to preserve the peace among would-be belligerents, to prevent fights on the floor and to arrest absentees and bring them before the bar of the House when ordered to do so. The sergeant-at-arms dispenses one salary of $3,000, two of $2,000, one of $1,800, one of $1,200, one of $720, and one of $660. He also appoints one-third of the Capitol police, consisting of eight privates at $1,200, one lieutenant at $1,600, and two watchmen at $1,000.

The doorkeeper of the House is paid the smallest salary of all the elective officers, except the postmaster and chaplain, but dispenses the largest amount of patronage. He draws $3,500 a year, and is not required to give a bond. His duties are defined by his title. He guards the doors to the floor and the galleries, appoints elevator men, pages and folders. Under him there are five positions at $2,000 each, one at $1,800, three at $1,500, one at $1,400, one at $1,314, sixteen at $1,200, nine at $1,000, fifteen at $900, five at $840, twenty-five at $720, ten at $600, and thirty-three pages at $50 per month during the session.

The postmaster attends to receiving and delivering the mail of the members and to forwarding the public documents sent out from the Capitol. His salary is $2,500 and he is not required to give bond. There are no sinecures in his office, for every man has to work hard. The postmaster appoints one clerk at $2,000, ten at $1,200, one at $720 and eight men during the session at $100 a month each.

The chaplain of the House draws $900 per year, in session and out, and has an easy berth. He is supposed to open the House with prayer, and is not blamed if he makes it short. Sometimes the chaplain pays pastoral calls among the members of his flock during business hours, lingering after the House has assembled to chat with members. He never aims at his congregation in his prayer, although in times of turbulence and great public excitement in the House he may try to invoke the spirit of peace and a blessing of wisdom upon the public councils. It is usual to elect a minister of the District of Columbia with a regular salary, for the emolument of the place is not large.

The Speaker of the House has a bit of patronage at his own disposal. He is allowed one clerk at $2,350, one at $2,250, one at $1,600 and a messenger at $1,000. The Speaker himself receives $3,000 in addition to his regular salary of $5,000 as a member for the added duties of the speakership.

The Senate Officers.

The patronage of the Senate is much less than that of the House, but the positions are usually more secure. Some of the employes have been in their present positions for many years. "Old Man" Bassett, as he is called, has been in the service of the Senate a little over sixty years, and there is but one Senator, Mr. Morrill, who has been continuously in the Senate during the term of employment of Mr. Nixon, the financial clerk, though he is still a young man. The Senate does not like repeated changes. There are but three elective officers—the secretary, the sergeant-at-arms, and the chaplain. The patronage, except committee clerkships, comes under the secretary and the sergeant-at-arms. The chaplain gets small pay and has no employes under him.

The sergeant-at-arms has the appointment of the acting assistant doorkeeper of the Senate, the postmaster and his subordinates, the superintendent of the document room and his subordinates, the superintendent of the folding room and his subordinates and the laborers, messengers and pages. This patronage is, in accordance with the custom of the State, apportioned according to a regular system among the Senators, the minority getting a certain proportion. This apportionment being fixed at the beginning of the Congress, is not changed in any respect. If a vacancy occurs the Senator who had the original appointment is called upon to name some one to fill it, and if his choice is not satisfactory he is called upon to make another. Efficiency is always exacted of the employe, and every Senator has enough friends to provide for to enable him ultimately to present the right sort of man.

The clerks to the committees are appointed by the chairmen of the various committees and do not form a part of the patronage under the elective officers.

CHICAGO'S CANAL.

It Is Hard to Grasp the Vastness of the Undertaking.

The drainage canal which Chicago is building between it and Lockport is nearly twenty-nine miles long and is a wonderful undertaking. Work on it is divided into twenty-nine sections. Given under contract to twenty different and responsible firms, the work on all these subdivisions is in full progress, and on two or three of them—and that in the most difficult rocky part—is already finished.

The width of the great trench at the bottom is nowhere less than 110 feet on the first nine sections from Chicago, while on other sections it will be 202 feet, to be reduced again to 160 feet. A large part of the excavation has to be made through a solid ledge of limerock, underlying the track of the Desplaines River. The width of the upper edges of the huge ditch will vary from 162 to 305 feet, the former width prevailing only on the ten solid rock sections of the excavations, where the walls are vertical and not sloping down as on the remaining nineteen sub-divisions, which are excavated by digging, shoveling and dredging.

The clear water depth will be twenty-two feet. This will be uniform throughout, even at the lowest possible condition of Lake Michigan, which will feed the canal at the rate of 300,000 cubic feet a minute and later, when the bottom width of the first nine sections shall have been enlarged to 200 feet, at the rate of 600,000 cubic feet of water a minute.

From the estimates recently made there will have been removed by 1897, when it is expected the canal will be completed, 40,070,439 cubic yards of earth, or in other words, nearly two-thirds of the excavation of the newly opened Baltic canal, five-sixths of the Manchester canal, two-fifths of the Suez canal and three-tenths of the abortive Panama ditch. Of the 40,000,000 cubic yards of excavated soil, clay, gravel, broken stone and crushed primeval rock fully 12,000,000 cubic yards alone will belong to the latter class, making the Chicago enterprise a really unique one.

A stroll along the works is highly novel. One sees big dredges, flanked by flying bridges and gigantic scoops, ladling up whole loads of dirt at one sweep. One sees leviathans of machinery expressly invented and built to dispose of the loose stone rubble and blasted pieces of rock along the second half of the "Big Ditch." Under the name of "cantilevers," they tower like oblique gallows of antediluvian monstrosity over the landscape, loosening, lifting and removing tons of blasted rock with no more exertion than that with which children handle their toys.

Along with these and kindred cyclopic devices, there is a whole army train of steam, gas, water and electric motors, together with from 6,000 to 8,000 men, 600 teams, numberless graders, carts and trucks, and finally an array of blasting machinery, needing five tons of dynamite as their daily bill of fare. During one month recently 1,160,616 cubic yards of earth and rock were excavated and the cost of this one month's work amounted to $695,055.

In the beginning the cost of the work was estimated at between $40,000,000 and $45,000,000, but it is now estimated that at least $30,000,000 will suffice to complete the work.

MEISSONIER'S STATUE.

Great Painter Is Represented as Seen in His Paris Studio.

A statue was unveiled in the garden of the Louvre at Paris last week in memory of Jean Louis Ernest Meissonier, one of the most celebrated painters of France, and the statue was the work of one of France's most celebrated sculptors, Marius Jean Antoine Mercie. The monument is in white marble. Meissonier is represented as he was seen in his studio, clad in a voluminous dressing gown, as in the portrait of himself which he painted in 1889 for A. T. Stewart to accompany his most ambitious picture "1807."

MERCIE'S STATUE OF MEISSONIER.

Marius Jean Antoine Mercie, who wrought the statue, is one of the most famous of modern French sculptors, now 50 years old; he does not excel in statues of repose like this, but in statues or groups of action, such as his "Gloria Victis," a highly theatrical composition designed to console his country for the German defeat, which now stands in the Montholon Square in Paris. He is an officer of the Legion of Honor and has been medaled at the Salon and at international exhibitions repeatedly.

THE ARMENIAN PATRIARCH.

His Counsels Were Unheeded During Recent Troubles.

The Armenian Patriarch at Constantinople, whose portrait we publish, played an important part during the recent riot with the Softas. After celebrating high mass at a great ecclesiastical festival, when the Armenian community gathered together at the cathedral of Koum-Kapou, he was requested by the leaders of a certain Armenian anarchist party to head a procession to the porte to petition for redress of their wrongs. The patriarch refused, and begged his flock to avoid any demonstration, but they were beyond his control. They formed a procession and came into collision with the police. Then the Softas—Mussulman theological students—began to hunt down the Armenians right and left, and the public soon joined them. Numerous Armenians were killed and for some time Stamboul was in a state of seige. The patriarch is severely indisposed, and has been confined to his bed.

MGR. KRIMIAN.

The large five-story building on Middle street, Lowell, Mass., known as the Parker Block, was almost destroyed by fire. The fire was aided by repeated explosions of whisky in barrels, which blew out the windows and created havoc in adjoining buildings. The total loss exceeds $350,000.

DREAMS AND THEIR CAUSE.

Some Explanation of Our Curious Experiences While Sleeping.

The causes and classification of dreams is a subject that, although it has been discussed from time immemorial, seems to be as little understood, beyond a certain point, as it was ages ago. At the hypnotic congress, held in Paris recently, much time was spent in considering this question, and though some interesting theories were brought forth the savants were but little wiser when the discussion ended than when it began.

A compatriot of Ibsen, Dr. Mourley Vold, professor of the University of Christiania, gave the result of numerous experiments made upon himself and others who had lent themselves to the cause of science in trying to ascertain the dividing line between the role played in dreams by the cutaneous and muscular senses and between the true images of the day and the phantoms of the night.

You rarely dream, this savant says, that you are lying down, but generally that you are standing or sitting in a way corresponding to the position of the member which makes its impression upon the mind. For example, if one dreams that he is standing on tiptoe, it will be found that his toes are pressing hard against the footboard of the bed. Dreams of walking, running, dancing and the like are always produced by the position of the feet.

Another of this doctor's theories is that when we dream our minds to a certain extent become as they were when we were children. In support of this he says that when a dreamer with half-awakened sense sees his hand before him he instinctively begins to count his fingers. This is because the dormant senses reduces the sleeper's mind to a childish state of feebleness, and it is in infancy that our first lessons in computation begin upon our fingers.

The visual impressions of the day form another class of dreams. Dr. Mourley Vold is of the opinion that happy days are followed by pleasant dreams, and vice versa. Everyone knows, however, that this is not always the case.

At the conclusion of the learned Norwegian's address one of the oldest of his listeners—one of the most celebrated physicians in Paris—remarked to a colleague that if one has bad dreams it is because of indigestion or too much clothes on the bed or too little air in the room or because his wife snores or because he is lying in an uncomfortable position, and that with proper precautions there should be only pleasant dreams or none at all.—New York World.

Colors Used by the Ancients.

Few colors were employed beside indigo and purple, and these were obtained for the most part from the vegetable kingdom; but their purity was so great that they have kept well to our times, after having undergone for centuries the action of the air and the sun. This fact is particularly remarkable in the Egyptian tombs; the stone has been disintegrated by weathering, while the colors have been preserved. The color that we met most frequently is a mixture of a reddish-brown oxide of iron and clay, known under the name of Pompeiian red. This color, which has resisted for four thousand years the sun of Egypt and the action of the air, is equally proof against acids. The Egyptians reduced it by rubbing between stones under water to a degree of fineness that we cannot obtain nowadays by chemical precipitation. An equally precious yellow pigment, also much used, was formed of a natural oxide of iron mixed with much clay, chalk and water, and browned by the action of the heat; the mixture of the two colors gives orange. For this yellow color, gold bronze or gold leaf was also employed. For blue, they used a glass colored with copper minerals; this pigment was not less permanent than the preceding, even acids having very little effect upon it. The artists regarded their colors as imperishable.

A Nation of Whistlers.

We Americans are probably the greatest whistlers in the world. There are apparently two reasons for this. One is that we are the most nervous of people—we have got to be doing something, we can't go down stolidly at our work like Europeans or sit silent and contemplative, so we work off our fidgets with whistling. The other reason is that we are really a cheerful and expressive people, in spite of all that has ever been said to the contrary. The national whistling habit has resulted in the production of a great number of really skillful and musical whistlers. With one consideration and another, there is a tremendous amount of whistling. It seems cheerful, and sometimes, to the whistler, it is really cheerful; but only to the whistler; that's the trouble; a man may work off his own nervousness in this way, but he inflicts it on all who hear him; for an ordinary whistler's performance gives absolutely no pleasure to any one but himself.

Arbitrary Measures.

Lettres de cachet signify literally letters sealed with a little seal. Before the year 1790 they could be obtained for a consideration from the head of the French police, and were an arbitrary authority for imprisoning any one against whom they were directed. Many prisoners were sent to the bastile by means of these instruments of private spite.

Of Another Kind.

Crimsonbeak—"There's a man who has done some good work on the links."

Yeash—"He doesn't look like a golf player."

Crimsonbeak—"He's not. He manufactures sausages."—Yonkers Statesman.

Practical.

"Would you oblige," said the reporter who gets novel interviews, "by telling me what book helped you most in life?"

After a thoughtful pause the great man answered: "My bank book."—Boston Gazette.

Musical Women of Japan.

The chief exponents of music in Japan are women. Most men would consider that they were making themselves ridiculous by singing or playing in society.

Aches

And pains of rheumatism can be cured by removing the cause, lactic acid in the blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures rheumatism by neutralizing this acid. Thousands of people tell of perfect cures by

Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The One True Blood Purifier. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills act harmoniously with Hood's Sarsaparilla. 25c.

How She Learned to Laugh.

A society girl, one of whose greatest attractions is a soft little musical laugh, entertained an interested group lately with an account of how that prominent charm of hers was acquired. "Very few persons have, as you all know," she said, "an agreeable laugh. I had simply nothing that could be called such in my possession. The lack made me seem grim and too far from merry to be a successful companion. So I took lessons of an actor and learned the mechanism of forced laughter. This I practiced and improved myself till I had the art to perfection, and it became second nature. It cost me $50 to buy my laugh, but I would not part with it for thousands."

A Peculiar Man.

Figg—What a peculiar man Dunder is. He has a sovereign contempt for anybody who doesn't know as much as he does.

Fogg—I should think he would.—Boston Transcript.

TELL-TALE FACES.

PINCHED AND CAREWORN,

As Worn by Many American Women.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

The "tell-tale face" is worn by many American women, and is a symptom of symptoms, a signal of distress.

While women do all in their power to hide their condition, the practised eye soon detects the trouble.

When pains and aches are felt in every part of the body, when faintness, dizziness, and that bearing-down feeling prevail, when loss of sleep and appetite are reducing flesh daily, when the society of friends is irksome, and the hopeless "blues" predominate, then the face is pinched, haggard, and careworn, and prompt relief is necessary, or a beautiful life will be sacrificed.

An American woman, Lydia E. Pinkham, a student of women and their diseases, twenty years ago succeeded in producing an absolute cure for all diseases of women. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands to-day as it did then, pre-eminent.

Mrs. H. Wampler, of Barabo, Wis., whose letter we were permitted to publish last year, writes that she hopes Mrs. Pinkham will continue to use her name, as the publication in newspapers of the account of her own wonderful cure and relief from years of misery has been the means of influencing many suffering women to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and become well like herself. Mrs. Wampler feels, and rightly, too, that in this way she is doing a great good.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, OF ROXBURY, MASS.,

Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

If your skirt edges wear out, it's because you don't use

"S.H.&M."

BIAS VELVETEEN SKIRT BINDINGS

It's easy to prove it for yourself.

Don't take any binding unless you see "S. H. & M." on the label, no matter what anybody tells you.

If your dealer will not supply you, we will.

Send for samples, showing labels and materials, to the S. H. & M. Co., P. O. Box 699, New York City.

THE AERMOTOR CO. does half the world's windmill business, because it has reduced the cost of wind power to 1/6 what it was. It has many branch houses, and supplies its goods and repairs at your door. It can and does furnish a better article for less money than others. It makes Pumping and Geared, Steel, Galvanized-after-Completion Windmills, Tilting and Fixed Steel Towers, Steel Burr Saw Frames, Steel Feed Cutters and Feed Grinders. On application it will name one of these articles that it will furnish until January 1st at 1/6 the usual price. It also makes Tanks and Pumps of all kinds. Send for catalogue. Factory: 12th, Rockwell and Fillmore Streets, Chicago.

IN these days of much talk regarding progressive womanhood and the higher education of the fair sex it is well once in awhile to pause and note what sort of influence this higher mental development has upon a woman's actions, where domesticity and marriage are concerned. To one who undoubtedly believes that a woman should know all that she possibly can store up in her pretty head, it is evident and pleasantly so, too, that the higher education of women has from the start shown a tendency to discipline those who take college courses toward early and imprudent marriages. Wisdom and precaution apparently have come hand in hand to take possession of the fair one's heart and brain.

A recent canvass of college graduates is said to have shown that while 90 per cent. of non-college women become wives, only 55 per cent. of college graduates resign their lives into the keeping of husbands. From other sources it is learned that those who marry do not swell the lists of invalid wives; neither do 50 per cent. of the children born to them figure in mortality tables, as is the ghastly fact with the everyday woman's children. College women are not apt to marry a man to save him, and thus insure for children morally weak or vicious fathers; neither does love (?) in a cottage—translated in these days into a cheap flat in an unwholesome locality—appear to her finer or more winsome than the self-respecting independence of the bread-winning positions that are now within her reach. Years ago some conservative men had the perspicacity to realize and the courage to state that fuller life for woman meant the lessening of her interest in marriage (the only profession our foremothers had been permitted to consider), and that she would be harder to please and more deliberate in her choice. That the prophecies have come to pass is matter for congratulation, or for condemnation, according to the observer's point of view.

"Respectable Working Girls."

"I read in a newspaper this morning," said a downtown business man, "that a girl who was found in the streets looks 'like a respectable working girl.' I cannot help but think that is one of the many stereotyped phrases that are used in writing because they come naturally and easily to the writer's mind. I don't believe there is any type of respectable working girl. The phrase must cover the tremendous gaps between the servant type, the factory type and the typewriter and saleswoman type, so it does not mean anything. When I am in a hurry I drop into a lunching place on Fulton street and always find it crowded by 'respectable working girls.' They are typewriters and saleswomen, but I can point out dozens who, if seen separately on the street could not be told from the idle and stylish daughters of the moderately well-to-do. Their hats and wraps and skirts are of the latest fashion, and they appear to be just as well mannered as if they were all pupils in an uptown private school or a Bible class on one of the nice avenues. Why, work has not even dampened their spirits, for they are all as merry as young girls should be. And the preference they give to pastry, as well as the way they twist and turn to examine one another's dresses, shows that combining business and femininity has not altered the sex much as yet."—New York Sun.

Care of the Skin.

A simple and very efficacious bath for the face for the whitenig and softening of the skin is buttermilk. First sponge off the face with very hot water, as hot as the skin will bear. Then bathe it freely in buttermilk, rubbing well into the skin. Sponge again with hot water in order to remove a slight greasiness. Then plunge the face into a basin of cold water and wipe softly with a soft towel.

That last plunge is to preserve the hardness of the skin. Hot water is bleaching, but also softening, tending, alas, to produce wrinkles. The cold douche counteracts this and keeps the skin firm. It takes but a few minutes before retiring to perform the little rites on the altar of vanity, but the devotee is amply repaid by results.

For a Slender Figure.

A coat for the slender sisters is composed of black velvet. The plaits on the hips are each a veritable little hip, they stand out so distinctly. The sleeves are made of the new velvet properly known as "Gismonde" chine. It has a watered ground and what the Parisians term a glace design on it, from which it is easy to imagine how sheeny and mirror-like is its rich finish. At the neck is a cream colored lace cravat which falls to the waist, showing with exquisite effect against the reverse of chinchilla. The lining of this coat is pale green. The linings are an expensive feature this year of all outer garments.

Hats for Little Ones.

Hats for little girls are mostly of big sizes, in which beaver and felt are the most commonly seen materials. Ordinarily these are trimmed with velvet loops and bows, with sometimes a touch of a lighter color added by pompons, which may be of feathers or of silk, or by trimming of twisted velvet or silk of lighter hue. Covered hats, too, are fashionable for the little folks, and the tots are seen with such hats made of the cloth that is the chief material of their wraps. Such headgear is trimmed with silk pompons, small wings or velvet bows.

Wraps of wee sizes are seen trimmed with chinchilla, fox and like light furs, but the quantity of such trimming on one garment is usually very small, as the fur is seen only in narrow stripes that edge collars, capes, neck and wrists. The rage for showy buttons that prevails in women's dress extends also to children that are ten or less years from "coming out," and the effect of big buttons on small bodies is often irresistibly quaint. Lace effects for adults' dressing, too, are reproduced on the little folk's gowns, and the copying is so close that the latter look for all the world like dwarfed imitations of their elders.

To Make a Gown or Coat Modish.

Fur is used for vests and waists of cloth gowns, as it was last season, and last season's coat can be made quite modern by facing the collars, revers and cuffs with fur. Even the old-fashioned stone marten is not to be cast aside, and mink is extremely pretty for this purpose. The popular fur muff is round and medium large, but those who wish to carry out the picturesque styles of Marie Antoinette will find a giant muff, quite flat and a yard wide, very open at the ends, and made of the most expensive sable. Muffs lined with fur are one of the sensible fashions, and fancy muffs of velvet are trimmed with fur, insertions of guipure, and numerous frills of chiffon on either side, caught up with rhinestone brooches. These usually match the toque or neck trimming or both. Some of the fur muffs have a decoration of lace and velvet bows, fastened on with small heads with beady eyes. Revers and cuffs of green velvet applique traced with jet are one of the novel trimmings for Persian lamb coats, but the combinations of velvet embroidery, lace and flowers with fur garments are the exception and not the rule.

Woman in Politics.

They were discussing the propriety of making women eligible to important official positions, and this is what the man said: "I consider," said he, "that the incumbent must be, first of all, a woman of leisure, and, as that implies, of fortune ample enough to travel freely and entertain liberally; secondly, she must be of the most robust type, so that she will not be upset by the irregularities of travel or by a succession of breakfasts, luncheons and dinners, where she ought to eat generously to prevent hard feeling; thirdly, as leisure, of course, means freedom from family cares, she should be either—preferably—a widow whose children are grown up, or an unmarried woman, or a married woman without children, and with a husband who makes no demands upon her and who is content to go his way while she goes hers."—Chicago Post.

I Miss You, Dear.

When morning's light first tints the gray of dawn,
And sleepless eyes tell day is here,
And all the world is stirring into life,
Then is the time I miss you, dear.

When noontime comes and brings its hour of rest
From busy toil, so full of care and fear;
When man so needs the solace of a smile,
Then is the time I miss you, dear.

When twilight falls and all the world is still,
When echoes come from far and near,
And sighing winds lull weary souls to rest,
Then is the time I miss you, dear.

Through every moment of the lagging day,
So long, without your words of cheer,
And when, at night, I kneel me down in prayer,
Then is the time I miss you, dear.

Boycelle Divided Skirt.

Hot Bran for Fur.

Fur, after some years' wear, will look much improved if cleaned with new bran previously heated in the oven. Rub the hot bran well into the fur with a piece of flannel, shake the fur to remove all particles and then brush thoroughly. The fur will clean more easily if the lining and wadding are first removed, but such removal is not absolutely needful. The flat, oily look which mars the apearance of the neck portion of furs long in use, is mostly, if not wholly, removed by means of hot bran. Rub the fur the wrong way, this meaning in this particular instance the right way.

A Beautiful Cape.

A lovely opera cape is of brocaded pink silk, lined with white satin and edged with white thibet. Full medium-length capes of brocade are preferred by very many women to the elegant enveloping cloaks, as the former do not crush the dress skirt or its trimmings of lace, ribbon, etc. These are interlined with fiber chamois for warmth and to keep them in shape, and lined throughout with plain or chameleon satin. The trimmings are narrow fur and "jeweled" passementerie.

Ounces of Prevention.

To clean bamboo furniture use brush dipped in salt water.

If you have to sew all day change your seat occasionally and so obtain rest. Bathing the face and hands will also stimulate and refresh.

Oil stains may be removed from wall paper by applying for four hours pipe clay, powdered and mixed with water to the thickness of cream.

For stains in matting from grease wet the spot with alcohol, then rub on white castile soap. Let this dry in a cake and then wash off with warm salt water.

GRACEFUL AS ANTELOPES

Are the Women of the Lower Classes of Central America.

The women of the Pueblo in Honduras and Nicaragua were better looking than the women of the lower classes of any country I have ever visited, writes Richard Harding Davis. They were individually more beautiful, and the proportion of beautiful women was greater. A woman there is accustomed from her childhood to carry heavy burdens on her head, and this gives to all of them an erect carriage and a fearless uplifting of the head when they walk or stand. They have never known a tight dress or a tight shoe, and they move as easily and as gracefully as an antelope. Their hair is very rich and heavy, and they oil it and comb it and braid it from morning to night, and wear it parted in the middle, and drawn tightly back over the ears, and drawn around the head in heavy braids. Their complexion is a light brown, and their eyes have the sad look which one sees in the eyes of a deer or a dog, and which is not so much the sign of any sorrow as of the lack of intelligence. The women of the upper classes are like most Spanish-American women, badly and over dressed in a gown fashioned after some forgotten Parisian mode, with powder over their faces, and with their hair frizzled and curled in ridiculous profusion. They are a very sorry contrast to a woman of the people, such as you see standing in the doorways of the mud huts, or advancing towards you along the trail with an earthen jar on her shoulder, straight of limb, and with a firm, fine lower jaw, a low, broad forehead, and shy, sad eyes.

Harnessing the Sun.

When we sit in front of a coal fire and enjoy its generous warmth, do we realize that the heat and light of the burning coal are really sunshine that has been stored up for ages? Such is the fact. Centuries ago the sun shone on the earth, the plants and trees grew, fell, and grew again; they were covered by geologic deposits, and acted upon by great heat and pressure, until in the course of years and ages these broad layers of organic matter were transformed into coal. The coal thus represents the work done by the sunshine years ago, and when it is burned the imprisoned solar energy is loosened again.

Our system of power production depends upon this presence of energy. But coal is a wasteful source of energy. Even the best engines do not utilize over 10 per cent. of the calculated energy of the heat of coal. And, besides this, it is an inconvenient thing in many ways; it has to be mined, freighted and stored. Can we not find some more economical way of using the sun's energy?

During the last few years the great progress in electrical science has enabled man to utilize the solar heat in a thriftier way. During its day's work the sun draws up a large amount of water from the oceans and damp earth. By the action of its rays plant life flourishes, and plants draw from the ground and evaporate into the air large amounts of water. Thus an oak tree of average size, with seven hundred thousand leaves, lifts from the earth into the air about one hundred and twenty-three tons of water during the five months it displays its foliage. This evaporated water, sooner or later, falls as rain, and by the action of gravity begins to flow downward. Thus the great rivers are fed. Round and round incessantly goes the water lifted by the tireless sun to fall when deserted by him, and again to fall and run seaward as long as it may exist upon this earth.

The Acids of Fruits.

The grateful acid of the rhubarb leaf arises from the malic acid and binoxalate of potash which it contains; the acidity of the lemon, orange, and other species of the genus citrus is caused by the abundance of citric acid which their juice contains; that of the cherry, plum, apple and pear, from the malic acid in their pulp; that of gooseberries and currants, black, red, and white, from a mixture of malic and citric acids; that of the grape from a mixture of malic and tartaric acids; that of the mango from citric acid and a very fugitive essential oil; that of the tamarind from a mixture of citric, malic and tartaric acids; the flavor of asparagus from aspartic acid, found also in the root of the marshmallow, and that of the cucumber from a peculiar poisonous ingredient called fungin, which is found in all fungi, and is the cause of the cucumber being offensive to some stomachs.

It will be observed that rhubarb is the only fruit which contains binoxalate of potash in conjunction with an acid. Beet root owes its nutritious quality to about 9 per cent. of sugar which it contains, and its flavor is a peculiar substance containing nitrogen mixed with pectic acid.

The carrot owes its fattening powers also to sugar and its flavor to a peculiar fatty oil; the horseradish derives its flavor and blistering power from a volatile acrid oil. The Jerusalem artichoke contains 14½ per cent. of sugar and 3 per cent. of inulin (a variety of starch), besides gum and a peculiar substance to which its flavor is owing; and, lastly, garlic and the rest of the onion family derive their peculiar odor from a yellowish volatile acrid oil, but they are nutritious from containing nearly half their weight of gummy and glutinous substances not yet clearly defined.

Disfranchised.

Holland disfranchises a citizen if he is absent from the country for ten years and during that time does not formally notify the proper authority that he wishes to continue to be regarded as a citizen. Great Britain does not so easily give up her claim to the loyalty of her subjects. A man may count upon her protection on the ground that his grandfather was by birth and allegiance an Englishman, even though he and his father were both born and have always lived on foreign soil, but without being naturalized.

"Bunkins, I guess, is about the smartest man of his years in this community," said the citizen who observes. "Knows a great deal, does he?" "Knows a great deal? I should say so. Why, sir, that man knows almost as much as his 19-year-old daughter who is in the high school."—Washington Star.

When a woman isn't invited to a party, she says that her health is so poor that her physician would not allow her to attend.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Recorder's Office

THURSDAY. DECEM

Baking Powder

LY PURE

r onths for us.

er Shall from others, with the money w

DAY

a special sale of a few articl

ons offered.

S.

	35c.
	75c.
	¼ off.
	15c.

the sea air will not tarnish. All of these buttons the army and navy tailor must keep on hand and sew on according to regulation.—Washington Star.

Confinement and Hard Work

Indoors, particularly in the sitting posture, are far more prejudicial to health than excessive muscular exertion in the open air. Hard sedentary workers are far too weary after office hours to take much needful exercise in the open air. They often need a tonic. Where can they seek invigoration more certainly and thoroughly than from Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a renovant particularly adapted to recruit the exhausted force of nature. Use also for dyspepsia, kidney, liver and rheumatic ailments.

No Chance of Disappointment.

Quick Drop Dan (hospitably)—I want yer to come up to the ranch to-night. We're to have a party 'nd a wake.

Eastern Traveler—A wake! But there's nobody dead, is there?

Quick Drop Dan—Nope. But that will be before the party's over.—New York World.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Compromised.

Wife—I've got to have some money and some new clothes and some shoes and a hat and a wrap.

Hubbie—Gracious, you don't have to have all that, do you?

Wife (studying a moment)—Well, I'll compromise on the money.—Detroit Free Press.

Facts Conclusive.

We expect your patronage because the Nickel Plate road operates conveniently scheduled trains, equipped with unexcelled dining cars and luxurious sleepers between Chicago, Cleveland, Erie, New York and Boston. Lowest rates.

PRETZEL—When I saw him he was foaming at the mouth—

Sweitzer—Mein Gott! Hydrophobia!

Pretzel—No! Beer!

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the best medicine for that disease I have ever used.—L. C. Johnston, Iola, Texas, June 24th, 1891.

"JOHNNY, you shouldn't run out in the rain without your hat on."

"Mamma, my head can't get wet. I've had it shingled."

Nickel Plate road, low rates and perfect service are all synonyms. A through sleeping car service between Chicago, Fort Wayne, Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston.

FORGIVE and forget: that is what most people do when conscious of a fault in themselves.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething: softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

California passengers should ask agents of the Nickel Plate road for rates and connections before purchasing tickets elsewhere.

THE early Saxons seldom wore hats and still more seldom caps. Their sole head covering was the long flaxen hair which they cultivated with sedulous care.

THE MODERN MOTHER

is found that her little ones are improved care by the pleasant laxative, Syrup of Figs, when in need of the laxative effect of gentle remedy than by any other, and that is more acceptable to them. Children enjoy it and it benefits them. The true remedy, Syrup of Figs, is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

ALL brave men love; for he only is brave who has affections to fight for, whether in the daily battle of life or in physical contests.—Hawthorne.

A Famous Paper.

The Youth's Companion has become famous because there is hardly a famous man or woman in Great Britain or the United States who does not contribute to the paper each year. The writers engaged for 1895 promises to make the paper more attractive than ever before.

To those who subscribe at once, sending the 75, the publishers make an extraordinary offer—to send free a handsome four-page calendar, 7x10, lithographed in nine bright colors, retail price of which is 50 cents. The Turkey Companion free every week to Jan. 1, 1896, the Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Year's Double Numbers free, and the Companion a full year, fifty-two weeks, to Jan. 1, 1897. Address The Youth's Companion, 199 Columbus avenue, Boston.

EVERY time a man gets abused by other men, it strengthens his memory for names and faces.

Atlanta Exposition Excursions.

Special Excursions leave Toledo, Cincinnati and Louisville in December, visiting en route Mammoth Cave, Nashville, Chattanooga and Lookout Mountain. Tickets include Sleeping Car berths, Hotel Accommodations and All Expenses. Send for program.

CHARLES N. GATES,
Toledo, Ohio.

WHEN a boy breaks anything, he is a naughty boy, but when a girl breaks anything, it is an accident.

Great Reduction in Time to California.

Once more the North-Western Line has reduced the time of its trans-continental trains, and the journey from Chicago to California via. this popular route is now made in the marvelously short time of three days. Palace Drawing-Room Sleeping Cars leave Chicago daily, and run through to San Francisco and Los Angeles without change, and all meals en route are served in Dining cars. Daily Tourist Sleeping car service is also maintained by this line between Chicago and San Francisco and Los Angeles, completely equipped berths in upholstered Tourist Sleepers being furnished at a coast of only $6.00 each from Chicago to the Pacific Coast. Through trains leave Chicago for California at 6:00 p. m. and 10:45 p. m. daily, after arrival of trains of connecting lines from East and South.

For detailed information concerning rates, routes, etc., apply to ticket agents of connecting lines or address:

W. B. KNISKERN, G. P. & T. A., Chicago.

DON'T let your grist sprout in going to mill.

Croup is quickly relieved, and whooping Cough greatly helped, and its duration shortened by Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant, the old family stand-by for Coughs and Colds, and all Lung or Throat affections.

WHEN a women becomes hard up, she tries to sell her opals because they are unlucky.

Now is the time to make your plans for your winter California trip. Ask agents of the Nickel Plate road about low rates and connections with the fast California trains out of Chicago.

MOSES may have made mistakes, but he established a board of health that Bob Ingersoll can't improve on.

Jack Frost irritates sensitives skins. Glenn's Sulphur Soap overcomes the irritation.

"Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye," Black or Brown, 50c.

IF you dine with the jockey you'll eat horseshoe soup.

Brown's Bronchial Troches relieve throat irritations caused by cold or use of the voice. The genine sold only in boxes.

BEAUTY is apt to love only its mirror.

The Nickel Plate road operates a perfect passenger service composed of first and second class day coaches, attended by colored porters. Excellent dining cars and through sleeping cars to Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, New York and Boston. Rates always the lowest.

TIME and beauty will never wed.

FITS.—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila. Pa.

"No Foolin."

ST. JACOBS OIL DOES NOT "FOOL 'ROUND"; IT GOES STRAIGHT TO WORK ON PAIN AND DRIVES IT OUT AND "SHUTS IT OFF" FROM RETURNING. THAT'S BUSINESS.

Let the men wash,

if they won't get you Pearline. Let them try it for themselves, and see if they don't say that washing with soap is too hard for any woman.

This hard work that Pearline saves isn't the whole matter; it saves money, too—money that's thrown away in clothes needlessly worn out and rubbed to pieces when you wash by main strength in the old way. That appeals—where is the man who wouldn't want to have the washing made easier—when he can save money by it?

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled; if your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back. 456 JAMES PYLE, New York.

Bear in Mind that "The Gods Help Those Who Help Themselves." Self Help Should Teach You to Use

SAPOLIO

BEST IN THE WORLD.

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH. For durability and for cheapness this preparation is truly unrivalled.

THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH in cakes for general blacking of a stove.

THE SUN PASTE POLISH for a quick, after-dinner shine, applied and polished with a cloth.

Morse Bros., Props., Canton, Mass., U. S. A.

A delicious dish of OATMEAL with the FULL FLAVOR of the BEST selected OATS can only be made with

Friends' Oats

MADE OF THE FINEST OATS BY SPECIAL PROCESS.

YEARLY SALES 29,000,000 LBS.

SOLD BY ALL GROCERS IN 2-LB. PACKAGES.

MUSCATINE OATMEAL CO. MUSCATINE, IOWA.

NATURE'S WAY:

There is no reason why the period preceding childbirth should be full of discomfort. There is no reason why childbirth itself should bring a feeling of dread to the mother. Nature does nothing wrong. It is the abuse of nature by wrong living, lack of exercise, ill-fitting clothes, that brings about the tortures of childbirth.

Perfectly healthy women go through the ordeal with comparative ease. Nature intended it that way. Women approaching motherhood have really but one thing to do—get strong generally and locally.

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI

is the best medicine and tonic to do this. It prepares the generative organs for the coming trial, shortens labor, lessens pain and robs confinement of its dangers.

One Dollar a Bottle.

Sold by all Druggists.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. R. L. Johns, of Selma, Ala., is in the habit of buying Ripans Tabules at White's Pharmacy at Selma. When interviewed at the time of a recent purchase, Mr. Johns said: "Ever since I was in the army, where I contracted indigestion and dyspepsia from eating 'hard tack and sow belly,' I have suffered much from those and kindred ailments. A son of mine who clerks for J. N. Harter in a drug store at Winfield, Kansas, told me while home on a visit, over a year ago, to get a box of Ripans Tabules and take them. I did, and in a very short time I was benefited, and by the time they were half gone I was well, and since then I have felt better, ate more and relished it better than at any time since the war, and am doing more work now than I ever expected to do again. I tell you they are the greatest medicine for a fellow's stomach I ever saw. This box is for a neighbor of mine out by me in the country. We always have them at home, and I never hesitate to recommend them when a fellow complains about his stomach hurting him.

(Signed) R. L. JOHNS."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

Wabash Line

GRAND TOUR OF OLD MEXICO

THE EGYPT OF THE NEW WORLD.

On Tuesday, January 14, 1896, Gates' annual tour of Mexico will leave Toledo by special train at 11 a. m., via Wabash Railroad, and pass Fort Wayne about 1:30 p. m. The tour this season will far surpass all former efforts, several new features have been added. The Gates' special Pullman train will consist of vestibuled sleeping and compartment cars, observation and library car, and a palace dining car, also a baggage car, the entire train making the thirty day tour and covering 6,600 miles. Mr. Gates will accompany the train, and give every detail personal attention. For a handsome book of the tour giving itinerary and much other interesting data apply to the following representatives Wabash Railroad.

C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.
CHAS. H. GATES, Ext Agt., Toledo, Ohio.
P. E. DONBAUGH, P. & T. A. Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
J. M. MCCONNELL, P. & T. A. Lafayette, Ind.

Cutler's Carbolate of Iodine Inhalent and Pocket Inhaler.

Will positively cure CATARRH, BRONCHITIS and ASTHMA. Give it a trial. Price, $1; by mail, $1.10. All Druggists. W. H. SMITH & CO., Proprietors, 402 Michigan St., Buffalo, New York.

DROPSY TREATED FREE

Positively CURED with Vegetable Remedies. Have cured many thousand cases pronounced hopeless. From first dose symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed. BOOK of testimonials of miraculous cures sent FREE. Ten Days Treatment Furnished Free by Mail. DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS, SPECIALISTS ATLANTA, GEORGIA

When writing to Advertisers say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

THEN

Bring in Your Feet and we will make them comfortable and warm.

LOOK AT US!

Out line of School Shoes is the largest and best in the county.
Call and Take a look at Them.

SHULL'S
CASH - SHOE - STORE

AUB

AUBURN, DE KALB

er and were indeed

to purchase your Christmas G

D HO

BER 14 and continue for

ly Cash. Below we quote a

E

4 yea 5c. 5c. c pr. 0 pr. 4 pr.	Entire Stock of 50 and All $1 00 N velties .... Al Flannels and Br at 500 Yards, Yard wide,

We are

HEADQUARTERS

—FOR—

STOVES,
RANGES,
FURNACES,
COAL HODS,
STOVE BOARDS
MICA, ETC, ETC.

ROOT'S ✦ ROOT'S

FT WAYNE

JACKETS and CAPES

Our great cloak room is now at its best. Not one thing missing that should be here. We've been searching the market all over, picking out the choicest novelties in fur and cloth wraps. We always want something extra for the holidays We want the best This cloak room is now making that exposition of lovely wraps. Ladies and Misses

COME EARLY IF YOU CAN.

It is the best of the season, Get the best out of this beautiful lot.

Come Too

And see the beautiful Creamy White Long Cloaks for Infants, made of Cashmere, Bengaline, Eider Down, some trimmed with Silk Embroidery, some with Ribbons, some Hemstiched and Embroidered.

Prices $1.50 to $7.50

Children's Furs.

All the Dainty Light Colored Furs in Muffs and Boas, Muffs and Collarettes, Single Muffs,

At $1.50 a set up to $3

Black Cascade Silks.

It's the only Silk for you to buy Every yard warranted. We now show them in full lines in all the popular weaves.

$1 up to $2 a Yard

Bengaline,

The article just suited for making over Ladies' Cloaks—Putting in new Sleeves—Black only.

85c, $1 up to $1.50 Yd

Those cheap Embroideries are going, Prices less than half what they are worth.

Down Comfortables.

Made of nice quality Sateen Reversible sides Some figured on both sides; some figured on one side and plain on the other. Filled with Down

$4.50 to $10

Tabourettes.

The new tea table. Call at Carpet room and see these handsome new novelties. Oak, Ebony and Fancy Maple.

$3 to $10 Each

Aprons.

We show an exceedingly pretty line of Ladies' White Aprons. The entire line bought for the Holliday season is now in store Its well to pick now.

Prices 35c To $3.00 Each.

Ladies' Under-Skirts.

Made of Moreen, Sateen, Mohair Cloth and Satin Plain and Quilted. One ruffle, two or three ruffles.

Prices $1 To $7.50 Each.

These will be found at Muslin Underwear counter.

ROOT & CO.

GROFF'S Rheumatic Cure

Is the only positive Cure known to the Medical Profession for the Cure of Acute and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Ovarian Neuralgia, Dismenorrhœa, Psoriasis, Scrofula, Liver and Kidney Diseases. A positive Cure effected in from 6 to 18 days.
For Sale by Groff Medicine Co., Chicago Illinois.

Mt. Hope.

Mrs. Samuel Hurni died Nov. 17th She was born in Shelby Co., O., Dec., 3, 1855. At the age of eight years she came to Indiana with Daniel Shaffer, being adopted by him. She was married to Samuel Hurni, Dec. 10, 1870. To them were born ten children, eight of whom, with the husband remain to mourn her departure Here funeral was held Nov. 19th at Union Chapel conducted by Rev Fedrow. Interment in the Cosper cemetery About fourteen years ago Mrs. Hurni united with the German Baptist church and has since lived a devoted life

Mrs. Wm. Howey died Nov. 20 and was buried Nov 22 in Mount Pleasant cemetery. Her funeral was conducted by Rev. Laird of the Christian church at Butler

Mr Frederick and family are this week moving to Pleasant Lake Their friends and neighbors planned a surprise on them and on last Friday evening they came in on them, about sixty in number All brought well filled baskets, of pies, cakes and chickens. At about ten o'clock the tables were spread and all enjoyed the supper After this was over Mrs W. A Rose on behalf of the guests made a nice speech and presented Mrs. Frederick with some suitable tokens of respect procured by the ladies. At about twelve o'clock the company departed for their homes feeling they had spent a pleasant evening.

On Nov. 22 an election was held at No. 9 in Wilmington township to select a supervisor Wm. Wallace was chosen to fill this office.

SURRISED HIM.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Schopf many of the young folks met on Monday evening. Nov. 18, to surprise their son, Philip, on his 27th birthday. He thought he could not be surprised, but his sisters proved to him that it could be done. He knowing nothing about what was going on in the least, went with Harry Baker to Garrett in the evening. When he returned he gazed around him bewildered. At last he said, "Let me see the crowd" There are many pleasant evenings for young people to enjoy themselves in various, ways, but few are so happily spent as this one Many amusing games were played during the evening. After having a good social time for 2 or 3 hours, we were invited to supper which consisted of oysters, pie, cake and fruit. After supper another hour or so was spent in playing and talking, after which we returned to our homes, feeling like going to another party like this whenever invited. The following were present: Lena Knott, Deo Knott, Tina Moody, Jesse Cornell May Moody, John Moody, Burt Fitch, Mabel Hixon, Anise Heitz, Perry Heitz, Anise Schopf, Wilhe Heitz, Edna Hasg, Harry Baker, George Recktenwaldt, Elmer Strouse, Bertha Hollobough, Oma Strouse, Blanche Fair, Orrin Hasg, Ezra Hasg, Sarah Schopf, Alta Lung, Preston Schopf, Almeda Schopf, Clara McClure, Mrs Hasg, Sylvester Schopf, Merman Jackson, Rossie Baker, Boston Schopf, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Cornell, Mr. and Mrs. Dan. Lung.

TO THE SUFFERERS OF RHEUMATISM.

After using Groff's Rheumatic Cure for some time in my practice I take great pleasure in saying that it is a most wonderful remedy for Rheumatism: in fact, it is the only one I have found for the cure of this disease in all its various form. Dr. E. E. Tull, Chicago.

WANTED—A COMPETENT MAN OR WOMAN in this town to introduce a well known food product to the trade. Good pay. Address VAN CAMP PACKING CO, Indianapolis, Ind. 42-4

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

TRAINS LEAVE AVILLA.

GOING NORTH.

For Grand Rapids and Mackinaw . . 3 47 p. m.
For Grand Rapids and Traverse City . 9 11 a. m.

GOING SOUTH:

For Cincinnati . . . . . 12 04 p. m.
For Fort Wayne . . . . . 6 22 p. m.
For Cincinnati . . . . . 10 27 p. m

G. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. & T. A.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

A Well Known Editor Recommends Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm.

For the first time in my life I give a medical testimonial, said Rev. H. Y Rush of Dayton, Ohio, the other day, and only do so now from a sense of duty that I owe to other sufferers. Mr Rush was thirteen years editor of a religious weekly in Dayton, Ohio, and has been a minister of the Gospel for forty years' so that with his age and experience he dose not speak lightly when he says:

I have given your Catarrh Balm a most thorough trial and found it all, and even more, in its immediate and permanent good effects, than I had anticipated. From the beginning of its use and continuously it was highly beneficial and curative. For catarrh, cold, difficulty in nasal breathing, prevention of colds, soreness of throat, it is the only remedy myself and family have found that dose all and more than it promises. Nasal catarrh in some of its forms is so common and every day a matter that the fact that it may prove dangerous ailment is apt to be overlooked Pretzinger's for a cold in the head is are charming remedy; used at at night the cold will be gone in the morning; used while the choking spasm is on the paroxysm will cease instantly and the breathing will come naturally. Three or four jars will cure a chronic care of catarrh. A small sample will be sent on receipt of 2ct. stamp by Pretzinger Bros, Chemists, Dayton, Ohio.

An Editor's Life

One of the beauties and charms of an editor's life is his dead-heading it on all occasions. No one who has ever tasted of the sweets of that bliss can begin to take in its glory and its happiness He does $200 worth of advertising for a railroad, get a pass for a year; rides $25 worth, and then he is looked upon as a dead beat He "puffs" a concert troupe $10 worth and gets $1 in "complimentaries" and is thus passed "free." If the hall is crowded he is begrudged the room he occupies, for if his complimentaries were paying tickets the troupe would be so much in pocket. He blows and puffs a church festival free, to any desired extend, and does the poster printing at half rates, and rarely gets a "thank you" for it It goes as part of his duty as an editor He does more work gratuitously for the town and community than all the rest of the population put together and gets cursed for it all, while in many instances a man who donates a few dollars to a fourth of July, base ball club or a church, is gratefully remembered. O, it is sweet thing to be an editor, he passes "free" you know!—Texas Siftings.

GREAT REDUCTION IN TIME TO CALIFORNIA.

Once more the North-Western Line has reduced the time of its transcontinental trains, and the journey from Chicago to California via this popular route is now made in the marvelously short time of three days. Palace Drawing-Room Sleeping cars leave Chicago daily, and run through to San Francisco and Los Angeles without change, and all meals en route are served in Dining cars Daily Tourist Sleeping car service is also maintained by this line between Chicago and San Francisco and Los Angles, completely equipped berths in upholstered Tourist Sleepers being furnished at a cost of only $6.00 each from Chicago to the Pacific Coast. Through trains leave Chicago for California at 6:00 p. m. and 10:45 p. m. daily, after arrival of trains of connecting lines from the East & South

For detailed information concerning rates, routes, etc., apply to ticket agents of connecting lines or address A. H. Waggoner, T. P. A, 7 Jackson place Indianapolis, Ind. 52

NAPOLEON,S VALUE OF VICTORY.

It Finds a striking Counterpart in Recent World Triumphs.

Napoleon knew well the value of a victory. After Austerlitz the world seemed his, Fame invited, fortune favored, everything stimulated his aspiring ambition. With growing power he gathered the fruits of victory. And so has it ever been. Success succeeds. A notable illustration of this truth is furnished by the great victories won at the World's Fair in '93. and the California Midwinter Fair in '94 by Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder Ever increasing sales and popularity have been the result. The people have promptly ratified the official verdicts that declared Dr Price's, for leavening power, keeping qualities, purity and general excellence the "Foremost baking powder in all the world"

Quite as quickly as the great Emperor do they know the value of a victory that means world wide supremacy

A Friend's Advice.

William Windeknecht, a wealthy farmer of Muskegon county, personally appeared before me, a Notary Public, this day and deposes and says: That for the past year or so, he was afflicted with Weakness Trembling, Heart Failure, Extreme Nervousness, Headache and General Debility; that he has consulted with physicians and received no benefit. He was persuaded by a friend to try a sample bottle of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer, and he says that the Trembling and Nervous feeling was immediately stopped by its use. Afterwards he used two bottles of the same medicine and says he is entirely cured and free from that Trembling sensation; his heart gives him no trouble and he sleeps well. He further says, his general health is much better, and that he is calling the attention of his neighbors and friends to the remarkable value of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer"
Signed, W Windeknecht. For sale by F. E. D. venport.

ROYAL Baking Powder.
Highest of all in leavening strength.—U. S. Government Report.

Thanksgiving

It is possible that many who observe this day give little thought to its origin of its historical importance. On occasions of great national success, it has happened in all times and nearly all nations that a day of rejoicing of thanksgiving has been observed, But it was left to this new nation and this "new world" to make it stated and systematic. "We are told told that the "Pilgrim Fathers," when they had started in to make them habitable homes in the new world on that bleaked December day, and in a severe climate felt that the trial before them were many and the prospect uncertain. But after one year of labor and prudence in management, and as they beleived by the favor of Providenc they found themselves starting in on their second winter with a fair amount of food and other supplies with which to sustain themselves till the next crop could be gathered. They very properly appointed a meeting for thanksgiving and praise, This practice soon became the rule, and the idea spread to other localities until at last it has become a universal custom. After the severe winter of 1631, there was a general thanksgiving and prayer, which took place in February. Nov 26, 1789, was date fixed in the first national proclamation by George Washington, and about that date has generally prevailed since Lincoln did the same in 1863, and it is now the estabished practice that when the president has set a day, the governors of states follow up by selecting the same. Even some large cities like Chicago, have made it a specially local matter. It is celebrated not only with feasting and socially, but it has always been customary to have special religious services, at some hour of the day.

John Hoffelder

(Communicated)

On Monday, Dec 2 John Hoffelder, of Smithfield township, completed his six year term of office as county commissioner. An office that has more responsibility, less pay and greater liability to fault finding than any other, an office that many think they could fill to perfection and may be very thankful that they will never have the chance, thereby saving their own and the public's good opinion of themselves. To serve as commissioner so close to the people, so open to their opinions and to go through silencing can't and winning approval is something to be proud of and it will be generally conceded that Mr. Hoffelder has proved himself that kind of a man. His integrity has never been questioned but there was a time when amused smiles followed mention of the bluff Dutchman, who stubbornly held his own, even in the newspaper, though handicapped by inexperience in English writing. This has changed to a silent respect for his outspoken good sense and sterling manhood as it became plain that his sole purpose in patient study and ungrudged labor was to learn and apply them both for the public interest. The compensation of a county commissioner is $3.50 per day and there are no constructive fees, no livery rigs at county expense, although he may have to pay out almost the amount of his salary in travel to inspect needed or finished repairs or construction of public works.

The temptation to some men to help themselves to better compensation by standing in with unscrupulous contractors has brought its fruition in heavy indebtedness for township or county, for which taxpayers see little benefit To his credit be it said that Mr. Hoffelder has had no mercy for any man who would insinuate personal profit on any contract, and a suspicion of a scheme to defraud, has been sufficient to call out all his energies for its defeat. Solid stone abutments and iron bridges have been built during his incumbency and will long stand a monument to the enterprise and faithful supervision of himself and colleagues.

Coming inexperienced into an office requiring legal knowledge as well as executive ability, he constantly studied to inform himself upon all measures and matters brought before the Board, with the result that each year has seen finer work with less cost, than that preceding.

In bridge and abutment work he has been an expert, the envy of the people large sums in assigning contracts and insuring their fulfilment. Assuring himself that he was right, no influence swayed him. Firm and outspoken, he expressed what ought to be said, forcibly, when others have been silent, and he has become known as fair and just in his decision Retiring to his farm, richer only in the confidence and respect of friends, old and new, for the unselfish discharge of official duties, the thanks of the public so well served, and their hearty wish for his happiness and prosperity.

For Pneumonia.

Dr. J. C. Bishop, of Agnew, Mich, says: "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar in three very severe cases of pneumonia the last month, with good results." Robbins McCord's. 52

EDITOR OF THE GRAPHIC.

Of Campbellsburg, Ind., writes: "I will carry your ad at price named ..... Our druggist don't handle Syrup Pepsin and I want some of it myself. I have taken two bottles and it did my stomach more good than any medicine I ever took and I want more of it. I had a bad case of dyspepsia." F. E. Davenport. 52

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

ON THE WING

MR. COBB GIVES THE COURIER READERS SOME NOTES OF HIS TRAVELS.

Thursday's Daily.

The COURIER will be pleased to note that the writer, by mere accident met the Smith family at York, Neb., one day last week and had a most delightful visit of about an hour, at the home of the family. Thus far I have had a fine all around trip, having had charming weather, in fact there has been no unpleasant weather in Neb. this Fall, just rain enough to put the black rich soil in good shape for the winter wheat is looking fine.

Grand Island, is becoming famous for her Sugar Beet industry there being over 20,000 acres of this crop alone, this years, between Norfolk and Grand Island The Sugar Beet Plant at this place has turned out and sold over $800,000.00 worth of its own sugar during the past year.

Great car loads of the white beets are seen making their way to Grand Island daily at this season

Nebraska as a state is one of the most productive, but for three years past, has suffered for want of sufficient rain to mature the corn crops and as some are forced to say about all Nebraska has raised, leaving the beet question out, for the past three or four years is 8 per cent and I think if the truth is known, not all have done even that well.

The present corn crop is not quite up to the average although millions of bushels are cribbed, most of which will be held for better prices, at present being only 8 to 8 bushels. There is considerable talk of irrigation in the state, but owing to the flatness of the land, this means of watering the crops will probably never become practical.

The principal excitement during the past ten days in this state, or this part of the country has been the attraction of Schlatter the Denver healer. The trains have been crowded to and from Denver with thousands of afflicted men and women anxious to see and touch the great healer, who it is claimed has blessed so many handkerchiefs and healed men and women of divers diseases, but since the Healer has so mysteriously disappeared the people find comfort in gazing at Schlatter's Star, seen in the heavens at midday.

I leave to night for the Black Hills South Dakota being about four days behind schedule, finding a little more business in the state than I expected.

Very Truly,
R. W. Cobb.

Commissioners

Friday's Daily.

The Board meets next Monday Dec. 2 in regular session and holds for nine days if work enough is brought up to keep them busy for that long. An important change will take place in the board the first day, that is the retirement of Commissioner John Hoffelder and the incoming of his successor for the north district, Mr Bateman. Mr. Hoffelder has held the place for six years and though a commissioner necessarily makes some enemies, no one can deny that he has made an honest, energetic and intelligent officer. His work will rank high and we do not fear the verdict of posterity, for it will be that he has been one of the very ablest men who ever filled the place. His successor, Mr Bateman, is a new man, and one of whom we personally know very little He is said, however to be an honest and fair minded man and will likely be guided mainly by the experience and judgment of his two old colleagues, Mr. Henderson and Mr Hague. He will do well if he fills Mr. Hoffelder's place, and as one of the taxpayers of the county, we shall be more than happy to see him succeed in his new field. The COURIER and give him, as it has the others, all credit for duty well done.

The Ideal Panacea.

James L Francis Alderman, Chicago says: "I regard Dr King's New Discovery as an Ideal Panacea for Cough Colds and Lung complaints, having used it in my family for the last five years to the exclusion of physicians prescriptions or other preparations."

Rev Jesse Burgess, Keokuk, Iowa, writes: "I have been a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church for 50 years and have never found any thing so beneficial, or that gave me such speedy relief as Dr. King's New Discovery. Try this Ideal Cough Remedy now. Trial Bottles free at Robbins & McCord's Drug Store. 6

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

The White Gate.

Auburn, Ind. Nov, 26, 1895, I have examined the White Gate, which is now on exhibition here and I consider it one of the best gates that I ever saw, both for durability and convenience.

H. C. SHULL.

Marriage Licenses

The clerk has issued licenses to the following since our last report:

Jacob Firestone to Malinda Miller,
Fred Purdy to Mary Shoar.
Frank B. Pierce to Clara E. Summerlott.
Renney Preskey to Mora Miller.

No morphine or opium in Dr. Miles' PAIN PILLS. Cure All Pain. "One cent a dose."

Headache Destroys Health

Resulting in poor memory, irritability, nervousness and intellectual exhaustion. It induces other forms of disease, such as epilepsy, heart disease, apoplexy, insanity, etc.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Cures.

Mrs. Chas. A. Myers, 201 Hanna St., Fort Wayne, Ind., writes Oct. 7, 1894: "I suffered terribly with severe headaches, dizziness, backache and nervousness, gradually growing worse until my life was despaired of, and try what we would, I found no relief until I commenced using Dr. Miles' Nervine. I have taken five bottles and believe I am a well woman, and I have taken great comfort in recommending all of my friends to use Nervine. You may publish this letter if you wish, and I hope it may be the means of saving some other sick mother's life, as it did mine."

On sale by all druggists. Book on Heart and Nerves sent FREE. Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Dr. Miles' Remedies Restore Health.

Thousands of Women
SUFFER UNTOLD MISERIES.
BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR,
ACTS AS A SPECIFIC
By Arousing to Healthy Action all her Organs.
It causes health to bloom, and joy to reign throughout the frame.
... It Never Fails to Regulate ...
"My wife has received treatment of leading physicians three years, without benefit. After using three bottles of BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR she can do her own cooking, milking and washing." S. BRYAN, Henderson, Ala.
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.
Sold by druggists at $1.00 per bottle

WHEN OTHERS FAIL CONSULT

DOCTOR SWEANY
So well and favorably known as the CHICAGO'S LEADING & MOST SUCCESSFUL SPECIALIST, for his many and wonderful cures in all chronic diseases, sores, spots, pimples, scrofula, syphilitic taints, tumors, tetter, ECZEMA & Blood Poison of every nature.
KIDNEY AND URINARY Weak back, pain in side, abdomen, bladder, sediment in urine, brick-dust or white, painful urinations, Bright's disease and all diseases of the bladder.
PRIVATE Diseases—Gleet, Gonorrhœa, Inflammations, Stricture, Strictures, Weakness of Organs, Syphilis, Hydrocele, Varicocele and kindred troubles quickly cured.
LOST MANHOOD and all its attending ailments, both of Young, Middle-Aged and Old Men. The awful effects of early indiscretions, producing weakness, NERVOUS DEBILITY, night emissions, exhausting drains, pimples, bashfulness, loss of energy and weakness of both body and brain.
WRITE your troubles if out of city. Thousands cured by correspondence and medicines sent secretly. Book sent Free on request. DR. F. L. SWEANY, 355 State St., cor. Congress, Chicago.

STEAM AND GASOLINE ENGINES
Portable and Marine

If you think of buying an engine of any size or kind send for our Catalogue No. 20 containing illustrations and prices of every kind of engines from one to horse power, at bottom prices, or List No. 19 for yacht engines, boilers and boat machinery. Either sent free.

CHAS. P. WILLARD CO.
197 So. Canal Street, CHICAGO

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Recorder's Office

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY. DECEMBER 12. 1895. NUMBER 50.

September, October and November

were indeed very busy months for us.

December Shall Lead Them All.

We will make it decidedly easy for you to purchase your Christmas Offerings, either from us or from others, with the money which you have saved by patronizing our

GRAND HOLIDAY SALE

This Sale will open on SATURDAY, DECEMBER 14 and continue for one week. It will not be a special sale of a few articles, butwill extend throughout our entire stock. Owing to the exceptionally low prices we make this sale Strictly Cash. Below we quote a few of the many attractions offered.

DRY GOODS.

All Cal cos, notw ths'anding the sh rp adv nce, go at ..... 4½c.
A Domes c Gingham, 6 and 8 qu l ty ..... 5c.
Five Hun r d Yards 8c Outi g ..... 5c.
1 C se B nkets ..... 44c pr.
All w ol Blanke s, W ite or R d ..... $2 00 pr.
$3.50 Bl nkets at ..... $2.44 pr.

Entire Stock of 50 and 60c Novelty Dress Goods will sell for ..... 35c.
All $1 00 N velties ..... 75c.
Al Flannels and Br adcloth ..... ¼off.
500 Yards, Yard wide, Ha f Wool Henriettas 20c quali y for ..... 15c.

Turkey Red Table Linen, former price 25c, sale price ..... 15c.
40c Turkey Re at ..... 27½c.
35c Bl ached and Unbleached Table Li ens at ..... 21c.
45 and 50c do ..... 32½c.
Ele ant Bleach Linen, 80 and 90c Quality ..... 65c.
$1.00 Quality ..... 77½c.

25 Doze Linen Towels, never so d for le s than 75c per pair, will go at ..... 45c pr.
25 Dozen large size, g o weg , Towels ..... 12c pr.
100 Dozen 5, 7 and 8 Ladie Handker hiefs—Your Choice ..... 4c.
50 Dozen 15c Fine Embroidered Swiss Handke c i fs at ..... 8c.
All 30 and 35c Handkerchiefs for ..... 25c.

The Fine t Ass rtment of the More Extravagant Handkerchiefs at Correspondingly Low Prices.

CLOTHING.

Have we knifed 'em?

56 $6 00 and $7 00 Men's Suits cut to ..... $4.75.
73 $10 00 and $11 00 Men's Suits cut to ..... 6.67.
10 $12 00, $13 00 and $14 00 Men's Suits cut to ..... 9.49.
87 $15.00 $16.00 and $18 00 Men's Suits cut to ..... 12 87.

Assorted lot of boys' 14 to 19 overcoats, former price $8 00 to $10 ..... now $4 87
One lot men's $5.00 ..... will go for $3.38

All other Overcoats at greatly reduced prices.

Ladies' and Children's Wraps ¼ off

47 $5.00 Boys' Suits, Ages 14 to 19, now ..... $3 25.
92 $6.00 and $7 00 Boys Suits, Ages 14 to 19, now ..... 4 87.
67 $10.00 Boys' Suits, Ages 14 to 19, now ..... 7.62.
38 $12.00 Boys' Suits, Ages 14 to 19, now ..... 9.00.

You have said it.

We invite you to call

RESPECTFULLY, SCHAAB & BRO.

Wabash Line

GOING EAST.

Boston Express ..... 5:21 a m—Daily
Detroit Accom'n ..... 2:04 p m ex Su
New York Limited ..... 7:38 pm Daily

GOING WEST.

Logansport Accommodation ..... 7:15 am—Daily
Mail and Express ..... 12:23 pm—ex Su
Chicago & St. Louis Lim(53) ..... 7:35 pm—Daily

All these trains stop for passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

CHAS M HAYS V. Pres. and Gen'l Manager
C. S CRANE, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

Rickel & Sprott

-HAVE-

MONEY to LOAN

on long time, with privilege of partial payments, lawful interest.

FARMS for SALE and EXCHANGE

for large or small farms, and for stocks of goods:

FARMS -and- RESIDENCE PROPERTIES -and- VACANT LOTS

for sale or exchange.

WHAT HAVE YOU TO TRADE?

RICKEL & SPOTT

HIS PRAYERS.

A little Auburn boy is looking anxiously forward to the coming holidays and especially to the possibilities and probabilities of Christmas, which next after the Fourth of July, is a lad's highest ideal of what a holiday should be. And this little lad is but a pattern of a hundred or so of the little boys and girls in Auburn. Here is a "correct copy" of a written statement he has prepared to show his "wants" on this occasion:

1. "I want a baby girl for Xmas;
2. I want a handkerchief;
3. I want a picture book and reading;
4. I want an over coat for Xmas;
5. I want a boiled shirt and collar;
6. I want a napkin ring."

ELECTRIC BITTERS.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed in the Spring, when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. Only fifty cents per bottle at Robbins & McCord's Drug Store. 1

BUTCHERING DONE.

I will help do your butchering. Have had long experience. Call on me.

ALVIN BAKER, Auburn

48-49

For hoarseness.

Benj Ingerson, of Hutton, Ind., says he had not spoken above a whisper for months, and one bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar restored his voice. It is used very largely by speakers and singers. Robbins & McCord's. 52

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

GREAT REDUCTION IN TIME TO CALIFORNIA.

Once more the North-Western Line has reduced the time of its transcontinental trains, and the journey from Chicago to California via this popular route is now made in the marvelously short time of three days. Palace Drawing Room Sleeping cars leave Chicago daily, and run through to San Francisco and Los Angeles without change, and all meals on route are served in Dining cars. Daily Tourist Sleeping car service is also maintained by this line between Chicago and San Francisco and Los Angeles, completely equipped berths in upholstered Tourist Sleepers being furnished at a cost of only $6.00 each from Chicago to the Pacific Coast. Through trains leave Chicago for California at 6:00 p. m. and 10:30p. m. daily, after arrival of trains of connecting lines from the East & South.

For detailed information concerning rates, routes, etc., apply to ticket agents of connecting lines or address A. H. Waggoner, T. P. A., 7 Jackson place Indianapolis, Ind. 52

W. B. KNISKERN,
F. N. S. 12-95 G. P. & T. A.

PROGRAMME.

FOR THE DEKALB COUNTY FARMERS INSTITUTE.

M. E. Church, Butler, Indiana, Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 18 and 19 '95.

WEDNESDAY.

MORNING 9 O'CLOCK.

Music
Prayer ..... Rev. C. E Disbro
Address of Welcome, J. M Lingenfelter
Response ..... Hon. R. M. Lockhart, Waterloo, Ind.
How to Restore and Maintain the Fertility of the Soil, Col. J. H. Brigham, Delta, Ohio.
Discussion of the Above Subject.
The Cultivation of Fruit, Jerry Dutter, Angola, Ind.
Discussion led by ..... S. H. Hine, Waterloo, Ind.
The Factotum of the Farm, Mrs. W. W. Stevens, Salem, Ind.

AFTERNOON, 1 O'CLOCK.

Music
Prayer ..... Rev. Dustman
Breeding and Rearing Sheep, Benson R Lewis, Salem Center, Ind
Discussion ..... A. B Walsworth, Auburn, Ind.
The Ideal and the Real in Farm Life, Why so Different .... J. E. Dermott, St. Joe
The Farmer's Share ..... Col. Brigham
Mistress and Maid ..... Mrs. Stevens
Rotation of Crops, H. S. K. Bartholomew, Middleberry, Ind.

EVENING, 6:30 O'CLOCK.

Music
Recitation, "Hasty Pudding," Brooks Hine, Salem Ind.
Give the Boys and Girls a Chance, Col. Brigham
Hired Help and How to Manage it, Mrs. Stevens
The Farmer's Fruit Garden, Bartholomew.

THURSDAY.

MORNING, 9 O'CLOCK.

Music
Prayer ..... Rev John S. Smith
Spraying Fruits, W C. Lockhart, Fairfield Center
Silo and Silage, C. M. Case, Kendallville, Ind.
Dairying .. C. Brechbill, Waterloo, Ind
What the Grange Seeks to do for the Farmer ..... Col. Brigham
The Farmer's Reading Circle, Bartholomew
To Make Home Out of a Household, Mrs. Stevens
What the Farmers' Institutes have done for the Farmers, Prof. W. C. Latta, Lafayette, Ind.

AFTERNOON, 1 O'CLOCK.

Music
Prayer ..... Elder Laird
What the Grange has done for the Farmers ..... Col. Brigham
The Model Farmer's Wife .. Mrs. Stevens
Sanitary Condition of the Farm, Dr H. D. Wood, Angola, Ind.
Some of the Causes of Depression in Agriculture ..... R. M. Lockhart

EVENING, 6:30 O'CLOCK.

Reports of Committees.
Election of officers for 1896.
Entertainment for this evening will be announced later.

NOTES.

The program will be interspersed with music as the chairman may see fit.

Each subject will be followed by a discussion in which all are invited to join.

OFFICERS.

Pres, R. M. LOCKHART, Waterloo, Ind.
Sec., S. H. Hine, Waterloo, Ind.

Rev. N. J. Myers.

Auburn men and even those not natives, but who have sojourned here for a time, seem naturally to become prominent. Rev. N. J. Myers, who was for several years pastor of the St. Marks Lutheran church here, had acquired quite a reputation as a lecturer before he removed to his new fields in Ohio. Our people will remember his masterly lecture "The Greatest Thing in the World," delivered at the church here not long ago. It brought out a great deal of favorable comment, and our people were also gratified that it was due to the abilities of one of their own number. He recently gave the same lecture at Ashland, Ohio, and other points. He delivered several other lectures here at different times, and in each case made a most favorable impression. Since removing to Ohio, he has become connected with the "Central Lyceum Bureau," and will as we understand, lecture under their auspices. He has received high compliments from each place where he has appeared. We are glad to learn this, for Mr. Myers is a scholarly and eloquent speaker who gives great thought and study to any effort of this kind. We see by a recent letter, that he is on a trip in the south, including a visit to Atlanta, Mammoth Cave, and to other southern points. We shall give in a day or two, a brief little gem he wrote as a "Thanksgiving Thought." Here is what the Ashland papers said of him:

The audience gathered at the Lutheran church last Friday night was greatly pleased and highly entertained by the lecture on "The Greatest Thing on Earth," delivered by Rev N. J. Myers. The lecture was scholarly and thoughtful, but interspersed with gems of wit, humor and anecdote which gave keenness point to the truths he uttered. Man is the "Greatest Thing on Earth," according to the lecturer's idea, and he discussed him in his origin, position, work, power and destiny with a master's power. Mr. Myers is a lecturer of much ability.

American Goods.

Our Foolish Laws Make it Difficult for Us to Sell Abroad.

Recently the Brasilian minister at Washington was interviewed as to the prospect of our selling more goods and machinery in his country. He thinks if a proper reciprocity treaty could be made, that our trade would increase. Our prices are higher on many things, he says, than are prices on British and German goods, but he thinks our goods are worth more. He takes the American shovel for example. The handle, he says will last till the blade is all worn out. But the English and German shovels have handles of poor wood that soon crack and become rough and useless. He spoke also of the extra expense of shipping goods from the United States to Brazil, as compared with other countries for our foolish laws have driven American commerce from the seas. He says:

If I go to a merchant in Rio and give him an order for a quantity of textiles or for any other product, I ask him to buy in America. He will say he can buy in England cheaper. If I insist on having Americans goods he will probably obtain them in London, after they have been sent from New York. The difference in transporation, insurance and exchange are so much in favor of England that it is cheaper to ship from New York to London and from London to Rio than from New York to Rio direct.

Tattooed Lover.

But His Second Sweetheart Objected to Seeing Her Rivate Face on His Arm.

A queer thing happened recently at Monroe, Conn. A prominent physician was called upon to perform a peculiar operation there, a few days ago, the facts of which have just leaked out. A good many years ago a young couple fell in love with each other. Their parents objected because of their youth. The girl's parents, also, had another young man picked out as a prospective son in law.

The young man, to prove his devotion, had the girl's picture tattoed on his arm. The tattoo artist was an old sailor and he did a good job—the likeness was remarkably faithful. Years passed and the girl married the man of her parent's choice. The tattooed swain was disconsolate. He vowed he would never marry. Then he became well-to-do and changed his mind.

He wanted to get married on thanksgiving day, having fallen in love with one of the belles of the town. The second love accepted him on condition that the sentimental tattoo mark be removed. The operation was painful, but not at all serious, and the wound is now healed. In the place of his old love's face in India ink, the young man carries a large livid scar on his forearm, but his bride does not mind that.

ARION, 2:07¼.

Palo Alto, 2:08¼, Sunol 2:08¼, all all world's seconds at the time, were teamed and driven by a man who is one of the greatest horseman that ever lived. This same man wrote the following:

I gave the Spohr Distemper and Cough Cure a thorough trial in the severest cases, and believe it is the best remedy for distemper, pink eye, epizootic, and other throat diseases I have yet seen. It is a preventive. I recommend all horsemen to use it. Yours Truly,

CHAS. MARVIN.

Only $50c a bottle. Sold by Kutzner & Myers, Agts. Auburn.

THEN

Bring in Your Feet and we will make them comfortable and warm.

LOOK AT US!

Our line of School Shoes is the largest and best in the county.
Call and Take a look at Them.

SHULL'S CASH SHOE - STORE

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best [illegible] for children of which I am acquainted. [illegible] the day is not far distant when all mothers will consider the real interest of their children and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones by the use of opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other baneful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY, Boston, Mass.
ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

CIRCLING THE GLOBE.

CONCISE HISTORY OF SEVEN DAYS' DOINGS.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World, Embracing Foreign Affairs and Home Happenings of an Important Nature.

SALISBURY'S REPLY

To Cleveland's Demands Concerning Venezuela—England Refuses to Submit to Arbitration.

A special from Washington says: About 1 o'clock Saturday, Sir Julian Pauncefote, British Ambassador, reached the State Department with a packet under his arm. Awaiting and expecting him was Secretary Olney. Sir Julian was at once given audience, and presented to Secretary Olney the answer of the Marquis of Salisbury, on behalf of England, to our Venezuelan note of July last. Sir Julian remained over an hour. After he left the officers of the department became mute. Neither would they affirm nor deny anything.

In spite of these precautions, it is known as a fact that the answer is adverse to the proposition to submit the entire boundary question to arbitration, as requested by this Government. It is known, also, that the British Government specifically declines to entertain any proposition for arbitration that implies a doubt as to its jurisdiction over the whole territory within the limits of the Schomburg line, but is willing, under certain conditions, to arbitrate the ownership of the property in dispute beyond that line.

Shoots His Comrade Instead of the Quail.

James McBride was probably fatally shot while hunting near Franklin, Ind., by his companion, Art Redmon. The two men had separated, and were coming to a common point from a different direction when Redmon fired at a quail, at the moment McBride stepped behind a brush heap at a short distance, and received the charge of shot in the face and neck. Redmon rushed to his fallen comrade and stanched the wounds as well as possible until he could bring aid by firing his gun repeatedly. McBride was taken to his home, where his wounds were dressed. His injuries are very dangerous, and recovery is very much in doubt.

Three Tots Fell Under the Wheels.

A horrible accident to three children occurred at the corner of Lehman and Eleventh streets, Lebanon, Pa. Joseph E. Light, aged 6; John Meily, aged 8, and Harry Dohner, aged 6, while returning from school jumped on a heavily-laden wagon to steal a ride. The driver turning around suddenly with his whip scared the lads. They jumped off, into the street in such a way that all fell under the wheels. Light and Meily were crushed about the abdomen and Dohner about the head. Light died immediately. The other two cannot live.

Clever Ruse Ends in Death.

Jeffersonville special: James Bogard, a convict sent from Evansville to serve two years for larceny, died of an illness superinduced by eating soap. Bogard had been a source of annoyance to the officials of the penitentiary by constantly skirking his tasks and asking admission to the hospital for treatment. He was serving his third term, and the fact that he had been eating soap to produce sickness was revealed only by a statement he made a short time before his death.

Sudden Death.

At Zanesville, Ohio, Mrs. Nancy Hutchins and her husband retired the other night, both apparently in ordinary health. Next morning when Mrs. Hutchins awoke she was horrified to find that some time during the night the death messenger had robbed her of her companion and that she had been sleeping by the side of a corpse. The body of her husband was cold, indicating that death resulted several hours before the discovery.

Incendiaries at Work at Leipsic, Ohio.

The large grain elevator and fine buildings at Leipsic, Ohio, burned recently. Loss $15,000. The elevator belonged to Frank Hartsman, and was valued at $9,000, partly insured. Hartsman, a stallion valued at $1,800, was in a stable near by, and was burned to death. The fire is supposed to be the work of incendiaries. The people are greatly aroused.

A Carrier Pigeon from the Arctic Region.

The London Daily News publishes a dispatch from Berlin saying that the wife of Dr. Nansen, the Arctic explorer, has received at Christiana, where she is at present, a message from her husband, sent by carrier pigeon, stating that the expedition, of which Dr. Nansen is the head, is doing well.

Starved Amid Plenty.

Noah Anman, a prominent citizen of Hoosierville, Ind., died recently of starvation. Thirty-five days ago he was stricken with a peculiar disease; his throat became paralyzed, and not a particle of food has entered his stomach since that time.

Masonic Temple Theater, Ft. Wayne, Indiana.

Dec. 16—"Texas Steer."
Dec. 18—Camille D'Arville Opera Co.
Dec. 19.—"Darkest Russia."
Dec. 25.—"The Wife."
Dec. 27.—American Extravaganza Co.

A Queer Death.

At Ashland, Ohio, Mrs. Lorin Shopbell when throwing out dish water, fell over the banister on a porch six feet high, causing hemorrhage, from which she died. She was a very heavy woman.

Two Firemen Hurt.

At Salem, Ohio, the stove works of J. Woodruff & Sons was damaged by fire to the extent of about $2,000. Two firemen were badly injured, one by falling from a ladder on the third story and the other from a second-floor window. Their names are William Thomas and W. M. Burke.

The Hon. Seth J. Thomas Dead.

The Hon. Seth J. Thomas, for fifty years a member of the Boston bar, died in that city, aged 83. He was an able and successful advocate.

Six Negroes Drowned.

Tampa (Fla.) special: A part of the crew of the sponging schooner Shangecia has arrived here. They report that while at St. Martin's Reef, a heavy northwester struck them, capsizing the schooner. Six negroes, who were below the hatches, were drowned. The crew numbered 12, all colored. Shamrock is a twenty-ton schooner, owned in Key West.

Twelve are Dead.

At a negro cakewalk in Roseborough Place, near Texarkana, Texas, the negroes ate at their banquet supper a good portion of hog that had been slopped by its owner on strychnine and 12 have died and a half a dozen others are in bed.

IN HIS BOOTS

The Watchman Had Another Revolver and Saved the Town from Being Looted.

Three Rivers (Mich.) special: Nothing but the neglect of a band of professional robbers to tie the hands of the night watchman saved the town from being looted the other night.

As Night watchman Siebold was patrolling his beat he was seized by four men and taken to a freight car on the railroad and bound hand and foot with strips, evidently made from an old horse blanket for the purpose. They took away his revolver, and slipping a noose around his neck made it fast to the beams of the car hauling him up so he nearly strangled.

Two men watched on the outside of the car to see that he did not escape. They had not bound him firmly, and, making one hand loose, he freed the other and brought out a revolver that he carried in his boot. Firing this rapidly he awoke the town, and the robbers ran away, stealing a horse and buggy to escape.

Three stores were broken into, but nothing taken, so hurried were the robbers by Siebold's shots. Siebold is in a bad way. Three of his ribs are broken, and he is fearfully bruised and battered. Had he not worked loose he would have been strangled to death. The country is in arms and on the trail of the robbers.

GEN. MACEO'S ADVANCE.

Spaniards Gathering in Force to Oppose Him.

Havana special: Maceo's advance moved rapidly across the country from the neighborhood of Caseorro and reached a point five miles from Ciego de Avila on the evening of November 29. The main body was then between Horniegueta and Socorro. On the 30th the sound of firing was early heard at Ciego de Avila in the direction of Fort Redonda, on the Trocha. At 10 o'clock Maceo's advance guard, 400 strong, attacked Fort Redonda and was repelled. His entire following then passed to the westward across the Trocha, between Forts Redonda and Sanchez, which are on the military line north.

Four separate Spanish columns are in the vicinity of Maceo's force, endeavoring to prevent his entrance into Santa Clara, which is his present object. Suarez Valdez, with 4,000 soldiers, and Navarro, with 3,000 are in front, and Mella and Aldave are in his rear and on his left flank, with 1,500 men. There is expectation in official circles here of an important engagement, and it is likely to occur at any moment. News from Santa Clara is looked for with intense interest.

PREVENTED.

Revolt at Canton, China, Thwarted Through the Vigilance of an American Consul.

Boston special: Mail advices received by reliable persons in this city from Canton, China, give the details of an attempt to capture the city of Canton by a secret organization, for the purpose of establishing an independent government. The writer say: "The plot ripened October 27, when the attention of the United States consul was called to a suspicious telegram from a Hong Kong firm to its branch in Canton concerning the shipment of certain packages. The authorities were notified. The packages, which proved to be five barrels of pistols and ammunition, labeled cement, were seized on their arrival. On the steamer from Hong Kong came 400 men who expected to aid in the revolt. The officials, however, captured seventy-five of them. The seizure of arms and the capture of those implicated completely thwarted the attempt. The authorities are now making diligent search for the leader as well as for the weapons."

Condition of Trade.

R. G. Dun & Co. in their Weekly Review of Trade, says:

"With all the shrinkage in present business and prices it is encouraging to find but a small increase in failures. Failures in the United States for the week have been 324 against 385 last year and fifty-two in Canada against forty last year.

"Business is still sluggish, as if gorged by excessive indulgence of the appetite of buying when prices were advancing. In nearly every branch stocks not yet distributed to consumers stand in the way of new orders and competition of a producing force largely exceeding the present demand puts down prices, that decline retarding purchases yet more. After the holidays men look for a larger demand. Financial influences have not hindered and rarely has the opening of a session of Congress affected business so little."

Maher and Fitzsimmons to Fight.

Peter Maher, champion heavy weight of the world, and Robert Fitzsimmons, champion middle weight of the world, were matched to fight to a finish near El Paso, Texas, between Feb. 11 and Feb. 15. The details were arranged at a meeting between Dan Stuart of Texas, representing Fitzsimmons, and John J. Quinn, manager of Maher, held at the St. James hotel New York. Stuart was empowered to make the match for Fitzsimmons and as Quinn was anxious for the contest, the arrangements were completed without difficulty. The purse to be fought for will be $20,000. When Dan Stuart arrived in New York, a few days ago, to arrange a match between Corbett and Fitzsimmons, he stated that he had a battle ground selected within five miles of El Paso. It is said to be on Mexican soil.

Seven Engines Seized.

Lima (Ohio) special: Marshal Harmon of Toledo, locked up the Lake Erie and Western Railroad Company's ticket office and passenger station and seized a switch engine which was doing work at the freight-house. The seizure was made by direction of the United States Court, for the purpose of satisfying the judgment of $13,000 damages obtained by ex-Brakeman Bert Craig of this city, who had both legs cut off by a switch engine. After taking possession of the ticket office, which he left in charge of a deputy, he seized six other engines and the coal in the yard. This is the second seizure that the Marshal has made.

Nitro-Glycerine Explosion.

A storage house belonging to the Ohio & Indiana Torpedo company, located about two miles southwest of Bowling Green, Ohio, blew up with terrific force. At the time of the explosion the building contained about 350 quarts of nitro-glycerine. So far as known no one was killed. The building is located in a forest. A few adjacent farmhouses were badly wrecked and some of the inhabitants injured. At Bowling Green nearly every plate glass on one side of Main street was broken. At Findlay the shock was plainly felt, doors being rattled and buildings made to shake on their foundations.

Two Men Killed.

An explosion of nitro-glycerine at Humes torpedo factory, near Butler, Pa., completely demolished the factory and two storage magazines and killed Lowry Black and George Bester, two employes. Portions of Black's remains were picked up seventy feet away, but nothing but a part of Bester's underclothing can be found. It is thought the young men were thawing out a can of glycerine when it exploded. The concussion shook houses and shattered windows for miles around. About 1,000 pounds of glycerine exploded.

Market for American Flour.

United States Consul Barker, at Tangier, Morocco, in a report to the State Department, says that wheat has grown so dear there that the last two steamers brought out consignments of American flour, which was immediately sold at a profit. The Consul believes that if direct communication could be had with the United States, and carriage charges thus reduced, Morocco would be a profitable market for American breadstuffs.

Eleven Children Poisoned.

As a result of eating sausage eleven children in Sanwich, Ont., across the river from Detroit, Mich., are poisoned. One of them, a 18-months-old baby named Louise Coubillon, is dead and the others are seriously ill. The family of Albert Coubillon gave a children's party, in which bologna sausage was freely partaken of. It is feared that two more children will die, but the rest are on the way to recovery.

The Next G. A. R. Encampment.

The next encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic as fixed by the administrative council, in session at St. Paul, will be held Sept. 1 to 4 of next year. The naval parade will occur on the opening day; on Sept. 2, the regular grand parade of veterans and societies, and on the last two days the regular sessions for business will take place.

Bold Brazil.

Rio Janeiro special: The Brazilian Council of Ministers has decided to refuse to submit either the Trinidad dispute with England, or the Amapa dispute with France to arbitration. The Trinidad dispute relates to the sovereignty of the little Island of Trinidad, and the Amapa dispute to the boundary line of French Guiana.

Killed Rabbits.

Wichita (Kas.) special: The annual Kiowa County rabbit hunt has just been concluded. One hundred and sixty-five farmers and cowboys on horseback participated in the hunt and nearly 6,000 rabbits were killed. They will be shipped free over the railroads and consigned to humane societies in Chicago and Cleveland.

Russia and France Withdraw.

A dispatch from Rome says that much excitement has been caused there by the statement freely made in diplomatic circles that Russia and France have withdrawn from the concert of the powers regarding the Turkish question and that efforts are now being made to hold an European conference, probably at Vienna.

Natural Gas Explosion.

Defective valves caused an explosion of natural gas in the furnaces of the court house at Wabash, Ind., and Frank Lines janitor, at much personal risk, succeeded in turning off the street supply before further explosions occurred. Considerable damage resulted as it was.

Three Killed.

A bad wreck occurred on the Norfolk and Western Railway between two freight trains, near Ennis, W. Va. Engineer Foreliness, Walter Straley, conductor, and a colored brakeman were all killed. The train broke in two parts. Fireman Gamder was seriously injured.

Peckham Is Nominated.

The President has nominated Rufus W. Peckham of New York, to be Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, to succeed the late Howell E. Jackson of Tennessee. Judge Peckham is a resident of Albany and Judge of the Court of Appeals of New York.

George Harris Dying.

Lewis George Clark, the 84-year-old mulatto, who was the original of Mrs. Stowe's George Harris, in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," has been sent to the infirmary, at Lexington, Ky. He has been failing rapidly during the past week, and is not likely to live long.

Good News.

Mr. Alexander M. Terrell, the United States Minister to Turkey, cabled the State Department from Constantinople that everything relating to American interests was satisfactory. The missionaries, he said, are safe and properly protected.

May Kill Both.

Two children of Charles Sigly, of Oneida, Pa., Anna and May, aged 2 and 4, drank two ounces of liquid containing opium. Anna died within a short time, and little hope is entertained for May's recovery.

Life Is Lost in the Flames.

Benjamin Young was burned to death in a tenement house fire at Gloversville, N. Y. Several other tenements narrowly escaped the same fate. The fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp.

Scalded to Death.

While Mr. and Mrs. George Day of Butlerville, Ohio, were visiting S. L. Jackson, of Blanchester, their little daughter 8 months old, pulled over a pot of hot coffee scalding it to death.

The Sultan Wilts.

London special: A dispatch to the Central News says that the sultan has decided to consent to each of the powers having a second guardship at Constantinople.

Fire Started by Mice.

A tenement house occupied by J. T. Robison and Roy Hurtt, was burned at Muncie, Ind. The fire was started by mice gnawing matches.

Justice Fuller Ill.

Chief Justice Fuller, of the United States Supreme Court, is confined to his bed by a severe cold.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $2.50 to $5.50; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 56c to 57c; corn, No. 2, 26c to 27c; oats, No. 2, 17c to 18c; rye, No. 2, 37c to 38c; butter, choice creamery, 23c to 24c; eggs, fresh, 20c to 22c; potatoes, per bushel, 20c to 30c; broom corn, common growth to choice green hurl, 2c to 4c per pound.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.00; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, common to prime, $2.00 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2, 62c to 64c; corn, No. 1 white, 27c to 28c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 22c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 63c to 65c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 24c to 25c; oats, No. 2 white, 17c to 19c; rye, No. 2, 33c to 34c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 66c to 68c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 29c to 31c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 22c to 23c; rye, No. 2, 41c to 43c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $2.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 66c to 67c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 28c to 29c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 22c; rye, 38c to 39c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 65c to 66c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 28c to 29c; oats, No. 2 white, 20c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 38c to 40c; clover seed, $4.40 to $4.45.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 67c to 68c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 33c to 34c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 24c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 57c to 59c; corn, No. 3, 26c to 27c; oats, No. 2 white, 18c to 20c; barley, No. 2, 30c to 36c; rye, No. 1, 37c to 38c; pork, mess, $7.50 to $8.00.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $4.25; sheep, $2.00 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 68c to 69c; corn, No. 2, 36c to 37c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 23c; butter, creamery, 16c to 25c; eggs, Western, 21c to 24c.

THE LIVTH CONGRESS

AUGUST BODIES ARE AGAIN IN SESSION.

Chiefly Notable at Present for the Lack of Familiar Faces—Flood of Bills and Resolutions Is Ready for the House.

Assembling of the Solons.

Washington correspondence:

The Fifty-fourth Congress began its first session at noon Monday, and the most striking feature to the old observer of the lower house was the absence of familiar faces. The appearance of the Senate was not greatly changed. Of the famous men in the House these are about all that are left:

Reed, Boutelle, Dingley, and Milliken, of Maine; Dockery, Cobb, Tarsney, Hall and De Armond, of Missouri; "Private John" Allen, Catchings and Money, of Mississippi; Crisp, of Georgia; Cannon, of Illinois; Cobb, of Alabama; Hifforn, of California; and McCreary and Berry, of Kentucky.

SENATOR ELKINS.

The face of Breckinridge is missing, as is also many another familiar one—Bland, of Missouri; father of the cart-wheel dollar; Holman, of Indiana, watchdog of the treasury for thirty years; Bourke Cockran, New York's famous campaign orator; Bryan, of Nebraska, the "boy orator of the Platte;" Springer, of Illinois, and Kilgore, of Texas. Conn, of Indiana, is not in the Congressional parade; like that other ex-Congressman, Beriah Wilkins, of Ohio, he has prospered in the field of journalism at the capital.

But the list is too long. It would fill a column to record all that have gone and all that still remain. To the stranger eye perhaps the gathering is much as it was two years ago. Here and there a face made familiar by the cartoonists appears, but for the most part the crowd on the famous avenue on the morning of the first Monday in December was made of curious visitors and the customary shopping mob of Washington men and women. There was more of life in the throng than there has been for many a day, for all roads do not lead to the capitol, and Pennsylvania avenue is the chief thoroughfare to that Mecca of the politician.

The Meeting of the Senate.

The number of new faces in the Senate chamber when the Vice President called that body to order was comparatively few.

Mr. Ransom's was missing. Mr. Butler, of South Carolina, another relic of the age of chivalry in the South, is also gone into retirement Georgia sends Augustus O. Bacon to take the seat held for a brief space by Patrick Walsh, the editor of the Augusta Chronicle. Mr. Gear, an old-time member of the House, best known as "Gov. Gear," fills the seat of Wilson, of Iowa.

Ex-Gov. Knute Nelson, known not so long ago as a member of the House, takes the place of Washburn, of Minnesota. Mr. Dixon, of Rhode Island, gives way to George Peabody Wetmore. W. J. Sewell, once a member of the Senate, takes the seat of Mr. McPherson. Ex-Secretary Elkins succeeds Johnson Camden, of West Virginia. Ex-Senator Warren, of Wyoming, returns to take the place of Mr. Carey, and Thomas S. Martin, of Virginia, displaces Eppa Hunton.

KNUTE NELSON.

Not many changes. But the Senators serve for six years and are reasonably sure of re-election. Mr. Morrill has been in the Senate twenty-eight years, Mr. Sherman thirty years, Mr. Allison twenty-two years. Mr. Ransom had served for twenty-three years continuously when he retired.

Because there are so few newcomers among them the gathering of the Senators was like the reunion of a big family. No party distinctions were drawn as they grouped themselves on the floor of the Senate chamber. Personal friendships obliterate for a time that imaginary line which separates Democrat from Republican, and the representatives of the parties and of all sections of the country mingle freely, shaking hands, exchanging congratulations on improved health, swapping a little gossip of the late election perhaps.

VICE PRESIDENT STEVENSON,
President of the Senate.

A long time before the noon hour the floor of the chamber had been cleared of strangers. The pages hurried to and fro with an air of bustling importance. They are prime factors in legislation, they think. But at least from this day they are the recipients of a daily stipend of $2, and that is a matter of much seriousness to them.

Capt. Isaac Bassett, the chief among them, now past the semi-centenary of service and conscious of his importance as a one time protege of the great Webster, was in charge of the floor. Everything is fresh and clean and bright-looking. The furniture has been reupholstered, a new carpet has been laid. The Senate wears out a carpet in every Congress.

The Senators dropped in one at a time. There are not many in their places usually when the gavel falls, but on the opening day there was a larger number than is customary at other times.

The galleries were fairly well filled when at one minute before 12 o'clock the eastern door leading to the lobby opened and the Vice President and the chaplain appeared. Mr. Stevenson, who has been spending his summer in Alaska and at his home in Bloomington, and whose ruddy complexion tells of improved health, and Dr. Milburn, the famous "blind chaplain," who has been in the service of Congress off and on since he was a youth and whose thousands of miles of travel have been increased during the Congressional recess by a trip to Europe.

SENATOR GEAR OF IOWA.

The gavel of the Vice President is an ivory device, small and shaped something like an hour glass. It has been in the care of Capt. Bassett through the summer, concealed no one knows where, but hidden as completely as is the identity of Daniel Webster's desk, which Bassett has stored in his mind.

The Vice President took the little gavel and tapped lightly on the cloth-covered desk. Conversation ceased and many of the Senators arose while the chaplain delivered a brief invocation. At its conclusion the chairs filled rapidly. There was no journal of the last day's session to read, and the first business to transact was the swearing in of newly elected Senators. Many had been sworn in at the last session in preparation for their inauguration. So this business was accomplished quickly.

Announcement was shortly made that the President would send his message the following day, and adjournment was taken; but not until a flood of bills had poured in, for the Senators were well loaded with business.

In the House.

The House was a far more entertaining place than the Senate. The new Congressman is all excitement as he sits in a group of admiring friends who have come to see him installed. His wife and children are in the gallery perhaps, and he tries to look less conscious than he feels for their sakes.

THOS. B. REED,
Speaker of the House.

The older member has much to say to old friends on the floor—reminiscences to exchange and regrets to express for the departed. But the beginning of the session is an old story to him. Perhaps he feels a momentary uneasiness about that committee chairmanship which was half promised to him, but he keeps his own counsel about it. He does not get flurried, because he knows that it will do no good. He has put in all his hard work in advance of the meeting of the caucus, and he knows nothing will help him now.

It is more than likely that the rules adopted by the House in the Fifty-fourth Congress will be those prepared under the supervision of Mr. Reed when he was Speaker before.

The Business of Congress.

There will be no lack of bills and resolutions. For example, the new Congress will have to consider the question of providing revenue adequate to the Government's expenditures. Then there is the financial problem. Two important foreign matters are to be considered again during this Congress—the Behring Sea award and the Nicaragua Canal. Mr. Gresham agreed with England on a payment of $425,000 to the sealers in Behring Sea; but the last House refused to accept this adjustment of the question.

Cuba will also come in for early attention, for there is no doubt a proposition to recognize the rebellious natives as belligerents will be made in both House and Senate, and the discussion of it will give the Republicans more campaign material.

In home affairs there is the bankruptcy bill, which has come so near adoption in two Congresses, but which still hangs fire. It passed both House and Senate three years ago, but never got through conference. In the last Congress it passed the House.

UNCLE SAM'S WISE MEN CALLED BACK.

HOLD IT TO ACCOUNT.

REPUBLICAN CONGRESS MUST NOT TINKER WITH TARIFF.

Cooler-Headed Men in Their Own Party Will Protest Against the Introduction of Bills Calculated to Demoralize the Country's Business.

A Friendly Warning.

The Republicans in Congress are not to be allowed to bring forward tariff-tinkering bills without being held to account by the cooler-headed men of their own party. We have already noted the admonition of the press and some of the representatives of the Northwest. A still more striking, though indirect, warning was given by ex-Senator Miller of this State last week at the annual dinner of the Home Market Club of Boston. That organization was formed to advocate tariff legislation to keep foreign goods out of the American market. Its guiding principle was aptly stated by one of the speakers: "Our home market is worth incomparably more than all other markets." Most of the gentlemen who addressed the club pictured the country on the brink of ruin in consequence of the present tariff. Mr. Charles Emory Smith, for instance, painted the situation in the gloomiest colors:

"The shriveled values, the shrunken work, the diminished wages, the decreased consumption, the foreign goods taking the place of home products, the mills and factories of New England and Pennsylvania struggling against a new British invasion—all this is the natural and inevitable harvest of the noxious seed that was planted in an hour of madness and delusion in 1892."

The only way to treat such a state of things is, of course, a heavy dose of protection "along McKinley lines."

But Mr. Warner Miller sees things in a very different light, and in denying the correctness of the diagnosis destroys all excuse for the proposed remedy. He finds the country in a state of vigorous health, and improving daily. There is in "the last two years" an "increased output of all our leading industries;" there is "re-employment of a large number of laborers at wages nearly or quite up to the standard of 1892;" we have "an increased demand and advanced prices for our agricultural products, wheat and cotton," and especially we have "the return of confidence in every department of business which is the necessary forerunner of the return of the era of prosperity."

The future—not the remote future after the tariff has been changed back to the old rates, but the immediate future—looks very bright to the ex-Senator, and, so far from thinking that we shall have to fight for the home market against a "new British invasion," he sees that we can and must get out into the open markets of the world and fight British trade on what has always been its own ground:

"The value of our agriculture and manufactures exceeds that of any other nation by many millions of dollars annually. We are able, not only to supply all the necessities of our own people, but in many lines of production we can and do produce a large surplus, which can only find a profitable market beyond the limits of our shores. We are compelled to seek a foreign market for our surplus cotton, wheat and meat products. In the manufacture of many grades of cottons, of iron and steel, machinery, railroad supplies, agricultural implements, and many other kinds of goods we can now compete successfully with the older nations. We must, therefore, look abroad for an outlet for our present surplus and for the increase which will come with returning prosperity."

These are the words of one who is a business man first and a politician afterward. Mr. Miller speaks from observation and experience, and not merely to enforce a party cry. It is true that he advocates Federal subsidies to steamship lines as a means of more cheaply and readily reaching the foreign markets which we need. That, however, is a minor matter. It would be a tough job at present to raise enough money by increased tariff taxes to pay subsidies that would have any effect on our export trade. The important fact is that the vast commercial reservoir of the United States is fed by productive streams that are capable of filling it beyond the home demand. There is no doubt that outlets will be found, and while the business men of the land are engaged in this labor they will not patiently submit to disturbing tariff agitation on the absurd plea that we cannot hold our own markets.—New York Times.

A Sign of Prosperity.

Bradstreet's, a leading financial journal, publishes detailed statements of the gross and net earnings of the railroads of the country for nine months of the years 1894 and 1895. A summary of the figures shows a steadily increasing growth in the volume of business done by the railroads during this year, and affords another proof of the general improvement in trade conditions under the Wilson tariff.

The net earnings of 141 of the principal railroads, embracing over 75 per cent. of the railroad earning capacity of the country, were nearly 8 per cent. greater than in 1894, the proportionate gains being much larger for the last three months of the period for which returns are given. While the earnings of practically all the railroads have been largely increased, the wages of thousands of employes have also been advanced. The improved returns to capital have in no case been secured by lessened wages to labor.

This unquestioned improvement in the business of the great railroad industry, representing an investment of $10,000,000,000, will, of course, be denied by the pessimistic preachers of protection. They are paid to howl that the country is being ruined by low taxation and free trade. Little things such as facts furnished by impartial financial authorities will not prevent professional weepers from wailing. But all fair-minded citizens should be convinced that if railroads are earning a great deal more money it is because they are carrying more goods, and that if more goods are being transported more are being manufactured and sold. Could there be better evidence that prosperity has returned?

Cackling Protectionists.

It would be well enough, if tariff changes are to be urged in behalf of the manufacturers of Pennsylvania, to consult the manufacturers before preparing the schedules. The bulk of the manufacturers are very busy, thank you, and very well satisfied down in their boots and in the depths of their bank accounts, with things as they are. The cackle of protectionist newspapers must not be mistaken for the call of the country.—Philadelphia Record.

Good Reason for Thankfulness.

Thanksgiving Day was observed this year with joy and gladness, to which the people had been strangers for several years past. In 1894 the country was still suffering from the effects of the terrible McKinley panic, which two years before plunged millions into idleness, debt, bankruptcy or poverty. Although the protective tariff which had brought about such a deplorable condition was repealed in August of last year, the business and industrial interests of the country had only commenced to revive by the end of November. There were still many thousands of households over which the trade depression cast a shadow, and many thousands of unemployed workers who had little reason to be thankful that the Republican policy which had impoverished them was at last struck from the statute books.

This year the conditions are greatly changed. The improvement in business which immediately followed the adoption of the Wilson tariff has steadily increased during the past eleven months, until now the country is prospering as never before. Good crops of almost every staple farm product have given the farmers abundance for their own needs and a large surplus for foreign markets. The transportation of these crops has brought good times to the railroads, which have in turn purchased large supplies of rails, rolling stock and other equipments. In consequence, the iron and steel industries have reached the heights of prosperity, the total output of their products exceeding that of any other period in the history of this or other countries.

In all the principal industries of the country the same condition of great activity prevails. The best proof of prosperity is found in the wonderful series of wage advances which have taken place during 1895. According to the admission of the New York Tribune over one million workers having had their wages increased from 5 to 20 per cent. Factories and mills, closed down for years under McKinleyism, have started up again; hundreds of new factories, especially in the textile industries, have been established, and in every branch of trade there is a strong demand for manufactured goods.

With this unequalled business boom came, of course, a greatly increased demand for labor. Instead of marching through the country in "Coxey armies," as thousands of workmen did while the McKinley tariff was in force, the unemployed found opportunities to work in reopened factories, in the mines, or on the railways. At a modest estimate one million workers who were idle before the enactment of the Wilson tariff, have now steady employment and are earning good wages.

These are some of the reasons why in American homes there was this year so much of thankfulness. Protection hard times have given place to low tariff prosperity. McKinley illiteracy has disappeared, and the Democratic business revival has given more work and higher wages. Capital is earning good returns and merchants and manufacturers look forward to an even greater demand for all kinds of goods. For all these things the American people are truly thankful.

Exports to Belgium.

The New York Journal of Commerce notes the remarkable fact that last year we exported to the little kingdom of Belgium goods valued at $26,928,669. About one-fourth of this amount was paid for manufactured goods, including manufactures of iron, steel, textiles, leather, paper, rubber and paper, and for chemicals, glassware and earthenware. Commenting upon this fact, the Journal of Commerce says:

"For most of these manufactures the raw materials may be assumed to be cheaper in Belgium than here. Wages are not only lower there than here, but they are lower there than in England. Still the economy and efficiency of American manufacturing methods permit some of our manufactured goods to be sold in that country even in lines that are particularly British, and in other cases the superiority of the American article offsets a higher price.

"It is not to be expected that we shall ever export very great quantities of manufactured goods to a country with so small a population, and that population so generally engaged in manufacturing as Belgium. The significant thing about these figures is that if we can compete at all, and in any lines, with the Belgians at home, we have a much greater chance of competing with them in those foreign markets to which their exports, like ours, must bear the cost of transportation, and where their exports and ours encounter the same customs restrictions."

It should please those Republicans who believe that the chief object of international trade is to secure a cash balance in our favor to know that our imports from Belgium last year amounted to but $8,929,819.

Foreign Pauper Labor.

The ignorance of the workingmen of England and other European countries has long been a stock argument of the protectionists, who describe all foreign workers as paupers of a very low degree of intelligence. A sample of the English operatives' terrible degradation is given in a late issue of the American Economist, organ of the Protective Tariff League. Desiring to show that the British woolen industry has been benefitted by the Wilson tariff a correspondent of the Economist inserted an interview with an alleged Bradford weaver, who is quoted as saying: "The policy pursued by our firm is one which dispenses with as much overtime as possible. While we are now exceptionally busy, yet the great bulk of the operatives are not to-day working overtime."

This is the way in which the ignorant pauper Englishman talks. Strange to say, his language is better than that of the average editor of American high-tariff papers. The Economist must either admit that its interview was merely a "fake" intended to deceive its readers, or that the alleged Bradford pauper is an intelligent gentleman. Which is it?

Men ain't apt to get kicked out of good society for being rich.

CHAPTER XX.

When early on the morrow, Stephen Prinsep received a note from Jane containing only the word "Come," it may be believed he lost no time in answering the summons.

As he entered the compound, he saw Jane standing under the veranda, and going up to her with hasty, swinging strides, he caught her in his arms.

Her red lips quivered beneath the fierce admiration his eyes expressed, but he stooped and kissed them into quietude.

"My little love, my own sweetheart," he murmured, fondly.

In all his intercourse with her he had never been able to speak or act as he would have chosen. But his promise to Mrs. Dene had bound him, and then the knowledge of her promise to Sergeant Lynn; but now all need for self-repression was at an end, and he could put his passion into words.

For more than an hour they strolled up and down, and then a servant interrupted them with a salam for the Colonel from Mrs. Knox. Telling Jane to wait for him there, he at once obeyed the summons.

To his surprise the lady was neither so elated nor pleased as he had expected to find her. She was pale and discomposed, and the smile with which she tried to welcome him faded away at once.

"You may congratulate me," said the Colonel. "Jane has accepted me, and I only want your consent now and the Quartermaster's."

"She is the most willful child that ever was!" cried Mrs. Knox, irrelevantly, as it seemed. "I believe that if a man with all the fortune of a Rothschild had wished to marry her, she would still have kept to her promise to that drunken sergeant."

"But now she is mine," said Stephen Prinsep, proudly.

"Then mind you keep her."

"Why? You don't think"——

She put her hand upon his arm, and met his glance of surprise with one of solemn warning.

"I'll tell you what I think. If Jacob Lynn sees her again, he will persuade her to marry him in spite of what has passed."

"But he has released her from her engagement; at least I suppose he has."

Mrs. Knox remained silent; but the firm compression of her lips seemed to declare that she could say something if she liked.

"Will you tell me what Sergeant Lynn said in reply to your daughter's letter?"

There was a touch of authority in his tone which Mrs. Knox immediately detected and resented.

"You had better ask my daughter," she replied, sullenly.

"Of course I can do that, but I would rather hear from you. Jane has suffered so much that I should like her to forget everything connected with that unhappy man."

He waited for her to speak, and at last she said, hesitatingly:

"You wish me to tell you what Jane told me?"

He bowed gravely in assent.

"Then," she answered, hurriedly, "Jane said she only received her letter torn in half, with nothing whatever in reply."

"Which was tantamount to giving her up, of course, though one might have wished he had released her in a more courteous fashion."

"He had said 'good-by' and crossed the threshold, when a sudden suspicion struck him, and he came back."

"You really believe that Sergeant Lynn meant to release Jane?" he asked, looking searchingly into her face.

She crimsoned to the temples, but her voice never faltered as she replied, decisively:

"There could be no other meaning to such an act."

And this appeared so incontrovertible that the Colonel's doubts were satisfied. He changed the subject to a pleasanter one.

"By the bye, Mrs. Knox, now that everything is settled, is there any reason why the wedding should not take place at once? Another fortnight will see nearly every one away from here—could it not be before the fifteenth?"

She looked up, delighted at this solution of a difficulty which oppressed her.

"I think it is the very wisest thing. People will talk, of course; but the sooner you are married, the sooner gossipping will cease."

"I am glad you consider it practicable," he rejoined. "Will the Quartermaster——"

"I will answer for my husband; only win Jane's consent, and the thing is settled."

He went out and found Jane where he had left her. She ran toward him and put her hands in his with a little familiar gesture, and effectually effaced any disagreeable impression he might have received during his interview with her mother.

And, in reminiscences and the sweet feeling of happy lovers, the morning sped. It was two o'clock before either thought about the time, and then the Colonel recollected that he had not yet visited his office. He had to tear himself away.

"I was just coming up to your bungalow with these papers," said Valentine Graeme, meeting him as he rode up to the door of the orderly-room and dismounted.

"I am sorry I am so late. Is there much for me to sign?"

"Rather more than usual, and some must go by to-night's post. There is a sergeant wanted immediately at Hattiabad. Lynn is next on the roster; but I thought you would rather that he remained here, under your own eye for a bit, than send him on detachment."

"Why do they want another sergeant?" asked the Colonel, thinking it a strange coincidence that a chance should occur of getting rid of Sergeant Lynn for a while, so soon after his conversation with Mrs. Knox. He had not determined whether to comply with her request, but now the whole thing seemed taken out of his hands.

Having disposed of all the papers that had anything to do with Sergeant Lynn, the Colonel turned to other business, and soon forgot the whole affair.

But before he left he had to tell his adjutant the news about himself.

"What should you say was the most unlikely thing to happen, Graeme?" he asked, pushing aside the official papers and leaning back in his chair, smiling.

"You are going to be married, Colonel?" was the quick reply, and an accent of high disdain crept into the divination.

The Colonel nodded his head.

"Miss Knollys, I suppose?"

"Pshaw! I would as soon marry an icicle!" was the contemptuous reply.

"Then I am afraid you will have to tell me who it is for I cannot guess."

"It is Miss Knox."

The Adjutant was too dumfounded to offer the usual congratulations. He was standing with one hand resting on the table, and now placed the other on it also, turning sideways, and prevented the Colonel from seeing his face. The Colonel, too proud to ask for the good wishes which were not forthcoming, would not be the first to speak.

Mr. Graeme felt compelled to say something.

"After what I said at Cawnpore about a married colonel, you cannot expect me to show exuberant delight," he observed, with rather a forced smile.

The Colonel looked disappointed at this lack of warmth.

"I thought you would have been more—more enthusiastic, Val. I wanted you for my best man, but——"

Valentine tried hard to look gratified by this mark of favor from his colonel, but again his effort at cheerfulness was a lugubrious failure.

"It is very kind of you to ask me, Colonel," he answered, with the solemnity of a mute at a funeral; it seemed such a satire upon his hopes that he should be asked to take the part of first walking gentleman when he had hoped to play the title role. "Congratulations," he went on, "are very stupid things in my opinion; but you may be sure I wish you every prosperity. Miss Knox is——" He stopped short, and concluded rapidly: "But you know what she is, sir."

"Yes, I know," laughed the Colonel. "And we will talk about your supporting me on the great occasion another time."

Though he spoke carelessly he had discovered from Valentine's manner that he was, or thought himself, hard hit, and understood why he had been so unready to respond.

He rallied Jane about it that same evening.

"You are a regular little fire-brand in the regiment," he told her, smiling; "not content with having me at your feet, you have left your mark at intervals all down the list, from Major Larron and the Adjutant——" He broke off abruptly.

"Down to Sergeant Lynn," she finished, quietly. "Don't let us have any subject between us that we are afraid to mention, Stephen."

He had taught her to call him by his Christian name, and the slight pause before pronouncing it seemed to make the sound the sweeter when at last it fell upon his ears.

"My darling, nothing shall come between us either now or ever!" he asseverated, boldly; and even to himself the speech seemed a boastful one, for how could he tell what the future had in store?

Some doubt must have returned to him later on, as they sat together after dinner in the veranda, for he asked, anxiously:

"And if Sergeant Lynn had not given you up, could you still have sacrificed me to your love of truth?"

"I must have kept my word if I died," she answered, firmly.

"Then, Jenny, your love must be less than mine for you; I think I could have given up all, even honor, for your sake."

She looked distressed at his remark and slipped her hand in his as a gentle protest against his self-depreciation.

"You should not speak so, even in jest. I should not love you as I do if I did not think you nobler and truer than any one else in the world." Then, feeling that she had said more than the occasion demanded, she added, in a lighter tone: "In India I think one must hate falsehood more than in any other country; it is so humiliating to share a meanness with the natives."

"And not be able to beat them at it, either," he finished, gayly.

CHAPTER XXI.

Mrs. Knox was much relieved to hear Sergeant Lynn was off to Hattiabad, and indeed had good cause for satisfaction. She had played a very bold game, and though just now it promised to be successful, the slightest contretemps might render futile all her scheming, and matters would be worse than if she had never interfered to mend them. As she had stood that Sunday afternoon with her letter in her hand, a sudden temptation had assailed her, whose promptings she had not been able to resist. It seemed such a simple thing to cut off the one short sentence at the bottom of the page; and to tear the letter in half was an after-thought which seemed to give emphasis to the implied meaning of the return.

Mrs. Knox would not have resorted to such an expedient had not her daughter's happiness as well as worldly welfare been concerned. However unwilling, she would have eventually resigned herself to the failure of her ambitious plans had Jane really cared for Jacob Lynn.

It was probable the Sergeant might write to Jane again, she thought, and so she had perforce to be on the alert lest the letter might fall into other hands than her own. She was glad that she had contemplated the possibility when a day or two later the letter came. It happened that she was alone in the house when it arrived; but so afraid was she of detection that she carried it away to her own room and locked the door. Then she tore open the envelope and read the letter.

"My own dear one," it began. "I have been wretched since your letter came, and hoped you might out of your great goodness, which I know well I have never deserved, write to me again a fuller explanation. I like your noble frankness in having confessed that you love some one else; and perhaps I ought to have released you at your request, only I could not, Jane—I could not! And whatever you may fancy now, I cannot but think that you will turn to me at last, loving me, nearly if not quite so dearly as I love you. They say women always forgive crimes committed for their sake, then surely you will look leniently on my fault of selfishness. You see, I admit it; I know that I am selfish, and yet cannot muster up the courage to try to live without you. If I lost you, I should lose hope and drift I know not, care not where. You hold my future in your hands. I am ordered to Hattiabad and shall start by this evening's train. At first I thought of applying for another to go in my stead; but then again I thought that a short absence would do me no harm—might, in fact, help me to win the only thing in the world that I care to have. I won't ask you to marry me soon, after what you have said. You shall take your own time; but write only a line to tell me that my case is not so hopeless as sometimes I think it is. Good-by, my own dear love, and that we may meet soon is the prayer of your devoted lover,

JACOB LYNN."

A very weak letter, worthy of the writer, thought Mrs. Knox; but it might have been all-powerful had it fallen into any other hands but her own. She shuddered as he pictured what would have happened had she been less watchful. The downward course must be a very easy one, for she felt not a twinge of compunction as she destroyed this letter; nor did she give one backward thought to the teachings of the village school in Somersetshire, nor the high, if somewhat narrow-minded, principles she had imbibed from the village curate.

And so for the while all went well. Mrs. Dene wrote immediately upon receipt of the news—a letter full of delightful congratulations, and indeed everybody expressed pleasure at hearing of the Colonel's engagement. Mesalliance though it undoubtedly was, the Quartermaster's daughter was so sweet and fair that most people forgot that fact and thought only of the romance of it.

The wedding was to take place on the fourteenth. It was to be very quiet; only the father and mother, and Valentine Graeme, who, after all, was to act as best man. Jane had only stipulated that she should be married in white.

"It would not seem like a marriage if I wore my traveling dress," she had said, pouting; and Stephen Prinsep, to whom her slightest word was law, agreed with her directly.

"You will only want a bit of orange-blossom in your bonnet to be as like a bride as any one could wish," observed her mother.

But here the Colonel made a difficulty. "Jenny, you promised me you would wear white roses," he interposed, reproachfully.

"And so I will," said Jane, smiling back.

(To be continued.)

BARRELS FULL OF GOLD.

The Way They Pack the Coin to Send to Europe.

Two or more million dollars in gold withdrawn from the United States subtreasury, and put aboard steamers for shipment to Europe in one day sounds like a pretty big undertaking to persons outside of Wall street, yet it is but a few hours' labor to the men who make handling gold their business, and the whole transaction is a very simple one.

When a banker, or coffee merchant, or whoever it may be, determines to send gold abroad to meet his obligations, instead of buying bills of exchange, he accumulates the amount he intends to ship in currency in the form of greenbacks, treasury notes or gold certificates, and presents them at the sub-treasury. Uncle Sam is bound to maintain his credit, much as he may dislike to see the gold go, and the treasury officials turn over the equivalent of the currency presented in gold coin at short notice. When the gold is handed to the shipper all government responsibility ceases.

The yellow metal is put in canvas bags and carted to a cooper, whose specialty is making kegs for shipping gold. The gold kegs are about eighteen inches high and ten inches in diameter at the center. They are made of oak, and are firmly strapped with iron hoops. The packing of a keg of gold is as easy matter to the "gold cooper." A keg will hold $5,000 of gold coin, and the cooper will have $1,000,000 of it all packed ready for shipment in an hour's time. Each keg weighs 225 pounds, and is securely sealed. It is then ready for the truckman, who takes it to the steamer.

Economy in Fuel.

Prof. Carpenter, a writer and authority on the economy of fuel in present engineering methods, states that "a study of the tests of boilers which have been made in this line shows, definitely, that a larger percentage of the value of the coal can be utilized when using anthracite and that bituminous coal and even oil can only be burned with large wastes of heat. Many who have intimately studied the subject are of the opinion that a large portion of the hydro-carbon gas contained in bituminous coal is given off when the coal is first fired and is carried away unconsumed with large volumes of fresh air before the furnace doors are closed. Whether or not there is absolute proof of this being so, Prof. Carpenter thinks there is little doubt that, to successfully fire bituminous coals they should first be gradually heated in the presence of a small amount of air, which will drive off the gas, and the gas liberated should then be passed over a body of incandescent coals in the presence of sufficient air to produce combustion. Mention is made of the scheme, favored by some, of drawing the gas downward through a body of incandescent coal, but no automatic device will replace an intelligent fireman, though it is admitted that no slight difference exists in the quality of these various machines, and some of them are of practical help.—New York Sun.

Fancy Diving.

Capital exhibitions of fancy diving are often given from the pier at One Hundred and fifty-fifth street and the Hudson River, New York. Dives from the top of piers fifteen or eighteen feet above the water are gracefully accomplished, varied by back-hand springs, somersaults and "twist." A daring dive was made the other day by a young man from a tall pier. The cable of a steamer stretched to the pier, passing about eight feet in front of where the athlete stood. Yet he cleared it nicely in his dive. Excellent long-distance swimmers are to be seen here also. Some of them think nothing of a jaunt to the New Jersey side, although the Hudson is a broad river at this point. One young woman has crossed several times. It takes her about an hour to swim across.

Cushions for Verandas.

A group of veranda cushions, which are very affective, are of white unbleached muslin, each one having a windmill sketch painted in Prussian blue oil colors, after a design on the delft plate. The paint should be used very sparingly to obtain the right shade, a nearly dry brush being necessary for the soft clouds and background. Another group of cushions covered with apple green and pale sky blue denim have designs printed upon them in pure white.

The Land of Suicides.

Switzerland, with a population of 3,000,000, averages 650 suicides annually. Only Denmark and Saxony make a more extensive use of what is supposed to be the right to die.

No man is brave who is afraid of the truth.

NOTES ON EDUCATION.

MATTERS OF INTEREST TO PUPIL AND TEACHER.

Principles and Regulations for Governing the School—What to Do with Dull Pupils—Brutal Class Fights in the Colleges—Educational Notes.

Rules and Regulations.

System in school management is a necessity, and a few general regulations may be demanded to preserve system and make the school machinery work smoothly and without friction. The following principles are important:

1. Few rules should be made. All rules with penalties attached are to be avoided as much as possible. They are dangerous, and often suggest an offense to the pupil which otherwise would probably never have been thought of. The more rules the more difficult is the work of governing, for under the rule system every infringement must necessarrily be noticed and the proper punishment be inflicted.

2. The teacher should seldom refer to the rules. It is sufficient to have the rules known in order that the teacher may have something to resort to in justification of administering punishment at times; but the rule governing the case should not be mentioned except when it is broken. To refer constantly to the school rules is simply to set your pupils to thinking about them and to place temptation before them.

3. Rules should be reasonable. School rules should be such as commend themselves to the sound judgment of all. The influence of public sentiment is strong, and if the teacher's rules be such as to win the favorable consideration of both pupils and patrons, he need have little fear that there will be any difficulty in enforcing them. On the other hand, unwise or unnecessary rules tend to chafe and fret the pupils and produce discord and disorder rather than prevent them.

4. Rules should be general in their character. School rules must be general in their application. Special cases can usually be met by special treatment, but in general the rules should be made to apply to all. There may, of course, be individual cases in which the rule should be subject to exceptions, as where the enforcement would be productive of great harm to a nervous or a deformed child. Rules should be general also in their specifications, not pointing out individual offenses and attaching specific penalties except where specially demanded.

5. Rules should aim at securing the greatest good. They are not to be made for the convenience and comfort of the teacher, but to protect the rights of the pupils and preserve the order and harmony of the school as a whole. Their aim should be to secure the greatest good to the greatest number. Such rules will commend themselves and secure compliance to their requirements, because they are reasonable and wise.

6. Special rules should be adopted only when they become necessary. The teacher who draws up his rules and regulations in advance will find quite as much trouble in attempting to enforce them as he experiences in controlling and directing the school. Indeed, the fewer rules one attempts to enforce the more successful will be his discipline. Pupils soon learn to recognize the fact that the teacher is willing to trust them and has confidence in them, but when they find themselves hedged in on every side by specific rules the natural questions which arise are not, Is this right? Will the teacher approve of it? but rather, Is this prohibited? Is there any rule forbidding it? The teacher is entirely safe in going into school without a single rule, and informing his pupils that he has faith in them that they will try to do what they believe to be right. Each needed rule may then be made when the necessity for it arises.

7. Rules should be such as can be enforced. Such rules as are merely ornamental, and such as are placed in the lists merely to frighten pupils are not only unwise, but also absurd. Among rules of this character may be mentioned all such as affix corporal punishment as a penalty where ability to enforce the rule or administer the punishment depends altogether on the physical development and courage of the teacher. To permit rules to remain on the list without attempting to enforce them or punish when the rules are disobeyed is worse than to have no rules at all.

8. Rules should not be inflexible. No rules are so mischievous and absurd as those which measure out certain punishments for particular offenses, without taking into consideration the motive or the circumstances which may have led to breaking the rule. Thus, a rule which prohibits all whispering, without inquiring into the motive which caused the violation of the rule, is both unwise and unjust. It recognizes no distinction between innocent infringement of a rule and a willful disobedience. The teacher who insists upon inflexible rules, or rather invariable punishments for the violation of rules, will frequently find himself placed in the unpleasant dilemma of being compelled to administer punishment when he knows himself to be doing wrong or permit a violation of his rules to go unpunished.

9. The pupil should be permitted to assist in adopting the rules. It is a good plan when a rule becomes necessary to give the pupils a voice in its adoption. They will rarely abuse their privileges, and when once the rule is adopted they recognize it as a law of their own making. Their obedience to such rules also becomes more cheerful. The teacher should, of course, explain to them the necessity for the rule, and lead them to vote for its adoption as a matter of choice. Should there be a few pupils who seem inclined to vote against it, a call of the roll and a vote by yes or no as each name is called will usually bring them to the side of the majority.

10. The teacher should not be severe in punishing a violation of the rules. He should always inquire narrowly into the motive. The childs physical and mental organization should be well considered. The teacher should assure himself that the offense is not the result of some taunt or some physical infirmity; also, that it was willful, and not the result of accident or thoughtlessness. Teacher, see to it that you are cool. Look to all these points; be reasonable and just, and in a majority of cases you will find no necessity for the infliction of punishment.

1. In making or enforcing rules look back to your own childhood; recall your own experiences, your impulses. Put yourself in the place of the child to be governed, then act.

2. Regard all pupils as trustworthy until you find them otherwise. Children rarely forgive a teacher who suspects them of wrong when they are innocent.

3. Encourage them to be truthful by remitting penalties as far as possible when they make a full and free confession.

4. Common sense and the ability to judge the guilt or innocence of a pupil is a requisite in successful government.

5. Allow pupils the largest liberty consistent with their welfare and the welfare of the school, and when restrictions are placed on them explain the necessity for such restriction.

6. Do not attempt to compel pupils to inform on one another under threats of punishment. Rather let your own tact govern in the detection of an offense.

7. Explain to your pupils the necessity of proper deportment and prompt obedience.

8. Do your own governing as far as possible; it weakens your authority to call upon the superintendent or the members of the School Board for assistance.

9. Give no unnecessary commands.

10. Make only such rules as you are willing to enforce.—Raub's School Management.

Dull Pupils.

In every school there are a few pupils whose eyes have still the vacant stare after nearly all have grasped the principle the teacher wishes to explain. The teacher should make special endeavors in their behalf. He should always treat them kindly; never scold, never worry, never fret. Do not lose patience though they make great blunders. Cover their dullness, as far as possible, with the mantle of love; never exhibit it to the ridiculous laugh of their brighter classmates. Have them understand that you are their best friend, who spares neither trouble nor labor for their advancement, and who would, as far as possible, give them an equal opportunity for the race through life.

Wake up the ambition of such pupils by asking questions they can answer, and by pointing out the progress they have made; this will also strengthen their self-confidence. If possible, make them voluntarily try again. The dull pupils should be asked often, and the easiest questions, keeping them astir, as it were, and the bright pupil in reserve for the more difficult work. No question should be asked a dull pupil which, with a good reason, the teacher doubts whether he can answer, for every question not answered will lessen his self-confidence, and also his self-respect, to his standing in the class. Often the pupil's dullness vanishes entirely after his ambition has been aroused, and he is started aright.

If the dullness relates to one special branch, point out to the pupil the value of this study for practical life, and that his education would always have a defect if he does not master the difficulty now.

If, then, with all your care, you do not succeed as well as you wish, and you begin to think that your labor is thrown away, look to the after life of the pupil; I assure you, he will appreciate your labor then, and be ever grateful for the kindness bestowed upon him.—Educational Record.

Class Fights.

When one reads items of news about college rushes, class fights and the like he begins to lose faith in these higher institutions and wonders how it is possible for boys in a college to grow manly and prepare for citizenship. Is the conduct in which they indulge the evidence of conceit which one may hope will exhaust itself by the close of the young man's school career? When one reads the following item with reference to a Western university his faith in the value of a college education weakens:

The university is in a state of miniature war. On Thursday night the seniors held a meeting at the residence of the president, whose son is a senior, and members of the under classes attempted to break it up. A senior was caught on the lawn and bound with the president's clothesline and was being dragged away when his chums came to his rescue. A pitched battle followed, in which students were knocked down, but the seniors finally succeeded in dragging Carpenter into the house, where the doors were barred and the attacking party kept out. The next morning the seniors appeared in class with pieces of rope tied in the buttonholes of their coats as trophies of their victory, and an attempt was made by the members of the under classes to divest them of the offensive badges. A scuffle followed during the first hour, but the men were finally separated. As the seniors came down stairs at 10 o'clock they were met by a determined force, and the fight was renewed in an effort on one side to get the pieces of rope and to retain them on the other. Members of the faculty rushed to the scene to separate the combatants. It was half an hour before order was restored. Several students on both sides were sadly bruised in the row.

A scrimmage like that in a family would properly bring into use the mother's slipper or, better still, a well-seasoned rawhide. But what can be done with young men, aged from 17 to 21 years, who will make fools of themselves in an institution where they are supposed to get wisdom, but seemingly without getting understanding?

Written Exercise.

Fill these blanks with "sit," "sat," "sitting," "set" or "setting":

1. —— the doll in the chair.
2. A fair little girl —— under a tree.
3. The maid is —— the table.
4. The table was —— early to-night.
5. There's a merry brown thrush —— up in a tree.
6. Pussy, —— beside the fire.
7. The gardener has —— the trees in a row.
8. How long has the bird —— on her eggs?
9. Do not —— the pitcher so near the edge of the table.

Educational Notes.

Brooklyn has 11,884 more pupils than a year ago.

A law requiring physical training to be taught in the public schools has been passed in Maryland.

It is now a penitentiary offense in Florida to teach white and colored children in the same school.

San Francisco has 34,085 boys, and 34,516 girls, besides 1,405 Chinese and colored on the census roll of 1895.

To put your trust in princes is Unwise in many cases;
But it is worse to trust in kings
When t'other man has aces.
—Yenowine's News.

Race prejudice is all right if it leads a man to refrain from putting his money on the wrong horse.—Yonkers Statesman.

"Did I understand you to say you were a pugilist?" "Dat's what." "Manual, oral or caligraphic?"—Indianapolis Journal.

She—Have you ever loved anybody else, Harold? He (apologetically)—Well—you know how it is yourself.—Somerville Journal.

He—Trudchen, dear, this kiss tells you all I have to say. Have you understood me? She—Oh, please, say it again.—Deutsche Warte.

She says she can't afford a cab—
Expenses she must curb,
Yet when she walks upon the street
Her carriage is superb.
—New York Herald.

Spencer (vindictively)—I've an old score to settle with you, Ferguson (blithely)—I know you have. That twenty you owed me so long.—New York Herald.

Mrs. Shopleigh—Is it any trouble to you to show goods? Mr. Cashcall—No, ma'am. But it's a good deal of trouble to sell them, sometimes.—New York Herald.

Foreman (through the speaking tube)—Where do you want that stuff about Turkey put? Night editor (yelling back) On the inside, of course.—Chicago Tribune.

The glorious charge of the Light Brigade,
By Tennyson famously sung,
Is nothing to that which my doctor made
For taking a look at my tongue.
—Yenowine's News.

Muggins—They tell me Bjones is a very devoted husband. Buggins—Yes, indeed. Why he actually goes to his own wife's afternoon teas.—Philadelphia Record.

Miss Pert—Is Miss Strait Laced circumspect? Miss Caustic—Circumspect? Why, she won't accompany a young man on the piano without a chaperon.—Salem Gazette.

Elise—My dearest Stella! I haven't seen you for four months. How is your Charles? Stella—Oh, my Charles has changed very much since then. His name is now Robert!—Fliegende Blaetter.

We are taught by experience stern
That the girl who doth manage to catch
A husband with money to burn
Is likely to make a good match.
—Philadelphia Record.

Mrs. Snaggs—I understand that paper is made of wood now. Mr. Snaggs—Yes; so is string. "String?" "Yes; what else do you suppose cordwood is used for?"—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Goodfellow—If my clothes were not too big for you, I'd give you an old suit. Hungry Hank (gratefully)—Boss, if you'd give me the price of a square meal, I warrant they'd fit me all right.—Truth.

Let us be thankful when we eat—
Though skies be sad and murky—
That though we still love turkey meat,
We do not live in Turkey.
—Atlanta Constitution.

Codger—Funny that such a quiet, domestic sort of a chap as you should remain a bachelor. Didn't you ever think of marrying? Solus—Yes; perhaps that is the reason I never married.—Boston Transcript.

Strawber—"Dr. Probe has been treating my rheumatism for the past six months." Singerly—"Are you any better?" Strawber—"I should say so. When he came with his bill yesterday, I was able to run like a deer."—Harper's Bazar.

Mrs. Prattle (to her visitor)—Have you heard of the splendid catch Miss Swiftly has made? She is engaged to a nobleman, the baron of—of—(to her husband)—What is he baron of, my dear? Mr. Prattle (who has met him)—Ideas.—Brooklyn Life.

Success is a toboggan slide;
It's mighty slippery, brother,
You scarcely reach one end before
You're hustling for the other.
—Washington Star.

"If I give your friend a place," said the banker, "he will have to give a bond. I suppose you will go on?" "Bond?" exclaimed the other man. "Why, he can be trusted with uncounted millions." "Yes; but all the money we have is counted."—Indianapolis Journal.

"Have you anything to say before sentence is pronounced against you?" asked the judge. "The only thing I'm kickin' about," answered the convicted burglar, "is bein' identified by a man that kept his head under the bed clothes the whole time. That's wrong."—Judge.

"How are all our great landed estates in England?" asked the American pleasantly. "Yours!" exclaimed the Englishman, "Certainly." "I don't see what claim you have to them." "No? Well, perhaps you can tell me what would have become of them if it had not been for the money of our girls."—Chicago Evening Post.

The Sense of Direction.

If there be, as some suppose, a sixth sense, by which animals, birds and insects know in which direction to move toward a given spot, how many strange things it explains! The late Professor Riley once hatched some Japanese ailanthus silkworms in Chicago. He confined a female moth in a small cage; he carried a male of the family by night to another part of the city, a mile and a half away, and liberated it, having first attached a silk thread to its abdomen. In the morning the male moth was hovering around the cage of his imprisoned sister.

·HORSEMEN·

SAVE YOUR STOCK BY USING THE CELEBRATED

Morris' English Stable Powder
For Loss of Appetite, Constipation, Rough Hair, Hide Bound, and all Diseases of the Blood. Price, 25c. per package.

Morris' English Stable Liniment
Cures Lameness, Cuts, Bruises, Scratches, Galls, Sweeney, Spavins, Splint, Curb, etc. Price, 50c. per bottle.

Morris' English Worm Powder
Warranted to cure any case of Worms in Horses, Cattle, Sheep or Dogs; also Pin Worms in Colts. Price, 50c. per box.

Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure
A Specific for Distemper, Coughs, Colds, Heaves, Pink Eye, and all Catarrhal diseases of horses. Price, 50c. $1.00 per bottle.

Wells' Hoosier Poultry Powder
Makes Hens Lay, Cures Cholera, Gapes and Roup, and keeps poultry healthy. Price, 25c. per package.

Every remedy guaranteed satisfactory or money refunded. Our new book, "The Horse, His Diseases and Treatment," mailed free.
Wells Medicine Co., Lafayette, Ind.
For sale by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

MADE ME A MAN
AJAX TABLETS

Positively CURE ALL Nervous Diseases, Failing Memory, Impotency, Sleeplessness, Nightly Emissions, etc., caused by Self-Abuse and other Excesses and Indiscretions. Quickly and surely restore lost vitality in old or young, and fit a man for study, business or marriage. Prevent Insanity and Consumption if taken in time. Their use shows immediate improvement, and effects a CURE WHERE ALL OTHERS FAIL. Insist upon having the genuine AJAX TABLETS. They have cured thousands and will cure you. We give positive written guarantee to effect a cure in each case or refund the money. Price 50 cents per package, or six for $2.50. By mail, in plain wrapper, upon receipt of price.
FOR FREE PAMPHLET ADDRESS
AJAX REMEDY CO., 79 DEARBORN ST., CHICAGO, ILL.
FOR SALE BY
For sale by F. E. Davenport, Druggist, Auburn.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00.
DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Fisher & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!
Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!
Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epileptic Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. In our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with a money of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest Bank references furnished on application.
1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00. 2 Qt. $5.00.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES
Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature, will find our FAMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.
By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

WHEN OTHERS FAIL CONSULT

DOCTOR SWEANY
so well and favorably known as CHICAGO'S LEADING & MOST SUCCESSFUL SPECIALIST, for his many and wonderful cures in all
BLOOD AND SKIN diseases, sores, spots, pimples, scrofula, syphilitic taints, tumors, tetter, ECZEMA & Blood Poison of every nature.
KIDNEY AND URINARY Weak back, pain in side, abdomen, bladder, seminal in urine, brick-dust or white, painful urinations, Bright's disease and all diseases of the bladder.
PRIVATE Diseases—Gleet, Gonorrhœa, Inflammations, Discharges, Stricture, Weakness of Organs, Syphilis, Hydrocele, Varicocele and kindred troubles quickly cured.
LOST MANHOOD and all its attending ailments, both of Young, Middle-Aged and Old Men. The awful effects of early indiscretions, producing weakness, NERVOUS DEBILITY, night emissions, exhausting drains, pimples, bashfulness, loss of energy and weakness of both body and brain.
WRITE your troubles if out of city. Thousands cured by correspondence and medicines sent secretly. Book sent free on request. DR. F. L. SWEANY, 22 State St., cor. Congress, Chicago.

RESTORED MANHOOD
DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex such as Nervous Prostration, BEFORE AND AFTER USING. Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

TRY US FOR JOB PRINTING!

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY,....DECEMBER 19, 1895

Break Jail

Four men on trial for various crimes broke jail at Coldwater last week, and later were captured by Steuben county officers. The Magnet says that about two in the morning a half frozen fellow came into Beard's factory and asked the night man if he might warm by the fire. Being allowed to do so, he later informed the men that he was an escaped prisoner, and was willing to give himself up, as the suffering in such cold weather was worse than prison. He was taken to jail. He had said that his companions were going toward DeKalb county, and the officers were started out after them. Soon after this, the sheriff learned from Christ Apple, who lives at the south railway crossing between Angola and Pleasant Lake, that when he went to do his chores, he found a strange horse and buggy in his barn; also two men, who were rolled up in robes and blankets and asleep when he entered the building; that the rig was still there, but that the men had gone south on foot, on the railroad track. Dept. Sheriff Harry Snyder immediately started southward, and at the Pleasant Lake depot, he chartered a hand car, with a strong man to help propel it, they ran to Steubenville. There they learned from the target-man that two young strangers had come down the road, and started toward Asuley but a few minutes before. Transferring their car to the Wabash track, they were soon speeding westward, and ere long overtook the objects of their search. As the car passed the first man, Carson slid off and collared him, and Snyder introduced himself to the other in a similar manner. Snyder's man undertook to draw a revolver from a hip pocket, but Harry was too previous for him, and he was disarmed. The captives were brought back to Angola. They gave the story of their escape from Coldwater jail. They said a hole was sawed, through which they dropped into the cellar, and then made their way out through an unbarred cellar window, while the Sheriff and his deputies were eating their supper. As they emerged from the window, they were espied by a boy who shouted: "There they go; they're getting away." They ran one square in the middle of the street, then made a turn, Broughton going to the home of relatives near by and getting a couple of revolvers, after which he joined his companions, who had provided themselves with a horse and buggy which they found tied on the street. All got into the rig, and with a view of misleading pursuers, they drove northward past the State School, then turned east three or four miles, then south toward the Hoosier State. They found the night air severely cold; and after driving two or three miles they halted near a farm barn, and Hibner went in search of robes and blankets. His companions immediately decided that four was too many for a single seated rig, and drove on, leaving him to make his journey alone. Between Fremont and Angola, Ferguson decided to walk, and his companions left him. In due time he arrived in Angola and was shortly in jail, as already stated. Bedford and Broughton say they thought their horse, (which they pronounce a good one,) needed rest and feed, so they "put up" at Apple's barn, and slept till aroused by the owner. They concluded to proceed on foot, but told Apple that they would be back for the horse in an hour or so. Broughton expresses the opinion that if he had not stopped to write a letter in Kemp's store in Steubenville, they would have eluded capture. (Later intelligence from Coldwater discloses the fact that the horse and buggy belong to Dr. Woodcox, formerly of Metz, this county, but now living in Coldwater.)

This Bird Has Horns

Have Species of the Feathered Tribe Found In South America.

(From the St. Louis Republic.)

The rarest species of bird now extant, and one which is almost extinct, has its home in the jungles of South America. This ornithological curiosity is known to science as he palsmedra cornuda, and to the common people as the "horned screamer". As a rare avis nothing could excel the cornuda unless it would be the accidental discovery of a living moa or an epiornis. But few of the bird books even let you know that such a horned paradox ever existed, let alone telling you that living specimens of the queer creature are still occasionally met with. The only one now in captivity in North America, if the writer has not been misinformed, is that belonging to the aviary of the Philadelphia zoological gardens, and which arrived in this country about three years ago. The creature is about the size of a full-grown turkey hen, and of a blackish brown color. One of its distinguishing peculiarities is a ruffle of black and white which surround the head. The horny appendage which caused the early South American explorers to write so many chapters on the wonderful rhinocerous bird of the jungle, is about four inches in length, and grows straight up out of the heaviest and broadest portion of the head. But the above is not the only natural offensive and defensive weapon with which the horned screamer has been provided. On each wing, at the "elbow" joint, he has a three inch spur, and just back of that another an inch in length. He is said to be a match for any ten game cocks.

Commissioner's Court.

After reorganizing the Board with J. W. Bateman as the new member and Isaac Hague as president, the board appointed James H. Rose for county attorney for one year at a salary of $100 to be paid quarterly. Bills were considered this day and the next.

WEDNESDAY, THIRD DAY.

Liquor licenses were applied for:

From Union township, Edward Eldridge; from Grant township, Richard Fitz; from Keyser township, Alsey P. Moste, Daniel Widmer, David Carter and Isaac Whirledge; from Richland township, Adolph Pairan; from Wilmington township, Benj. Stiefel and Daniel Hook; from Smithfield township, town of Ashley, Henry E Geddes.

The application of Daniel E. Lung for a license at Auburn Junction was dismissed for want of proper notice.

As required by the Nicholson law, license for other purposes in connection with the saloons were given; Geddes and Hook, to run pool and billiards; Pairan and Whirledge to run a lunch room or restaurant.

Brazilla Hurd was appointed constable in Keyser township on petition of Myers & Mountz, attorneys at Garrett.

THURSDAY—THE FOURTH DAY.

The case of Samuel McAnally, for a license at Auburn Junction came up. A remonstrance was brought in under the Nicholson law to prevent him from getting a license. McAnally's attorney's were D. Y. Husselman and W. H. Leas, while J. E. Rose was attorney for the remonstrants. There was quite a sharp trial before the board, the attorneys working for their several clients. It appearing to the board that the remonstrance was signed by a majority of the voters of Jackson township in which McAnally proposed to sell liquor, and that the remonstrants were voters and duly qualified to sign such a paper and that said papers were filed with the auditor in proper time, the board therefore refused to grant him the license asked for, and decided that he must pay the costs in the case. This is the first full trial of this kind under the new law, in this county.

FRIDAY, FIFTH DAY.

August Bartels, superintendent of the poor farm made his report which was accepted and approved by the board. The board also extended the contract with Dr. F. M. Hines one year, for secretary of the county board of health on the same conditions as before.

To day the usual routine work was continued till eleven o'clock when the board went out to the Poor farm on their usual visit. On Monday, the big gravel road case from St. Joe is to come up. If this is brought to trial, it may take several days.

Tuesday's Daily.

We left the commissioners yesterday in the midst of a struggle over the St Joe gravel road case. Judge McClellan was attorney for the petitioners, while J. S. Roby and C. E. Emanuel were for the remonstrants. There was a hard fight of course and it did not cease till about four in the afternoon, when the commissioners saw that it would be uncertain whether it could be finished this term, and wanted time on some point so they set it off to the last Monday in February, which is Feb. 24, when they will have a special session for it. The week, also is the one next before the regular March session so that the regular session will follow the special. After getting rid of the gravel road, they went on with regular business. Among the business that came up was the question in regard to allowances to township trustees for caring for the poor. Some of the new members, naturally think that as it is a part of their work they should have the usual pay of $2 a day. And so, in justice, they should have, and several brought in bills at the rate of $2 a day. But the commissioners have no right to allow this, as the law directly says, that "for caring for the poor" they shall receive only $1 a day. Trustees should remember this, when making out bills and no doubt they will. But it is a natural mistake for new men. The Board, also let the contract for lighting the court house and the jail for the coming year, at the same rate as last year, $201 for 51 lights, which is probably as reasonable a figure as could be secured. They adjourned for the session this afternoon, as business was all done. We might add that the coroner's bill is still unsettled, and will be till he becomes coroner in some legal way.

BUTLER.

Mother Eddy was overjoyed last Saturday morning by a visit from her son whom she had not seen for four years.

Lane & Lane, who have purchased the Lehrer, drug store, came here well recommended from Sand Beach, Michigan their former home. They are making friends among our business men and seem assured of success.

Charles Moody, a well known citizen of Butler and vicinity for the past thirty five years, died at his home two miles west of town last Wednesday. Funeral from the Disciple church here, on Friday conducted by Rev. Laird of that church. Mr. Moody was highly esteemed by all who knew him and had acquired a comfortable home. He leaves a wife and two married daughters to mourn his death.

Mrs. Richard Murch, nee Noragon is seriously ill at her home at the west end.

Mrs. John Crouse has so far recovered as to be about her house again. Mr Crouse is in feeble health.

The M. E. Sunday School will fall back on the old reliable christmas tree for the coming Christmas eve. The festivities for the occasion promises to be more than ordinary.

Butler has been very lively for the past two weeks. Some attractions have brought in nearly all the farmers for miles around.

Jacob Helwig and Eli Bryan made a drive to Emerald, Paulding Co., Ohio last week, and got the benefit of the rain and snow and not a small amount of Paulding mud.

Capp Bros. have lowered the floor in the Oberlin building which they purchased, to the level of the sidewalk and will make it the banner meat market in the town. If three more of them were lowered our streets would present a better appearance.

CORUNNA.

Court was in session in Corunna last Tuesday with 'Squire Maxwell on the bench.

The snow snowed, and the blizzard blizzed, but it will take a worse war of the elements than that to stop the boys and girls from sliding on the sidewalks.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Luttman last week, a girl.

Blanche Cox, of Garrett, visited her mother, Mrs. Libbie Reed, last week.

Rev. M. A. Boughman assisted Bro. Edgar in his meetings at the Rakestraw school house last week.

Mrs. Clarissa Buchanan attended the celebration of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. George Roberts, of Columbia city on the 10th inst.

W. H. Daily and wife and little daughter of Auburn spent several days last week visiting with relatives and friends in Corunna and vicinity.

Quite a number of the Corunna boys went to Kendallville last Wednesday to attend the district meeting of the Knights of Pythias.

Corunna is the best lumber market in seventeen states. It sold here last Friday for 6700 per thousand. But the men who sold it, and the men who hauled it to the depot, and the hotel man who boarded them, and the livery men whose rigs he used,—all of these are wondering where they are going to get their money. Echo answers, where.

For Kidney Troubles

there is nothing better than Clinic Kidney Cure. Everyone who tries it will agree to this. Robbins & McCord.

Don't miss Fred J. Yesbera's jewelry store when on your tour for Xmas presents. He has lots of nice things.

College Glee Club

The Ann Arbor Glee Club will be at the Opera House, New Year's night, to give one of their grand musical entertainments. It is for the Juniors of the Auburn High School and will be the best High School entertainment ever given here. Keep this notice. Tell your friends about it. The club furnishes music of the highest order. More notices wil follow.

Think so? Yes, I think so, and I know it too. It goes without saying that F. J. Yesbera, has the best Watches, Clocks and Jewelry in the County.

CASH PAID FOR

SCRAP → CAST ↓ IRON

AT THE

AUBURN FOUNDRY

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING

AUBURN, IND., Dec., 3, 1895

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of The First National Bank of Auburn, Indiana, will be held on Tuesday, January 14, 1896.

at the banking office of said bank in Auburn, Indiana, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, for the purpose of electing seven [7] directors to serve for the ensuing year, and to transact such other business as may regularly come before the meeting. 9-52. CHARLES McCLELLAN, Cashier.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the state of Indiana, Executrix of the Will of Frederick Gfeller, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

MARY ANN GFELLER,
Executrix.

December 2, 1895.
Wm. H. Leas, Att'y.

EXECUTOR'S SALE.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned executors, of the will of Daniel Gonser deceased, will sell at public sale at the late residence of said decedent, on Gonser Avenue in the town of Ashley, DeKalb County Indiana, on and sale commencing at ten o'clock a. m. the personal property of said Daniel Gonser not taken by the widow consisting of household furniture, beds, bedding agricultural implements road cart, sleigh wheat, oats, corn, hay, carpenter tools grindstone iron kettle, dishing outfit, sausage grinder, & stuffer, one cook stove, one heating stove, chairs, and other articles too numerous to metion.

Friday, December 20, 1895

TERMS OF SALE

Under $5.00 cash on day of sale, On sums of $5 and over a credit of six months will be given the purchasher giving note with approved security without interest if paid when due. If not so paid ten per cent from date, waiving relief from valuation appraisement laws and attorney fees and payable at Ashley, Ind., no property to be removed until settled for.

FRANK B. GONSER
HIRAM H. SLAYBAUGH
Executors.
Wm. H. Leas, Atty.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

TRAINS LEAVE AVILLA.

GOING NORTH

For Grand Rapids and Mackinaw .. 3 47 p. m.
For Grand Rapids and Traverse City 9 11 a. m.

GOING SOUTH.

For Cincinnati.....12 04 p. m
For Fort Wayne.....6 2. p. m.
For Cincinnati.....10 27 p. m

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. & T. A.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

LEWIS' 98 % LYE
POWDERED AND PERFUMED
(PATENTED)
The strongest and purest Lye made. Unlike other Lye, it being a fine powder and packed in a can with removable lid, the contents are always ready for use. Will make the best perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling. It is the best for cleansing waste pipes, disinfecting sinks, closets, washing bottles, paints, trees, etc.
PENNA. SALT M'F'G CO.
Gen. Agts., Phila., Pa.

G. H. YESBERA

Makes the OLD HOSS go, and a scientific flourish of the knife makes Ready Made

CLOTHING - AND - OVERCOATS

AND

Winter Wearing Apparel Cheap

Enough to make your whole family Christmas presents. The month of December witnesses a great Slaughter Sale that was never before heard of at this season of the year. The continued warm weather forces us to dispose of our immense stock. Come and see us and we will make prices that will astonish the oldest inhabitant. Space is too limited to make prices on everything, but once inside of our Mammoth Clothing House you can not get away until your money is gone. Go out and borrow it and stock up for a year ahead.

Men's Heavy weight Suits.

Our $ 5 00 leader, Man's Suit, Holiday Drive,	$ 2 75
" 6 00	3 25
" 7 00	4 50
" 10 00	7 00
" 12 00	9 50
" 13 50	10 00
" 16 00	12 00
" 18 00	13 00

Men's Overcoat Department.

Our $ 5 00 Chinchilla Overcoats	$ 3 75
" 7 00 beaver "	4 50
" 9 00	7 00
" 10 00	7 50
" 11 00	8 50
" 12 00	9 00
" 13 50	10 50
" 15 00	11 50
" 18 00 fine beavers and kerseys	15 00
" 22 00	18 00

Fine Line Plush Caps.

Our $ 50 plush caps	$ 45
" 85	65
" 1 00	85
" 1 25	1 00
" 1 50	1 25
" 1 75	1 35
" 2 00	1 65

And balance of winter caps cut in proportion

Childs' Cape Overcoats.

Prices to suit you. We will cut them hard.

Childs' Chinchilla Reefers.

Our $ 3 00	$ 1 75
" 3 50	2 25
" 4 50	3 00
" 5 50	3 50
" 7 50 a few large sizes	4 50

Underwear Must Suffer,

Our $ 50 fleece lined and derby ribbed	$ 45
" 65 fancy	50
" 75	60
" 1 00 Wright's fleece lined	75
" 1 25 med camel wool fleece	1 00

More to follow, broke lots price cut into.

Men's Ulsters.

Our $10 00 gray cass Ulster large sizes	$ 6 75
" 12 00 black chevio s ulster	8 75
" 12 00 gray chinchilla	8 75
" 13 50 oxford mix ulsters	11 00
" 16 00 irish frieze ulsters	13 50
" 18 00 monster irish fri—O.C	15 00
" 18 00 fine wool beaver ulster	15 00
" 22 00	18 00

Boys', Youths' Overcoats & Ulsters

Our $10 00 boy's	gray chinchilla ulster	$ 7 50
" 8 50	blue	7 00
" 7 00	brown	5 75
" 6 50	brown and blue	5 00
" 5 50		4 25
" 4 50	cass-ulster	3 50
" 3 50		2 75
" 2 75	chinchilla	2 25
" 2 25		99

YESBERA'S DECEMBER PUSH SALE

Christmas is Coming

And we are pleased to tell you that we have largest and best stock of

Toys
Holiday Goods,
Lamps,
China, Etc.,

That we have Ever had

We want you to call and see them.

Olds Bros.

Your Attention

IS CALLED TO THE FACT THAT A BOX OF

DINGERS

WOULD MAKE AN ELEGANT PRESEN

WALTER HARTMAN FIRE INSURANCE

DR. W. W. CAREY,

AUBURN, - - INDIANA

Office on Second Floor Kiblinger Building formerly occupied by the COURIER

CALLS ANSWERED PROMPTLY.

Residence 3rd house west of the Methodist church on West 7th street

The U. S. Gov't Reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

Trilby Photos will please you
Platino Photos are fine work
Flash Light Pictures at Night ask about it.
Aluminum Frames and Fine Mouldings for Christmas.
Pictures Matted and Framed Neatly.

Canvas and all kinds of artists supplies. Leave your orders now.

J. G. CLAPP,
Photographer and Picture Supplies
AUBURN, IND

WE GREET YOU

And invite you to come in and look over one of the most complete stocks of Holiday Novelties and finest quality Jewelry ever exhibited in this city.

Do your trading where an established reputation warrants continued confidence.

D. A. HODGE,
The Jeweler

HOLIDAY OPENING

$25.00 $25.00

GOLD WATCH GIVEN AWAY

ON JANUARY 1, 1895, BY

Fred J. Yesbera,
The Auburn Jeweler,

For each and every 50 cents you invest at my store from now until the first of January you will get a guess free. I have placed on my show case a quart jar of mixed seeds, and the one coming closest guessing the exact number in the jar gets the watch. My store is filled with good ane useful articles, such as Diamond Rings, Gold and Silver watches, lots of Ladies' and Gents' Chains, Cut Glass, Silverware, Gold Spectacles, Gold Pens, and many other things too numerous to mention. You are invited to call and see what we have.

We invite you to carefully read this over and when in need of any thing in our line, if you will call and see us, we will convince you that we have the prices as well as the goods.

IN OUR

Buggy Department

We carry a full line of the Old Reliable

Eckhart ✦ Buggies ✦ and ✦ Surreys.

We are sole agents for their work in DeKalb County.

We have just received a car load of

FINE SLEIGHS,

and can sell you a

PORTLAND OR SWELL BODY

at prices that will astonish you. Don't wait until it snows or you will get left. We also have all styles of BOB-SLEDS, including the Crosby Patent logging sleds and Runner Attachments for Buggies.

Are you going to buy a

WAGON?

—If so, why not get the best. The—

TURNBULL

Is an honest made wagon from the ground up and will

Wear Longer and Run Lighter

Than any other wagon made. All sizes always in stock.

We carry the most complete line of

Stoves

in DeKalb county and sell them at the very lowest prices. Come and see us and be convinced that what we say is true. We have Steel and Cast Ranges; Peninsular Cook and Parlor Stoves; Bement Cook and Parlor Stoves; Favorite Cook and Parlor Stoves, and the Genuine Beckwith Round Oak, all sizes.

The leading three machines in the world are the

McCormick,
Deering and
New Champion,

For which we are agents. Also.

Thomas Rakes and Tedders,
Rock Island Hay Loaders,
Oliver and Bryan Plows,
Superior Drills,
Cultivators, etc.,

Always in stock.

The Economical Farmers are buying

Feed Cutters

this winter and saving their hay. Speaking of this matter, we want to tell you that we have the best feed cutters made, and are selling them at the Right Price.

SANTA CLAUS' Headquarters for Useful Christmas Presents WITH US.

It is impossible for us to mention all we carry in so small a space, but we carry everything in the HARDWARE and FARM MACHINERY line, and we believe that our extensive business will permit us to sell on closer margins than our competitors can. If you will come and see us we will treat you right.

BROWN, CULBERTSON & BOLAND,

Auburn, Indiana.

BRANCH AFRICULTURAL STORES:

M. F. LONG & CO., Butler, Indiana.
W. O. LAKE & CO., Spencerville, Indiana.

CHRISTMAS

PRESENTS

AT

RAUT & CO'S.

We would be pleased to show you our

UP TO DATE SHOES AND SLIPPERS

FOR

LADIES AND GENTS.

We can Show you a Larger Line of Shoes than ever before.
Let us have a trial and we will Fit your Feet

COMFORTABLE AND STYLISH.

Our Prices Always At The BOTTOM

Good, Honest Shoemaking.

RAUT & COMPANY

Fitters of Feet

No. 8 E. Seventh St. - - Auburn, Indiana.

OUR STRONG HOLD

Is the good will of our patrons. Hundreds of men, women and children, that have been our customers for years, whose patronage has built up our prosperous business, and who know by actual experience the kind of

A DRY GOODS STORE

We have. They are the kind of advertising that CAN NOT be bought for so much money per column, BUT THE KIND THAT CAN BE GAINED only by always

Selling The Very Best Goods

That can be made, at the very lowest CASH prices at all times. In or out of season, you will always find at our store the largest and most complete line of

Dress Goods, Teasel Gowns,

Outings, Domestics.

BLANKETS!

Good generous sized ones, full 10-4 and 11-4 at from 50c. to $6 per pair

LADIES', MISSE'S, MENS', AND BOYS' UNDERWEAR

Of all kinds and at all prices.

GLOVES, MITTENS, SILK MUFFLERS, HANDKERCHIEFS

HOSIERY till you can't climb over it. NOTIONS, DRESS TRIMMINGS, LININGS and INNER LININGS a specialty. In fact, any thing you want in merchandise that is kept by dry goods and notion stores, can be found here and at prices that are "way down."

M. JONES & SON,

AUBURN, INDIANA.

What is man to his . . family besides socially?

He is a commercial value and if he dies nothing will fill that value but money. Then when looking for Christmas presents why would if not be a good idea to present your family with a life insurance policy that would help to buy the presents for the wife and little ones after years are gone, and if you live to maturity you will all reap the benefits of the few dollars you have laid away each year.

Herb D. Weaver,
Agent for the National Life Insurance Co.

POULTRY SHOW

AT

THE ARMORY,

AUBURN, INDIANA.

Dec. 24 to 28,

FIRST ANNUAL EXHIBIT.

Write the Sec'y, C. B. Weaver, for Premium List.

The Laboring Man Speaks.

MONON, IND., May 10, 1894.

Lyon Medicine Co., Indianapolis, Ind.:

GENTS—I think it my duty to send this statement to you of the benefit I have received from LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. I have been afflicted for twenty years with stomach trouble of the severest nature. Would have seasons of the severest suffering from one to two months at a time. Between these times of suffering was never longer than three months. There was never any time that I was entirely free from misery more or less. These spells of great suffering would sometimes come on with sickness and vomiting, and other times would come on in form of rheumatism, but would finally center itself in my stomach. I have doctored with a great many physicians, but none of them could tell me what the trouble was. I was unable to get relief until I got LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. It is now sixty days since I began taking this medicine, and am now for the first time in twenty years free from pain and misery. I am compelled to say it is a blessing to a poor man.

J. J. HACKETT, Blacksmith.

LYON'S 7 WONDERS
A SPECIFIC For all DERANGEMENTS of the STOMACH. PRICE $1.00
Manf'd by THE LYON MEDICINE CO. INDIANAPOLIS IND.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

The above cut represents W. R. WHITE Gate, now on exhibitson at Auburn, Ind. It will be to everyone's interest, who uses gates, to call and see this one, as it is handy, oftimes saves runaways, any lady or child can operate it without getting out in the mud, can be raised over snow, or to let pigs pass to and from fields; made of Bessemer steel, will last a lifetime, and many other claims no other gate has. Call and see it and get prices on gates, Farm, Township, County and State Rights, of

A. M. GARDNER,
U. S. Agent,
Auburn, Indiana.

ROOT & COMPANY,

FT. WAYNE

NOW - FOR - CHRISTMAS!

The store this year will be more comfortable for trading than ever—more aisles, better arranged shelving and fixtures to display. A good deal, too, more to look at. We shall strive to out-do all former efforts to make this Christmas season the crowning event in the history of our store.

Our Store in Holiday attire, Scenes of Beauty all Around.

We extend a special invitation to all to visit the store—come often. Those who skip a day from the store from now on, will miss many an attraction.

Linens. If there is a doubt if the recipient is a housewife—give linen, 'twill be an assured acceptable article. Pillow Shams, all linen. We show some lovely novelties in Cotton, hands meh. embroidered and hemstich. Bureau Scarfs, Carving Cloth, Tray Cloths, Doylies, Fancy Linen pieces, Piano and Mantel Scarfs, in Silk, Laundry Bags, Splashers, Slipper Bags, Brush and Comb Cases, etc.

Lace Collarettes. Some new beauties of these popular neckwear novelties, in Ecru and Biscuit color laces, with Points and Insertings of heavy Russian.

$1.50 up to $7.00 Each.

China and Art Bits. The central counter in northern aisle is full of holiday suggestions; hundreds of things, inexpensive, useful.

Bisque Figures 40c each to $9 pair.

Decorated Glass Flower Vases, all in new shapes. 15c each to $8. Vases 25c each up to Placques and lots of other things to be looked at.

HOUSE COATS. HOUSE GOWNS We've got a good line of these garments for ladies to look at. Something useful to give a man, made of House Coats, $6.00 to $10.00.

House Gowns, $1.00 to $5.00.

Fur Wraps At Cost.

We started to-day at selling every Fur Wrap at cost—there's no quarter off, nor third off: but you know what this store just what you are getting. You see Fur Wraps at the lowest possible price they can be sold at. From to-day we sell all Fur Wraps at cost.

Women's Winter Jackets.

At $4.00—we have a good Beaver Jacket, the best Coat you have ever seen at the price.

At $10 to $25—Astrakhans and Montagnas, finely tailor made, ripple backs, shield, box or Bagdanc front Jackets, big sleeves.

At $10 to $20—A wide range in French Novelty Cloth Jackets, Mohair, Rye, Lyons Velour, Chinchilla and Globe Kerseys, lined with plain or figured Silks.

Bishops' Fur Rugs.

We show a fine new line for the Holidays, lined and unlined all colors.

PRICES $2.75 TO $3.50.

At $1.28 we offer a good two dollar Blanket full size, fancy borders. This bargain will be found at front entrance.

ROOT & CO.

GROFF'S Rheumatic Cure

Is the only positive Cure known to the Medical Profession for the Cure of Acute and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Ovarian Neuralgia, Dismenorrhœa, Psoriasis, Scrofula, Liver and Kidney Diseases. A positive Cure effected in from 6 to 18 days.

For Sale by Groff Medicine Co., Chicago Illinois.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY,....DECEMBER 12, 1895

Commissioners' Allowances.

At the December term the following bills were allowed:

POOR.

Geo N Wade	$ 5 00
M Tustison	18 25
C E Kirkland & Co	26 00
M Y Johnson	29 61
Beams Brothers	14 00
M Tustison	11 00
W H Crane	54 55
J Nichols	2 00
F Campbell	12 00
A F Halter	11 35
G Wolf	10 30
E C Miller	4 67
J A Brown	4 25
S W Otis	21 00
J S Jackman	2 75
Haverstock & Thiel	50
H Stomm	12 00
Fanny Cupp	18 50
Chas Crew	5 00
John Kruger	21 39
Sarah Cass	2 00
J Loewenstein	3 00
A W Madden	23 49
Joseph Singler	26 21
Margaret Biedler	2 25
Speer & Co	2 00
Grueter Bros	4 00
Roger & Leas	1 55
Geo Pierson	8 00
Ed Kelhman jr	12 00
Hebel Bros	17 12
J H Knauer	31 93
Geo Kelham	3 00
M E Kooken	14 42
Smith & Hirschberger	47 77
Moore & Schulthess	25 00
Dekalb Co Medical Society	275 00
W M Rex	17 50
Ira Brandon	6 00
A J & G M Ralston	3 00
R Shull	3 25
M H Loomis	3 00
F A Hoff	8 99
Silas Franks	5 30
S Tonneson	12 50
S G Stone	1 62
Geo Kehrer	1 50
J J Eakright	22 86
E H Willetts	35
G W Rakestsaw	12 68
J Beuret	8 50
W Sheffer & Co	2 43
Ellen Long	34 50
Mary Hosler	34 50
Isaac Anthony	30 00
A Bartels	150 00
F Bowman	24 23
J W Sheffer	12 51
John Kruger	13 25
C Snell	20 65
Hebel Bros	13 90
Brown, Culbertson & B	23 24
Raut & Co	20 70
M Jones and Son	50 61
Pioneer Hardware Co	40 13
Schaab & Bro	88 04
C C Shaffer & Co	8 75
F A Hoff	34 22
A J & G M Ralston	3 30
Scott & Baker	10 45
Robbins & McCord	21 90
Princess Store	4 64
M E Garrett	15 75
A Bartels	58 16
Zimmerman Mfg Co	50 00
Schaab & Bro	11 45
C C Shaffer & Co	81,00

SALARY.

J F. Shuman, Co Atty	$25 00
John Heffelfinger	33 00
F A Hoff	62 50
C E VanAuken	23 00
C. M. Merica	300 00
D W. Fair	525 00
F. M. Hines	15 85

INSANE.

E R Coburn	$30 00

POSTAGE.

C M. Merica	$ 5 82
F. A. Borst	5 70

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

P. Depew	$25 00
Auburn Iron Works	66 70
Chas. Mitchell	93 00
Pioneer Hardware Co	6 72
Brown, Culbertson & Boland	32 46
Henry Baker	17 55

STATIONERY.

M E Gardner	$ 3 00
C. E. VanAuken	6 70
J. A. Barns	25 85
A. J. Little	17 00
D W Fair	11 90
F. W. Willis	13 65
E. W. Miner	17 85
J. Kohler	53 38

CRIMINALS.

H. P. Stroh	$382 75
Raut & Co	2 65

DITCHES.

J J. VanAuken	$15 00
C. E. VanAuken	35 00

MISCELLANEOUS.

F. A. Benedict	875
F. A. Hoff	1 20
D A. Hodge	1 00

Very Foolish.

The Hamilton Advocate of last week says: "Auburn is going to bore for gas Where is it going to find it? It strikes us very forcibly that she need not go further than the female portion of town."

It would perhaps be difficult for the author of this supposedly smart squib to tell just what he means by the above. If it is intended as a slur on Auburn ladies, the COURIER will certainly resent it, for with our three or four ladies' literary clubs, reading circles, their active church work and the work of similar organizations, besides "that which cometh on them daily, the care of their families we know of no community where the ladies are more fully employed, or better employed. Our ladies have no time, and still less time to indulge in gossip, if this is what is meant.

TO THE SUFFERERS OF RHEUMATISM

After using Groff's Rheumatic Cure for some time in my practice I take great pleasure in saying that it is a most wonderful remedy for Rheumatism; in fact, it is the only one I have found for the cure of this disease in all its various form. Dr. E. E. Tull, Chicago.

Not Enough

A young woman asked an editor how to make "not enough" out of "enough" and he told her it was easy. It is done by transposing the letters and arranging them into words. For instance, take the third, second and first of the word, "enough" for the first word, and sixth, fourth and fifth for the second word, and you have something that is "not enough" for any young lady.—Huntington Herald

Waterloo Fair

Among several papers that seem to have been laboring under a mistake as to the facts in the case, we note what the Lagrange Standard says:

The Waterloo fair it is reported, is going out of business. The Lagrange county fair is going to "try again," though a $25 share of its stock was sold the other day for a cigar.

The Waterloo fair has been killed off about twenty times in this way. But it bids fair to live a generation or two, more. It has made arrangements for its debt, and its premiums, and having existed over twenty-three years, does not feel like retiring now.

EDITOR OF THE GRAPHIC.

Of Campbellsburg, Ind, writes: "I will carry your ad at price named ..... Our druggist don't handle Syrup Pepsin and I want some of it myself. I have taken two bottles and it did my stomach more good than any medicine I ever took and I want more of it. I had a bad case of dyspepsia." F. E. Davenport. 52

Twenty-Fifth Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Case celebrated their twenty-fifth anniversary at their home on Eosley Avenue Dec. 1st. A very pleasant time is reported Music was furnished by some of those who were present. Refreshments were also served after which Mrs. R. E. Holler made a few brief remarks and presented the silver presents as a token of their friendship and love and a kind good night. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Stafford and daughters, Flora and Clara, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Cochran, Mr and Mrs. J. E. Ensley and family, J. R. Steves, Mr and Mrs. R. E. Holler, Mrs Purinton and daughter of Angola, Mrs. Sylvester Chicago and Mrs. S. A Cass.

For Pneumonia.

Dr. J. C. Bishop, of Agnew, Mich, says: "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar in three very severe cases of pneumonia the last month, with good results." Robbins McCord's. 52

Trade at Home.

Keep your money at home, and let it do service here among our own people. For several days there was a traveling man here, who was soliciting orders for John Wanamaker in Philadelphia. A man could give him an order for a suit of clothes, for a coat, for an overcoat, etc. etc, and in due time, the order would get to Philadelphia and then in "due time" again, the clothing etc, would be received here by the buyer. But in half that time, and with probably less money, the buyer could have got as good or better suit of clothes of Yeebera, Schaab Bros., Schaab & Murphy, the Globe, or other dealers. And if the money were paid out here, it would circulate among our own people, and not in Pennsylvania. We don't know what Wanamaker has ever done to build up Auburn or DeKalb county. The fact that he has recently sent in a $10,000 check to the republican campaign committe on the old debt for expenses incurred in the campaign of 1892, is no good reason why our pocket books should bleed for him. If he was fool enough to pay out such a large sum for a political party, let him get it back from those who benefited by it, which was not the people here Yes patronize home dealers, and let Brer Wanamaker take his chances. He has millions and don't need our dollars. Our own dealers need more capital.

Furnaces Fed With Bank Notes.

The novel spectacle of a steamer's furnaces being fed with bank notes was recently witnessed at a Mediterranean port. Forty sacks of the apparently valuable papers were tossed into the furnace, under the longing eyes of the stokers, who stood restively by with an evidently burning desire to possess themselves of at least a handful of that which they somewhat inelegantly styled "rum fuel." The notes were canceled notes of the Bank of Algiers, whose manager superintended the operation of their absolute combustion.

Poland China Hogs

Four full blood Poland China male hogs for sale. Call on A. B. Wasworth, 4 miles east of Auburn. 48-49

ROYAL Baking Powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—U. S. Government Report.

BLOODY CAREER

WILLIAM STONE'S OCCUPATION WAS MURDER AND ROBBERY.

He Is Now In Jail At Ft. Wayne.—Sentenced To Ten Years In The Penitentiary.

William Stone, the man who is now in the county jail at Ft Wayne awaiting transportation to the penitentiary at Michigan City, where he will serve ten years for the shooting of Deputy Sheriff Harrod, of the Ft. Wayne police force, has made a statement which he says is a history of his life and crimes and also a recital of many of the crimes in which William Duffy, his partner, who has been on trial in the Allen County circuit court for several days for the Harrod shooting, was interested. The statement was published in the Ft. Wayne papers, and was in substance as follows:

I was born in Port Huron, Mich, on August 16, 1866, said Stone. My father died when I was one year old and my mother married again and we went to Kansas City. When I was ten years old I ran away from home and went to Akron, Ohio, and worked in a planing mill. There I met Walrath, the man who was killed here last summer. Walrath and I ran away and went to Kansas City. Then we ran away with a tramp to Pueblo. I helped rob a bank in Pueblo and then robbed stages in the mountains. I left Walrath and joined the Dalton gang Later, in DuBois, I met Duffy, who was known as Fingers. At Wyandotte we met a man on a bridge and asked him for a light. While he was giving it to us Duffy knocked him down, robbed him and threw him into the river. We had to give a police a part of the money we got to keep from being arrested. We went to Colorado and joined the Daltons and robbed stages and trains. In 1885 Walrath and I left Duffy and went to robbing cars on the Lake Shore in Ohio and New York. In 1886 I went to Europe and joined a theatrical company, I was with Marie Wainright and Louis James and returned to America with Agnes Huntington's company. I got a position with a relief society in Kansas City and together with the manager we stole everything that was sent there for the sufferers in the west. My mother died in 1886 and I went to Chicago Harry Lawrence and I did several jobs in Chicago. I grabbed a tray of diamonds in a jewelry store and got away. At Beaver, Pa, I met Walrath again and we went to Erie and stopped in the Bum woods. There we met Duffy and several others, and Duffy killed a man called Buffalo Jack by stabbing him fourteen times. I went to Chicago and met Chas. O'Connor, of Urbana, Ohio, and we went to Cleveland, where we met a family named Stewart. Stewart and wife parted to escape arrest. We put in several months robbing houses and people on the street. One day Mrs. Stewart said a traveling man with money was living with her as her husband. We told her to bring him to the house, and she did so. We all drank, and when the man was drunk and asleep we cut his throat and threw him into the cellar I induced a poor boy to go into the Big Four railroad yard with me and Clarence Stewart killed him with a coupling pin. We thought he had money but he had none. To avoid detection we cut up the traveling man's body and threw the pieces into Lake Erie. When the police came they found nothing. Afterward we were arrested. I played crazy and turned state's evidence and got ten years for killing the boy. Walrath was in prison also, and we escaped by making a pattern of the key. We stole clothing at a farm house and then went to South Bend. We held up a man and got $85. We bought guns and went to Canada. In Buffalo, N. Y. we killed a westerner on the "Hooks," a tough row of houses, and we got $75.000. We started a restaurant in Chicago My sister married Walrath and soon afterward died. We drank and gambled away our money and then went to Pennsylvania. Then I went to Chicago with Devil Dan and we killed an old man and his son named Blunty while trying to rob their house. Three of the gang are in Joliet for life on that account. At Erie, Walrath and I met Duffy again. We went to Uniontown and beat a family named Norton into insensibility and then robbed the house, getting $80 The old man died from his beating. Walrath and I robbed a family named Wade, at Pecker, Pa., of $500 Walrath, Duffy and I robbed a young man in a freight car near Youngstown, Ohio, and then threw him off. His dead body was picked up the next morning. We went to Cleveland. One night I met Duffy, cut and bleeding. He had tried to hold up a grocer and got the worst of it. We robbed two boys on a train at Jacksonville, Ill. Police Captain Hogan entered the car to arrest us, but we held him up and took his gun away from him. At a Mexican dance in Texas I was badly cut. Then we rejoined the Daltons. I left Bill Dalton in Chicago At Pittsburg I met Charley Campbell, a traveling man, and held him up for a watch and $300. On April 28, 1895, we arrived in Crestline, Ohio. We met a man in a bar room who had a roll. We saw him get into a freight car and we got on the train and climbed into the car from above. Duffy talked to the man in the dark and several shots were fired. I got one in the back. Walrath and I left the car and when we came back the man had another bullet in his head, Duffy had stayed with him. Duffy threw his revolver away. We got away and went to Battle Creek, Mich., and robbed a train load of people who were returning from Kalamazoo, where they had been to see Ringling's circus. We went to Chicago and then came to Ft. Wayne. What happened here is well known.

Stone never expects to breathe free air again, and says he cares nothing about what is done with him. His story of crime, if true, is one of the worst ever related.

In refutation of the above statement by Stone, Duffy claims absolutely that he never saw and never was with Stone until within a few days of the scrape at Mansfield. He says the statement so far as it concerns him is false. Stone, however, insists that he has told the truth.

MORE FACTORIES

ARE LOOKING FOR NEW LOCATIONS AUBURN IS THE DESIRED PLACE.

A Meeting at the Court House To-night All Come.

Last evening a very enthusiastic meeting of our leading business men was held in the office of Baxter & Brown, the purpose being to organize a "Board of Trade" to assist in forwarding Auburn's business interests. The meeting was a practical one from a business stand point, and every one felt that it took some thing more than talk to advance the interest of any town or of anything else. So a definite plan was adopted and an organization formed, to take charge of the matter and push it. This is in brief, the business part of it. Now to push it. To-night is another meeting in the court room, at 7 o'clock, and everybody is earnestly asked to come out and help. The time for earnest effort has come. We cannot afford to wait longer. We have the frame work built. There are valuable and desirable plants, now waiting to locate at the point that appears most desirable. But they will not wait for empty talk. We must make them understand that it is to their interest to locate here. They want to know what they are doing. We desire to make that point clear to them, Every man who cares for his town and wants to see it grow and his own business grow with it, should come out to-night and bring a practical frame of mind with him. Listen for the court house bell at 7 o'clock.

MOTHER AND BABE.

Both equally benefited by the use of Dr Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Is the baby constipated? Then try this pleasant liquid laxative, both sure and mild, and pleasant to the taste. Has the mother indigestion or sick headache? There is nothing so effective. In 10c, 50c and $1 sizes, at F. E. Davenport's.

New Officers.

W. R. C.

Lydia A. Cowan, Pres.
Mary Thomas, S. V. P.
Mary Campbell, J. V. P.
Mrs. Prosser, Treas.
Abigail Richards, Chaplain.
Anna Silver, Conductor.
Ida Metcalf, Guard.
Mary Shoemaker, Del. Dept. Conv.

G. A. R.

R. H. Weamer, Com.
H. H. Cupp, Sen. Vic. Com.
James May, Jun Vic. Com.
M. I. Wilcox, Chaplain.
A. P. Green, Quartermaster.
Joe Collers officer of Day.
Joe Stafford, Surgeon.
J. C. Prosser, Officer of Guard.
E. L. Mason, Adjutant.
Isaac Dimmick, Del to Convention

DR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary organs, Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you Imparts new life to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and makes a new man of you Mailed on receipt of price, $1.00 per box.

WILLIAMS M'F'G CO., Props. Cleveland, O. Sold by FISCHLER & SON Auburn. 1y30

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Marriage License.

Harry H. White to Lotta McCartney, C. B Dirrim to Mary Nichols, Benjamin P. Gering to Lydia Goldsmith, John Lung to Frances Young, Chas. W. Bateman to Jessie M. Grote.

Epilepsy 20 Years.

Cured by Dr. Miles' Nervine.

A few years ago, Mr. L. W. Gallaher, was an extensive, successful expert manufacturer of lumber products. Attacked with epilepsy, he was obliged to give up his business. The attacks came upon him most inopportunely. One time falling from a carriage, at another down stairs, and often in the street. Once he fell down a shaft in the mill, his injuries nearly proving fatal. Mr. Gallaher writes from Milwaukee, Feb. 16, '95.

"There are none more miserable than epileptics. For 20 years I suffered with epileptic fits, having as high as five in one night. I tried any number of physicians, paying to one alone, a fee of $500.00 and have done little for years but search for something to help me, and have taken all the leading remedies, but received no benefit. A year ago my son, Chas. S. Gallaher, druggist at 191 Reed St., Milwaukee, gave me Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, and I tried it with gratifying results. Have had but two fits since I began taking it. I am better now in every way than I have been in 20 years."

Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by druggists on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit or price refunded. Book on the Heart and Nerves, free. Address,

Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Dr. Miles' Remedies Restore Health.

EXPECTANT MOTHERS. We Offer You a REMEDY Which INSURES Safety of Life to Mother and Child.

"MOTHERS' FRIEND"

Robs Confinement of its Pain, Horror and Risk.

My wife used "MOTHERS' FRIEND" before birth of her first child, she did not suffer from CRAMPS or PAINS—was quickly relieved at the critical hour suffering but little—she had no pains afterward and her recovery was rapid.

E. E. JOHNSTON, Eufaula, Ala.

Sent by Mail or Express, on receipt of price, $1.00 per bottle. Book "To Mothers" mailed Free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

STEAM AND GASOLINE ENGINES

Portable and Marine

If you think of buying an engine of any size or kind send for our Catalogue No. 30 containing illustrations an prices of every kind of small engines up to 20 horse power, at bottom prices, or List No 29 for yacht engines, boilers and boat machinery. Either sent free.

CHAS. P. WILLARD CO.
197 So. Canal Street CHICAGO

ABSTRACTS OF TITLE

To all lands in DeKalb County, Indiana at reasonable rates. I have the only set of Abstract Books in the County Also Mortgages, Deeds and Notary Public Work of all kinds promptly attended to Inquire at Auditor or Surveyor's office, Auburn, or leave orders at Postoffice, Garrett.

J. P. Crimmins,
Abstractor and Notary Public

L. O. BUCHTEL,
Homœopathic
Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence. All calls attended to promptly night or day

Albert Robbins, Pres. J. C. Henry V. P

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock,—
—$45,000.00.

—UNDER STATE SUPERVISION.—

Transacts a general banking business Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention business solicited.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

The Sharp Cash Buyer

oftens turns homeward with empty arms, because the sharp buyer failed to visit the right store. Our immense stock, square cash dealing assures the sharpest, shrewdest cash buyers that ours is the right store We are live, up-to-date modern merchants.

100 Winter Styles, elegantly trimmed and untrimmed Ladies' Hats and Bonnets, ½ off. Now is the time to buy Millinery. Our stock contains much that is desirable Very low prices

50 Doz. Wool and Ice Wool Fascinators, 25c to $2.00.

25 Doz. Ladies Wool Skirts Warm and Durable.

200 Doz. Desirable Winter Underwear for men, Boys, Women and Children. Lowest prices.

150 Pr. Blankets, 50c to $5.00. Price our Cotton Blankets at 50c. All wool Factory Blanket $2.50

300 Cloaks and Capes, direct from Manufacturers. All cheap—some of them at 50c on the Dollar.

5,000 Yds. Canton Flannels, 5 to 10c yard; 2 to 3 cents a yard cheaper than any store in the County.

10,000 Yds. Dress Goods, representing the best Foreign and Domestic Manufacturers. All Wool from 25c to $1.50. per yard.

25 Doz New and Stylish Neckties for Men and Boys. The very cream of new ideas.

300 Doz. All Wool Hose for Women and Children. Cheaper than you could knit them if you had the yarn

You will find Muslin cheap at our store. It always is.

We bought before the rise in cotton.

Best Dress Prints any color, 5c yard.

Bishop & LacKey

Leading Merchants of DeKalb County.

We are

HEADQUARTERS

—FOR—

STOVES,

RANGES,

FURNACES,

COAL HODS,

STOVE BOARDS

MICA, ETC, ETC.

J BEURET.

LOST - MANHOOD - RESTORED!

—BY THE USE OF—

Dr. LagrOes Nerve and Brain Pills.

The Greatest Remedy Known in Mental Overwork.

Sextual Debility, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors and Lost Manhood Excessive Use of Tobacco all of which leads to insanity if not checked Sent by mail or express prepaid on receipt of $1 per box; 3 boxes $2.50; 6 boxes $5.00. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded

J. D. CAMPBELL, General Agent for Indiana, WATERLOO, INDIANA.

MONEY - TO - LOAN

On Real Estate Security,

In large or small ammounts at a low rate of Interest, long or short time. No Commission. Inquire at Farmers Bank.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

First National Bank

AUBURN, INDIANA

Capital and Surplus, $60,000.00

Certificate of deposits issued, drawing interest 4 per centum. Sight, and time deposits. County and town orders bought Money to loan

C. A. O. McCLELLAN, President
CHAS McCLELLAN, Cashier

DR. CASS

can be found at his Office Days [illegible] professionally engaged on hand.

Interesting Photo.

Dr. Carey has a photo of more than usual interest. It is a picture of a floral tribute used at the funeral of his uncle, who was an officer in the Boston Custom house for many years. The flowers are abundant and beautiful, and nicely arranged, with a borde rof lovely roses But the center of the design is the remarkable part. There is shown, the column of figures he was adding up when he suddenly dropped down and died. The first column was "9 and 5" making 14, and he had put down the 4, when he fell, and the incomplete sum was never finished But underneath this group of figures, the mourning friends had added the suggestive word "Finis," and with a representation of his pen, among the flowers above the figures, all very faithfully reproduced in the photo It is a sad memento, and a commentary on the [illegible] by a man [illegible] the Decorative [illegible]

Wednesday's Daily.

Pain has no show with Dr. Miles' Pain Pills

Violins Mandolins, Guitars, Banjos, Autoharps, etc. etc., at A. J. Rogers Music Store. 29tf

No excuse for sleepless nights when you can get One Minute Cough Cure. It will relieve all annoyances, cure the most severe cough and give you rest and health. Can you afford to do without it? Davenport, the Druggist.

The person who disturbed the congregation last Sunday by coughing is requested to call on Robbins & McCord and get a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar (50c), which always gives relief. 5x

Whitley county has just changed its county clerk, Mr. Magley retiring and Mr. Marring taking his place. The Post compliments both gentlemen although, they are of a party it does not support.

Coughing irritates the delicate organs and aggravates the disease. Instead of waiting, try One Minute Cough Cure. It helps at once making expectoration easy reduces the soreness and inflammation. Every one likes it Davenport, druggist.

Have the following makes of second and organs in stock that you can buy at your own price: 1 Kimball, 1 Mason & Hawlin, 1 Lyon and Healy, 1 Estey, 1 J. H. Clark, 2 Smith American, 1 Packard. A. J. Rogers, Auburn.

There is at present a movement on foot to secure two new factories for Auburn. They are factories that will employ from one to two hundred men each, and if we are successful Auburn will have a big boom Natural gas, more factories. Talk for Auburn

Herb D Weaver has moved his office into the north room over Hebel Bros grocery store, This is a good location and we hope Mr. Weaver may prosper He represents a good, reliable life insurance company. He will be pleased to have you call on him in his new quarters.

Joseph Stafford, received a lot of dried prunes, dried peaches, etc. this week from Ontario California, sent here by Perry Easley from their orchards out there They are very fine, the peaches are from trees set out, since Mr Stafford was out there, which was about eight years ago. The COURIER sends thanks for a nice lot of the same fruit.

The Columbia City Post gives our townsman, F. L. Welsheimer, a very sensible compliment, when in speaking of his recent appointment as deputy prosecutor, it adds: "Mr. Welshimer is a Whitley county man and we are pleased to see that he fully appreciates the importance of the office he has been appointed to fill.

Thursday's Daily.

Frank Metcalf is sick, having an attack of bilious fever.

City Clerk W. J. Martin, of Garrett, was in the city to day

Dr. Buchtel was called to St Joe on day and again to day to treat a patient.

A few sleds were in town to day but the snow is not deep enough for good sleighing till roads are smoothed down

Chas. Kinsey the clerk at Olds Bros store took sick at church last night and was not able to attend to business at the store to day.

Guarantee to furnish you with a piano or organ of any grade for less money than you can buy elsewhere. A. J. Rogers Music Dealer Auburn.

T. J. Cuppy writes from the south that he will send a box of holly and mistletoe for decorations at the Christmas bazar which the Presbyterian ladies will hold in the Gaudy Block, Dec. 19, 20 and 21.

Wife—Here's an account of a man who shot himself rather than suffer pain of indigestion. Husband—The fool! Why did'nt he taken DeWitt's little Early Risers? I used to suffer as bad as he did before I began taking these pills.

For sale at F. E. Davenport's

It will not be very long until the First annual exhibit of the Northeastern Indiana Poultry Association will be held in Auburn. The dates are Dec. 24 to 28 This exhibit will bring to our city poultry breeders from far and near. Let us give them a cordial welcome.

If suffering with piles, it will interest you to know that DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will cure them This medicine is a specific for all complaints of this character, and if instructions are carried out, a cure will result. We have tested this in numerous cases, and always with like results. It never fails. For sale at F. E Davenport's.

W. J Knight, the engineer who helped in the daring "Andrews Raid" to steal a locomotive from the rebels, is now lecturing through this state. Anyone who cares for the truth of history alone, will profit by hearing him, for his story is plain truth. But unfortunately there are many who care more for an eloquent lecture than for the facts. Mr. Knight is a poor talker but no one doubts his correctness, for he was one of the main actors in that wild rife.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev J Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich. we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Ries Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding lagrippe Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottle free at Robbins and McCord's drug store Regular size 50c. and $1 00.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

What stops Neuralgia? Dr. Miles' Pain Pills.

Friday's Daily.

Sam Hanna was at Fort Wayne to day.

Some hewed timber was hauled into town to-day, something we have not seen for some time.

Harry Stafford returned to Welker, O., to-day where he is employed as telegraph operator by the B. & O.

Mrs. W. L. Penfield went up to Angola to day to visit a friend, Mrs. John Kaler. She will return to-morrow.

One Minute Cough Cure is a popular remedy for croup. Safe for children & adults. Davenport, the Druggist.

Our merchants are getting out their holiday goods. There is no end to toys and etc., for the children.

Coldest this morning. A real still, sharp, winter morning, and the mercury down in the low marks trying to get acquainted with old zero.

In about three weeks we will be having the shortest days of the year. As the old saying is, "The days and nights will be as long as ever they were."

Piles of people have piles, but DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will cure them. when promptly applied it cures scalds and burns without the slightest pain Davenport, the Druggist.

J. A. Potter moved his shoe shop in the rooms over Schaab & Murphy's clothing store yesterday. They were formerly occupied by Greenman and Fuller for the manufacture of cigars.

Several thermometers showed zero this morning, but it is likely they were incorrect. The true standing was probably four or five degrees above, though one or two showed a degree or two below.

The Indianapolis Sentinel of Thursday, Dec 5, says: E. L. Silver, a prominent physician of Ft. Wayne and a grand officer of the state lodge, K of P, stopped at the Denison while attending to lodge business.

Congress is all at sea in regard to what ought to be done. In fact they are trying to see how they can get along without doing anything. They think a do nothing course would keep them safe politically. They are mistaken. Let them take warning by the last democratic congress.

The report of the U. S. treasury shows that receipts have been increasing slowly for some time as compared with the last two years, and that the monthly deficiency is getting smaller. So it is likely after all, that our present laws will secure a sufficient revenue to carry on the expenses of the government if economically administered. If they do this, that is all we have a right to ask.

The band fair and Presbyterian bazar both occur the same week, this fact may be the means of making a small patronage for both the band boys and the young ladies. There is no time before the holidays that the band fair could be given. The week commencing Dec 24th, is the time for the Poultry show. The band boys' note on their instruments comes due Jan. 1, '96. So they have to raise the money before that time. We hope both may have a good patronage.

This issue of the COURIER comes to you greatly enlarged. Instead of an eight page paper it is a sixteen. It contains the advertisements of our leading merchants. If you want to buy holiday or any kind of goods you can not afford to glance over these advertisements carelessly. You save money every time you read over an advertisement.

Saturday's Daily.

Court begins again here one week from Monday, Dec. 16.

Will Hull and wife are the happy parents of a big girl.

Miss Nettie Ernest and Miss Buckley, went up to Steubenville to-day.

John Baxter returned to-day from Angola where he has been attending court.

The ladies should remember that engraved calling card are the latest style now. Get them at the COURIER office.

Harry Hallam is in town for a visit. He is now with W. B. Campbell working on the Anderson Herald Harry is evidently making a success of the printer's trade.

Brown, Culbertson and Boland have the best rat trap we have ever heard of. From one to six were caught in a night Persons who are bothered with rats should investigate this trap.

F. E. Davenport has added an arc electric light in front of his store. This lights up the front of the store in fine shape and gives people a good chance to see the Christmas toys from outside.

Auburn is to have one of the new electric carriages, we are told. W. H McIntyre, on his late trip to attend the Motocyle races at Chicago, purchased one of them, or is to have one at an early date Auburn has all the modern improvements.

The COURIER is rushed so with work that the employes are compelled to work till midnight, in order to keep up. Business men know the worth of the COURIER DAILY and WEEKLY as an advertising medium and are demanding so much space that we are compelled to add several pages.

We publish the decision in the Pulaski county ditch bond case this issue. If the supreme court does not get hold of it and reverse the decision, it will render a great many ditch bonds worthless. We do not know whether it will be appealed to the supreme court or not.

Allen county papers are discussing several candidates for congress, We have received copies of their papers that especially favor Hon. J. M Robinson, who is a candidate. Perry Randall is also in the race, and both are good men. The COURIER does not think we ought to open the campaign quite yet. A good man may be utterly killed off by booming him too early. Go slow boys.

SPINAL weakness easily cured by Dr. Miles' Nervo Plasters

Monday's Daily.

[illegible] Pills are guaranteed to stop [illegible] minutes. "One cent a dose"

Geo. Morell of Waterloo is in town to-day.

Time well spent in calling to see the White gate.

New things in celluloid goods, elegant and cheap at Davenport's.

Miss Bell Howey died at her home in Gas town yesterday forenoon.

Jamocha Blend excels all high grade Coffees. Try a package.

Select your presents for Sueday school classes early. Special prices at Davenport's.

NOTICE:—Property Insured in best companies at very lowest rates. Walter O. Hartman. d&w

Jamocha Blend and Ambrosia Coffees are the best goods for the money.

The Latest corduroy vests. See them in our window Schaab & Bro.

Will Carleton's new book "Rhymes of Our Planet" just received at Davenport's.

Ask your grocer for Ambrosia Coffee if you want the best goods on the market for twenty-five cents per pound.

Mrs. J. W Shaffer died yesterday afternoon Dec. 8 after a long, wearing and painful sickness.

Bills were printed at this office for the Trumpet Note Band Fair this morning.

Our line of books for the holidays is very complete. Call and look them over at Davenport's.

Mell Bishop of St. Joe was in the city a few hours this morning. He was on his way to Ft. Wayne.

Will allow you more for your old piano or organ in exchange for a new one than any other dealer, at A. J. Rogers' Auburn.

John Picker and Holly Lawrence returned Saturday evening from Adrain, Mich. They have completed their job.

McDonald & Watt's brands of Coffee—Jamocha Blend and Ambrosia—are simply excellent. Ask your grocer for them.

The Laporte Argus says: F. P. Blair and family were called to Wawaka, Ind, Monday by the dangerous illness of Mrs. Blair's father.

Trustees, Jackman of Franklin and Kelham of Keyser were in town to-day. They probably wanted to hear the big gravel road case.

T. J. Cuppy is home from the south for a short stay at home. It is a little chilly here for him, as he left a climate where they had not yet had any cold weather.

A. B Walsworth drove a lot of fine steers through town Saturday. He had bought them for fattening and was taking them home for that purpose.

C. O. Myers, well known at Kendallville, died at Orlando, Florida recently. He was the founder of the Standard, that is still published there, and was its editor and publisher for many years.

J. E. Beaty who for the past eight years, up to a few months ago was engineer at the A. B. Nickey & Sons sawmill, accepted a similar position with the Auburn Mfg. Co. this morning.

WOOD WANTED: We now call the attention of all who were to bring in wood on their subscription accounts, that we are ready for it or any part of it. It would be well to get it here before bad roads overtake us.

Solomon Reinoehl, of Fairfield, was here to-day. His son, who is learning telegraphing here, had visited the old home over Sunday, and Mr. R. brought him back today.

The new building of McDowell and Carter, southeast of the public square, has the frame work up for the second story. It is a large building and will greatly change the appearance of those hitherto vacant lots.

One Minute Cough Cure is rightly named. It affords instant relief from suffering when afflicted with a severe cough or cold. It acts on the throat, bronchial tubes, and lungs and never fails to give immediate relief. F. E Davenport.

Two Little Pilgrims Progress by Mrs. Burnett, is the finest juvenile published this year. Mrs. Margaret E Sangste says: "It is a story to be marked with a white stone; a strong, sweet, true book, a touching the high-water mark of excellence." For sale at Davenport's drug store.

We are sorry to learn of the death of Daniel Altenburg, of Ithaca, Mich. He died from cancer of the stomach one week ago yesterday and was buried last Wednesday. He was an uncle of Mrs John Zimmerman and formerly a resident of Auburn.

Do not be deceived by the misleading advertisements of the snide eastern wooll be manufacturers who claim to sell you a $125 organ for $25, or in other words to give you gold dollars for 20c. If you insist on having that class of goods, we can get them for you for less money than you can buy them. A. J. Rogers Music Dealer Auburn. 49tf

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box For sale by Robbins McCord. tf

The trial of James Cunningham accused of the murder of the old postmaster at Dunfee in Whitley county is now going on at Columbia City. The trial so far has proved quite sensational, but as the evidence is all circumsantial so far, there is no predicting whether he will be convicted or not, Besides, it is plain that other persons were implicated in the same crime.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Tuesday's Daily.

Read Dr Rudolph California letter.

Pianos and organs at A. J. Rogers music store for sale at low prices and on easy terms. 29t

R. Shull, and Olde Bros are decorating their show windows and the interior for holidays.

If you are suffering from Catarrh or any disease of the nose, throat or lungs, Dr. Nusbaum's specific treatment will cure you. W. H. Nusbaum, M. D. 48tf

The President's message in is in this week's COURIER and should be carefully read, as so many questions of vital interest are discussed.

Do not pay $100 for the antiquity of a name. This is a progressive age. Buy a Kimball piano or organ and keep pace with the times. For sale by A. J. Rogers Auburn Ind.

Mrs. John Kaler, of Bucyrus, O., is here to guest of her old neighbor Mrs W L. Penfield. She has been in Angola a few days and and came down from there this morning.

Why go to Chicago or Fort Wayne to buy a piano or organ? You certainly can buy for less money right here in Auburn. That fact is demonstrated right along to customers who have investigated prices. A. J. Rogers, Music Dealer Auburn.

The COURIER is in receipt of another lot of those beautiful shells from the sea shore. They were sent by Mrs. F A. Warner, of Jacksonville Florida. She will send them to any address for two or three two cent stamps.

Dr. Baxter, who was here this summer expects soon to locate in Auburn. His present home is in the south part of this state.

The funeral of Mrs. J W. Shaffer will be at the M. E. church to-morrow at 2 p. m. and interment in Woodlawn.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness, indigestion, constipation. A small pill, a prompt cure. For sale at F. E. Davenport's

A daughter of Ex-Thurman now a resident of Colorado has discovered a rich gold mine. Her husband is a miner, and was once a famous ball player, Holliday of the Cincinnati club.

Seventh street again has done herself proud. The nicest, 10 lb. little boy became a resident thereof at 4 o'clock this morning and Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Yeoberg are the happiest people on that popular street.

CHAS. P. WILLARD & Co., 197 Canal St., Chicago, make and handle everything in the way of small steam launches and yachts and boilers, engines and machinery for same. Catalogue sent free.

We, the undersigned, have employed Mrs. Uravens and found her fitting and sewing satisfactory in every respect. Rooms west of Presbyterian church. Mrs. Dr. Nusbaum, Mrs. J. W. Baxter.

Mr. and Mrs. Michener of Concord are the happy parents of a pair of strong, healthy twins, a boy and girl, born to them last Thursday

If you need an engine of any kind steam, gasoline, kerosene oil, send for. free illustrated circular to CHAS. P. WILLARD & Co., 197 Canal St., Chicago

We publish to-day for the benefit of our readers all over the county, a series of articles on the proposed "centennial" for Indiana, July 4, 1900, only four years from next July, will probably be the date, as that marks the organization of Indiana as a territory.

Mrs. Carrie Cullers reached here last night from her home at Sycamore, Ill., being called here by the death of her mother, Mrs. Shaffer, The brothers, Orrie, in Washington state, and Will, in Utah, will not be able to reach here in time and so, we suppose will not attempt to come, Mrs. Blum and the other daughter, Bertha are here.

County orders seem to be the best property going. Everyone who got an allowance was interviewed at once and repeatedly, by men who had money they wanted to invest in orders. Bro. Campbell should be here to make another attempt to discredit county orders, an effort in which he was ably seconded by Bro. Willis.

If reports are true, they have some mighty big hogs over in Allen county near Collingwood. Sherman Dickinson killed one the other day that weighed 400, four men could not kill it and they had to get a fifth man to shoot it. Mike Hensinger has one that weighs over 400 and Gust Kistler just killed one that weighed 475.

On Saturday night Nov. 30th about eighty of the friends and neighbors of Jerry Davis of south Jackson township, came in and gave him a grand surprise. Mr. Davis and a neighbor John Houston had been to Garrett and of course Mr Houston was not anxious to get home veey early, as he knew the crowd was coming. After several hours had been spent in different kinds of amusement the company were invited to the dining room where an elaborate supper was served. This consisted of roast turkey roast chicken, pie, cake and other delicacies that the arm wife can prepare.

Awarded

Highest Honors—World's Fair,

DR.

PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

GOOD FOR EVERYBODY

Almost everybody takes some laxative medicine to cleanse the system and keep the blood pure. Those who take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR (liquid or powder) get all the benefits of a mild and pleasant laxative and tonic that purifies the blood and strengthens the whole system. And more than this: SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR regulates the Liver; keeps it active and healthy, and when the Liver is in good condition you find yourself free from Malaria, Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick-Headache and Constipation, and rid of that worn out and debilitated feeling. These are all caused by a sluggish Liver. Good digestion and freedom from stomach troubles will only be had when the liver is properly at work. If troubled with any of these complaints, try SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR. The King of Liver Medicines, and Better than Pills.

EVERY PACKAGE

Has the Z Stamp in red on wrapper.

J. H. Zeilin & Co., Phila., Pa.

Heavy Advertising

Never before has a paper in DeKalb county sent out as many, and as large advertisements as are sent out this week and next in the DAILY and WEEKLY COURIER. Never before have any business men in DeKalb county done such extensive advertising or taken such large spaces. We call attention to the following.

FULL PAGE ADS.

Robbins & McCord, Brown Culbertson & Boland, Rant & Co., the Globe Clothing and Shoe Co, and the American Tobacco Co., each have a full page advertisement.

HALF PAGE ADS.

Schaab & Bro, D. A. Hodge, M Jones, & Son, and Harry Trentman have half page advertisements.

OTHER ADS.

The N. E. Ind., Poultry Association, Walter C. Hartman, Hebel Bros., H. D. Weaver, E. M Bishop and Ed Baker, have a liberal space. All these are regular advertisers but at present have enlarged the space used. It shows business enterprise and snap, and shows their patrons, that such men are desirable men to deal with. Reading advertisements may not be as exciting as some other reading, but it will always be of profit to the purchaser to see where he can get the best bargains for his money. It might be well to add, that these big advertisements take a mammoth edition of the COURIER. But we wish to call attention to the fact that our readers are not therefore neglected for we provide a larger amount of reading than is possible in the regular edition.

HOMESEEKER'S EXCURSION.

Via the Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

On December 17 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell Excursion Tickets to points in Virginia on the Harper's Ferry & Valley Branch, south of and including Winchester, at rate of one fare for the round trip, plus $2.00. Tickets will be good for return 30 days from date of sale.

For full information call or address any B. & O. Ticket Agent, S. P. Kretzer, Land and Immigration Agent, Philadelphia, Pa., or L. S Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Chicago, Ill.

ARION, 2:07¾.

Palo Alto, 2:08¾, Sunol 2:08¼, all all world's records at the time, were teamed and driven by a man who is one of the greatest horseman that ever lived. This same man wrote the following:

I gave the Spohn Distemper and Cough Cure a thorough trial in the severest cases, and believe it is the best remedy for distemper, pink eye, epizootic, and other throat diseases I have yet seen It is a preventive. I recommend all horsemen to use it. Yours Truly,

CHAS. MARVIN.

Only $50c a bottle. Sold by Katzaer & Myers, Agts. Auburn.

A Friend's Advice.

William Windecknecht, a wealthy farmer of Muskegon county, personally appeared before me, a Notary Public, this day and deposes and says: That for the past year or so, he was afflicted with Weakness Trembling, Heart Failure, Extreme Nervousness, Headache and General Debility; that he has consulted with physicians and received no benefit. He was persuaded by a friend to try a sample bottle of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer, and he says that the Trembling and Nervous feeling was immediately stopped by it use. Afterwards he used two bottles of the same medicine and says he is entirely cured and free from that Trembling sensation; his heart gives him no trouble and he sleeps well. He further says, his general health is much better, and that he is calling the attention of his neighbors and friends to the remarkable value of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer."

Signed, W. Windecknecht. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Republican party has held ten national conventions on these dates, 1856, 1860, 1864, 1868, 1872, 1876, 1880, 1884, 1888, 1892. Two were held in May and the rest in June, the last one being the latest in point of date, was held June 19.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

A NATION'S AFFAIRS

President Cleveland's Message to Congress.

HIS CURRENCY PLAN.

Would Issue Bonds and Retire Greenbacks.

Only Way to Break the "Endless Chain" Strongly Favors the Gold Standard, but Advocates Silver and Silver Certificates for Domestic Exchange—Parity Must Be Preserved, and Temptation to Speculation Removed—Would Reduce Tax on National Bank Circulation — Foreign Relations Reviewed.

President Cleveland's message to the Fifty-fourth Congress was not transmitted until Tuesday forenoon, when it was read before both House and Senate. It was of great length, over 20,000 words; it dealt exhaustively with all questions which have arisen during the past year, and also with those of current interest.

The message opens with a reference to the importance of our foreign relations and the exigencies of the national finances at this time and the consequent determination of the President to confine his message to the subjects.

The first subject of importance touched upon is the disordered condition of affairs in China following upon the close of the war with Japan, the consequent weakening of the central authority of the government and the serious outbreaks of the old fanatical spirit against foreigners is discussed. The demands of the United States and other powers for the punishment of the aggressors and the compliance of the Chinese Government are related, as is the demand of the United States for a special commission to investigate the disturbances where they were first brought out.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND.

"The energetic steps we have thus taken," says the President, "are all the more likely to result in future safety to our citizens in China, because the imperial government is, I am persuaded, entirely convinced that we desire only the liberty and protection of our own citizens and redress for any wrongs that they may have suffered, and that we have no ulterior designs or objects, political or otherwise."

Of the Waller incident the message says: "The customary cordial relations between this country and France have been undisturbed with the exception that a full explanation of the treatment of Jean L. Waller by the expeditionary military authorities of France still remains to be given."

"The official record of the trial has been furnished this government," says the message, "but the evidence adduced in support of the charges—which was not received by the French minister for foreign affairs till the first week in October—has thus far been withheld, the French Government taking the ground that its production in response to our demand would establish a bad precedent. The efforts of our ambassador to procure it, however, though retarded by recent changes in the French ministry, have not been relaxed, and it is confidently expected that some satisfactory solution of the matter will shortly be reached. Meanwhile, it appears that Mr. Waller's confinement has every alleviation which the state of his health and all the other circumstances of the case demand or permit."

The President points out as a pleasant contrast the conclusion of a permanent treaty of arbitration between the two countries, and recommends the acceptance of the invitation to take part in the Paris exposition of 1900.

Our relations with Germany, he says, are influenced by the "delusive doctrine that the internal development of a nation is promoted and its wealth increased by a policy which is undertaking to reserve its home markets for the exclusive use of its own producers, necessarily obstructs their sales in foreign markets, and prevents free access to the products of the world. The desire to retain trade in time-worn ruts, regardless of the inexorable laws of new needs and changed conditions of demand and supply, and our own halting tardiness to inviting a freer exchange of commodities and by this means imperiling our footing to the external markets naturally open to us, have created a situation somewhat injurious to American import interests, not only in Germany, where they are perhaps most noticeable, but in adjacent countries."

The effect of this, particularly on food products and also on our insurance companies, is pointed out. The necessity for open-handed fairness in dealing with other nations is stated, but it is argued that if necessary to provide restrictions similar to those from which we suffer in order to guard against unfair discrimination, the way to such a course is easy, but should not be lightly entered upon.

The vexatious points of the Bering sea question are referred to and the failure of the arbitration tribunal to provide a means of settlement are pointed out. The insufficiency of the British patrol of Bering Sea and the necessity for a more effective enforcement of regulations have, it is said, been pointed out to the British Government, if it is hoped to save the seals from extinction. Of the proposal to pay $125,000 to Great Britain in settlement of British claims for damages, which was refused by the last Congress, the President recommends that it can again be considered and sanctioned. If this is refused we are bound by every consideration of honor and good faith, he says, to provide for a speedy settlement by arbitration. A treaty of arbitration is, accordingly, to be laid before the Senate. An appropriation for the completion of the Alaska boundary survey, which follows the contour of the coast is earnestly recommended. The importance of an international agreement as to the line of the 141st meridian, which forms the rest of the boundary, is dwelt upon. Attention is also called to the unsatisfactory condition of the boundaries with Canada in the great lakes and the necessity for a joint commission on the subject.

The Venezuela Controversy.

Of Venezuela the message simply states that a statement of the interest and policy of the United States regarding the boundary dispute was sent to Great Britain in July last.

"The general conclusions therein reached and formulated," says the President, "are in substance that the traditional and established policy of the Government is firmly opposed to forcible increase by any European power of its territorial possessions on this continent; that this policy is as well founded in principle as it is strongly supported by numerous precedents; that as a consequence the United States is bound to protest against the enlargement of the area of British Guiana in derogation of the rights and against the will of Venezuela; that, considering the disparity in strength of Great Britain and Venezuela, the territorial dispute between them can be reasonably settled only by friendly and impartial arbitration, and that the resort to such arbitration should include the whole controversy, and it is not satisfied if one of the powers concerned be permitted to draw an arbitrary line through the territory in debate and declare that it will submit to arbitration only the portion lying on one side of it. In view of these conclusions, the dispatch in question called upon the British Government for a definite answer to the question whether it would or would not submit the territorial controversy between itself and Venezuela in its entirety to impartial arbitration. The answer of the British Government has not been received, but is expected shortly, when further communication on the subject will probably be made to the Congress.

Hawaii is dismissed with a reference to the uprising last January, the demands made upon the Hawaiian Government for the rights of American citizens concerned therein, and the demand for the recall of Minister Thurston.

The padrone system is denounced as responsible for such manifestations against helpless aliens as the lynching of Italians in Colorado. Congratulations are offered on our good relations with Japan, in view of her vast gains in greatness. Unimportant references are made to our relations with Mexico, Nicaragua and Russia. The recommendation for an abandonment of the Samoan agreement is renewed.

Of Cuba the President says the United States must preserve international faith, whatever the sympathy of our citizens with the insurgents. He continues:

"Though neither the warmth of our people's sympathy with the Cuban insurgents nor our loss or material damage consequent upon the futile endeavors thus far made to restore peace and order, nor any shock our humane sensibilities may have received from the cruelties which appear to especially characterize this sanguinary and fiercely conducted war, have in the least shaken the determination of the Government to honestly fulfill every international obligation, yet it is to be earnestly hoped on every ground that the devastation of armed conflict may speedily be stayed and order and quiet restored to the distracted island, bringing in their train the activity and thrift of peaceful pursuits."

The Allianca incident and Spain's disavowal of it and assurances of a non-recurrence of similar interferences are stated.

The President then expresses his regret that the Turkish Government should have thwarted the purpose to send to the disturbed quarter of the empire the United States consul at Sivas in order to investigate and report. Every effort, he says, is put forth to insure the safety of American citizens and the United States minister is alert. But, he goes on, several of the most powerful European powers have assumed a duty as agents of the Christian world in Turkey to restrain fanatical brutality, and "it is earnestly hoped that prompt and effective action on their part will not be delayed."

The message recommends at length an improvement in the consular service by some plan of appointment and control.

Delicate Financial Situation.

Fully half the message is devoted to a discussion of the financial situation.

"By command of the people," the message says, "a customs revenue system designed for the protection and benefit of favored classes at the expense of the great mass of our countrymen, and which, while inefficient for the purpose of revenue, curtailed our trade relations and impeded our entrance to the markets of the world, has been superseded by a tariff policy which in principle is based upon a denial of the right of the government to obstruct the avenues to our people's cheap living or lessen their comfort and contentment, for the sake of according especial advantages to favorites, and which, while encouraging our intercourse and trade with other nations, recognizes the fact that American self-reliance, thrift and ingenuity can build up our country's industry and develop its resources more surely than enervating paternalism."

But this and the repeal of the silver-purchase law, it is said, fall far short of curing the financial evils from which we suffer.

A lengthy review follows of the growth of our currency, especially the United States notes and treasury notes, and the consequent endless drain on the gold reserve of the treasury.

The President states that "among the causes for this constant and uniform shrinkage in this fund may be mentioned the great falling off of exports under the operation of the tariff law until recently in force, which crippled our exchange of commodities with foreign nations and necessitated to some extent the payment of our balances in gold; the unnatural infusion of silver into our currency, and the increasing agitation for its free and unlimited coinage, which have created apprehension as to our disposition or ability to continue gold payments; the consequent hoarding of gold at home and the stoppage of investments of foreign capital as well as the return of our securities already sold abroad, and the high rate of foreign exchange, which induced the shipment of our gold to be drawn against as a matter of speculation."

Dealings with Bond Syndicate.

The history of the various bond transactions which have been resorted to in order to replenish the gold reserve is reviewed and the constant subsequent fallings off pointed out. Of the last transaction with the syndicate the President says: "The performance of this contract not only restored the reserve, but checked for a time the withdrawals of gold and brought on a period of restored confidence and such peace and quiet in business circles as were of the greatest possible value to every interest that affects our people. I have never had the slightest misgiving concerning the wisdom or propriety of this arrangement, and am quite willing to answer for my full share of responsibility for its promotion. I believe it averted a disaster, the imminence of which was fortunately not at the time generally understood by our people."

We are now, the President says, nearly where we started and nearly all of the gold withdrawn has been paid out on United States notes, which still remain uncanceled. Therefore, he says, "I am convinced the only thorough and practicable remedy for our troubles is found in the retirement and cancellation of our United States notes, commonly called greenbacks, and the outstanding treasury notes issued by the government in payment of silver purchases under the act of 1890."

I believe this could be quite readily accomplished by the exchange of these notes for United States bonds of small as well as large denominations, bearing a low rate of interest. They should be long-term bonds, thus increasing their desirability as investments, and because their payment could be well postponed to a period far removed from present financial burdens and perplexities, when, with increased prosperity and resources, they would be more easily met.

To further insure the cancellation of these notes and also provide a way by which gold may be added to our currency in lieu of them, a feature in the plan should be an authority given to the Secretary of the Treasury to dispose of the bonds abroad for gold if necessary to complete the contemplated redemption and cancellation, permitting him to use the proceeds of such bonds to take up and cancel any of the notes that may be in the treasury or that may be received by the Government on any account.

The increase of our bonded debt involved would be amply compensated by renewed activity in all business circles, restored confidence at home, reinstated faith in our monetary strength abroad and stimulation of every interest and industry that would follow the cancellation of the gold-demand obligations. In any event, the bonds proposed would stand for the extinguishment of a troublesome indebtedness, while in the path we now follow there lurks the menace of unending bonds, with our indebtedness still undischarged and aggravated in every feature. The obligations necessary to fund this indebtedness would not equal in amount those from which we have been relieved since 1884 by anticipation and payment beyond the requirements of the sinking fund out of our surplus revenue.

The currency withdrawn by the retirement of the United States notes and treasury notes, amounting to probably less than $486,000,000 might be supplied by such gold as would be used in their retirement or by an increase in the circulation of our national banks. Though the aggregate capital of those now in existence amounts to more than $664,000,000, their outstanding circulation, based on bond security, amounts to only about $190,000,000. They are authorized to issue notes amounting to 90 per cent of the bonds deposited to secure their circulation, but in no event beyond the amount of their capital stock, and they are obliged to pay 1 per cent tax on the circulation they issue.

I think they should be allowed to issue circulation equal to the par value of the bonds they deposit to secure it, and that the tax on their circulation should be reduced one-fourth of 1 per cent., which would meet all the expense Government incurs on their account. In addition they should be allowed to substitute or deposit, in lieu of the bonds now required as security for their circulation, those which would be issued for the purpose of retiring the United States notes and treasury notes.

"The banks already existing, if they desired, could issue circulation in addition to that already outstanding, amounting to $478,000,000, which would nearly or quite equal the currency proposed to be cancelled. At any rate, I should confidently expect to see the existing national banks, or others to be organized, avail themselves of the proposed encouragements to issue circulation, and promptly fill any vacuum and supply every currency need.

It has always seemed to me that the provisions of law regarding the capital of national banks which operate as a limitation to their location fail to make proper compensation for the suppression of State banks, which came near to the people in all sections of the country and readily furnished them with banking accommodations and facilities. Any inconvenience or embarrassment arising from these restrictions on the location of national banks might well be remedied by better adapting the present system to the creation of banks in smaller communities or by permitting banks of large capital to establish branches in such localities as would serve the people—so regulated and restrained as to secure their safe and conservative control and management.

But there might not be the necessity for such an addition to the currency by new issues of bank circulation as at first glance is indicated. If we should be relieved from maintaining a gold reserve under conditions that constitute it the barometer of our solvency, and if our treasury should no longer be the foolish purveyor of gold for nations abroad, or for speculation and hoarding by our citizens at home, I should expect to see gold resume its natural and normal functions in the business affairs of the country and cease to be an object attracting the timid watch of our people and exciting their sensitive imaginations.

Silver Coinage.

I do not overlook the fact that the cancellation of the treasury notes issued under the silver-purchasing act of 1890 would leave the treasury in the actual ownership of sufficient silver, including seigniorage, to coin nearly $178,000,000 standard dollars. It is worthy of consideration whether this might not, from time to time, be converted into dollars or fractional coin and slowly put into circulation, as in the judgment of the Secretary of the Treasury the necessities of the country should require.

Whatever is attempted should be entered upon fully appreciating the fact that by careless, easy descent we have reached a dangerous depth; our ascent will not be accomplished without laborious toil and struggle. We shall be wise if we realize that we are financially ill and that our restoration to health may require heroic treatment and unpleasant remedies.

In the present stage of our difficulty it is not easy to understand how the amount of our revenue receipts directly affects it. The important question is not the quantity of money received in revenue payments, but the kind of money we maintain and our ability to continue in sound financial condition. We are considering the Government's holdings of gold as related to the soundness of our money and as affecting our national credit and monetary strength. If the gold reserve had never been impaired; if no bonds had been issued to replenish it; if there had been no question concerning our ability to continue gold payments; if our revenues were now paid in gold, and if we could look to our gold receipts as a means of maintaining a safe reserve, the amount of our revenues would be an influential factor in the problem. But unfortunately all the circumstances that might lend weight to this consideration are entirely lacking.

No Gold from Revenues.

In our present predicament no gold is received in payment of revenue charges, nor would there be if the revenues were increased. The receipts of the treasury, when not in silver certificates, consist of United States notes and treasury notes issued for silver purchases. These forms of money are only useful to the Government in paying its current, ordinary expenses, and its quantity in Government possession does not in the least contribute toward giving us that kind of safe financial standing or condition which is built on gold alone.

If it is said that these notes, if held by the Government, can be used to obtain gold for our reserve, the answer is easy. The people draw gold from the treasury on demand upon United States notes and treasury notes, but the proposition that the treasury can on demand draw gold from the people upon them would be regarded in these days with wonder and amusement. And even if this could be done, there is nothing to prevent those thus parting with their gold from regaining it the next day or the next hour by the presentation of the notes they received in exchange for it. The secretary of the treasury might use such not taken from a surplus revenue to buy gold in the market. Of course he could do this without paying a premium. Private holders of gold, and, unlike the Government, having no parity to maintain, would not be restrained from making the best bargain possible when they furnished gold to the treasury; but the moment the secretary of the treasury bought gold on any terms above par he would establish a general and universal premium upon it, thus breaking down the parity between gold and silver which the Government is pledged to maintain, and opening the way to new and serious complications. Meantime the premium would not remain stationary, and the absurd spectacle might be presented of a dealer selling gold to the Government, and with United States or treasury notes in hand immediately clamoring for his return and a resale at a higher premium.

It may be claimed that a large revenue and redundant receipts might favorably affect the situation under discussion by affording an opportunity of retaining these notes in the treasury when received, and thus preventing their presentation for gold. Such retention, to be useful, ought to be at least measurably permanent; and this is precisely what is prohibited, so far as United States notes are concerned, by the law of 1878 forbidding their further retirement. That statute, in so many words, provides that these notes, when received into the treasury and belonging to the United States, shall be "paid out again and kept in circulation." It will, moreover, be readily seen that the Government could not refuse to pay out United States notes and treasury notes in current transactions when demanded, and insist on paying out silver alone and still maintain the parity between that metal and the currency representing gold. Besides, the accumulation in the treasury of currency of any kind exacted from the people through taxation is justly regarded as an evil and it cannot proceed far without vigorous protest against an unjustifiable retention of money from the business of the country and a denunciation of a scheme of taxation which proves itself to be unjust when it takes from the earnings and income of the citizens money so much in excess of the needs of government support that large sums can be gathered and kept in the treasury. Such a condition has heretofore, in times of surplus revenue, led the Government to restore currency to the people by the purchase of its unmatured bonds at a large premium and by a large increase of its deposits in national banks, and we easily remember that the abuse of treasury accumulation has furnished almost persuasive argument in favor of legislation radically reducing our tariff taxation.

Perhaps it is suppsed that sufficient revenue receipts would in a sentimental way improve the situation, by inspiring confidence in our solvency and allaying the fear of pecuniary exhaustion. And yet, through all our struggles to maintain our gold reserve, there never has been any apprehension as to our ready ability to pay our way with such money as we had; and the question whether or not our current receipts met our current expenses has not entered into the estimate of our solvency. Of course, the general state of our funds, exclusive of gold, was entirely immaterial to the foreign creditor and investor. His debt could only be paid in gold, and his only concern was our ability to keep on hand that kind of money.

On July 1, 1892, more than a year and a half before the first bonds were issued to replenish the gold reserve, there was a net balance in the treasury, exclusive of such reserve, of less than $12,000,000; but the gold reserve amounted to more than $114,000,000, which was the quieting feature of the situation. It was when the stock of gold began rapidly to fall that fright supervened and our securities held abroad were returned for sale and debts owed abroad were pressed for payment. In the meantime, extensive shipments of gold and other unfavorable indications caused restlessness and fright among our people at home. Thereupon the general state of our funds, exclusive of gold, became also immaterial to them, and they, too, drew gold from the treasury for hoarding against all contingencies. This is plainly shown by the large increase in the proportion of gold withdrawn which was retained by our own people as time and threatening incidents progressed. During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894, nearly $85,000,000 in gold was withdrawn from the treasury and about $77,000,000 was sent abroad, while during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1895, over $117,000,000 was drawn out, of which only about $66,000,000 was shipped, leaving the large balance of such withdrawals to be accounted for by domestic hoarding.

Increased Revenues No Remedy.

Inasmuch as the withdrawal of our gold has resulted largely from fright, there is nothing apparent that will prevent its continuance or recurrence with its natural consequences, except such a change in our financial methods as will reassure the frightened and make the desire for gold less intense. It is not clear how an increase in revenue, unless it be in gold, can satisfy those whose only anxiety is to gain gold from the Government's store. It cannot, therefore, be safe to rely upon increased revenues as a cure for our present troubles.

It is possible that the suggestion of increased revenue as a remedy for the difficulties we are considering may have originated in an intimation or distinct allegation that the bonds which have been issued ostensibly to replenish our gold reserve were really issued to supply insufficient revenue. Nothing can be further from the truth. Bonds were issued to obtain gold for the maintenance of our national credit. As has been shown the gold thus obtained has been drawn again from the treasury upon United States notes and treasury notes. This operation would have been promptly prevented, if possible, but these notes having thus been passed to the treasury they became the money of the Government, like any other ordinary Government funds, and there was nothing to do but to use them in paying Government expenses when needed.

At no time when bonds have been issued has there been any consideration of the question of paying the expenses of Government with their proceeds. At the time of each bond issue we had a safe surplus in the treasury for ordinary operations, exclusive of the gold in our reserve. In February, 1894, when the first issue of bonds was made, such surplus amounted to over $18,000,000; in November, when the second issue was made, it amounted to more than $42,000,000, and in February, 1895, when bonds for the third time were issued, such surplus amounted to $98,072,420.30. Besides all this, the Secretary of the Treasury had no authority whatever to issue bonds to increase the ordinary revenues or pay current expenses.

I cannot but think there has been some confusion of ideas regarding the effects of the issue of bonds and the results of the withdrawal of gold. It was the latter process and not the former that by substituting in the treasury United States notes and treasury notes for gold increased by their amount the money which was in the first instance subject to ordinary government expenditure. Although the law compelling an increased purchase of silver by the Government was passed on the 14th day of July, 1890, withdrawals of gold from the treasury upon the notes given in payment on such purchases did not begin until October, 1891. Immediately following that date the withdrawals upon both these notes and United States notes increased very largely, and have continued to such an extent that since the passage of that law there has been more than thirteen times as much gold taken out of the treasury upon United States notes and treasury notes issued for silver purchases as was thus withdrawn during the eleven and a half years immediately prior thereto and after the first day of January, 1879, when specie payments were resumed.

It is neither unfair nor unjust to charge a large share of our present financial perplexities and dangers to the operation of the laws of 1878 and 1890 compelling the purchase of silver by the Government, which not only furnishes a new treasury obligation upon which its gold could be withdrawn, but so increased the fear of an overwhelming flood of silver and a forced descent to silver payments that even the repeal of these laws did not entirely cure the evils of their existence.

Free Silver Coinage.

While I was endeavoring to make a plain statement of the disordered condition of our currency and the present dangers menacing our prosperity and to suggest a way which leads to a safer financial system, I have constantly had in mind the fact that many of my countrymen, whose sincerity I do not doubt, insist that the cure for the ills now threatening us may be found in the single and simple remedy of the free coinage of silver. They contend that our mints shall be at once thrown open to the free, unlimited and independent coinage of both gold and silver dollars, of full legal tender quality, regardless of the action of any other Government and in full view of the fact that the ratio between the metals which they suggest calls for 100 cents' worth of gold in the gold dollar at the present standard, and only 50 cents in intrinsic worth of silver in the silver dollar.

Were there infinitely stronger reasons than can be adduced for hoping that such action would secure for us a bimetallic currency moving on lines of parity, an experiment so novel and hazardous as that proposed might well stagger those who believe that stability is an imperative condition of sound money. No government, no human contrivance or act of legislation has ever been able to hold the two metals together in free coinage at a ratio appreciably different from that which is established in the markets of the world. Those who believe that our independent free coinage of silver at an artificial ratio with gold of 16 to 1 would restore the parity between the metals, and consequently between the coins, oppose an unsupported and improbable theory to the general belief and practice of other nations, and to the teachings of the wisest statesmen and economists of the world, both in the past and present, and, what is far more conclusive, they run counter to their own actual experiences.

Twice in our earlier history our lawmakers, in attempting to establish a bimetallic currency, undertook free coinage upon a ratio which accidentally varied from the actual relative values of the two metals not more than 3 per cent. In both cases, notwithstanding greater difficulties and cost of transportation than now exist, the coins whose intrinsic worth was undervalued in the ratio gradually and surely disappeared from our circulation and went to other countries, where their real value was better recognized. Acts of Congress were impotent to create equality where natural causes decreed even a slight inequality.

Twice in our recent history we have signally failed to raise by legislation the value of silver. Under an act of Congress passed in 1878 the Government was required for more than twelve years to expend annually at least $24,000,000 in the purchase of silver bullion for coinage. The act of July 14, 1890, in a still bolder effort, increased the amount of silver the Government was compelled to purchase, and forced it to become the buyer annually of 54,000,000 ounces, or practically the entire product of our mines. Under both laws silver rapidly and steadily declined in value. The prophecy, and the expressed hope and expectation of those in the Congress who led in the passage of the last-mentioned act, that it would re-establish and maintain the former parity between the two metals are still fresh in our memory.

In the light of these experiences, which accord with the experiences of other nations, there is certainly no secure ground for the belief that an act of Congress could now bridge an inequality of 50 per cent. between gold and silver at our present ratio, nor is there the least possibility that our country, which has less than one-seventh of the silver money in the world, could by its action alone raise not only our own but all silver to its lost ratio with gold. Our attempt to accomplish this by the free coinage of silver at a ratio differing widely from actual relative values would be the signal for the complete departure of gold from our circulation, the immediate and large contraction of our circulating medium, and a shrinkage in the real value and monetary efficiency of all other forms of currency as they settled to the level of silver monometallism. Every one who receives a fixed salary and every worker for wages would find the dollar in his hand ruthlessly scaled down to the point of bitter disappointment if not to pinching privation.

A change in our standard to silver monometallism would also bring on a collapse of the entire system of credit which, when based on a standard which is recognized and adopted by the world of business, is many times more potent and useful than the entire volume of currency and is safely capable of almost indefinite expansion to meet the growth of trade and enterprise. In a self-invited struggle through darkness and uncertainty, our humiliation would be increased by the consciousness that we had parted company with all the enlightened and progressive nations of the world, and were desperately and hopelessly striving to meet the stress of modern commerce and competition with a debased and unsuitable currency, and in association with the few weak and laggard nations which have silver alone as their standard of value.

Warned by History.

All history warns us against rash experiments which threaten violent changes in our monetary standard and the degradation of our currency. The past is full of lessons teaching not only the economic dangers, but the national immorality that follows in the train of such experiments. I will not believe that American people can be persuaded after sober deliberation to jeopardize their nation's prestige and proud standing by encouraging financial nostrums, nor that they will yield to the false allurements of cheap money, when they realize that it must result in the weakening of that financial integrity and rectitude which thus far in our history has been so devotedly cherished as one of the traits of true Americanism.

Our country's indebtedness, whether owing by the Government or existing between individuals, has been contracted with reference to our present standard. To decree by act of congress that these debts shall be payable in less valuable dollars than those within the contemplation and intention of the parties when contracted, would operate to transfer by the fiat of law and without compensation an amount of property and a volume of rights and interests almost incalculable.

Those who advocate a blind and headlong plunge to free coinage in the name of bimetallism and professing the belief contrary to all experience that we could thus establish a double standard and a concurrent circulation of both metals in our coinage are certainly reckoning from a cloudy standpoint. Our present standard of value is the standard of the civilized world, and permits the only bimetallism now possible, or at least that is within the independent reach of any single nation, however powerful that nation may be. While the value of gold as a standard is steadied by almost universal commercial and business men, it does not despise silver nor seek its banishment. Wherever there is at its side in free and unquestioned circulation a volume of silver currency sometimes equaling, sometimes even exceeding it in amount, both are maintained at a parity notwithstanding a depreciation or fluctuation in the intrinsic value of silver.

There is a vast difference between a standard of value and a currency of monetary use. The standard must necessarily be fixed and certain. The currency may be in divers forms and of various kinds. No silver-standard country has a gold currency in circulation, but an enlightened and wise system of finance secures the benefits of both gold and silver as currency and circulating medium by keeping the standard stable and all other currency at par with it. Such a system and such a standard also give free scope for the use and expansion of safe and conservative credit, so indispensable to broad and growing commercial transactions and so well substituted for the actual use of money.

If a fixed and stable standard is maintained, such as the magnitude and safety of our commercial transactions and business require, the use of money itself is conveniently minimized. Every dollar of fixed and stable value has, through the agency of confident credit, an astonishing capacity of multiplying itself in financial work. Every unstable and fluctuating dollar fails as a basis of credit, and in its use begets gambling, speculation and undermines the foundations of honest enterprise.

I have ventured to express myself on this subject with earnestness and plainness of speech because I cannot rid myself of the belief that there lurks in the proposition for the free coinage of silver, so strongly approved and so enthusiastically advocated by the multitude of my countrymen, a serious menace to our prosperity and an insidious temptation of our people to wander from the allegiance they owe to public and private integrity. It is because I do not distrust the good faith and sincerity of those who press this scheme that I have imperfectly, but with zeal, submitted my thoughts upon this momentous subject. I cannot refrain from begging them to re-examine their views and beliefs in the light of patriotic reason and familiar experience and to weigh again and again the consequence of such legislation as their efforts have invited. Even the continued agitation of the subject adds greatly to the difficulties of a dangerous financial situation already forced upon us.

In conclusion, I especially entreat the people's representatives in the Congress, who are charged with the responsibility of inaugurating measures for the safety and prosperity of our common country, to promptly and effectively consider the ills of our critical financial plight. I have suggested a remedy which my judgment approves. I desire, however, to assure the Congress that I am prepared to co-operate with them in perfecting any other measure promising thorough and practical relief and that I will gladly labor with them in every patriotic endeavor to further the interests and guard the welfare of our countrymen whom in our respective places of duty we have undertaken to serve.

Grover Cleveland

TOO MUCH FOR THE CROWD.

The Western Man's Yarn Knocked His Auditors Cold.

"Speaking of hair restorers," said the Western member, glancing at the baldheaded man, "puts me in mind of a time when I would have been willing to give a couple of years of my life for something of that kind. In the winter of '79 I was with a party of prospectors in the Sierras. There were three of us, an English professor, a Harvard graduate and myself. Snow began to fall soon after we got into the foot hills, and we stopped at a log shanty built by some one who had been there before us. As we had provisions for two weeks, we were not alarmed, when it became apparent that we were snowbound, but at the end of that time the situation took on another aspect. We shot a deer, after great toil and perseverance, but our efforts to secure other game were unsuccessful, and we were rapidly approaching a starving condition.

"When there was very little left to eat but one piece of apple, we built a figure-four trop to catch a 'snow shoe.' A 'snow shoe' is a hare with large, flat feet that look like snow shoes. Well, the morning after the trap was set we gathered about it, and were delighted to observe that the snow was covered with foot prints of the animal we desired to capture. Visions of a prospective stew arose in our minds, and we looked on in breathless suspense, while the Harvard graduate knelt by the side of the trap and cautiously peered under its edge. Then he arose. He did not speak, but his face told a tale of terrible disappointment. He gazed at the box a moment, and, with a mighty kick, sent it flying in six different directions. The splinters fell to the ground, but bounding away amid the wreck was a large, fat 'snow shoe,' and he didn't stop. The Harvard man had not seen the white animal in the trap, and our last hope was gone. It had the bait."

"Well?" said the fat man, inquiringly.

"Well, what?"

"Why, I thought you were going to say something about hair restorers."

"Oh, I was about to add that I would have sacrificed two years of my existence to have had that hare in my possession again."

A heavy silence fell over the crowd. The Western man's tale had rendered them speechless.

Welding Lead.

According to the Revue Industrielle, M. Blondell has introduced a new method of uniting lead to lead. The two surfaces to be joined are scraped clean and a thin layer of lead amalgam is interposed between them. An ordinary soldering iron is then passed over the line of junction, and the mercury of the thin sheet of lead leaves the finely divided lead to fuse and unite the two surfaces.

It is not how much we have, but how much we enjoy that makes happiness.

NATIONAL SOLONS.

REVIEW OF THEIR WORK AT WASHINGTON.

Detailed Proceedings of Senate and House—Bills Passed or Introduced in Either Branch—Questions of Moment to the Country at Large.

The Legislative Grind.

The Senate plunged into real business Tuesday. Naturally the President's message attracted the main attention of the day, but aside from this there were stirring resolutions on the Monroe doctrine and the Cuban rebellion, and after that the usual deluge of bills and resolutions. The message was given the closest attention. At its conclusion Mr. Lodge, of Massachusetts, offered a resolution, vigorous in terms, reaffirming the principles of the Monroe doctrine and presenting them in such form as to permit their enactment as a permanent law rather than an expression of the policy advocated by President Monroe. In the same line was a resolution by Mr. Cullom, of Illinois, and another by Mr. Allen, of Nebraska. There were 272 bills and sixteen resolutions introduced in the Senate altogether, but a large majority of the bills were reprints of measures which failed to pass last session. Many of these, as also a large proportion of the new bills, were for private purposes. There were also several for the modification of the pension laws. Senators Peffer, Stewart, and Squire reintroduced their bills of last session pertaining to silver coinage. Senator Pettigrew introduced a bill to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy and reintroduced his bill of last session to prevent the extermination of the fur-bearing animals of Alaska. Senator Vest reintroduced his bill of last session to prohibit monopoly in the transportation of cattle to foreign countries, and also his bills for the compulsory education of Indian children and the settlement of private land claims. Senator Chandler reintroduced his bill for the exclusion of alien anarchists and also his bill for the regulation of immigration. Senator Frye introduced a bill providing for the amendment of the tariff laws, so as to admit free of duty all material used in the construction or equipment of vessels built in the United States. He also presented several other bills for the encouragement of American shipping and American shipbuilding and general bills to amend the laws relating to navigation and to prevent discrimination against American trade. Among the large number of bills offered by Mr. Peffer (Pop., Kan.) were those limiting the President's term to six years without re-election, repealing all laws permitting the issuance of bonds, the limitation of the power of injunction. The Cuban situation received attention from both the Florida Senators. The Call resolution and the Monroe doctrine will receive early attention. At the brief executive session the nominations of Mr. Olney as Secretary of State and Mr. Harmon as Attorney General were confirmed, and that of Rufus W. Peckham to the Supreme bench referred to the Judiciary Committee. In the House a large number of bills and joint resolutions were introduced, many of them measures that failed during the last session. The session of the House was, however, brief and consumed almost entirely by the reading of the President's message. This was listened to with fair attention, but the features of the document received no signs either of approval or disapproval from the members until the conclusion of the reading, when several Democrats created a slight demonstration. When it was finished the House immediately adjourned until Friday.

The Senate worked Wednesday, but most of the business transacted was of a routine character. Mr. Hoar offered a resolution denouncing the recent atrocities in Turkey and assuring the executive branch of the cordial indorsement by Congress of a vigorous course for the protection of American citizens in Turkey and the suppression of the barbarities against Christianity. The first formal speech of the session was made by Mr. Allen of Nebraska, on Cuba and the Monroe doctrine. Mr. Allen urged the recognition of the Cuban insurgents, the annexation of Cuba and a strong foreign policy. The influx of bills continued. Among them was one increasing all pensions granted under the act of 1890 to $12.

The session of the Senate was brief Thursday. Its only feature beyond the introduction of a bill by Mr. Chandler for the free coinage of silver when England, France and Germany enact similar legislation, and a resolution by his colleague, Mr. Gallinger, declaring it to be the sense of the Senate that it was unwise and inexpedient to retire the greenbacks, was a short speech by Mr. Call in favor of the recognition of the Cuban revolutionists as belligerents.

Suspicious.

It is a suspicious circumstance that the German Kaiser finds it necessary to make so many speeches to his troops, warning them that they must remain faithful to him and defend him against all enemies, domestic or foreign. It is not customary for emperors or kings to make speeches of this kind. They usually put implicit confidence in the loyalty of their armies, not less in peace than in war.—New York Sun.

Andrew Lang a Bothered Bicyclist.

Andrew Lang has been learning to ride the bicycle, and says: "As far as I have gone (and I have gone over banks and braes which it was my intention to avoid), cycling is the longest, slowest and most circuitous route between any two given points. As the intoxicated person said, 'It is not the length of the road, it is the breadth of the road that bothers me.'"

This and That.

Until a woman is unable to tie a horse, she should talk less about voting.

A dog will always fight another dog quicker if it has a ribbon around its neck.

A woman rather enjoys an air of authority in a man who is not related to her.

No man has had a real good time unless he is so tired next day that he can hardly walk.

It is awfully hard to admit that you admire poetry without feeling silly.

A shrewd man without money is a better investment for a girl than a fool who has money.

Considering the fighting talk you hear, the cowardice of men is entitled to credit for a great deal of peace.

Do not think you can talk about people and not do them damage; a cyclone is composed of nothing but wind.

A man seldom volunteers to do a man a favor, but he is often bored and coaxed into doing an acquaintance a favor.

PROTECTS USERS OF "ROYAL."

Baking Powder Company Wins Its Case in United States Court.

The decision of Judge Showalter in a recent case that came up before him sustains the claims of the Royal company to the exclusive use of the name "Royal" as a trademark for its baking powder. The special importance of this decision consists in the protection which it assures to the millions of consumers of Royal baking powder against inferior and unwholesome compounds. The excellence of this article has caused it to be highly esteemed and largely used almost the world over. Its high standard of quality having been always maintained, consumers have come to rely implicitly upon the "Royal" brand as the most wholesome and efficient of any in the market. The cupidity of other manufacturers is excited by this high reputation and large demand. Very few of the hundreds of baking powders on the market are safe to use. If their makers could sell them under the name of a well-known, reputable brand incalculable damage would be done to the public health by the deception. The determination of the Royal Baking Powder Company to protect the users of Royal baking powder against imitators by a rigid prosecution of them makes such imitations of its brand extremely rare.

An Even Thing.

"My friend," he said in the soft tremulo which bespeaks the mendicant, "I'm in hard luck."

The man whom he was endeavoring to touch only walked the faster.

"I'm hungry and sleepy and I ain't got a thing ter eat nor any place ter lay my head."

"I haven't anything for you. I've heard al that be ore."

"Heard it before! Why, look 'ere, mister, this ain't no prize contest for originality. An' if it is, you ain't got none the best o' me," he went on, slackening his pace, and dropping behind. "I've heard what you said before; 'bout 'leven thousand times at the lowest calc'lation."—Washington Star.

A Singular Form of Monomania.

There is a class of people, rational enough in other respects, who are certainly monomaniacs in dosing themselves. They are constantly trying experiments upon their stomachs, their bowels, their livers and their kidneys with trashy nostrums. When these organs are really out of order, if they would only use Hostetter's Stomach Bitters they would, if not hopelessly insane, perceive its superiority.

High Bidding for a Hindoo God.

An English gentleman at an auction sale of East Indian relics paid $13,000 for the famous Hindoo god Lingam. Lingam is only a trifle over a foot in height, but he is said to be worth his weight in diamonds. The base of the figure is of pure hammered gold, and around it are set nine gems—a diamond, ruby, sapphire, chrysoteryl, cat's-eye, coral, pearl, hyacinthe, garnet, emerald, and moonstone. The apex of the figure, which is in the shape of a pyramid, is encircled with a plinth set with small but very fine diamonds. The pinnacle of the pyramid is a topaz, one and ten-sixteenths of an inch in length and nine-sixteenths of an inch in depth; this is in the shape of a horseshoe, the center being a cat's-eye of exceeding brilliancy. When the "Bad Shah," last king of Delhi, was captured and exiled to the Andaman islands, his queen secreted this idol, and it was never seen again until recent research brought it to light, whereupon it was taken to London.—New Orleans Picayune.

TAKING CHANCES.

WOMEN ARE CARELESS.

They Over-Estimate Their Physical Strength. Advice to Young Women.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Women are very apt to over-estimate their strength and overtax it.

When they are feeling particularly well, they sometimes take chances which in the long run cause them much pain and trouble. This is due largely to their not fully realizing how delicate their sensitive organism is.

The girl who has just become a woman can hardly be expected to act wisely, everything is so new to her. She, however, should be told; and every woman should realize that to be well her "monthly periods" should be regular. Wet feet, or a cold from exposure, may suppress or render irregular and fearfully painful the menses, and perhaps sow the seed for future ill health.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will ever be the unfailing remedy in such cases as well as all the peculiar ailments of women. Millions of women live to prove this. Mrs. M. L. Verrill tells plainly what it has done for her:—

"I will write you a few lines to tell you what my troubles were before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It was the same old story,—my back and lower part of my abdomen and painful menstruation. Of course it was female weakness. The doctors (I have tried five different ones) called it chronic inflammation of the womb.

"I had leucorrhœa for over eight years, ulcers on the neck of the womb, terrible headaches and backaches. Your medicine completely cured me." — MRS. M. L. VERRILL, 223 Newell Ave., Pawtucket, R.I.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES Sure relief for ASTHMA. Price 50 cts. By mail, Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

SORE EYES? DR. ISAAC THOMPSON'S EYE WATER

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. 25 CTS. CONSUMPTION

WOMAN'S HOME

THERE are people in this world who take special enjoyment in the trouble anyone else has, and these people, we are sorry to say, are generally of the feminine persuasion. In fact, there is a certain set of women apparently created for nothing else but to gloat over others' misery, though they would spurn the notion that they were doing aught but "sympathizing" with an unhappy fellow being. There are human vultures that somehow scent disaster, and directly trouble looms up ahead they begin fluttering around, anxiously waiting for the denouement in which they can figure as the friendly counsellor and confidante who, nine times out of ten, rushes off directly from the home of the afflicted to retail elsewhere every detail in the graphic fashion which makes a gossip of this sort so popular in the circle that thinks a bit of scandal the perfection of earthly bliss.

Haven't you seen her, when misfortune has set its seal in the household, rustling in, well dressed and artificially pained in manner? The hand press that she gives you is a sort of chuckle and the subdued look of sorrow an optical cross-examination. "Poor dear! how my heart bleeds for you," she purrs, and then goes on in the slickest manner to drag out each circumstance that you are trying your best to hide, until at last, when she has departed, you feel that you have told too much, and that, such as it is, will be magnified in the telling until, if you have lost a friend by death, the report will go forth that it was suicide, and if financial troubles have overtaken you, that your father or husband has been guilty of embezzling.

Sympathy of the real sort, the stick-to-you-through-thick-and-thin kind, is above rubies, but the two-faced sentiment that is proffered so often in place of the true metal is despicable. Look out for the vultures if there is any likelihood of trouble ahead, and even though your heart may be bursting keep your sorrows to yourself unless you are certain that the ones to whom you retail them are sufficiently staunch not to make light of what to you is more than solemn. — Philadelphia Times.

The Toilet Table.

The pincushion no longer reigns supreme on the fashionable woman's toilet table. In these days it occupies a subordinate position. It is small, also, to make room for the innumerable little odd boxes which are there in all the glory of dainty Dresden china, gleaming gold and enamel or silver. In fact, the latest pincushions are nothing more than a well-stuffed small square of satin, edged with a narrow border of jeweled galloon. The top of the cushion is covered with a square of sheer linen, finished with a band of Honiton lace insertion. This cover is made to fit within the jeweled trimming of the cushion, and when soiled it is easily laundered. If the other appointments of the toilet table are in flowered Dresden china, then a pretty idea is to have the pincushion cover of linen embroidered in a small floral design matching the china.

How She Amuses Her Boys.

A charming mother who believes that her boys should be amused has invented the following for her three restless little ones: She had a carpenter make of hard wood five dozen sticks half an inch square and a foot long. Then she had him cut as many cubes of various sizes. She had the long sticks painted, one-third red, another third blue and the remainder white. The blocks were painted any color and some not at all. Her boys amuse themselves by the hour building rail fences, sheds, barns and houses, dividing up according to color and buying and selling to each other. They have carved for themselves a little engine, and one has really developed a good deal of architectural talent. They have a box to put the blocks away in and are made to attend to that themselves.

Ships Coaled by Women.

At Nagasaki, the great coaling port in Japan, the ships are coaled entirely by little women in pale blue cotton dresses and big mushroom hats, for all the world like the baskets full of coal which they pass from hand to hand through a yawning port especially made in the ship's side for the operation. The baskets, even when loaded, are comparatively light, but it is astonishing how quickly the swarm of assiduous little women can coal a great 3,000-ton steamer. It is a matter of a few hours only.

Labors for Her Sex.

Mrs. Sarah Doan Le Freta is of the famous Virginia Curtis family. She is a prominent member of the National Council of Women and has been a leader in the Women's Christian Temperance Union in the District of Columbia since its inception there. The work of her union is far-reaching in its influence. It has one home under its patronage, "Hope and Help Mission," for poor, unfortunate women, inebriates, opium eaters and incapables of all conditions. Mrs. Le Freta is a sincere woman suffragist.

Hair Pomade.

Only a very little grease should ever be used on the hair. But if it must be used to keep the scalp from getting too dry, a little of very fine quality is advised. One who has to use pomade would be wise to make her own, in order to be sure of using only pure stuff. The best thing for this purpose is the pure beef suet. Melt about two ounces of suet over a hot fire. This will become about a gill of liquid fat. Let this cool and after it has become hard and white, whip it as you would an egg or white potatoes, until it is light and creamy.

The Petticoat for the Street.

No woman wears light, lacy petticoats on the street any more if she has any self-respect. The light silk skirt is as bad form as is the soiled white skirt, and from all such horrors may the Mrany deliver us. But for evening and house wear, most dainty women like the delicately shaded petticoat better than the lace and muslin, which fashion decrees. I saw a corn-colored silk recently which would be very soft and frouffou under the soft folds of a matinee house gown. It was of brocade satin, the design small chrysanthemums, and the deep flounce was of plain satin and a draping of chiffon was arranged around the skirt in deep scallops. Another pretty skirt to wear with a white gown was of white silk, with a ruffle of plain white lace headed with pink satin rosettes.

Ounces of Prevention.

The woman who travels nowadays carries with her what formerly would have been regarded as a tolerable outfit for a surgeon. She has a neat linen or leather medicine case, where bottles may be placed beneath elastic bands and kept from breaking. A tink flask containing brandy, another full of alcohol, and some lavender water form a very good liquid outfit for the traveler and one which provides her with all the liquid necessities of life except water. Besides these a tiny envelope of court plaster, a pair of scissors, a threaded needle, some twine and a soft linen cloth should be carried. Fate cannot harm her who goes thus provided for emergencies. She is ready alike for ripped gowns and railroad wrecks.

She Will Teach Indians Music.

Miss Minta Morgan, a well-known music teacher of Port Townsend, Wash., has been appointed by the chief of the Indian bureau of the Interior Department as teacher of music in the Indian service, with instructions to report for duty to the superintendent of the Chemewa Indian School, of Chemewa, Ore. The position is a desirable one. The school is located within a few miles of Salem, and ranks as one of the best Indian schools in the country.

To Clean Black Clothes.

A cake of bark soap and a small piece of black cloth should always be on hand to take spots out of dark clothing. It is perfectly harmless, and will remove ordinary stains as well as benzine, which is both dangerous and disagreeable. Dip the cloth in warm water, rub it well with the soap, and in turn rub the spots with it. Sponge off the lather and you will probably see no traces of dirt.

Leap-Year in 1896.

Girls, we wish to call your attention to the fact that 1896 is a leap year, and this leap year has a peculiar feature, in that it will be the last until 1904, eight years. This is a condition which has not occurred since 1696, and will not happen again until 2096. It happens once in 200 years. So you had better hurry up, for the boys will have good grounds to refuse you in 2096—you'll be too old.

A Cow Doctor.

Miss Edith Oakey graduated from the Veterinary College of Toronto, Canada, being the first woman to win a diploma. She has hung out her shingle at Sandoval, Ohio, in the center of a rich grazing country. Diseases of milch cows have been Miss Oakey's special study. She has done well and employs three male assistants, who relieve her of much of the manual labor.

What Becomes of the Women.

Twenty per cent. of all women who arrive at a marriageable age do not marry and 40 per cent. of college women are found to shun the bonds of matrimony.

Among the list of college graduates for the last twenty-five years there are only a few names of women who have become famous. Fame seems to select the struggling and obscure for her gifts.

There are about 8,000 women graduates from the various colleges and academies of this country and about 3,000 of this number are unmarried. These latter are engaged in almost every pursuit, the most popular being teaching.

Strange to say, the American college has given us no noted woman writer. Every woman who has made a name by her pen will be found to be a woman who never went through college. One or two essayists have been produced, but that is the extent.

The last census shows that there are in the United States 1,235 women preachers, 208 lawyers, 4,555 physicians and surgeons; but in these numbers only a few are college women. The law, ministry and journalism show especially few college graduates.

Instead of Ice.

Some experiments with a new chemical compound designed to take the place of ice have recently been made in Chicago. The material costs 20 cents a pound. It is placed in the ice box of a refrigerator, a small amount of water is added to cause it to dissolve; the refrigerator is then closed and cold results immediately. The inventor says that the compound contains eleven ingredients, and the formula is a secret. The mixture is light pink in color, and is in the form of crystals like coarse salt. It is said to be perfectly harmless, and has an alkaline taste. When moistened it instantly becomes intensely cold. The effect lasts twenty-four hours, or until the crystals are entirely dissolved. Then it is placed on a fire and "boiled down" until the water evaporates and the crystals are left in their original form. It is then ready for use again by simply adding fresh water. It is asserted that the chemicals lose none of their properties by the process and that the crystals can be used for years. There is little doubt that before many years a refrigerating apparatus will be devised by which houses may be cooled in summer, as easily as they are now warmed in winter. The new refrigerating compound may be an important factor in the solution of this problem.

Reproduction in Insects.

The power of reproduction in insects is one of the most wonderful parts of their economy. On beheading a snail, a new head, with all its complex appurtenances, will grow again; so will the claws of a lobster. The end of a worm split produces two perfect heads and, if cut into three pieces, the middle produces a perfect head and tail.

How a Frog Breathes.

The frog, owing to his peculiar construction, cannot breathe with the mouth open.

NEWS OF OUR STATE.

A WEEK AMONG THE HUSTLING HOOSIERS.

What Our Neighbors Are Doing—Matters of General and Local Interest—Marriages and Deaths — Accidents and Crimes—Pointers About Our Own People.

Minor State Items.

Thomas Brow, of Osgood, fell down stairs, and will die of his injuries.

Henry Livingstone's general store is in ashes at Elrod and the loss is $4,000.

A freight and wrecking train collided at Marion, the other day, causing a $2,000 wreck.

The safe in the store of E. L. Todd, Elwood, was robbed of $200 in notes and silver, the other night.

The recent wind storm, blew down seventy-one forest trees on the farm of Capt. Carr, near Hartsville.

The old home of the late Gov. Williams, at Pond Creek mills, was burned to the ground. Loss, $5,000.

The electric line from Elwood to Anderson has been surveyed and will probably be built early in the spring.

Mrs. William Bareley of Muncie, who has been visiting her mother in Bowling Green, Ky., died very suddenly.

Nearly every small town in the State has a revival meeting and, according to reports, sinners are flocking to the altar.

David Creed of Muncie, while out hunting caught his foot in a brush and the gun was discharged, the entire load taking effect in his arm.

James Beardsmore, one of Muncie's foot-ball team, that played against the Indianapolis team, had three ribs broken and was injured internally.

A 7-year-old son of John Morgan, of Elwood, fell from a box car, and was picked up unconscious. He is suffering with concussion of the brain.

Abraham Given, for years a prominent banker of Frankfort, is dead, aged 70 years. He was born in Pennsylvania in 1825, and went to Frankfort in 1860.

E. G. Hill, a florist of Richmond, secured the first premium on his pink chrysanthemums, "Indiana," at the Madison Square, New York, chrysanthemum exhibit.

At South Bend, Lewis Meyer, aged 4 years, son of Attorney F. J. Lewis Meyer, was struck by an electric motor car, and sustained injuries from which he died a few hours after.

A jury in the Federal Court at Indianapolis convicted James B. Wilson, editor of the "People," with sending obscene literature through the mails. Sentence has not yet been passed.

Mrs. Susan Etcherson, aged 61 years, shot herself through the heart at the residence of her son, Daniel Etcherson. Her mind was deranged, she having been in the insane asylum several times.

Congressman Charles L. Henry will at once build the electric street railway from Elwood to Anderson, via Frankton. The survey has been made, stakes set, and work on the grade will begin at an early date.

The DePauw window glass factory, of Alexandria, which has been idle two years, and is in the hands of a receiver, will be put in full operation at once. It employs 200 hands, and is one of the best plants in the gas belt.

Herbert Shaffer, a young farmer of Tippecanoe County, while hunting near Delphi, stumbled and fell, and received the contents of both barrels of his gun in the chest. His remains were shipped to his home at Colburn.

Earlham College, at Richmond, possesses one specimen in her museum that is of great value. It is an almost complete skeleton of the fossil beaver, and is the only skeleton of this species approaching completeness know to science.

Wabash County has made the first recommendation of soldiers relatives for admission to the new State Soldiers' Home at Lafayette. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tinkle are to be sent to the home. Mr. Tinkle being aged and infirm and incapable of supporting himself and wife in confort.

Andrew J. Vaughan, one of the most prominent young men of Richmond, has announced his determination to go to Cuba and join the insurgent army, and will leave within a very short time for Tampa, Fla., from which place he will go direct to Cuba. He has received a thorough military education, having graduated with honors at Orchar Lake, Mich., in 1891.

Patents have been issued to Indiana inventors as follows: Stephen J. Austin, Terre Haute, railway crossing, three patents; George C. Ditzler, Uniondale, wire tie; Thomas Duncan, Fort Wayne, electric motor; John C. Gray, Connersville, grave vault; John Kunkel, assignor of two-thirds to R. B. Kunkle and H. H. Heckman, Union City, swinging or hanging shelf; John W. Lambert, Anderson, gas engine; William F. Lawler, Anderson, automatic stock-salter device; Ferris J. Nowlin, Guilford, elevator and dumping device; Joseph L. Potter, sash balance; Andrew J. Smith, Greensburg, dumping wagon; Charles H. Whitmore, South Bend, bracket for shade rollers.

Judge Capron, of the Pulaski Circuit Court, has decided the act of 1891, known as the five mile ditch law, to be unconstitutional. The declaration is made on the fifteenth section, which creates a new court in the joint action of boards of commissioners of two counties, but which does not provide for a time or place of holding sessions. The ruling was made in what is known as the Hendee ditch case, which was taken from Cass County on a change of venue. In this Circuit Court the law was held to be constitutional. It went to Pulaski County for a new trial. The result of the decision will be to stop payment of ditch assessments. The ditches were built and paid for with money borrowed by the county by the sale of bonds, the total amount sold for this and other ditches being nearly $89,000. It is said this law has been acted on generally by the counties throughout the State, and that many costly ditches have been constructed by the issue of bonds.

The governors of the Indianapolis board of Trade have adopted a resolution indorsing the proposition to hold a centennial exposition in 1900. The resolution declares that Indiana has 2,500,000 population, 627,000 voters, 6,000 miles of main line railroad track, 30,000 miles of telegraph wires, 10,000 miles of telephone wire, taxable property of $1,500,000,000, a net work of free gravel roads, natural gas, productive soil, healthy climate, intelligent people, a soldiery that has engaged in all the contests during the last century to maintain the flag and the union, and has in every contest proved the bravest of the brave.

The village of Trafalgar, six miles south of Franklin, is greatly agitated over the abandonment of her husband by Mrs. James Griffin. Mr. Griffin dressed himself and went to church, leaving his wife and baby at home. On his return he found that Mrs. Griffin had packed her trunk and left for parts unknown, taken the baby with her.

"Elks' Sorrow," or Memorial Day, was observed by Muncie Lodge, B. P. O. E., No. 245, with appropriate service in the lodge-room, conceded to be the finest in the country. Hon. R. S. Gregory made the address and the Apollo Orchestra and Orpheus Quartet furnished music. During the three years since the organization of the Lodge not a death has occurred.

THE DRUG CLERK'S STORY.

He Talks of Headaches and Nervousness and Gives a Cure for Both.

From the Evening News, Newark, N. J.

It was the drug clerk's turn to tell a story of one of his experiences, and the reporter, expecting something good, as usual, settled himself comfortably in a chair prepared to give his undivided attention to the speaker. The latter was Henry Maier, who hands out medicine over the counter of Dr. Andrew F. Burkhardt's drug store at 271 Orange street, this city.

"Perhaps I can do nothing better," he began, "than to tell you the secret of my good health. It is a story that I have told to many recently, and as it resulted in good in each case, it may be worth your while to listen to it. To begin with, I was not always strong and robust as I am now. Long hours of work and hard study had left me in a wretched condition. Frightful, lingering headaches found me a ready victim, and at times I was so nervous that the dropping of a pin would cause me to give a violent start, and then I would be seized with a fit of trembling that was, to put it mildly, exceedingly bothersome. Now, I flatter myself that I know something of medicine; but with all my knowledge, I could find nothing that would cure those terrible headaches or put an end to my extreme nervousness. Things went from bad to worse, and I soon realized that a man of my physical condition had better not attempt to mix any medicine.

"'Try a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills,' said Dr. Burkhardt one day; and as you know the doctor's advice is always worth following, I got the Pink Pills and began to take them. Aladdin's lamp never performed the wonders of these pills. Would you believe it? Before I had taken the contents of one box my headache began to give me a day off occasionally, and soon it left me entirely. How about my nervousness? Well, the pills put an end to that with almost startling abruptness. You see, I know enough about the business to appreciate the importance of following the prescribing physician's directions, and by paying strict attention to those given by Dr. Williams with each box of his Pink Pills, I was soon another fellow. Look at me now! A picture of health, eh? Well, that is what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do for a man, or a woman, either. See, I can hold this glass of water out now without spilling a drop, but I couldn't do that two months ago and—

"What is it, ma'am?" he asked as a neatly dressed woman came up to the counter. "A box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills." "Yes, ma'am, fifty cents, please. Thank you."

"These Pink Pills are great things," said Mr. Maier, as he turned to the reporter again, and the latter, after all he had heard, thought so, too.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Med. Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for 50c per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

The Battle of the Giants.

The Battle of the Giants was another name given to the battle of Marignano in 1515, between the allied French and Venetians and the allied Italian and Swiss armies. The latter were defeated with great slaughter, over 12,000 of their troops being left on the field. The victors lost 4,000. The battle was given the name by Trivazio, a soldier and historian, who was present.

Nickel Plate road, low rates and perfect service are all synonyms. A through sleeping car service between Chicago, Fort Wayne, Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston.

RABBIT fur, when used for hats, is first carefully "plucked," that is, the long hairs are pulled out. Formerly this process was done by hand: now a machine accomplishes the same result.

A hard cough distresses the patient, and racks both Lungs and Throat. Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant is the remedy wanted to cure your Cough, and relieve both Pulmonary and Bronchial organs.

MEN should not talk to please themselves, but those that hear them.—Sterne.

California passengers should ask agents of the Nickel Plate road for rates and connections before purchasing tickets elsewhere.

IGNORANCE is less removed from the truth than prejudice.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; soft ns the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few year was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science have proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Be Was Remembered.

Papa—Are you sure that you and mamma thought of me while you were away?

Little Grace—Yes: we heard a man scolding awful about his breakfast and mamma said, "That's just like papa."—Tid Bits.

Facts Conclusive.

We expect your patronage because the Nickel Plate road operates conveniently scheduled trains, equipped with unexcelled dining cars and luxurious sleepers between Chicago, Cleveland, Erie, New York and Boston. Lowest rates.

GERMAN papers assert that gas pipes made of paper are a success. Manila paper strips are passed through melted asphaltum and then molded under heavy pressure. After cooling the pipes, which may be of any desired length, they receive a water proof coating.

Atlanta Exposition Excursions.

Special Excursions leave Toledo, Cincinnati and Louisville in December, visiting en route Mammoth Cave, Nashville, Chattanooga and Lookout Mountain. Tickets include Sleeping Car berths, Hotel Accommodations and All Expenses. Send for program.

CHARLES N. GATES,
Toledo, Ohio.

THE letters in the various alphabets of the world vary from twelve to 202 in number. The Sandwich Islanders' has twelve, the Tartarian 202.

Only a trial of Piso's Cure for Consumption is needed to convince you that it is a good remedy for Coughs, Asthma and Bronchitis.

The man is traveling in the wrong direction who thinks money can make him happy.

Now is the time to make your plans for your winter California trip. Ask agents of the Nickel Plate road about low rates and connections with the fast California trains out of Chicago.

THE friendships of the world are oft confederacies in vice, or leagues of pleasure.—Addison.

A Cough, Cold or Sore Throat requires immediate attention. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" will invariably give relief.

WISDOM can live on what fools trample under foot.

The Nickel Plate road operates a perfect passenger service composed of first and second class day coaches, attended by colored porters. Excellent dining cars and through sleeping cars to Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, New York and Boston. Rates always the lowest.

FEAR is the high priest of many creeds.

FITS.—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Remember That good health, strong nerves, physical vigor, happiness and usefulness depend upon pure, rich, healthy blood. Remember that the blood can be made pure, rich and healthy by taking

Hood's Sarsaparilla

The One True Blood Purifier. $1; 6 for $5.

Hood's Pills cure biliousness, headache. 25c.

St. Jacobs Oil CURES Rheumatism, YES, TO BE SURE IS TO BE CERTAIN, AS WHEN The cure is certain, sure. TO MAKE SURE, USE IT AND BE CURED.

Timely Warning.

The great success of the chocolate preparations of the house of Walter Baker & Co. (established in 1780) has led to the placing on the market many misleading and unscrupulous imitations of their name, labels, and wrappers. Walter Baker & Co. are the oldest and largest manufacturers of pure and high-grade Cocoas and Chocolates on this continent. No chemicals are used in their manufactures.

Consumers should ask for, and be sure that they get, the genuine Walter Baker & Co.'s goods.

WALTER BAKER & CO., Limited,
DORCHESTER, MASS.

"Say Aye 'No' and Ye'll Ne'er Be Married." Don't Refuse All Our Advice to Use growing time.

SAPOLIO

That boy!—
A little lad, all fun.
A little chap, all coat.
A round cipher, not knowing whether the stroke will go up and make him six, or down, and make him nine.
It's growing time with him.

He is burning up fat. This fat must be in as constant supply as the air he breathes.

It has got to come from somewhere. If it does not come from his food, it must come from fat stored up in his body. He steals it and you say "He's getting thin—he's growing so fast."

SCOTT'S EMULSION will take that boy, set his digestion at work, rebuild that body. His food may not make him fat—SCOTT'S EMULSION will.

Be sure you get Scott's Emulsion when you want it and not a cheap substitute.

Scott & Bowne, New York. All Druggists. 50c. and $1.

BEST IN THE WORLD.

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH. For durability and for cheapness this preparation is truly unrivalled.

SUN PASTE STOVE POLISH. DUSTLESS LABOR SAVING BEST IN THE WORLD.

THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH in cakes for general blacking of a stove.

THE SUN PASTE POLISH for a quick after-dinner shine, applied and polished with a cloth.

Morse Bros., Props., Canton, Mass., U. S. A.

FRIENDS' OATS KILN-DRIED

Cost more to make, but are sold as cheap as inferior kinds

Free From Hulls

At All Grocers

Muscatine Oat Meal Co. Muscatine, Iowa

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Wabash Line

GRAND TOUR OF OLD MEXICO.

THE EGYPT OF THE NEW WORLD.

On Tuesday, January 14, 1896, Gates' annual tour of Mexico will leave Toledo by special train at 11 a. m., via Wabash Railroad, and pass Fort Wayne about 1:30 p. m. The tour this season will far surpass all former efforts, several new features have been added. The Gates' special Pullman train will consist of vestibuled sleeping and compartment cars, observation and library car, and a palace dining car, also a baggage car, the entire train making the thirty day tour and covering 6,600 miles. Mr. Gates will accompany the train, and give every detail personal attention. For a handsome book of the tour giving itinerary and much other interesting data apply to the following representatives Wabash Railroad.

C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.
CHAS. H. GATES, Tri Agt., Toledo, Ohio.
P. E. DOMBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
J. M. MCCONNELL, P. & T. A. Lafayette, Ind.

RIPANS TABULES

Mrs. Serenah Creug, of No. 1728 McGee street, Kansas City, Mo., under date of June 19, 1895, states: "I have been ill with dyspepsia and indigestion for about seven years without permanent relief until I finally tried Ripans Tabules. After using a box of them I can eat anything without any unpleasant effect and am gaining strength and think I am permanently cured, and think it my duty to give this testimony, hoping that some one suffering from the same cause may be benefited by using them."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

THE AERMOTOR CO. does half the world's windmill business, because it has reduced the cost of wind power to 1/3 what it was. It has many branch houses, and supplies its goods and repairs at your door. It can and does furnish a better article for less money than others. It makes Pumping and Geared, Steel, Galvanized and Aermotor Competition Windmills, Tilting and Fixed Steel Towers, Steel Buzz Saw Frames, Steel Feed Cutters and Feed Grinders. On application it will name one of these articles that it will furnish until January 1st at 1/3 the usual price. It also makes Tanks and Pumps of all kinds. Send for catalogue. Factory: 12th, Rockwell and Fillmore Streets, Chicago.

ASTHMA POPHAM'S ASTHMA SPECIFIC. Gives relief in FIVE minutes. Send for a FREE trial package. Sold by Druggists. One Box sent postpaid on receipt of $1.00. Six boxes $5.00. Address THOS. POPHAM, PHILA., PA.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. DR. J. STEPHENS, Lebanon, Ohio.

PHOTO of future Husband or Wife FREE. Send st'p for postage. Climax Co., C. N., Chicago.

F. W. N. U. No. 50—95

When writing to Advertisers say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

ANNOUNCEMENT!!

Other tobacco manufacturers "kick" and threaten us with all sorts of things because we make

BATTLE AX Plug

—the largest piece of Good tobacco ever sold for 10 cents.

The people are with us and we will continue to serve them.

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO CO.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY. DECEMBER 19. 1895. NUMBER 51.

MERRY CHIRSTMAS,

1895.

At Christmas play and make good cheer,
For Christmas comes but once a year.
—Tusser.

IT has been our pleasure for a number of years to help make Christmas in Auburn and vicinity a success. The greatest variety of appropriate gifts have been sold from our counters and shelves. We mean this year to make a EXTRA EFFORT to make people happy in their selection of HOLIDAY PRESENTS.

A CHRISTMAS TREE

To be Completely Decorated Must Have:

Candles, Horns, Jumping Jacks, Dolls, Rubber Balls, Horses, Wagons, Guns, Blocks, Banks, Toy Trains, Ships, Picture Books, Toy Dishes, Bells, Rattle Boxes, Doll Cradles, Doll Cabs, Musical Toys, Games, Brownie Ladders, Dolls' Furniture, Tops, Black Boards and 5 and 10 cent goods of all kinds.

We have all these things and much more. Our Toys are new, and are here to be bright and novel. SEEING is DESIRING, as well as BELIEVING. So come and see for yourself.

PRESENTS

Of a more practical nature, and fitted to suit the taste of the "grown up ones" you can find among our special novelties, in

Dinner sets, chamber sets, water sets, jardiniers, China cups and saucers, cracker jars, salad, fruit and cake plates, banquet lamps and lamps of every description, vases, albums photo frames, easels, Bibles, books, work baskets, fancy handkerchiefs, mufflers, etc.

We will Sell the Nicest of Goods Cheap.
You Can't Help Being pleased.

Picture Frames Made to Order.

OLDS BROS.

North of Court House, Auburn, Ind.

Rickel & Sprott

-HAVE-

MONEY to LOAN

on long time, with privilege of partial payments, lawful interest.

FARMS for SALE

and EXCHANGE

for large or small farms, and for stocks of goods:

FARMS
and RESIDENCE PROPERTIES
-and-
VACANT LOTS

for sale or exchange.

WHAT HAVE YOU TO TRADE?

RICKEL & SPOTT

The Discovery Sayed His Life.

Mr. G. Cailloutette, Druggist Beaverville, Ill, says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with Lagrippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial bottle at Robbins & McCord drug store. 2

BUTCHERING DONE.

I will help do your butchering. Have had long experience. Call on me.

ALVIN BAKER,
48-49 Auburn

For hoarseness.

Benj Ingerson, of Hutton, Ind., says he had not spoken above a whisper for months, and one bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar restored his voice. It is used very largely by speakers and singers.
Robbins & McCord's. 52

GREAT REDUCTION IN TIME TO CALIFORNIA.

Once more the North-Western Line has reduced the time of its trans-continental trains, and the journey from Chicago to California via this popular route is now made in the marvelously short time of three days. Palace Drawing-Room Sleeping cars leave Chicago daily, and run through to San Francisco and Los Angeles without change, and all meals on route are served in Dining cars. Daily Tourist Sleeping car service is also maintained by this line between Chicago and San Francisco and Los Angles, completely equipped berths in upholstered Tourist Sleepers being furnished at a cost of only $6.00 each from Chicago to the Pacific Coast. Through trains leave Chicago for California at 6:00 p. m. and 10:30 p. m. daily, after arrival of trains of connecting lines from the East & South. For detailed information concerning rates, routes, etc., apply to ticket agents of connecting lines or address A. H. Waggener, T. P. A., 7 Jackson place Indianapolis, Ind. 52

W B KNI KERN.
F N S 12-95 G P & T. A.

Origin of the word Cigar.

The word "cigar" is believed to come from the Spanish cigarra, meaning a grasshopper and at first the significance and propriety of the term seem questionable. But in Spanish a garden was cigaral, or the place where the grasshopper sang. Tobacco was usally grown in a cigarral.

Use Dr. Miles' Nervo Pillets

From The Pacific

A Former DeKalb Man Gives Some Interesting Items,

Hatton, Wash., Dec. 6, '95.

MR EDITOR:

Being an old time Auburn boy and having been requested on several occasions to write a letter for publication concerning the far west and having spent the last dozen years or more on the frontier, eight of them in knocking about the state of Washington, experiencing my share of the hardships and adventures of various kinds that fall to the lot of a frontiersman, also seeing and hearing many things that might possibly be somewhat interesting to my old Auburn and DeKalb Co. friends and acquaintances, concluded I would comply with the request and would as it were, spread a conglomeration of Horace Greeleyian Hieroglyphics over the virgin surface of a block or so of pad, and endeavor to tell them in as few words as possible, some of the things I know of the wild and woolly west through personal observations and experiences oft times startling to me, to say the least. Columns could be written concerning the beautiful climate, scenery, timber and mineral resources of Washington. I will, however, refrain from speaking of those subjects and treat briefly of the existing conditions in regard to labor, wages paid for, and agricultural resources which will, I think, be of more interest. Of course the financial storm struck us, and on account of the repeal of the Sherman Silver Law with much greater fury perhaps than it did you eastern people, and as a consequence there is many an old battered derelict floating around hereabouts on the sea of finance, flying signals of distress, so to speak. Many men who with a great flourish drew their checks three or four years ago and had them honored too for four or five figures, are now eating two ten cent meals a day and sometimes are obliged to curtail it to one. Real estate and personal property of all kinds has depreciated at least one half and in my opinion two-thirds would be nearer the correct figure. Wages, however have not fallen in proportion although much lower than three years ago, and employment a great deal harder to find. Compensation for labor is now about as follows: Ranch hands $15 to $26 per month; shepherds and cowboys, $20 to $40 per month; lumbermen and mill men $22 to $75 per months and board without beds and coal, gold and silver quartz miners, $1.50 to $3.50 per day. He who gets the maximum wages quoted must be a number one man in his line. Wages for railroad men range considerably higher than in the east, but the disadvantages and dangers are much greater. There is always a good demand for women in all branches of house work at wages ranging from $10 to $25 per month and especially can Washington be recommended as an Ideal Mecca for old maids and widows who have a desire to embark upon the troubled sea of matrimony, and who, through the keen competition that obtains in Hoosierdom, have failed to find a heart that beats responsive to their own as it were, for of all the phenominal crops raised here, the crop of susceptible blushing, bald headed, bashful, well to-do bachelors stand easily at the head. The agricultural products embrace nearly everything that is grown in any part of the Union except perhaps corn, which, owing to the cool nights cannot be successfully raised, while frankly admitting that we have thousands of square miles of land so poor that you couldn't raise an umbrella on it, yet the other part of the state consists of the most fertile in the world, I verily believe. The yield of the various crops is something prodigious. For instance the banner field of wheat in the Great Palouse wheat belt last year yielded 150 bushels per acre. I am perfectly well aware that the majority of those who may happen to read that statement will not believe it, but it is the truth nevertheless. I am no boomer and my conscience is clear. The average yield is from 40 to 90 bushels per acre. 30 bushels per acre is considered poor indeed. The market however for the product is very low being to-day 33⅓c per bushel, sacked. Therefore I imagine there is very little money in raising it. Oats go from 80 to 250 bushels per acre. Other cereals in proportion. As to fruit and vegetables I could tell stories of peaches, apples, apricots, cherries, plums prunes watermelons, beets, cabbages, carrots, turnips and onions, I have seen that would not only amaze you but cause you to think me one of the most reckless jugglers of the truth that Auburn has ever produced, consequently I will pass them by and speak of a vegetable that considering the yield and ease with which it is raised, takes the cake bakery and all. It is the potato. The yield per acre is not so startling as some of the other crops ranging from 400 to 600 bushels per acre the first year, 300 to 500 the second year, and 250 to 400 the third year. What I mean by the three years is that they are planted but once in that time and are allowed to "volunteer" two years. All there is to do after planting is to hoe them once the first year and never again in the three years. There is no such thing as a potato bug here. Just think of that next summer when hunting bugs or sprinkling paris green on your vines as you straighten up a moment to take that kink out of your back. The only thing lacking is a good market for the farm products. It would indeed be hard to find a place where farming is done with less work. I have not yet found it in all the years I have roamed over the country and I doubt much if it exists. While I would like very much to have all my old friends and acquaintances in and around Auburn see this country, as its scenery is unsurpassed any where in the world, its climate magnificent and undeveloped resources wonderful, yet in my opinion it would not be advisable for any having homes there to dispose of them and move their families here without having first looked the country over and picked out a location if suited. As for me I like it here but that is no valid reason that anyone else should. It has surprised me somewhat that in all the years I have resided here I have met but one ex Auburnite and that was George (thank God) Hazzard as he is called here, whose peculiar banking methods did not seem to meet the approval of several distinguished Auburnites, among them being Mr. Nicholas Ensley and Mr. Wm. McIntyre, who were at that time associated with the aforesaid Hazzard in the Auburn National Bank. I believe he is the same sick, smooth, oily, loquacious Hazzard as of old.

The fact that I have not met any DeKalb people on the coast is in my mind a pretty good argument that you folks pretty nearly know when you have a comfortably good thing.

Yours Truly,
W. H LINK.

N. E. Ind. Regulators

There is a desire on the part of the survivors of the old "DeKalb County Regulators" and similar bodies in the other counties affected by the troubles of 1857, and along there, to hold a reunion some where, and at some time in the near future. The work they did produced good results—results that it seemed impossible to secure by any other means at that time. The members of these associations are fast passing away, Only five are left in this county, as far as can now be recalled. They are James McClellan and Alpheus Wheelock, of Auburn; Dr J. N. Chamberlain and Henry Willis of Waterloo; Geo. W. Draggoo, of Concord. Of course a similar condition exists in other counties. The counties that had organizations and took part more or less in the hanging of McDougall, and punishment by law of other criminals, were located in the counties of Allen, Noble, Lagrange, Elkhart, Steuben and DeKalb. We ask the papers in those counties to copy this call, and see if we can have a reunion. We believe Capt. J. E. Braden, of Ligonier was chairman of one of the meetings before lynching McDougall, and we look for a word from him. If there are any who desire to have such a meeting, they may open correspondence with James McClellan, Auburn, Ind., who will promptly respond.

From California

Alhambra, Cal., Dec. 4th, 1895.

EDITOR COURIER:

To us in Southern California it does not appear as though the above date was upon us. The Eastern papers have told us of tornadoes, snow and chilly blasts abroad in the land and for once in our lifetime have so far escaped the rigors of winter. Summer here is continuous, the weather is very fine and warm, had a good rain about a week ago and the farmers are busy plowing and sowing barley, wheat and oats. Some are harvesting their crop of potatoes while others are planting. New potatoes may be had the entire year. The Mountains have taken on a dress of green, and myriads of flowers are showing themselves as on dress parade while the mocking birds and linnets with their warbling songs complete a poet's fancy. The mornings are like a May morning in the east.

The orange orchards are the admiration of sightseers, clothed in golden array they look beautiful. The fruit this year is of very fine quality and is maturing a month or more earlier than usual.

In visiting the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce the other day we found pumpkins weighing 300 lbs., watermelons 100 to 150 lbs., sweet potatoes 12½ lbs., beets 75 to 80 lbs., and other vegetables in proportion. Driving across the country a few days ago we came to what are termed "Damp Lands" so called because no irrigation is required to the raising of crops, there are pumpkins, corn, watermelons, alfalfa, and beets, and ordinary critics can not see the end of these vast fields, and were I to state the amounts raised per acre, some might entertain doubts as to my veracity in stating facts. Mrs. R accompanied me in a visit to our friend S. C. Urey, andestimable family at Glendora last week and on arrival were pleasantly surprised to meet Daniel Phillips of Fairfield and Mr. Ober of, I think Avilla who are doing southern California. We had a royal good time as a DeKalb Co. crowd only can have. Before parting it was resolved that the entire party go to the Pacific some time during the winter and see which one can land the biggest whale. Mrs. Urey, daughter of Solomon Reinoehl, came about a month ago and is delighted with the country. Mr. Urey's health is improving and he is in the best of spirits.

Pasadena will have a grand Flower Fiesta or Carnival in January and we expect to see something very grand.

We are now receiving the COURIER a day earlier owing to fast schedule time between Chicago and Los Angeles. All are well. Yours Very Truly,
O. F. Rudolph.

Thurman Dead.

Judge Allen G. Thurman died yesterday at 1:15 p. m. He had been sick for some months, at one time was as death's door as noted a few weeks ago in the DAILY. But he rallied somewhat but not fully. He was a little over 82. A full account is on another page.

Locked In

In a certain church in Auburn, in the year 1895, the regular services were being held in the church proper, when "two solitary figures might have been seen wending their way silently and cautiously toward to the sacred edifice." This is the way that G. P. R. James, the novelist would have stated it. The figures quietly approached the building, but instead of joining the worshipers in the auditorium, they went down into the basement. How they passed the time there, deponent saith not, but it had happened that a church goer saw the young men go in, and did not see them come into the services. He informed the janitor, what had been, and the latter went and closed the door, but as this did not seem to arouse attention, he proceeded to lock it.

"At once arose so wild, a yell"
Within that basements narrow cell

As Sir Walter Scott would have said it, that the kind hearted janitor relented and the boys came forth very penitent and very shamefaced. They will not do it again, so the COURIER has refrained from giving up their names. Boys, come to church, the more the better, but go in on the first floor.

Low Journalism

Judge Baker, now a U. S. Judge at Indianapolis, but till recently a citizen of Goshen, had occasion a few days ago, to pass sentence of imprisonment on a newspaper man for conducting an immoral and low down paper. It was proved on the trial that James B. Wilson, editor of the "Indianapolis People" was conducting such a paper and sending it through the mail. In sentencing him to two years, Judge Baker hit the nail squarely on the head when he told the prisoner these words:

"The man who deliberately scatters abroad publications calculated to lead the young, the rising generation, astray, it seems to me, does a thing that is almost unpardonable. The thought of destroying a human life by means of this obscenity is a fearful thing. I would rather a thousand times that the midnight marauder should break into my house and rob me of everything I have in the world than that the disseminator of this kind of literature should gain an audience among my children.

Congressional Funeral

Senator Peffer of Kansas is going to try and stop the needless expense of "congressional funerals." He should have a united support without regard to party. When a congressman dies at Washington it has for many years been the custom for congress to vote quite a sum of money for the funeral expenses, and adjourn and stop work a day or so, and send a dozen or two of the members home with the funeral party on a funeral train, the train being well supplied with beer, wine, whisky and similar grief-assuaging drinks, as well as cigars, etc. The trip becomes a grand junket, in which the members have anything but a mournful time and have sometimes disgraced themselves and the country. After it is over and the resulting snakes are all killed, captured or driven into the Potomac bogs, the government takes a lot of the people's money and pays two or three prices for everything it used. Senator Peffer is right for once. Let the good work go on.

To California In Though Tourist Sleepers, via Wabash R. R.

These sleepers leave Dearborn Station Chicago, every Wednesday at 11:03 a. m. via Wabash and thence via St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern, Texas & Pacific and Southern Pacific Railways, running through to Los Angeles and San Francisco without change. First-class Sleeper leaves Chicago daily on same train for City of Mexico with one change at Laredo. This sleeper lands you in Hot Springs the next day at 12:45 p. m., four hours and forty minutes ahead of any other line. No snow or ice via this great Southern Route. This is the only line from Chicago that can offer this excellent service. Call or write to any ticket agent of the Wabash or connecting lines for printed matter showing time, route, rates, descriptions of cars, etc., or

C. S. CRANE,
G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

The U. S. Gov't Reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

September, October and November

—WERE INDEED BUSY MONTHS FOR US—

DECEMBER

Shall lead them all.

WE will make it decidedly easy for you to purchase your Christmas offerings, either from us or from others, with the money you have saved by patronizing our.

Grand Holiday Sale!

—THIS SALE WILL OPEN ON—

Saturday, December 14,

AND CONTINUE FOR ONE WEEK.

It will not be a special sale of a few articles, but will extend through our entire stock. Owing to the exceptionally low price we make this Sale Strictly Cash.

BELOW WE QUOTE A FEW OF THE MANY ARTICLES OFFERED

All Calicoes, not withstanding the sharp advance, go at	4½c
6c and 8c Ginghams at	5c
500 yards 8c Outing at	5c
1 case of Blankets per pair at	44c
10 pair all wool, white or red, at	$2 00
350 all wool Blankets, per pair	2 44
Entire stock of 50 and 60c Novelty dress Goods will go at	35c
All $1 60 Novelties go at	75c
Fancy and Broadcloths one-fourth off
500 yards half wool, yard wide Henriettas 20c quality	15c
Turkey Red Table Linen, former price 25c, sale price	15c
40c Turkey Red Linen	27½c
35c bleached and unbleached table Linen must go for	24c
45c and 50c Linens go for	32½c
Elegant bleached table Linens, 80c and 90c, quality	65c
$1.00 quality	77½c
25 oz Linen Towels, never sold for less than 75c, now	45c
26 doz large size, 100 weight Towel	15c
100 doz 6c, 7c and 8c Ladies' Handkerchiefs, your choice	4c
49 doz. fine embroidered Swiss Handkerchiefs, cheap at 15c, go at this sale for	8c
All 30c and 35c beautiful and durable Handkerchiefs	25c

The finest assortment of the most extravagant ones at correspondingly Low Prices.

Have we knifed 'em? CLOTHING YOU HAVE SAID IT.

56 $6 and $7 Men's Suits cut to	$4.75
73 $10 and $11 Men's Suits cut to	6 67
120 $12, $13 and $14 Men's Suits cut to	9 49
87 $15, $15.50 and $18 Men's Suits cut to	12.87
47 $5 Boys' Suits, age 14 to 19, now	3 25
92 $6 and $7 Boys' Suits, age 14 to 19, now	4.87
67 $10 Boys' Suits, age 14 to 19 now	7 62
38 $12 Boys' Suits, age 14 to 19 now	9.00

A large assortment of Boys' Overcoats, age 14 to 19, former price $10, now $4.87.
One lot Men's $5 overcoats will go for $3.33

All other overcoats and suits at greatly reduced prices.

Ladies' and Children's Wraps ¼ off.

We invite you to call. Respectfully,

SCHAAB & BRO.

Your Attention

IS CALLED TO THE FACT THAT A BOX OF

DINGERS

WOULD MAKE AN ELEGANT PRESENT

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

DOINGS OF THE DAY.

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Eventful Happenings in Every Known Hemisphere—Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Politics, Religion, Commerce and Crops, Sandwiched with Minor Affairs.

Pullman Charged With Helping the Cubans.

Havana newspapers publish a Madrid dispatch starting that El Heraldo, of the latter city, charges George M. Pullman, Chicago's sleeping car magnate, with aiding the Cuban insurgents. It is alleged when in Paris Pullman met Cespedes, the Cuban chief, prior to the latter's departure for New York and an arrangement was made whereby the Chicago millionaire promised to aid the insurgents financially and to use his influence to secure their recognition by the United States. In return Pullman is to receive enormous valuable concessions in Cuba should the insurgents win. Pullman banqueted Cespedes and proposed a toast to the Cuban Republic. El Heraldo asserts Pullman has since furnished the Cuban junta large sums.

Guns Trained on a British Gunboat.

A Constantinople special says: The British gunboat Dryad, which is to act as the second guardship for the British Embassy here, had quite an exciting time while passing through the Straits of the Dardanelles. When she approached the ports of Kum Kale and Sedil Bahr, at the entrance of the Dardanelles, their garrisons, not having been notified that the Sultan had granted permission for the passage of the boat, quickly manned the guns, which were loaded and trained on the incoming vessel. The commander sent a boat out to meet the Dryad, and quite a time elapsed before he was satisfied that she had the right to enter. Then the Dryad was allowed to proceed through the straits and into the Sea of Marmora, on her way to the Bosphorus.

Family of Five Killed by a Passenger Train.

A special from Greenville, Ohio, says: Oliver Hammond, his wife, and three children were killed at a crossing on the Dayton & Union railroad, seven miles from this city. They were crossing the track in an enclosed vehicle and did not hear an approaching passenger train. The train struck the carrage, and all were instantly killed. Mrs. Hammond and two of the children were literally ground to pieces.

Cuban News.

Havana special: The family of a volunteer who served as a guide to the Spanish troops has been found hanged in Cayjabos. Four women and children were killed. A Spanish detachment surprised the party commanded by Delgado at Cayjabos.

A spanish column under Colonel Oliver has defeated Gomez and Maceo in Manacaus. The rebels have entered Siguanca pursued by three columns of troops.

Holdups Come Often.

San Francisco special: The local postoffice inspectors have been notified that the Klamath Falls stage running between Klamath Falls, Oregon, and Ager, Cal., had been held up again by a lone highwayman. The robber secured the letter mail and five packages of registered merchandise. This is the eighth time this stage has been held up since April last.

Fell Dead in Flames.

A small son of Toney Richmond, who resides near Vendersburg, Ind., went into the yard with his infant sister to play, and took some matches with which they started a fire. Their mother hearing them scream ran to them to find the lad enwrapped in flames. His clothing was completely burned, and the child fell dead before his mother had hardly reached him.

A Railroad Horror.

A freight train on the Cincinnati Southern ran into the caboose of a wrecking train at the tunnel near Highbridge, Ky., instantly killing L. J. Duvall and Michael O'Day both of Lexington. John Win, of Macon, Ga., and Henry Miller, of Lexington, were injured, the former seriously. He may not recover. The road was blockaded for several hours.

New Gold Fields.

Denver special: New gold bearing vains are reported from the mountains above Georgetown, near the Humboldt mine and Dead Man's lake. An assay of amazing gold values is unauthentically reported from that district. Georgetown and Silver Plume miners are wading the snows up Magnet trail to the scene of the latest gold discovery.

Cunningham is Free.

The jury in the case of James Cunningham, charged with the murder of George M. Singer, Postmaster at Dunfee, Ind., which has been on trial for two weeks at Columbia City, returned a verdict of not guilty after deliberating about four hours. The verdict was greeted witn cheers by the large crowd assembled in the courtroom.

Masonic Temple Theater, Ft. Wayne Indiana.

Dec. 25.—"The Wife."
Dec. 27.—American Extravaganza Co.
Dec. 30 and 31.—David Garrick.
Jan. 1.—"Alabama."
Jan. 3.—Walker Whiteside.

Stricken Blind.

While sweeping her parlor, Mrs. M. G. Alexander, of Hancock County, Indiana, was stricken blind. Physicians are at a loss to know what to do, as the case is pronounced by them a most remarkable one.

Her Terrible Suffering.

Mrs. Anna Rinkler, an aged woman, living alone in the outskirts of Springfield, Ohio, was found with no food or fire and suffering with necrosis of both limbs, which have been amputated.

Thurman's Funeral.

The funeral of ex-Senator Thurman occurred Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, from his residence in Columbus, Ohio. There was a general suspension of business as a mark of respect to the distinguished dead. He was universally loved and respected by the citizens of Columbus, who, without regard to party, vied in showing respect to his memory. All the courts, Federal, State, and County, adjourned and public offices generally were closed. The State officers attended the funeral in a body.

Fired Into a Train.

A special from Louisville, Ky., says a train containing the Garfield club, of Louisville, returning from Frankfort, was fired into at Eminence, Ky. About thirty shots were fired and windows of the car were shattered. The inmates fell on the floors and escaped injury, except by broken glass. It was at Eminence that Bradley refused to continue further in the joint debate during the campaign.

Fatal Explosion.

An explosion caused by a defective boiler occurred at the Pitts Agricultural works, Buffalo, N. Y. George O'Connell, fireman, was fatally, and John Doyle, engineer, seriously injured.

DAYLIGHT ROBBERY.

A Jewelry Store at Carey, Ohio, Completely Gutted.

Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, while A. J. Bachar, a jewelry man, of Carey, Ohio was gone to supper, four men entered his store from a back window, opened his safe and took out about $100 in money and seven of the best Elgin movements. They then went to the front part of the store and leisurely picked out the gest goods the case contained, consisting of twenty-five gold watches, valued at $600; twenty silver watches, worth about $200; $500 worth of gold rings and diamonds, and several hundred dollars' worth of smaller articles. His place of business is in the most conspicuous part of the city, and people are passing by every minute, and a number saw the men in the store, but supposed that they were just customers and that Mr. Bachar was with them. The burglars started west and are supposed to have gone to Findlay. Two bloodhounds have been sent for at Fostoria and will be put on their trail. A reward has been offered for their arrest.

CUNNING SQUAW.

The Indian Murderers Escape Arrest—Awful Crime Unavenged.

Phoenix (Arizona) special: The assassins of H. H. Merrill and daughter have escaped. Sheriff Wright, of Graham County, in command of the pursuing party, has returned to Duncan, and in all probability this foul massacre will go unavenged. Sheriff Wright and posse overtook an Apache squaw and buck near Whitlock. A running fight ensued, during which the Indians escaped. When seen they had just killed a horse and were preparing the noonday meal. When the posse appeared they dropped everything. The squaw escaped on a horse and the buck on foot. In order to lighten herself the squaw threw away the clothing taken from the body of Miss Merrill when she was killed. Although only two Indians were seen, there was evidence that their were more in the party. The recovery of Miss Merrill's clothing settles the question of their identity.

A Disaster Averted.

Key West (Fla.) special: The United States cruiser Cincinnati, her officers and crew were in an ace of destruction the other day. Smoke was discovered issuing from the coal bunkers, next to the magazine. The bunkers had not been opened in three months and the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion. When discovered the fire had so far progressed that the walls between the bunkers and the magazine had become red hot. The wooden casings, in which the fired ammunition was inclosed, had been burned away. When the alarm was given every man rushed to his post. The magazine was flooded and the danger averted. A few moments more and the magazine would have exploded, killing every man on board and destroying the ship. Only the coolness of Captain Johnson and officers and the dicipline of the crew averted what would have been the most appalling calamity in the history of the American navy.

The World of Trade,

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: It has been a very quiet week without any disturbance. The prices of manufactured products slowly recede from the high water mark of speculation, and no material increase in demand is now expected until after the holidays, but there is general confidence that greater activity will then appear, and that works which have stopped a little earlier than usual will again be called into operation. The government crop report caused scarcely a ripple of interest, though indicating 5,400,000 bales less of cotton, and a larger acreage than had been expected of winter wheat.

The failures for the week have been 338 in the United States against 319 last year, and fifty-four in Canada against forty last year.

Durrant to Hang February 21.

San Francisco special: The attorney for Theodore Durrant moved for a writ of probable cause for an order to prevent the prisoner's removal from the county jail to the state prison at San Quinton. The court denied the motion and subsequently signed Durrant's death warrant, fixing Friday, February 21, as the date of the execution.

Bayard Will Not Talk.

A special from London says: United States Ambassador Bayard steadfastly declined to be interviewed by anybody on the subject of the resolution of impeachment introduced by Congressman Barrett in the House of Representatives. He has without exceptions informed all callers that he has nothing to say.

Broke His Back.

A boy named Moore, aged 13, employed at the heading factory, Greenville, Ohio, sustained injuries while attempting to cross through between moving cars on the Pan-handle Railroad that will cause his death.

Fishing Smack run Down.

London special: The coasting steamer Harrington ran down the fishing smack Ugan, twenty miles off Whitby. Ten of the Ugan's crew were drowned and one was saved by the Harrington.

The Japs Must Leave Corea.

The London Standard publishes a dispatch from Burlin saying that the powers have addressed a note to Japan peremptorily demanding the evacuation of Corea by the Japanese.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.50 to $5.25; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 58c to 60c; corn, No. 2, 26c to 27c; oats, No. 2, 17c to 18c; rye, No. 2, 35c to 36c; butter, choice creamery, 23c to 26c; eggs, fresh, 18c to 20c; potatoes, per bushel, 18c to 25c; broom corn, $20 to $50 per ton for poor to choice.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $4.75; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, common to prime, $2.00 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2, 62c to 64c; corn, No. 1 white, 26c to 28c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 23c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 58c to 60c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 25c to 26c; oats, No. 2 white, 17c to 18c; rye, No. 2, 32c to 34c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50 to $4.50; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $2.50 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2, 67c to 69c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 29c to 31c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 20c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 41c to 43c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.00 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 67c to 69c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 28c to 29c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 22c; rye, 37c to 39c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 67c to 68c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 27c to 29c; oats, No. 2 white, 19c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 37c to 39c; clover seed, $4.50 to $4.55.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 72c to 73c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 33c to 34c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 24c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 59c to 61c; corn, No. 3, 26c to 27c; oats, No. 2 white, 18c to 19c; barley, No. 2, 33c to 34c; rye, No. 1, 37c to 38c; pork, mess, $7.50 to $8.00.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $4.50; sheep, $2.00 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 71c to 72c, corn, No. 2, 35c to 36c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 24c; butter, creamery, 17c to 28c; eggs, Western, 21c to 25c.

HORRORS IN ARMENIA

TURKS AND KURDS ARE THIRSTING FOR BLOOD.

All Moslems Are Becoming Aroused—Should the Prophet Declare War, Butcheries Would Be Terrible—Sultan Hopes the Powers Will Quarrel

Alarm for Constantinople.

The heart grows sick over the recital of the outrages and butchery of the Armenians by the Turks. So fearful were the massacres that it was hard to place reliance upon the eariler reports from the scene of disturbance. But as report after report came in they only confirmed the inhuman treatment heaped upon the helpless followers of Christianity. The testimony from a number of sources, whose reliability is undisputed, is that the worst has yet to be told. The latest advices are that the extermination of the Armenians goes right on despite the protests of Christendom and the presence of the warships of the civilized powers in Turkish waters. The Sultan cannot stop the butchery even if he so willed. His time is taken up in planning to ward off the assassins who are seeking his life. Therefore the murderous Turks are left free to carry out their blood-thirsty propensities. Until a checkrein can be applied to these uniformed ruffians the massacre will go on in spite of the appeals brought to bear to have them stopped. For days past Turks and Kurds have been pouring into Constantinople from the devastated regions of Asia Minor. Their primary object is the disposal of the plunder which they have obtained during the massacres. They are also hopeful of a richer harvest in the event of the Sultan's permitting a rising at Stamboul. Their stories, coupled with the display of plunder, have inflamed the lowest class of Moslems. They are ready to seize upon the slightest provocation for an attack. It is unwholesomely significant of this state of affairs that the government is seizing and deporting daily numbers of Armenians of the poorest but most robust class.

It is hard for the unseeing to believe—to realize that at this very moment, men, women and children are being butchered within sound of the guns of the fleets of Christian Europe. But such is the actual state of things, and while the sword of the Moslem runs red with Christian blood, Europe stands idly by uttering public protests, whereas she should enforce her demands until the Turk was rendered harmless for oppression or wiped from the face of the earth. There should be no compromise when civilization meets savagery and fanaticism—the latter should go down to a resurrectionless grave.

Since the beginning of the Turk's rule of the sword in Armenia, only a few months ago, 500,000 people have perished or are on the verge, through starvation and suffering, of the grave. Of these 50,000 have been butchered outright and day after day the outrages and the tragedies continue, the unfortunate Armenians being crushed from the earth at the rate of nearly a thousand a day. What the sword leaves undone starvation completes, and by the time Europe awakes to its responsibility the Armenian question shall have settled itself by the complete extermination of the Christian population of the country.

Holy War May Come.

The condition of things in Turkey under Abdul Hamid is strikingly like what it was nearly twenty years ago under Abdul Aziz. Turkey was insolent then as she is now. In 1876 the massacres were in Bulgaria. Now they are in Armenia. Then it was the slaughter of Turks by Bulgarian Christians who despaired of help from the powers that provoked the horrible slaughters in return. Now the Armenian Christians, despairing of help from the powers, have planned and carried out an uprising, which in turn has been put down with ferocious cruelty by the Sultan. In 1876 Abdul Aziz was called upon by the powers to introduce reforms which were tantamount to giving his Christian subjects immunities and rights not guaranteed to his Mohammedan subjects. The result was that the latter were inflamed to a dangerous pitch of revolt. That experience is duplicated now. Nothing more dreadful could happen to Christian humanity in the remote east than the outbreak of a "holy" war, a war in which the followers of Mahomet should draw the sword of extermination against not only every Christian missionary, but every citizen of a Christian state wherever found.

When it is borne in mind that the followers of Mahomet number at the lowest calculation 200,000,000, some idea may be gained of what a general religious outbreak against Christianity among them would mean. There are 5,000,000 in Egypt, vast numbers in the colonies of Southeastern Austria, at least 40,000,000 in India and 20,000,000 more in other British colonies. The Sultan is the recognized head of the whole Moslem world, save Persia and Morocco, where the head of the faithful is Ali, son-in-law of Mohammed. There is only one way of proclaiming a holy war. There is only one man who can proclaim it. The Sultan is that man. When the formal words declaring war against a foe are uttered, according to strict Moslem ritual, every Mohammedan in Asia or Europe must respond as he hopes to attain paradise. All Turkey would be in an uproar at once. The fate of Christian missionaries to the southwest and southeast of the Sea of Marmora would be sealed. Bloodshed would follow in all quarters of the East. Of course the powers would win in the end. The struggle would be a long one, so far as Abdul Hamid is concerned. His declaration of a holy war would mean his own deposition; but, in the meantime, and afterward, what? In the meantime, one of the bloodiest wars of history, and afterward the revival of the rivalries of the powers in sharper form than ever.

Great Powers Foes at Heart.

Although the powers of Europe have agreed to act in combination and probably will maintain that attitude for the present, it is not believed that there is any real accord among them. They are rivals to the bitter end in the East. Their objects are conflicting, and it is only mutual fear which avails to preserve mutual deference. The powers do not care a whit for Turkey or its sovereign, and would sweep Abdul Hamid and his system off the face of the earth if they acted upon their impulses. But to do away with the Turkish empire means to invite a condition of things perhaps ten-fold worse than that which now exists. If Turkey were effaced as a geographical entity the powers would have more trouble in agreeing as to the division of the land among the conquerors than they have had over any problem of European politics.

Turkey must stand in act under some form of government, if the outward accord of the powers is to be maintained. The jealousies of England and Russia in Asia have been forcibly illustrated during the last twelvemonth in the Japan-China war and in the Corean imbroglio. But the matters at stake there are a mere bagatelle compared with those at the Bosphorous. It has been the steady policy of Russia for a hundred years to lose no move on the European chessboard that brings her nearer to Constantinople and the control of the Marmora Sea, and it is the determination of Europe that Russia shall not occupy Constantinople.

This is the Eastern question: What to do with Constantinople? The powers would take all the risks of a holy war if they could be sure that the overthrow of the Turkish empire and its partition would not fatally disturb the balance of power.

STRAITS OF THE BOSPHORUS.

MAP SHOWING THE APPROACHES TO CONSTANTINOPLE.

FORTS OF THE DARDANELLES.

What Gunboats Would Encounter En Route to Constantinople.

Naval engineers are of the opinion that Constantinople cannot be successfully assaulted by water. They claim that the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus offer a protection that practically means the destruction of any fleet that should attempt to approach the city without the Turk's consent. The Dardanelles from Sestos and Abydos to the Sea of Marmora is filled with torpedoes. The high, rocky shores bristle with a double line of fortresses. The entrance to the Dardanelles is narrow. The current is strong and nature has done everything to make the straits impregnable, except to furnish the guns. The forts on each side are built upon modern principles and mount Krupp guns of heavy caliber. The two largest forts are at the narrows, the one called the Namazieh battery at Kilid Bahar and the other the Medjidieh, a little to the northward of the town of Chanak. Both command the approach to the narrows and can deliver a cross fire that would make a big hole in any modern fleet.

The forts are not the chief reliance. The Turk has taken to the torpedo in a way that will astonish his enemies. The recent naval battles at the Yalu River and Port Arthur show the terrible effect of the modern torpedo when intelligently handled. The bottom of the Dardanelles is lined with torpedoes, and there are a number of submarine mines. The torpedoes are arranged to be fired by electricity from shore. Nearly all these fortresses along the Dardanelles have been built for many years, some for centuries. They have been remodeled again and again to keep pace with the modern progress in warfare. The Dardanelles is the Hellespont, or sea of Helle, of the ancients. It directly connects the archipelago, an arm of the Mediterranean, with the Sea of Marmora, which is practically the immense harbor of Constantinople. It is very narrow, and resembles rather a river at its mouth than a veritable sea.

Defenses on the Bosphorus.

Coming to Constantinople from the east, through the Bosphorus from the Black Sea, are heavy batteries on almost every point on either side. At the two Kovas, where the channel of the Bosphorus narrows, there is a formidable array of fortifications. They are arranged for a cross-fire, and five of them are of recent construction. These mount thirty heavy Krupp guns each and are capable of sinking any war ship. The Turk has been busily fortifying his frontiers since his last war with Russia, and he is now in a better position to fight than ever before.

The old fortresses of Asia and Europe stand on either shore of the Bosphorus, about half way up, where the channel is unusually narrow, and at a point once traveled by the celebrated bridge of Darius. The fort of Asia, Anadoli Hissari, rises on the lip of a pleasant rivulet, which empties itself into the Bosphorus. The fort of Europe, Roumeli, Hissari, on the oposite shore, is of singular construction. The ground plan forms the characters of the prophet's name, by whom tradition says it was built in six days, by permission of the Greek Emperor. This fort possesses great strength, strategic and defensive. It is well supplied with water and the means of storing provisions.

The city of Constantinople itself occupies a triangular promonotory above the Propontis. It has been strongly fortified on all sides, including the side washed by the sea and that which is the base of the triangle and connects it with the mainland. The walls extend twelve miles, sweeping from sea to sea, running along the whole length of the harbor and terminating in the celebrated fortress of the Seven Towers. At some points the foundation of the walls is formed by huge masses of rock, a species of architecture still to be traced in a few of the most ancient Grecian structures and formerly termed Cyclopnean. In other ports, particularly on the side of Marmora, the masonry commences regularly from the edge of the water. The most ancient portion of the walls is necessarily that which incloses the ancient Byzantium, now known as the Seraglio Point, where the apex of the triangle divides the Propontis from the port; and instead of being peopled by the busy multitude of the city, is silent in the stateliness of its gilded palace and overhanging groves. These walls that are now standing were built over 1,000 years ago.

THE DARDANELLES.

ITALIANS MASSACRED.

A Serious Defeat for the Arms of King Humbert in Africa.

Another tragic chapter is added to the bloody history of European colonization in Africa by the defeat and almost annihilation of five companies of Italian troops, under Maj. Tosselli, by a large force of Abyssinians. The Italian troops were surrounded by 25,000 of the enemy and fourteen officers and 700 of the rank and file perished, leaving the fate of Maj. Tosselli and 300 more unknown. A force has been sent by Gen. Baratieri, commanding the Italian forces in Abyssinia, to the relief of Maj. Tosselli, but the prospects are that the Major and the remnant of his troops will have been exterminated before the arrival of the reinforcements. The soldiers who fell with the exception of the officers belonged to the colonial army.

The disaster is the result of the efforts of Italy to establish a protectorate over Abyssinia. Those efforts date back to 1889, when Italy, in accordance with the provisions of the Berlin conference, notified the powers of Europe of a treaty concluded with the King of Abyssinia, by which the latter country and all her dependencies were placed under Italian protection. Since then there have been rebellions and considerable fighting, with the Italians generally coming out the victors. The defeat just sustained is the only serious one in the entire campaigns.

MADE A RICH STRIKE.

Judge Thurman's Daughter Finds a Bonanza in the Colorado Desert.

Mary Thurman, daughter of Allen G. Thurman and once the belle of Washington, has made the richest strike ever known in the Colorado desert mining camps of Picacho, near Yuma. She was prospecting in the hills and found a vein that promises to make her a bonanza queen. Miss Thurman, while in Washington, married Lieut. Cowles, now United States naval attache in London. Cowles and she soon disagreed, and he permitted her to get a divorce. Then she went West to San Diego and lived at Tia Juana, on the Mexican line. There she met and married Thomas Gifford, a dashing adventurer, who proved to have a wife and two children. Then she went home to see her mother before the old lady died, but Judge Thurman refused to permit her to enter his door, and she returned. She got a divorce from Gifford, and then surprised her friends by marrying "Bug" Holliday, the baseball player. She is known in all the mining camps of Southern California.

John G. Cullman, who founded in 1873 the flourishing German town, Cullman, Ala., on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, is dead.

"OLD ROMAN" IS DEAD

LIFEWORK OF ALLEN G. THURMAN ENDED.

Surrounded by Loved Ones and Unconscious of Physical Distress, the Great Man's Soul Takes Flight—Twenty-one Graves Robbed.

Due to a Fall.

Judge Allen G. Thurman died in Columbus, Ohio, shortly after 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon. So peaceful was the end and so quietly did dissolution come, that the change was hardly noticeable to the loved ones who surrounded his bedside. He had lived with his son, Allen W. Thurman, since the death of his wife, several years ago, and being unable to leave the house he occupied apartments in the second story of the residence, where he spent the last days of his life in a remarkably pleasant and agreeable manner.

The beginning of Judge Thurman's fatal illness dates from Nov. 7 last, when he fell heavily while walking across the library floor. A few days after the fall his life was despaired of, but he rallied from the shock and at times apparently seemed to have regained his old-time vigor. Nov. 13 Judge Thurman was 82 years old, and on that date several of his old friends called on him and had a pleasant chat. On that occasion he smoked a cigar with his friends and seemed unusually cheerful and bright. Since the accident he had his good days and his bad ones. He had been confined to his bed nearly all the time, and his physician, called on him daily. That he was steadily growing weaker was apparent to all, and it had been known for some time that his lease of life could not be protracted much longer. On account of his confinement to bed Judge Thurman began to be afflicted with bed sores and in order to relieve this unpleasantness he at times sat up and stood up, but he had not attempted to walk since his fall. At 10 o'clock on the day of his death Dr. Whitaker found the patient gradually sinking. He gave him a little water and whisky, which was swallowed mechanically. At the final scene all of the family were at his bedside. He seemed to be free from all distress, and during the morning hours all that the sorrowing family could do was to moisten his parched lips at intervals. Those present at the death scene were Mr. and Mrs. Allen W. Thurman and the following grandchildren: Lee, Miss Katherine, Allen G., Jr., Daniel C., and Starling Thurman, all children of Allen W. Thurman.

The death of Allen G. Thurman removes a picturesque and impressive figure from the ranks of the Democratic party. During a long career in politics Mr. Thurman had devoted most of his energy to the public service in channels where it was most effective, and the sum total of his endeavors imposes a large debt of gratitude upon the public at large. Although a Virginian by birth, Mr. Thurman's life-work was done in Ohio, and it is with the Buckeye State that he is identified. His service on behalf of the commonwealth was long and honorable, including a term in Congress, four years on the State Supreme bench and a long and very creditable record in the United States Senate. It was while in the Senate that he won the sobriquet of "Old Roman," a title which has hung in popular memory as pertinaciously as did his maxim, "A tariff is a tax," which he made the watchword of the campaign wherein he was defeated for the Vice Presidency. He was born at Lynchburg, Va., in 1813, and removed to Chilicothe, Ohio, with his parents when six years of age. Thurman was not a religious man, in the strict sense, and very often he was poetically profane, yet both his private and public life was remarkable for its purity. Since the death of his wife, two years ago, he had been more secluded than ever. He had felt her loss more than his stoical spirit would display, yet his grief had been that of a philosopher. Judge Thurman was a rich man. The estate of his wife had been well managed and greatly increased. The Thurman family has always been among the most aristocratic in the State, and the younger generation is prominent in the social circles of Columbus.

TWENTY-ONE GRAVES ROBBED.

Conditions Developed by Investigation of Cemeteries Near Topeka.

Fierce excitement prevails at Topeka, Kan., over the report that out of thirty graves examined in the Rochester and Catholic Cemeteries twenty-one were found empty. John Cuthbert, a reputable man who has been with a party of men examining the graves of relatives, brings this information, and threats are made against the faculty and students of the medical college. Many of the medical students have left the city and several of the faculty have not been seen. The college is in control of the police. The Catholics of the city have been greatly aroused by the discovery of the bodies at the Kansas Medical College. Rev. Father Hayden has interested himself in the matter and denounces the college as a menace to the community. Lawyers have been employed and the college authorities will be proceeded against.

The Comic Side of The News

If football games can bring in $40,000 in gate receipts, why don't Corbett and Fitzsimmons enter college.

Nebraska is now making whisky from beets. This is reversing the usual plan of making "beats" from whisky.

That man Hayward must be thoroughly bad; he will not even confess now that he has ever confessed.

South Carolina is a funny State; they actually interfered and prevented a lynching down there the other day.

Football may be an eminently proper game, but nervous persons addicted to heart disease would do well to stick to checkers.

If Corbett's new play is to be, as it is advertised, a "triumph of realism," it will never do to give the star a striking part in it.

The Sultan assures the powers that he will "promptly execute reforms." Lately he has been executing Christians too promptly.

That Pittsburg drummer whose false teeth were attached by a Chicago hotelkeeper now eschews dead-beat games of all sorts.

The Kansas City Journal says: "Kansas has learned the art of growing white onions." That certainly is a strong point in its favor.

There is so much powder lying around loose in Turkey that none of the European powers can smoke with any degree of comfort there.

Apparently the European powers have decided to sit down calmly and wait until the Sultan lodges a cherry stone in his vermiform appendix.

Lord Dunraven complacently says "the time for proof of my charges is past." Then the time for making them never should have been present.

HUSTLING HOOSIERS.

ITEMS GATHERED FROM OVER THE STATE.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crimes, Casualties, and General Indiana News Notes.

Minor State Items.

Terre Haute is organizing a child-saving movement.

Hog cholera is prevalent in the vicinity of Hagerstown.

Dr. L. B. Perry, a Winamac dentist, died of strangulation.

Samuel Dowdall, aged 70, fell dead at Spencer of heart disease.

Shelby county will allow no more liquor to be sold at Blue river park.

Cassius Downer, aged 16, was fatally shot at Frankfort, while hunting.

The farmer's organization of Madison county talks of building a market house at Anderson.

A man at Brazil says that the recent earthquake made the well water soft at his house.

A boat has left Evansville for the South and is said to have a number of recruits for Cuba on board.

The Kokomo glass plant has turned out a plate of bent glass 98x138 inches, the largest ever made in this country.

The Railway Cycle Company, of Hagerstown, has received orders from Russia and Mexico for some of their vehicles.

G. T. Coleman was killed by a B. & O train, near Mitchell. It is not known whether it was an accident or suicide.

Jacob Huffman, aged 18, was terribly mangled at Elwood, by the accidental discharge of a gun which he was loading.

The young people of Frankfort are preparing for a winter picnic, to be given in a hall and everyone will have to wear their summer clothing.

David Stewart, supposed to have been killed by a fly wheel in a Clay County mill, twenty-three years ago, is now thought to have been murdered.

John Zedeck and Charles New were arrested at North Judson, a small station west of Winamac, for attempting to wreck a Pan-handle train at that place November 23.

The authorities have arrested Arthur Councellor at New Castle and a wagon load of plunder was found in his house. He is charged with having stolen it from freight cars.

The 10-year-old child of Frank Fuquay, a merchant of Mitchell, was fatally burned while lighting a fire with coal oil. She may live but one arm will have to be amputated.

Mrs. Mary J. Maxwell, at Shelbyville, has filed a $5,000 damage suit against the Big Four Railroad Company for injuries received while alighting from a train at Fairland recently.

The American Plate-glass Company, with plants at Alexandria and New Albany will sell glass at Trust prices, and will not buck against the Trust, as was generally believed.

The Delaware County Commissioners have decided to force all workhouse prisoners in that county to wear stripes while at labor in the future. This action is to put a check on the number of escapes.

Clarence Merritt, of Elwood, a carpenter, while at work on a high scaffold, was precipitated to the ground by the scaffold giving away, and sustained concussion of the spine. He is in a serious condition.

An 8-year-old daughter of Mrs. S. E. Emery, living northeast of Shelburn, was fatally burned while playing before a grate. Her dress caught fire while other members of the family were absent from the house.

An attempt will be made to compel Robert Yelvington, a reporter, of Elwood, to give up the name or names of his informers regarding a recently published article in a local paper, on which a suit for criminal libel was brought.

The County Commissioners, under the Nicholson temperance law, have obliterated the last saloon in Howard County outside of Kokomo. The last to give up the fight was John R. Mason, of Russiaville, who has operated a saloon in that town by spells for the past ten years.

The following postoffices will become presidential offices on January 1, in Indiana: Frankton, Madison County; Jasper, Dubois county; Knox, Starke county; Ladoga, Montgomery; Sheridan, Hamilton county; Summitville, Madison county. The salary of the postmasters will be $1,000 each.

The Wayne County Commissioners, having been petitioned by the local G. A. R. men, have decided to appropriate money for a Wayne county cottage at the Lafayette State Soldiers' Home. They have not yet decided on the amount of the appropriation, but it will probably be of sufficient size to build a ten-room cottage.

Dr. Dongan Clark, the eminent Quaker divine of Richmond, who was deposed from the ministry by the meeting of ministers and elders, because he allowed himself to be baptized, will leave for Baltimore to undergo a medical examination at Johns Hopkins Sanitarium. He is greatly broken in health, and it is claimed to be due to his persecution at the hands of the elders of the church.

Patents have been issued to Indianians as follows: George L. Barney, of Indianapolis, lock; William H. Brown, of Indianapolis, fireproof floor and ceiling; Charles Garver, of Fort Wayne, apparatus for utilizing exhaust steam; John H. Jessen, of Rensselaer, horse-shoeing apparatus; George F. Kohule and F. F. Keeler, of Indianapolis, bolster spring; Albert W. Marshall, of Indianapolis, stereotype plate holder; William J. Pearce, of Terre Haute, drill; Robert E. Poindexter of Indianapolis, crosscut saw; John W. Shore, of Angola, planter; Howard F. Smith, of Elkhart, machine for making cell cases; Charles E. Ward, of Milton, car coupling; Jesse Warrington, of Indianapolis, balancing mechanism; George W. Wright, of Lapel, valve gear.

Relatives of S. E. Gierhart, who was killed at Marion a few days ago, supposedly by being run down by a freight train, claim that Gierhart was murdered. A sister in Logansport will make an investigation. She says her brother had a large sum of money, which was not found upon his body.

The other day the dead body of William Wemselman, who resided at Shields, was found by B. & O. section men just east of that place. An inquest was held by Coroner Scott, and the verdict was that he was frozen to death. A bottle of whisky was found on his person. He was fifty-four years old and leaves a wife.

At Muncie west-bound passenger train No. 3, on the Big Four road, ran into a delivery wagon for the United States Express Company, demolishing it. The driver, Ralph Ross, was thrown about fifty feet, but was only slightly injured.

Pan-handle passenger train No. 21 struck and instantly killed Theodore S. Hancock, a resident of Winamac and a team of horses which he was driving belonging to Y. McCoy, on a crossing. Hancock's body was thrown 150 feet and that of the team 109 feet from where the accident occurred. The train was running at the rate of 50 miles per hour, which is a violation of the town ordinance, six miles per hour being the limit. Hancock leaves a wife and three small children.

CHAPTER XXI—(Continued.)

A few days later something occurred of such serious importance that Mrs. Knox no longer thought of anything so trivial as whether her daughter wore orange-blossoms or roses on her wedding-day. All her faculties were employed in planning how to avert the danger that threatened.

It had been a great grief to Jane that her projected marriage had caused a difference in her relations with her father. Pleased and proud as he had been at her success, it appeared to him as though in gaining his Colonel as a son-in-law he had lost his daughter; and he avoided being with them whenever he could throw a reasonable light upon his absence. Jane remonstrated with him in vain—he smiled, kissed her, and promised compliance with her wishes, even putting a pressure upon his inclination for that day; but the next he slipped insensibly back into his newly acquired habit of nearly living at the mess. One day the Colonel noticed how seldom he was at home; and then Mrs. Knox, afraid lest he should take offense, determined to speak to her husband.

It happened that the Quartermaster had forgotten some papers that morning, and coming back for them, found his wife alone in the little room where he usually wrote, and to which she often, as she had done on this occasion, brought her work.

She opened the attack at once.

"Won't you come home to lunch to-day, John?" she asked, in her mildest voice. "The Colonel is staying, and I am sure he thinks it strange you should always avoid him so."

"I don't avoid him, wife; but I feel out of my element with him, and that's the truth. Men are as nature made them; women are different and make, or, at any rate, improve upon themselves. Neither the Colonel nor I can ever forget the difference between us. I am sure he prefers to meet me as seldom as possible."

"I don't believe it," returned his wife, bluntly.

"Women never do believe anything it does not suit them to believe," he rejoined, with a good-natured laugh.

"And it makes Jane miserable, I know," she persisted.

"Jane will be such a great lady soon she will forget to miss her poor old father. In any case I cannot stay at home to-day. I am up to my eyes in business."

He saw by her expression that she was still incredulous, and went on to explain.

"An order has just come for the detachment from Hattiabad to rejoin us at once. I shall have a lot of trouble to squeeze them all in."

Thinking by her silence that she was angry with him, and consequently resolute not to be convinced by anything he might say, he thought it better to let the subject drop, and having found his papers on the desk, he gathered them into a bundle and left the room, never noticing that his wife was lying back in her chair, white as a ghost, and with as little power of self-assertion.

Colonel Prinsep came into the room ten minutes later. He was searching for a book of Jane's, and asked Mrs. Knox if she had seen it. Then, as he looked for her reply, he noted her deathly pallor, and asked her instantly if she were ill. She answered by another question.

"Colonel Prinsep, is it true that the Hattiabad detachment is coming here at once?"

"Yes, quite true; it was rather an unexpected order, but Government generally makes up its mind in a hurry."

"And Jacob Lynn—will he come?" she gasped out.

"Of course the Sergeant will accompany his troop," was the impatient reply. He no longer feared the influence of her first lover over Jane, being so sure of her love, so certain that nothing could separate them now. He felt vexed that Mrs. Knox should place such undue importance upon this man's comings and goings, as though he could control or even hamper his movements. Yet the effect of her words filled him with an uncomfortable surprise. She fell back in her chair, wringing her hands and moaning out that "All was over; there could be no wedding now!"

The Colonel was very much annoyed, and did not try to conceal his displeasure.

"You seem to forget, Mrs. Knox, that I am not wooing your daughter in the dark. All the regiment is aware of my intentions, and I am not afraid of what any single member of it may do or say. Sergeant Lynn of his own free will released Jane from her engagement, and she is no longer bound to consider his caprices. I am really at a loss to conjecture how his return could interfere with our actions."

"He never gave her up," confessed Mrs. Knox, now in tears. "It was my own wicked scheming, and now it will all come out, and I shall have deceived you all to no purpose!"

"Good heavens, Mrs. Knox! Do you know what it is that you have said?" cried the Colonel, hoarsely.

She went on with what she was saying, without any notice of his interpolation. Now that she had begun to unburden her mind she felt it as a relief.

"You remember the day when Jane wrote at your instigation to ask the Sergeant to give her up. Well, any man with an atom of pride or even self-respect would have done so at once, for few would care to wed so avowedly an unwilling bride"—Mrs. Knox generally grew eloquent under excitement, and used the words she had thought appropriate to her position as village school-mistress—"but Jacob Lynn was always selfishness incarnate, and he refused. Her letter was returned with one short sentence written at the end of it, declaring that he could not give her up. And he had left the envelope unclosed. You may blame me if you will, Colonel Prinsep; but I take it few mothers could have resisted the temptation of cutting away the words which chance had placed so perilously close at the bottom of the page, when by so doing they could have secured a daughter's happiness as well as prosperity. But does it matter what others would have done in such a case? Suffice it to say that, having carefully guarded against the suspicion that anything had been taken away from it, I tore the letter in half, and inclosed it in its own envelope, leaving Jane to draw the natural inference. Another letter came from him the other day, and this I also suppressed."

"You never thought in what a false position you were placing me," he observed, gloomily, at length. "What am I to do? What will the regiment say when they hear that I have tricked my Sergeant out of his sweetheart? Did you ever think," he continued, sternly, "when you concocted such a senseless scheme, the added misery you were heaping up for your daughter? She had never cared for Sergeant Lynn, and now more than ever will she feel bound to marry him to condone her mother's fault. I will not speak of the cruelty to me, though I might well, for it will be ten thousand times harder to part with her now than before I ever called her mine; but Jenny—poor little Jenny!"

"When is the detachment coming in?" she asked, abruptly, in a strained, high key, another idea having come into her mind.

"Why should it not be your wedding-day that was to have been."

"Why should it not be your weddding-day still? You could well arrange that the marriage should be over before the men march in."

Stephen Prinsep paced the room impatiently.

"Jane would never consent!" he ejaculated.

"Why need she ever know? Since the matter has gone so far, why not carry it out to the end?"

"You must do as you think best," he said, in a shame-faced, undertone; "I shall remain silent."

CHAPTER XXII.

The fourteenth—Jane's wedding day—had come. Mrs. Knox had insisted upon the ceremony taking place at a very early hour, ostensibly to avoid the heat, but in reality to allow of the Colonel and his bride leaving the station before the detachment could arrive. But, early as it was to be, Jane was dressed an hour too soon, and stood before the mirror in the drawing-room surveying herself with pardonable pride in her appearance.

Jane gazed on wistfully in the glass. She was glad that she was so fair, that even if she had no other dowry she could at least bring her husband the gift of beauty. She prayed that in his eyes at least she might never seem less lovable and lovely, that he might never repent having chosen her above all others to be his wife. And as she gazed, some one came in through the open window, and beside her glowing, smiling face in the mirror was reflected the figure of Jacob Lynn.

At first a thrill of instinctive terror ran through her, as she met his fierce blue eyes, and she shrunk away from the passion expressed in his haggard face. But the next moment a truer feeling moved her, and she was only conscious of a great compassion for his sorrow.

"Why did you come, Jacob?" she asked, her voice full of tender, womanly commiseration, as she turned toward him.

"Why did I come?" he returned with a bitter laugh. "Because I wanted to see with my own eyes whether Jane Knox was as false, as untrue as they tell me!"

"False, untrue!" she echoed, paling.

"Even I, with my unhappily suspicious nature, never dreamed of this," he went on, ruthlessly. "I thought you might write and throw me over, perhaps; but how could I believe that you, whom I thought purer and more perfect than any other in the world, either man or woman, would steal a march upon me so, and to avoid a disagreeable explanation with me, would get married in my absence. You need not have been afraid of me, Jenny!" he added, in a softer tone.

"I afraid of you! Why should I be? You gave me up—you returned my letter torn in half without a word," she returned.

"I returned your letter, it is true?" he answered, more quietly. "But it was not torn, and at the bottom of the page I wrote my answer that I could not give you up. I wrote again——"

"And I never had the letter!"

"It was your mother who did it! She was always dead against me," Jacob Lynn replied.

Jane remained speechless, listening to the clatter of plates and glasses in the opposite room, where her mother—her mother who had deceived her so, and brought her to this degradation—was putting the finishing touches to the simple wedding breakfast.

"And so you were to have married our Colonel, Jenny. Do you remember how long ago I thought you two were courting? You denied it then, but after all it came to pass. It is difficult to deceive a lover, and you are so pretty, I could not expect to keep you all to myself without a rival."

Slowly her gaze wandered over him, from his rakishly good-looking face, with its bright blue eyes and amber mustache, to his tall figure towering above her. Acknowledging that he was handsomer and more soldier-like than any one she had ever known, Jane felt that she would rather die than become his wife.

"I rode as hard as I could gallop all the way," he explained. "It was only at the last camp we heard the news that the Colonel was to be married to-day; and then, when I heard who it was he meant to marry, I understood why the marriage had been kept so quiet. I got leave to come on at once, without telling anyone my reasons for wishing to be here—and here I am!"

At this juncture Mrs. Knox looked in at the door, which was half ajar.

The Sergeant, unconscious that they had an on-looker, went on:

"I am glad that I managed to arrive in time. Suppose I had come just as the marriage was over, what a dreadful blow it would have been!"

Still the girl did not answer. She wanted him to say straight out what he expected of her; then she could better realize the extent of her misfortune.

"Yet I am not fit to come in here, all hot and dusty; and you looking so dainty, like an angel, Jenny"—timidly touching a fold of her white gown—"will you wear such pretty things for me?"

"Give me time to think," she pleaded. "In any case there will be no wedding to-day, and you can come again."

And with this promise he was satisfied, and left her.

It seemed hours to her; but in reality only twenty minutes elapsed from the time that she saw her father ride away to the time he came back with Colonel Prinsep. Then she heard the latter tell her father not to follow, and a second later he strode in alone to where she was waiting for him. She went toward him with a little cry of relief, and laid her head upon his breast. For awhile she rested there, content to be folded in his arms and comforted by his very proximity, though the next moment she should be constrained to leave his side forever. At last she poured out all her story—how her mother had deceived them both in making them believe that Jacob Lynn had given her up—how he had come back an hour before and claimed her still.

When she ended her recital, Stephen Prinsep made no comment; and looking up anxiously to discover what he thought, Jane saw in his face an all-pervading sadness that was indicative of neither horror nor surprise. Could it be possible that this was no new story to him? A terrible suspicion crossed her mind that he must have been cognizant of the plot to deceive her from the first.

"You knew it before, Stephen—before to-day?" she cried, in a tone of conviction.

And he did not attempt a self-defense. His only mode of justification was by shielding himself behind her mother, and that was a meanness to which he could not descend. Rather than that she must believe the very worst.

"Jenny, is your love for me all gone?" he asked her earnestly, and the sudden flash that crimsoned the fair young face was a sufficient answer to the question. For better, for worse, she had given him her heart, and had no power to repossess herself of the willing gift. "Then won't you try to forgive me?" he went on, in the same low, impressive tones, advancing a little nearer to her side and bending his head so that he might hear her faintest whispered word.

She gave a frightened upward glance. He was very white, but his expression was impenetrable, his manner quite composed. She had not thought that he could look like that, and grew alarmed at the serious look which her words had brought into his eyes. She threw out her hands with an imploring gesture, which he either did not see, or would not heed. He had drawn out from his waistcoat-pocket a plain gold ring, and laid it on the table before her.

He did not wish to figure as a bridegroom without a bride, a subject for divided sneers and pity. His sole idea now was to get away as far as possible from the scene of his discomfiture.

But, in spite of wrath and disappointment, his expression involuntarily grew softer as he went toward her, and took her small, cold fingers in his own.

"Do not let us part in anger, Jenny. Say good-by."

Jane's wedding day ended in rain—and tears.

(To be continued.)

Forestalled.

A London jeweler says that Lord C. came into the shop one afternoon, accompanied by a footman who bore a small case of green baize. Lord C. announced that he wished to have a few words with the jeweler in private, and was conducted up stairs. He carried with him the green case.

"This case," said his lordship, when the two men were together, "contains the jewels worn by Lady C. on high days and holidays. At present her ladyship is in the country, where she is likely to remain for several months. Now what I want you to do is to make me an imitation set precisely similar to the originals, only, of course, with false stones. Lady C. is no judge of such things, and will never discover the difference. You can retain the originals, and dispose of them among your customers, allowing me the difference in value between the two sets. But I must ask you to let me have the larger part now, as I have a pressing necessity for money."

The peer took out a key, unlocked the box, and produced the jewels. The jeweler looked at them, and replied:

"My lord, it is the simplest thing in the world to match these jeweds in the way you suggest; but I must inform your lordship that the difference in value between the two sets would not be a penny. The present jewels are counterfeit. I purchased the originals from Lady C. more than two years ago and made her these imitations, which are such excellent ones that I am not at all surprised at their deceiving such an excellent judge of jewels as your lordship."

There was no more to be said, and his lordship withdrew.

Masts of Great Ships.

Puget Sound timber goes everywhere, even into the masts of the fleet yachts made by both America and England to race for the America's cup. But the point of most interest to the people of this region is that the great spars of noble Douglas fir shipped from this region as soon as they pass beyond the State line have fastened upon them the name of "Oregon pine." The spars from which the masts of Defender and Valkyrie have been made were cut in Sol Simpson's logging camp at Kamilchie, Wash., and afterward shipped from Port Blakeley.

Washington annually sends out at least 100 vessels timber laden, in every direction, all the way from Korea to Australia and the Hawaiians Islands, and even to the Kimberley diamond mines and Johannesburg gold mines in Africa. It is stated that the flag of the Emperor of Japan flies from a stick of Puget Sound timber, and it is known positively that the flagstaff on Windsor castle, from which waves the union jack in the daily view of Queen Victoria, is a Douglas fir from Puget Sound—a Yankee contribution to the furniture of the monarch of the British Isles. It is also true that the largest flag staff in Maine, the Pine Tree State, is at Lewiston, and it came from Puget Sound. Nor is it a remarkable piece of timber, as one comes to think who lives in Washington. It is all the Douglas fir, yet it is known abroad as Oregon pine.

In reference to the particular spars for Defender, they were selected by Adam Pigeon, of the firm of Pigeon & Son, who was in this city about a year ago. The same firm, it is understood, furnished the masts for the famous yacht Vigilant.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Origin of the Blouse.

After the fall of the Roman Empire the sexes started about fair in the matter of clothes. Our Teutonic ancestors adopted a costume which was almost the same for men and women, and consisted of two main garments, the Roman tunica and toga. The tunica was virtually a shirt with long sleeves, and was buckled at the waist. The men wore it reaching to the knees and the women to the ankles. In colder northern latitudes the men, as a great innovation, added trousers, but these were looked upon in the light of a distinct extra, and were not considered obligatory in hot weather. There seems to be no doubt that the blouse of the modern peasant is a direct descendant of the tunica.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Men with bunions or with overlying toes from the wearing of tight shoes are not admitted to the army.

A rascal grown rich has lost all his kindred.

IS WON BY ST. LOUIS.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION WILL BE HELD THERE.

National Convention Agrees on the Missouri Metropolis After an Exciting Contest—Big Showing Made by San Francisco—Chicago Not In It.

Four Ballots Required.

The Republican national convention will be held at St. Louis on June 16 next. That was the decision reached by the Republican National Committee assembled in Washington, after spirited balloting lasting two hours.

The successive ballots are shown as follows:

St. Louis	13	14	18	22	29
San Francisco	20	19	19	19	16
Pittsburg	9	9	9	1	0
Chicago	8	8	9	9	6
New York	1	0	0	0	0

The morning was spent in hearing speeches in behalf of the contending cities, the doors being open to the various contesting delegations. This concluded, the committee began its afternoon session behind closed doors. An eager crowd choked up the corridors leading to the committee-room and awaited the announcement of results.

The first important question of the afternoon was the fixing of the date of the convention. The Executive Committee reported a resolution favoring June 16. This was amended by Committeeman Lannan, of Utah in favor of Aug. 18. There was sharp debate, and Mr. De Young of California finally proposed a compromise between June and August—viz., July. The De Young and Lannan amendments were both defeated, and then, by a practically unanimous vote, the date was fixed at June 16.

Then came the main contest between the cities. There was much excitement as the ballots proceeded, the committeemen from the interested sections hurrying about and seeking to effect combinations. At the outset San Francisco secured one more than the nineteen claimed from the first. The announcement of her lead was greeted with enthusiasm when it reached the outer corridors. The strength of St. Louis was somewhat greater than had been expected, while neither Pittsburg nor Chicago made the showing anticipated. St. Louis gained steadily on each ballot. San Francisco sought to meet this by drawing the votes of Chicago, but without avail. The first serious break occurred when David Martin of Pennsylvania led the Pittsburg forces toward St. Louis. On the fourth and last formal ballot the San Francisco forces broke for the first time, Michigan, Wyoming and Connecticut going to St. Louis. That settled it, and gave St. Louis the convention. The choice was made unanimous on motion of Mr. De Young of San Francisco.

EXPOSITION HALL, ST. LOUIS, WHERE CONVENTION WILL BE HELD.

Great Rejoicing in St. Louis.

There was general rejoicing in St. Louis over the action of the National Republican Committee in selecting that city as the place for holding of the next national Republican convention. Not only those who will be directly benefitted by the convention and its attendant crowds showed their interest in the action of the National Committee, but everybody seemed enthusiastic. It is planned to hold the convention in the Exposition Building, the north nave of which will be fitted up at a cost of $15,000, and when finished will seat at least 15,000 people. Every effort will be made to present to the convention a hall perfect for its work.

Hotel managers were kept busy all afternoon and evening answering telegrams from different parts of the country asking that rooms be reserved during the convention week. Speaker Reed and Major McKinley, Presidential possibilities, anticipating the committee's action, had already reserved quarters at the Southern Hotel, where their respective State delegations will also be taken care of. J. H. Manley, Secretary of the National Committee, telegraphed that rooms be reserved for the committee at the same hotel. General Russell A. Alger, another possible candidate for Presidential honors, has secured rooms at the Southern, which will also be the headquarters of the following State delegations: Michigan, New Hampshire, Ohio, Maine, Colorado, Illinois and Massachusetts.

Melville E. Stone, general manager of the Associated Press, will make his headquarters at the St. Nicholas Hotel, while the working force will be taken care of at the Planters' Hotel, handy to both the telegraph companies. Already about half the available rooms in the first and second class hotels have been spoken for, but there is still room enough left to care for the crowds that will attend the convention.

Bradley Sworn In.

The largest crowd ever seen in Frankfort, Ky., assembled to attend the inauguration of Kentucky's first Republican Governor, William O. Bradley. The weather was good, and at the beginning of the inauguration ceremonies—at 1:15 o'clock—fully 15,000 people were in front of the State House. The stand, erected on the State House steps, was tastefully decorated with bunting and evergreen, and ornamented with portraits of outgoing and incoming Governors. Mayor Julien was master of ceremonies, assisted by Adjt. Gen. Gross, who led the procession of 1,000 guards to the stand. As the procession started the cannon began to boom on Capital hill, forty-eight guns being fired in honor of the new Governor, who is 48 years old.

The exercises were opened with prayer by the Rev. W. C. Taylor. Judge Holt of the Court of Appeals then delivered an address of parting and welcome, which was followed by the valedictory of Gov. Brown. In closing the Governor caused a sensation by saying that Democracy is not dead, but sleeping, and in four years from now a new Democratic administration will be inaugurated. This remark, which was made with much emphasis, was greeted with hisses, while some laughed at what they considered the Governor's bad taste. Gov. Bradley then arose and the vast audience cheered for several minutes before he could be heard. After thanking the people of Kentucky for conferring on him such an honor he turned to Gov. Brown and said: "As to my distinguished predecessor's intimation that we will see a Democratic administration inaugurated here four years hence, I want to say to him not to lay that flattering unction to his soul."

The Cuban situation is brighter; Gen. Maceo was killed only once last week.

HAYWARD IS HANGED.

Murderer of Catherine Ging Pays the Penalty of His Deed.

Harry Hayward was hanged Wednesday morning in Minneapolis. He made a statement of five minutes' duration, and, while not making a confession, said he hoped God would forgive him for all the harm he had ever done. The murderer went to the gallows with a laugh on his lips, and went down with the trap just as he uttered the words, lightly:

HARRY HAYWARD AND CATHERINE GING

"Let her go, Megarden." The command was directed to the chief deputy. Prior to the execution the condemned man maintained the nerve which has made him famous. On the scaffold he made an extended statement. He said that to please several pastors who had called upon him he would say: "God forgive me for what I have done." His neck was broken.

BAYARD UNDER FIRE.

The Ambassador's Speeches Abroad Attacked in the House.

One of the new members of Congress, Mr. Barrett, of Massachusetts, caused a sensation in the House Tuesday by offering resolutions for the impeachment of Ambassador Bayard. The resolutions were not adopted, but the impeachment clause was stricken out and the whole matter referred to the Foreign Affairs Committee which, it is expected, will report back a resolution of censure. This was not done without opposition from the Democrats, nor until after a lively debate, in which ex-Speaker Crisp and Mr. Dingley were the chief participants. Young Mr. Barrett made a speech attacking the ambassador for his address at Edinburgh, in which Mr. Bayard denounced the American protective policy as fostering class legislation and corruption in public life. Mr. McCall, also of Massachusetts, made a still more bitter attack upon the ambassador.

Ex-Speaker Crisp replied to Mr. Barrett in rather an ironical tone. The purpose of the resolution, he said, was evidently to give the gentleman on the other side something on which to air their views on protection. He did think, he said, that any gentleman elected to a seat on the floor of the House believed that this resolution contained grounds for impeachment. "If you impeach Mr. Bayard for those words," said the ex-Speaker, "you must impeach a majority of the American people." Mr. McCall followed Mr. Crisp, and said that Mr. Bayard made a violent partisan speech which was obviously one of impropriety. Bayard, he said, had misrepresented the American people by saying they needed a strong master. The people of the United States had no master. The President was their servant. He moved to amend his resolution so as to include in it the extract from Mr. Bayard's Boston (England) speech incorporated in the McCall resolution.

MUST KEEP HANDS OFF.

European Nations Have No Rights on American Continent.

Senator Cullom addressed the Senate Monday afternoon upon the joint resolution introduced by him last week providing for a legislative affirmation of the Monroe doctrine. The galleries were crowded, and the large attendance of Senators attested to the popular interest felt in the subject. The Senator's remarks were listened to with close attention and evident approval.

SENATOR CULLOM.

He said that in order that the United States should maintain the national honor with its present unity and integrity it must have an affirmative policy of such unquestioned propriety as to receive the universal sanction of the people. In his judgment the United States could no longer delay the proclamation of the American policy known as the Monroe doctrine. The governments of the old world should know that seventy million American citizens were a unit in maintaining that doctrine. Instead of remaining merely an edict of the President the doctrine enunciated by President Monroe should bear definite approval of Congress, and thus become a permanent ordinance. Other nations seemed to regard the Monroe doctrine as impotent in guiding the conduct of the government, and hence they proceeded to the accomplishment of their purposes without much reference to it.

In Mr. Cullom's judgment the time had come when the nation should put the question beyond cavil by a Congressional declaration of the doctrine. The nation had played diplomacy long enough and without much effect. Great Britain had been disregarding polite requests, arguments, etc., touching her policy to reach out further until, if left alone, she will finally dominate Venezuela. The time had come for a plain, positive declaration of the Monroe doctrine by Congress, and then, if necessary, plain, positive enforcement of it against all comers.

Mr. Cullom referred to the penchant of the great European powers for the occupation and absorption of territory of weak foreign nations whose productions were of importance to their trade and commerce. The United States, he said, was the first great nation which had declined to establish any sort of protectorate or to maintain distant colonies. The United States drew the line exactly where it existed at the time President Monroe made his memorable declaration and where the people believed it should remain.

Dr. Robert Safford Warren, an alienist attached to Recorder Goff's court in New York, has announced that Barbara Aub, who swore falsely against Walter S. Langerman, is a hypnotic subject.

Miss Georgia Cayvan, the actress, is rapidly recovering in New York from the results of the operation performed to remove a tumor.

SENATE AND HOUSE.

WORK OF OUR NATIONAL LAWMAKERS.

A Week's Proceedings in the Halls of Congress—Important Measures Discussed and Acted Upon—An Impartial Resume of the Business.

The National Solons.

In the Senate Monday a speech by Morgan of Alabama opposing the settlement of the Behring Sea claim was the event of the day. The Senate in executive session confirmed the following nominations: Elmer B. Adams of Missouri to be district judge for the western district of Missouri; Rufus H. Peckham of New York to be associate justice of the United States Supreme Court. The House held a short session and devoted most of its time to discussing the appointment of House officers. The first business proposition brought forward in the House was a bill by Mr. Hopkins to amend the statute fixing the customs district of Chicago so that the district would embrace all of the States of Illinois and Indiana. The bill was passed by unanimous consent. A resolution was passed for the appointment of three new assistants to the superintendent of the document-room.

The Senate was in session less than two hours Tuesday. The proceedings consisted of the introduction of about 100 bills, followed by a speech on the Monroe doctrine by Senator Cullom. Representative Barrett of Massachusetts enjoys the distinction of being the author of the first thrilling incident in the present House of Representatives. He threw a bombshell into that body by offering a resolution impeaching Thomas F. Bayard, United States ambassador to the court of St. James, for high crimes and misdemeanors, embodied in the utterances of Mr. Bayard before the Edinburgh, Scotland, Philosophical Institute Nov. 7. In this speech, it is said, Mr. Bayard spoke of "protection" as a form of "state socialism" and said it had done more to "foster class legislation," "breed inequality," "corrupt public life," "lower the tone of national representation," "divorce ethics from politics," than any other single cause. Mr. Barrett's resolution was: "Resolved, by the House of Representatives, That the Committee on Foreign Affairs be directed to ascertain whether such statements have been publicly made, and if so to report to the House such action by impeachment or otherwise as shall be proper in the premises. For the purpose of this inquiry the committee is authorized to send for persons and papers." Upon motion of Mr. Cannon, the words "by impeachment or otherwise" were stricken out, and the resolution adopted.

Proceedings of the Senate Thursday covered the entire range of legislation, from the introduction of petitions, bills and resolutions to the passage of bills, and included two formal addresses. A bill extending the Chicago port of entry so as to cover the State of Illinois received the final indorsement of the Senate. Almost an hour was devoted to a speech by Senator Peffer in advocacy of his bill curtailing the expenses incurred in Congressional funerals and providing that a sergeant-at-arms shall take the place of the committee now sent out by the two houses as escorts to their homes of the remains of deceased members. Mr. Call addressed the Senate upon his resolution upon the cruelties alleged to be perpetrated upon the Armenians by Turkish authorities. He thought the United States should at least express encouragement to the civilized powers in the effort they are making to suppress these outbursts of bigotry, superstition, cruelty and crime. The House listened to a speech by Mr. Grow, ex-Speaker, relative to President Cleveland's utterance concerning tariff and currency. Both houses adjourned to Monday.

AVERAGE PRICE OF PRODUCE.

What the Farmers Were Asking for Crops the First of This Season.

The December returns to the statistical division of the department of agriculture relate principally to farm prices Dec. 1. The farm price of corn averages 26.7 cents, against 45.6 last year. The average price of wheat is 53.2 cents per bushel, against 49.8 last year; of rye 43.7 cents, against 50.5; of oats 20.5 cents, against 32.9; of barley 35.4 cents, against 44.3; of buckwheat 49.2 cents, against 56.2 cents last year. The returns show the average price of hay to be $9.38 per ton, against $8.35 same date last year. The average price of tobacco is returned at 6.6 cents, against 6.7 cents last year. The price of potatoes on the farm is reported at 28.8 cents per bushel, against 56.5 cents last year.

The condition of winter wheat Dec. 1 averaged for the country 81.4 per cent., against 89 last year and 91.5 in 1893. In the principal winter wheat States the percentages are as follows: Ohio, 74; Michigan, 79; Indiana, 80; Illinois, 79; Missouri, 76; Kansas, 80; Nebraska, 90; California, 102. The returns make the acreage of winter wheat just sown 104.6 percentage of that harvested in 1895. This estimate, which is preliminary to the completed estimate of June next, makes the area sown for the harvest of 1896 23,647,000 acres.

Telegraphic Brevities.

A receiver has been appointed at Kansas City for the Pennsylvania Investment Company. The liabilities are estimated at $365,000.

The Cleveland Chamber of Commerce has decided to erect a new building on the public square, which is to cost, together with the site, half a million dollars.

The Kirkham cold storage buildings at Anderson, Ind., were wrecked by a natural gas explosion and Harry Gaither was severely but probably not fatally burned.

Senator Sherman receives a royalty on his book of $1 for each copy sold. As over 127,000 have been sold the Senator is reaping a satisfactory financial return from his effort.

Murderer Lewis Martin Miller, who has been imprisoned in Fremont since the recent riot in Tiffin, Ohio, has been taken to the latter city to await his trial. No further rioting is apprehended.

Emma Davis, the sixth victim in the fire in a Cincinnati tenement, died. She made an ante-mortem statement that she was the common law wife of the late Thomas Hanna, a millionaire whose estate owns the building that was burned.

Prof. William M. Willett, 93 years of age, died at his home in Jersey City. He was a professor in the Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., and afterwards in the Concord Biblical institute in Concord, N. H. His father, Col. Marinus Willett, succeeded De Witte Clinton as Mayor of New York.

The only sensational event in connection with the trial of Sheriff Tamsen at New York was a rumor to the effect that "Old Bill Vosburg" told the district attorney that the three escaped prisoners, Allan, Killoran and Russell, had formed a plot to blow up the jail with dynamite, but that he was not in the plot.

Russians were the instigators of the conspiracy of Li Hau Shin against the King of Corea. The Russians who assisted in the affair have identified some of the Americans who participated in the plot. It is alleged that the latter joined in the conspiracy owing to the revocation of the gold mine concessions granted by the Queen and because their salaries as advisers were reduced.

•HORSEMEN•

SAVE YOUR STOCK BY USING THE CELEBRATED

Morris' English Stable Powder
For Loss of Appetite, Constipation, Rough Hair, Hide Bound, and all Diseases of the Blood.
Price, 25c. per package.

Morris' English Stable Liniment
Cures, Lameness, Cuts, Bruises, Scratches, Galls, Sweeney, Spavins, Splint, Curb, etc.
Price, 50c. per bottle.

Morris' English Worm Powder
Warranted to cure any case of Worms in Horses, Cattle, Sheep or Dogs, also Pin Worms in Colts.
Price, 50c. per box.

Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure
A Specific for Distemper, Coughs, Colds, Heaves, Pink Eye, and all Catarrhal Diseases of horses.
Price, 50c. $1.00 per bottle.

Wells' Hoosier Poultry Powder
Makes Hens Lay, cures Cholera, Gapes and Roup, and keeps poultry healthy.
Price, 25c. per package.

Every remedy guaranteed satisfactory or money refunded. Our new book, "The Horse: His Diseases and Treatment," mailed free.
Wells Medicine Co., Lafayette, Ind.
For sale by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

MADE ME A MAN
AJAX TABLETS

Positively CURE ALL Nervous Diseases, Failing Memory, Impotency, Sleeplessness, Nightly Emissions, etc., caused by Self-Abuse and other Excesses and Indiscretions. Quickly and surely restore lost vitality in old or young, and fit a man for study, business or marriage. Prevent Insanity and Consumption if taken in time. Their use shows immediate improvement, and effects a CURE WHERE ALL OTHERS FAIL. Insist upon having the genuine AJAX TABLETS. They have cured thousands and will cure you. We give positive written guarantee to effect a cure in each case or refund the money. Price 50 cents per package, or six for $2.50. By mail, in plain wrapper, upon receipt of price.
FOR FREE PAMPHLET ADDRESS
AJAX REMEDY CO., 79 DEARBORN ST., CHICAGO, ILL.
FOR SALE BY
For sale by F. E. Davenport, Druggist, Auburn.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00.
DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Fisher & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!
Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!
Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epilepsy, Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. In our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with an offer of $100 to any person we can not cure. Highest Bank references furnished on application.
1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00. 2 Qt. $5.00.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES
Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature, will find our FAMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.
By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

WHEN OTHERS FAIL CONSULT

DOCTOR SWEANY
so well and favorably known as CHICAGO'S LEADING & MOST SUCCESSFUL SPECIALIST, for his many and wonderful cures in all
BLOOD AND SKIN diseases, sores, spots, pimples, scrofula, syphilitic taints, tumors, tetter, ECZEMA & Blood Poison of every nature.
KIDNEY AND URINARY Weak back, pain in side, abdomen, bladder, sediment in urine, brick-dust or white, painful urinations, Bright's disease and all diseases of the bladder.
PRIVATE Diseases—Gleet, Gonorrhœa, Inflammations, Stricture, Discharges, Weakness of Organs, Syphilis, Hydrocele, Varicocele and kindred troubles quickly cured.
LOST MANHOOD and all its attending ailments, both of Young, Middle-Aged and Old Men. The awful effects of early indiscretions, producing weakness, NERVOUS DEBILITY, night emissions, exhausting drains, pimples, bashfulness, loss of energy and weakness of both body and brain.
WRITE your troubles if out of city. Thousands cured by correspondence and medicines sent secretly. Book sent free on request. DR. F. L. SWEANY, 323 State St., cor. Congress, Chicago.

RESTORED MANHOOD
DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

BEFORE AND AFTER USING.

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

TRY US FOR JOB PRINTING!

Christmas Presents.

OUR Store is jammed full of 'em. At unheard of prices too. They must be sold; they will be sold if low prices will sell them. Never before have we been able to offer you as many goods of good quality, too, for so little money. We would like to enumerate some of the bargains we have to offer, but they are so numerous that one side of the "Courier" would hardly contain them. Some say to us: Are you going out of business? We answer, no, 'tis not that; otters say: are you going to make some change in the business? No, 'tis not that. We have been continuously here a number of years. We take pleasure in the old name, It is a guarantee of good quality, of honest prices, of honest goods. We simply desire to cut down our large stock. Besides we are giving the public the benefit of some recent large purchases for spot cash.

Come and see for yourselves and save money.

D. A. HODGE,

THE JEWELER.

The above cut represents the W R WHITE Gate, now on exhibition at Auburn, Ind It will be to everyone's interest, who uses gates, to call and see this one, as it is handy, oftimes saves runners, any lady or child can operate it without getting out in the mud, can be raised over snow, or to let pigs pass to and from fields; made of Bessemer steel, will last a lifetime, and many other claims no other gate has. Call and see it and get prices on gates, Farm, Township, County and State Rights, of

A. M. GARDNER, U. S. Agent, Auburn, Indana.

DR. CASS

can be found at his Office Day or Night, unless professionally engaged onstide.

DR. W. W. CAREY,

AUBURN, - - INDIANA

Office on Second Floor Kiblinger Building formerly occupied by the COURIER.

CALLS ANSWERED PROMPTLY.

Residence 3rd house west of the Methodist church on West 7th street

ALBERT ROBBINS, Pres. J. C. HENRY, V.P

FARMERS BANK.

—INCORPORATED—

AND UNDER STATE CONTROL.

Capital and Surplus $49,000

Transacts a General Banking Business and pays Interest on time Deposits.

A. C. ROBBINS, CASHIER.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital and Surplus, $60 000 00

Certificates of deposits issued drawing interest, if left six months. County and town orders bought and sold. Money to loan.

C. A. O. McClellan, President,
Chas. McClellan, Cashier.

Do you want the Lively, New Styles

Photos,

Pictures Framed and Matted Artistically,

The New Style Enlarged Pictures,

Your Pictures and Interiors Photographed at Night by Flash Lights,

Any of the New Things in Photos and Frames?

Ask about it.

J. G. CLAPP,

Photographer

CASH PAID FOR

SCRAP → CAST ↓ IRON

AT THE

AUBURN FOUNDRY

DR A F PHILLIPS,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON

CORUNNA - - INDIAN

Office formerly occupied by Dr. Rudolph.

Calls Promptly answered at all times.

Everyone remembering the Oberlin Glee club concert of last winter and knowing that the Ann Arbor club is twice as large, is anticipating a treat and is engaging tickets.

THE AUBURN COURIER,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY,....DECEMBER 19, 1895

Mrs. J. R. Lanning.

Mrs. J. R. Lanning died very suddenly early Monday morning of heart failure. The funeral was at the M. E. church in Auburn at 10 a. m. Wednesday, and interment in Woodlawn.

Obituary

Eve Alida Stoops, wife of Frank Stoops was born April 20 th 1860, departed this life Dec. 11, 1895, age 35 years 7 months and 21 days. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Moody of Keyser township, and was united in marriage to Frank Stoots, Sept 18th, 1881; Mrs Stoots was a great sufferer for nearly 4 years, and during it all, she was patient and cheerful. She left this life with the assurance of a better life in heaven; She knew in whom she had believed. She leaves a husband, mother and two sisters besides a host of friends to mourn her death. The funeral services were conducted from the Lutheran church Dec, 12th at 11 a.m. Interment in woodlawn cemetery.

Card of Thanks.

F. W. Stoops desires to return heartfelt thanks for the kindness and sympathy of all his neighbors, during the illness and death of his wife. It will always be gratefully remembered.

Democratic Conventions

The democratic state central committee has called for two conventions, one composed of the voters of the county at the county seat, if not otherwise notified Saturday, Jan. 4, for the purpose of electing delegates to the district convention, in which DeKalb county has 14 votes.

The district convention will be held at Ft. Wayne, January 8, at 1 p. m. when the delegates from the several counties will elect a member of the state committee to serve for two years.

NO. OF DELEGATES.

Allen	50
DeKalb	14
Lagrange	7
Noble	14
Steuben	6
Whatley	11

HEAVY SALES.

JERSEYVILLE, ILLINOIS.

To Any Concerned:

I can say that Wm. R. White has been in our city several months selling his new gate and territory. His sales here must have reached $30,000 or more. He has received in cash $14,000 and has more than $15,000 worth of notes, most of the endorsers we know. He also has the names of sixty five men recommending his gate, and many have them in use, for I am acquainted with most of them. Mr. White bears the name of an honest dealer.

S. H. BOWMAN, President State Bank.
H. A. SHEPHARD, Cashier State Bank.

Died,

Eveline, daughter of Jacob Shumaker, departed this life this morning at 3 o'clock She was born in Allamakee Co., Iowa, Oct 1, 1881, aged 14 years 1 month, and 15 days. Eveline was an affectionate and loving daughter, and it was hard to part with her. She leaves a father, one brother and two sisters to mourn her early death. She was baptized and taken into the Lutheran church, Nov. 1, 1895. Eveline could not enjoy church privileges but she loved her Master, and early this morning He called her home. The funeral services will be conducted from the Lutheran church to morrow at 2 p. m. Sun time, meet at the house at 1 p m. Interment will take place at Waterloo, Ind., J. D Bresv officiating.

Farm For Sale.

A good 40 acre farm in Smithfield township. For particulars inquire at this office. 51 52

Notice of Sale of Real Estate.

Notice is hereby given, that I, Roxana E. Knott Administratrix of the estate of Samuel M. Knott deceased, will offer for sale at public Auction, to the highest bidder, at 10 o'clock a. m. on Saturday, January 18, 1896

at the door of the Court House in Auburn, DeKalb County, State of Indiana, the following described real estate, belonging to the estate of said decedent, to-wit:

The West half (½) of the West half (½) of the Southeast quarter (¼) of Section sixteen (16) in township numbered thirty-three (33) North, of range twelve (12) east in DeKalb County, in the state of Indiana for the purpose of paying the debts of said estate

TERMS OF SALE:

one-third cash, one-third in nine (9) months and one-third in eighteen (18) months. Deferred payments to be evidenced by interest-bearing notes waiving relief and secured by mortgage upon the premises sold.

ROXANA E. KNOTT, Administratrix.

Baxter & Brown Att'y, 51-52

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

Notice is hereby given, that I, William H. Leas executor of the will of Sophia L Baird deceased, will offer for sale at private sale to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, January 18, 1896

at the door of the court house in Auburn, Ind, at 10 o'clock a. m. the following described real estate belonging to the estate of said decedent, to-wit:

Lot number fifty-seven (57) in the Western Addition to the town of Auburn Indiana. Said lot will be sold as a whole, or the East half and the West half will be sold separately to suit purchasers if desired.

TERMS OF SALE:

One third cash, one third in twelve months, and one third in eighteen months, or sooner, at the option of the purchaser. Deferred payments to be evidenced by interest bearing notes waiving relief and secured by mortgage upon the premises sold.

WILLIAM H. LEAS, Executor

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

AUBURN, IND., Dec., 3, 1895

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of The First National Bank of Auburn, Indiana, will be held on Tuesday, January 14, 1896.

at the banking office of said bank in Auburn, Indiana, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, for the purpose of electing seven [7] directors to serve for the ensuing year, and to transact such other business as may regularly come before the meeting

49-52. CHARLES McCLELLAN, Cashier.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the state of Indiana, Executrix of the Will of Frederick Gfeller, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

MARY ANN GFEELER.

December 2, 1895. Executrix.

Wm. H. Leas, Att'y.

Commissioners' Court.

After closing our report of their proceedings up to last Saturday noon, we find that when they adjourned Tuesday, there was quite an amount of odd business done, including the consideration of the disputed applications for liquor license. Much of these we have already given. Additional allowances were made as follows:

POOR.

Miller & Hendricks	$ 75
R K. McDonald	26 90
J. M. Finch	20 90
F. A. Borst	22 00
John Groscop	3 00
S Hollister	1 50
J. W. Sheffer	3 07
A. Jennings	5 00
Ed Kelham	22 00

STATIONERY.

W. B. Burford	$529 23
G. W. Gordon	4 00

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

W. C. Hartman, insurance	$112 50
Bickel & Sprott, insurance	120 00
Auburn Mining Co.	56 57

INSANE.

Thomas Hallam	6 00

SALARY.

Isaac Hague	$35 00
J W. Bateman	28 00
J. M. Henderson	49 00

MISCELLANEOUS.

F. E. Davenport	$4 30

Blooded Stock Sale

PUBLIC SALE OF FINE BERKSHIRE HOGS AND HOLSTEIN CATTLE.

A. Ash and company will offer at public sale, at Kutzner & Myers, Auburn, Ind., on Dec, 26, 1895, 35 head of pure blood Berkshire hogs and several head of thorough bred Holstein cattle, including cows, heifers and young bulls. See posters for full particulars. Call and see them when attending the poultry show.

For Kidney Troubles

there is nothing better than Clinic Kidney Cure. Everyone who tries it will agree to this. Robinson & Norward.

Your Daddy will give you a Good Dressing Out

When he sees us and when he reads this paper.

Because our prices are such that he can not afford to ignore the welfare of his purse strings. We are putting forth increased energies to make our line of Clothing and prices such that you will not have the remotest cause for anxiety regarding

QUALITY AND ACTUAL WORTH.

Our first price for the qualities is cheap, but our slaughter price is what makes you think of us; and the unanimous compliments of public opinion is the lever that regulates our popularity.

You will Consult Your Own Interests When you Consult our Price List

We will set your wits to work to get the gold dust on stock up for a year ahead

ACKNOWLEDGED LEADERS

urges us forward in defiance of the little outbursts of competition. We look for wonderful developments during the balance of this month. You come and see us and we'll do the rest. If we can not make any profit in this great sale we will be well satisfied to make your acquaintance. We want your trade and you want our bargains

Men's Heavy Weight Suits

Our $ 5 00 leader, Men's Suits, Holiday Drive		$ 2 75
" 6 00	" "	3 25
" 7 00	" "	4 50
" 10 00	" "	7 00
" 12 00	" "	9 50
" 13 50	" "	10 00
" 16 00	" "	12 00
" 18 00	" "	13 00

Fine Line Plush Caps

Our $ 50 Plush Caps		$ 45
" 85	"	65
" 1 00	"	85
" 1 25	"	1 00
" 1 50	"	1 25
" 1 75	"	1 35
" 2 00	"	1 65

And balance of Winter Caps Cut in Proportion.

Men's Ulsters

Our $10 00 Gray Cass Ulsters—large size	$ 6 75
" 12 00 Black Cheviot Ulsters	8 75
" 12 00 Gray Chinchilla	8 75
" 13 50 Oxford Mix Ulsters	11 00
" 16 00 Irish Frieze Ulsters	13 50
" 18 00 Monster Irish Frieze Overcoat	15 00
" 10 00 Fine Woo Beaver Ulster	15 00
" 22 00 Fine Wool Beaver Ulster	18 00

Men's Overcoat Department

Our $ 5 00 Chinchilla Overcoats	$ 3 75
" 7 00 Beaver "	4 50
" 9 00 " "	7 00
" 10 00 " "	7 50
" 11 00 " "	8 50
" 12 00 " "	9 00
" 13 50 " "	10 50
" 15 00 " "	11 50
" 18 00 Fine Beavers and Kerseys	15 00
" 22 00 " "	18 00

Child's Cape Overcoats

PRICES TO SUIT YOU, WE CUT THEM HARD

An assorted lot broken sizes, $8 and $10 coats, good styles, extra values, will close lot at one-half off.

Boys' and Youths' Overcoats and Ulsters

Our $10 00 Boy's Gray Chinchilla Ulster	$7 50
" 8 50 " Blue "	7 00
" 7 00 " Brown "	5 75
" 6 50 " Brown and Blue	5 00
" 5 50 " Brown and Blue	4 25
" 4 50 " Cass Ulsters "	3 50
" 3 50 " Cass Ulsters "	2 75
" 2 75 " Chinchilla "	2 25
" 2 55 " Chinchilla "	99

Underwear Must Suffer

Our 8 50 Fleece Lined and Derby Ribbed	8 45
" 65 Fleece Lined and Fancy Ribbed	50
" 75 Fleece Lined and Fancy Ribbed	60
" 1 00 Wright's Fleece Lined	75
" 2 25 Wright's Medicated Wool Fleece	1 00

More to Follow—Broke Lots Price Cut Into.

Child's Chinchilla Reefers

Our $ 3 00 Chinchilla Reefers	$ 1 75
" 3 50 Chinchilla Reefers	2 25
" 4 50 Chinchilla Reefers	3 00
" 5 50 Chinchilla Reefers	3 50
" 7 50 A few large sizes	4 50

G. H. YESBERA

Special Attention, Everybody!

There is a tide in the affairs of men, which taken at the flood, leads on to fortune. The opportunity of a lifetime now presented to obtain an improvement, having such obvious advantages as will certainly justify in speculation and investment

The Farmer's Handy Gate

Five Reasons why it is the Best Gate for Farmers:

FIRST. It is a good, durable gate, made of good material and well painted

SECOND. It has the horizontal retractile movement on rollers, and the swinging movement on hinges.

THIRD. It can be raised so as to allow hogs or sheep to pass under, or to swing over deep snow It can be changed in a minute without tools, and with mittens on if desired.

FOURTH. It requires but two ordinary posts to hang the gate to, and requires no more room than a common side gate

FIFTH. Any child can operate the gate, can open and shut it, as it requires but the lightest strength.

Sample gate can be examined on the northeast corner of the court yard in Auburn. County, Township and Farm Rights for sale very reasonable.

F. L. PYLE, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

Remember

The Globe Clothing and Shoe Co.

—ARE—

SELLING OUT

—TO—

QUIT THE BUSINESS

$25.00 $25 00

GOLD WATCH GIVEN AWAY

ON JANUARY 1, 1895, BY

Fred J. Yesbera,

The Auburn Jeweler,

For each and every 50 cents you invest at my store from now until the first of January you will get a guess free. I have placed on my show case a quart jar of mixed seeds, and the one coming closest guessing the exact number in the jar gets the watdh. My store is filled with good and useful articles, such as Diamond Rings, Gold and Silver watches, lots of Ladies' and Gents' Chains, Cut Glass, Silverware, Gold Spectacles, Gold Pens, and many other things too numerous to mention. You are invited to call and see what we have.

THEN

Bring in Your Feet and we will make them comfortable and warm.

LOOK AT US!

Out line of School Shoes is the largest and best in the county.

Call and Take a look at Them.

SHULL'S

CASH - SHOE - STORE

Advertise what you have, Have what you Advertise.

That's our way. We never come out with flaming advertisements, and when you come for the goods are told "that we are just out." We always have the stuff just as advertised. That with our Strictly Cash Selling, Very Lowest Prices, Enormous Stocks, Best Qualities and One Price to All, increases our business every day.

Just now we are very Busy Selling Holiday Presents.

We Show the Largest Stock of Handkerchiefs, Celluloid Goods, Dolls, Fancy Boxes, Dressing Cases, Fans, Fascinators, Pocketbooks and Purses, Ice Wool Shawls, Men's Neckwear, Stamped Linens, Ladies' Neckwear, Furs, Gloves, Mittens, Shirt Waists, Towels, Table Linens, Etc.

.....Immense Rtock of.....

DRESS GOODS and SILKS Suitable for Holiday Gifts.

Here's some prices on Staple Dry Goods:

PRINTS	GINGHAMS	OUTING	Dress Goods	Dress Goods
4c	4c	5c	8c	12½c

Every Forenoon we give a

REMNANT SALE

in all department of our immense store. It will pay you to investigate this sale as Remnants are sold much less than cost of production.

Large Stock of Desirable

Winter Cloaks, Jackets and Furs.

One-Third Off Our Former Extremely Low Cash Prices.

BISHOP & LACKEY,

Leading Merchants of DeKalb County.

E. C. Sheets,

The Merchant Tailor, over the Farmers Bank, wants to do your

Repairing.

He also has a fine line of samples, and and will make you a suit or ovecoat

Cheap.

GROFF'S Rheumatic Cure

Is the only positive Cure known to the Medical Profession for the Cure of Acute and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Ovarian Neuralgia, Dismenorrhœa, Psoriasis, Scrofula, Liver and Kidney Diseases. A positive Cure effected in from 6 to 18 days.

For Sale By Groff Medicine Co., Chicago, Ill.

LOST - MANHOOD - RESTORED!

—BY THE USE OF—

Dr. Lagroes Nerve and Brain Pills

The Greatest Remedy Known in Mental Overwork.

Sextual Debility, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors and Lost Manhood, Excessive Use of Tobacco all of which leads to insanity if not checked. Sent by mail or express prepaid on receipt of $1 per box; 3 boxes $2.50; 6 boxes $5.00. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded

J. D. CAMPBELL, General Agent for Indiana, WATERLOO, INDIANA

MONEY - TO - LOAN

On Real Estate Security,

In large or small ammounts at a low rate of Interest, long or short time. No Commission.

Inquire at Farmers Bank.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

Straight Loans —ON— Farm or Business Property —AT— 6 Per Cent.

Walter C. Hartman

A Friend's Advice.

William Windecknecht, a wealthy farmer of Muskegon county, personally appeared before me, a Notary Public, this day and deposes and says: That for the past year or so, he was afflicted with Weakness Trembling, Heart Failure, Extreme Nervousness, Headache and General Debility; that he has consulted with physicians and received no benefit. He was persuaded by a friend to try a sample bottle of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer, and he says that the Trembling and Nervous feeling was immediately stopped by it use. Afterwards he used two bottles of the same medicine and says he is entirely cured and free from that Trembling sensation; his heart gives him no trouble and he sleeps well. He further says, his general health is much better, and that he is calling the attention of his neighbors and friends to the remarkable value of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer."

Signed, W Windecknecht. For sale by F. E. Davenport

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Wednesday's Daily.

Pain has no show with Dr. Miles' Pain Pills.

R. Shull has a fine window display. The work was done by Bert Beidler.

Violins Mandolins, Guitars, Banjos, Autoharps, etc. etc., at A. J. Rogers Music Store. 29tf

Dr Bowman of St. Joe and Dr. Shoalter of Waterloo, were in town yesterday.

Mrs. Hanna Brown of Waterloo and her daughter, Mrs. Harley Baker of this place, made this office a pleasant call to-day.

Mrs. Sallie Jones returned this morning to Wabash after a few days visit with Mrs. W. H. Kiblinger Mrs. H. P. Stroh and others.

S. J. Tarney and daughter, of Jackson township were at Fort Wayne this morning, where Dr. Wheelock is treating the young ladies eyes.

An article that contains the two most esential parts is the White Gate. Why? Because it is not only convenient but durable.

The Laporte Argus says: F. P. Blair and family were called to Wawaka, Ind., Monday by the dangerous illness of Mrs. Blair's father.

No excuse for sleepless nights when you can get One Minute Cough Cure. It will relieve all annoyances, cure the most severe cough and give you rest and health Can you afford to do wilthout it? Davenport, the Druggist.

The person who disturbed the congregation last Sunday by coughing is requested to call on Robbins & McCord and get a bottle of Folev's Honey and Tar (50c), which always gives relief. 52

Coughing irritates the delicate organs and aggravates the disease. Instead of waiting, try One Minute Cough Cure. It helps at once making expectoration easy reduces the soreness and inflammation. Every one likes it. Davenport, druggist.

Have the following makes of second hand organs in stock that you can buy at your own price: 1 Kimball, 1 Mason & Hawlin, 1 Lyon and Healy, 1 Estey, 1 J. H. Clark, 2 Smith American, 1 Packard. A. J. Rogers, Auburn.

Judge McClellan received a letter last week from Amos Hale, now at Sioux City, Iowa, which brought the sad news of Mrs Hale's death Nov 30 The funeral was on Dec. 2. She had been in bad health for some time. This will be of interest to her old neighbors at Waterloo

Thursday's Daily.

Mrs S. N. Olds, of St. Joe, is the guest of her son A. B. and wife.

Rev. Henry Johnson, of South Bend returned to his home to-day.

Miss Laura Keeran went north on the Lake Shore to-day.

Guarantee to furnish you with a piano or organ of any grade for less money than you can buy elsewhere. A. J. Rogers Music Dealer Auburn.

Frank Kline, now on the Angola Republican passed through town over the Lake Shore this forenoon, on a business trip to Ft. Wayne. His wife came down with him and spent the day with friends in Auburn.

Wife—Here's an account of a man who shot himself rather than suffer pain of indigestion. Husband—The fool! Why did'nt he taken DeWitt's little Early Risers? I used to suffer as bad as he did before I began taking these pills.

For sale at F. E. Davenport's

We are in receipt of a letter from Orva T. Weeks now in Washington City, which says he has passed the civil examination, and has succeeded in getting through all right. He has his old place again, but says it is much harder work than it was when he was there a few years ago

A letter from Chas. Eckhart leaves him at Chattanooga from which point he will go to Atlanta to look over the fair for a time He has largely recovered from his recent illness His daughter, Mrs. Geo. Shugers will visit for a time yet at Cleveland, Tenn., where we presume she is a guest of Frand Culbertson's family.

If suffering with piles, it will interest you to know that DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will cure them. This medicine is a specific for all complaints of this character, and if instructions are carried out, a cure will result. We have tested this in numerous cases, and always with like results. It never fails. For sale at F. E Davenport's

Never before have the ladies been able to show such a profusion of lovely articles at the bazar, as this year There is a fine and delicate work of all kinds, and we predict their bazar will be popular, well patronzed by lovers of the beautiful and useful.

The secret of speedy cure in sickness lies in selecting the proper remedy and this is difficult to do unless one is sure what the ailment is. But one thing is sure, had the liver been actively at work sickness could not have come. It is then always safe to take Simmons Liver Regulator which keeps the liver well regulated and all prison expelled from the system.

From the Churubusco Truth we clip the following:—"Henry Shull, an old wealthy farmer living near Auburn, has just left for Montana on a strange mission. Several days ago he had a vivid dream, in which was pictured the exact spot where some miners, pursued by Indians, had buried a large amount of gold years ago. At first the old gentleman paid no attention to the dream but the memory of it clung to him so tenaciously that he at last made up his mind to investigate it and set his mind at rest." The Truth's informant must be insane for Mr. Shull reported no such nonsense before he left here for Montana. He simply went there to visit his son and daughter. From Montana he go to the Coast to visit another son.

Friday's Daily.

One Minute Cough Cure is a popular remedy for croup. Safe for children & adults. Davenport, the Druggist.

Never before have our merchants made such fine holiday displays as they are now.

Piles of people have piles, but DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will cure them, when promptly applied it cures scalds and burns without the slightest pain. Davenport, the Druggist.

The clerk has issued license to the following: Henry Bowman to Cora Hamberger, Sperry Smith to Cora Fales, Henry W Ackley to Carrie Stafford, John W. Ball to Emma McCosh.

New ice, the first of thes eason, came into Auburn to day. It was sent in by the Denisons from their Carp Lake fields, and was over six inches thick.

The White gate, that is on exhibition at the northeast corner of the court house lawn is a seller. Mr. Gardner, the agent is meeting with good success.

The two prisoners that Sheriff Stroh took to Michigan City first, will be out to morrow morning. They are Patterson and his partner, who were sent up for stealing wool.

Do not pay $100 for the antiquity of a name. This is a progressive age. Buy a Kimball piano or organ and keep pace with the times. For sale by A. J. Rogers Auburn Ind.

Mrs. John Kaler, of Bucyrus, O., is here to guest of her old neighbor Mrs W L. Penfield. She has been in Angola a few days and and came down from there this morning.

A daughter of Ex-Thurman now a resident of Colorado has discovered a rich gold mine. Her husband is a miner, and was once a famous ball player, Holliday of the Cincinnati club.

Seventh street again has done herself proud. The nicest, 10 lb. little boy became a resident thereof at 4 o'clock this morning and Mr. and Mrs G. H. Yesbera are the happiest people on that popular street.

Father Edward Boccard is the new priest who is to take the place of Father Faust as pastor of the Catholic church in Auburn. He comes here from Roanoke, where he has been in charge of two churches.

Dr. Buchtel received a letter from his brother at Indianapolis last week stating he had just been elected secretary of the Choral Union, the largest musical organization in this state. We are glad to note this fact. He must be as well posted in music as the doctor.

The Rebekahs of Auburn went to Waterloo last evening to visit the lodge at that place. They left here about 5:30 and on reaching Waterloo, found a splendid supper waiting them at the lodge room. They helped to initiate six new members, and after a very pleasant evening, turned their face homeward reaching home about 11 o'clock.

Saturday's Daily.

H. C. Shull has a new assistant on the north milk route.

Father Faust left this morning for his new field of labor at Huntington. Fath. Boccard, the new priest will preach here to-morrow.

Albert Weaver reports a blow up at Hebel Bros. store last night. Some one had loaded a stick of wood and when it went off the stove pipe did likewise.

Rev. J. K. Walz of the M. E. church married Frank Fulk of Auburn and Clara L. Poorman, of Defiance county, O., at the parsonage at 6:30 last evening. The COURIER wishes them a happy future.

WOOD WANTED: We now call the attention of all who were to bring in wood on their subscription accounts, that we are ready for it or any part of it. It would be well to get it here before bad roads overtake us.

LOST:—Two road tax receipts, one on Jacob Somers and one on Chris Ashelman. Finder will confer a favor by returning to G C. Lanham on South Van-Buren street, or by leaving at this office. S&M

One Minute Cough Cure is rightly named It affords instant relief from suffering when afflicted with a severe cough or cold. It acts on the throat, bronchial tubes, and lungs and never fails to give immediate relief. F. E Davenport.

Do not be deceived by the misleading advertisements of the snide eastern would be manufacturers who claim to sell you a $125 organ for $25, or in other words to give you gold dollars for 20c. If you insist on having that class of goods, we can get them for you for less money than you can buy them. A. J. Rogers Music Dealer Auburn. 49tf

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box For sale by Robbins & McCord

Papers of both parties are now giving some prominence to the supposed or proposed candidacy of O. L. Ballou for congress next year. As we have already said, it is too early to set a whole nestful of congressional eggs, but we would suggest that before the friends of Mr Ballou work themselves into a fever that it would be in order to explain the little telegram Ballou sent to Hon. J. B. White the day after Judge Lowry was defeated saying to White, "One thousand Lagrange democrats congratulate you on your election," or words to that effect. There are quite a number of democrats as able as Mr. Ballou, who have been democrats on election day as well as the rest of the time.

Did you see those beauts,—those diamond rings at Yesbera's for $500?

Monday's Daily.

Miles' Pain Pills are guaranteed to stop headache in 20 minutes. "One cent a dose."

Books at Olds Bros.

Attorneys W. H. Leas and Gen. Blair of Waterloo were here at court to-day.

Alterneys Baxter and Coats were over from Butler to-day, at court.

See the China at Olds Bros.

Attorneys Gengler and Myers, and editor Miner, were over from Garrett today.

Mrs. Swineford came home Saturday evening after a very pleasant visit with friends at Ashland, O.

FOR SALE:—One-half million feet good cull 1 inch lumber, at $6.00 per thousand feet. A. B. Nickey & Sons.

The Gandy room north of the square is being fitted up for Charles Snell, who will move his grocery there in a few days. It will be a nice room.

See Olds Bros lamps.

Miss Bertha Shaffer has gone to Garrett where she will reside with Mr. and Mrs. R. Blum, Mrs. Blum being her sister.

What a brilliant scene the new opera house will present on New Year's night with forty Ann Arbor students on the stage and every seat of the auditorium filled.

Yesbera the jeweler wants better police protection he says. The people are on to the fact that he has got lots of bargains this year in watches, clocks and jewelry.

Ernest Peters of Jackson township, formerly neighbor of the reporter, called on us Saturday and placed his name on the subscription list to the WEEKLY COURIER.

Select your presents for Sueday school classes early. Special prices at Davenport's.

The second annual election of the Auburn High School Alumni Association will be held in the recitation room of the High school building, Dec. 26 at 7 p. m. All high school graduates are requested to be present.

Town people should drop in at Yesbera's jewelry store in the forenoons and evenings to make their purchases, so as to avoid the rush in the afternoon by the farmers and people from other towns. Everybody is looking bargains now.

J. W Goodwin, of Pleasant Lake, was here to-day and ordered a lot of stationery at the COURIER office. We knew Joe when he was just starting in life, and are pleased that he has succeeded so well.

Mrs. J. W. Y McClellan came home Saturday from Ashland, O; where she had been attending the death bed of her father, who was a prosperous farmer near that place. She brought home a registered Jersey heifer, that he had raised for her and gave her just before he died.

There is nothing on earth that will please the old folks more on Christmas morning than a pair of those elegant Gold Spectacles at Yesbera's jewelry store.

Robinson Nichols of Newville township was a guest over Sunday of his Aunt, Mrs. Swineford, Mr. Nichols is one of Newville's enterprising, young farmers.

Alba Heywood, the well known actor and specialist is in Butler visiting his wifes parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Stoy. We see by the Butler papers that, he is assisting the band in preparing for the concert next Tuesday evening at that place. If the trains ran right, many of people would go over that evening, as Mr. Heywood is quite a favorite here.

Will Carleton's new book "Rhymes of Our Planet" just received at Davenport's.

If you're in doubt whether your trouble is Indigestion or Dyspepsia, just take a few doses of Simmons Liver Regulator it will settle the whole question. "I have tried Simmons Liver Regulator for Dyspepsia and find it just the thing to relieve me. A small dose after meals is sure to prevent Indigestion."—S. S Perkins, Sharon, Ga. "It is the best medicine to aid digestion. —J. J. Black Ducan, Arizona.

Get your pictures framed at Olds Bros.

F. A. Hoff has quite a curiosity, or did have, in the shape of butter duck. It is a fine lump of butter of weighing, we presume a couple of pounds or so made in the exact form of a duck, including head, and bill, eyes, and the appearance of feathers being given it by turning up little slices of the butter. It has even the queer little curls at the tail. We did not learn the name of the lady who made it, but it is quite a curiosity. It looks too bad to sell it "at so much a pound."

Our line of holiday goods is too large to enumerate. There is something for everybody. Call and see Davenport.

The COURIER is indebted to Congressman Leighty for a copy of President Cleveland's recent message in convenient, pamphlet form. The document is worthy of being kept, whether one likes the sentiments or not. It has been many years since there was a president's message that was so much discussed for or against, as this one of Cleveland's will be It is an able document and will keep many a weaker man a year or so, busy in fighting it. On the other hand, the President's friends find in it much to commend and some very strong facts that will bear study.

How many times in the past year has your wife told you to get a clock so she could have the meal on time. Now if your wife would neglect your wishes half as much as you do hers you would break every piece of furniture in the house in less than no time. Yesbera sells a dandy clock for $3.99.

FOR SALE:—One-half million feet good cull 1 inch lumber, at $6.00 per thousand feet. A. B. Nickey & Sons.

Tuesday's Daily.

What stops Neuralgia? Dr. Miles' Pain Pills.

Our line of books for the holidays is very complete. Call and look them over at Davenport's.

Read Dr. Rudolph California letter.

Pianos and organs at A. J. Rogers music store for sale at low prices and on easy terms. 29t

If you are suffering from Catarrh or any disease of the nose, throat or lungs, Dr. Nusbaum's specific treatment will cure you. W. H. Nusbaum, M. D. 48tf

New things in celluloid goods, elegant and cheap at Davenport's.

Dr. Baxter, who was here this summer expects soon to locate in Auburn. His present home is in the south part of this state.

Don't fail to read F. J. Yesbera's ad in this paper and see what he is giving away.

Why go to Chicago or Fort Wayne to buy a piano or organ? You certainly can buy for less money right here in Auburn. That fact is demonstrated right along to customers who have investigated prices. A. J. Rogers, Music Dealer Auburn.

Buy your Holiday goods at Olds Bros

The COURIER is in receipt of another lot of those beautiful shells from the sea shore. They were sent by Mrs. F A. Warner, of Jacksonvill Florida. She will send them to any address for two or three two cent stamps.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness, indigestion, constipation. A small pill, a prompt cure. For sale at F. E Davenport's

Don't fail to visit Olds Bros, and see their holiday goods of all kinds

Will allow you more for your old piano or organ in exchange for a new one than any other dealer, at A. J. Rogers' Auburn.

What would make a nicer Christmas present than a piece of that cut glass at F. J. Yesbera's jewely store. You will find the price right.

Republican party has held ten national conventions on these dates, 1856, 1860, 1864, 1868, 1872, 1876, 1880, 1884, 1888, 1892. Two were held in May and the rest in June, the last one being the latest in point of date, was held June 19.

Two Little Pilgrims Progress by Mrs. Burnett, is the finest juvenile published this year Mrs Margaret E Sangste says: "It is a story to be marked with a white stone; a strong, sweet, true book, a touching the high-water mark of excellence." For sale at Davenport's drug store.

G. S. McCord has lot of fine evergreen trees that are suitable for Christmas trees. They are all sizes, and make nice trees for churches or families.

Olds Bros is the place to buy dolls, doll cabs, and furniture.

Fred Gale of Pulaskiville, Ohio, dealer in and breeder of fancy pigeons will have a large collection of pigeons at the Auburn Poultry show, Will sell, or exchange for fancy poultry. Come out and see birds worth $5 to $25 per pair.

The largest line of ladies' and gent's watch chains ever before brought to Auburn is now on exhition at Yesbera's jewelry store.

FOR SALE:—One-half million feet good cull 1 inch lumber, at $6.00 per thousand feet. A. B. Nickey & Sons.

Seats for the Ann Arbor Glee Banjo and Mandolin Clubs concerts are being engaged very rapidly. Order your seat of one of the Juniors. Every one ordering a seat will secure it when the board is opened.

When the Lake Shore train came in last night at 5:29 there were only two passengers on the train. The smoking car was empty and the two passengers occupied the rear coach. The train had scarcely come to a stop when the conductor hallooed, "All aboard." Several passengers were taken on here but none got off. This is the first time since the reporter has visited the depots that so few passengers could be found on a Lake Shore train. The railroads evidently are complaining as much as our business men about a lack of business. People are saving all of their money at present to purchase gifts for Christmas. And on the other hand they may be waiting for the reduced rates on the railroads.

The corn crop in Wabash county is simply wonderful. An exchange says: The champion snake liar is not in it with a Wabash county man who says that a thriving farmer of that vicinity has a corn yield so great that the space on the cob was inadequate to hold all the grains. As a natural consequence a double set of rows of grains grew, one on top of the other on every ear. Then comes the new champion with the assertion that every corn stalk in his field has four large ears and a cup at the top of each stalk the size of a peck measure, which is filled with shelled corn.

At the recent meeting of the democratic state central committee at Indianapolis, they unanimously passed a resolution naming Gov. Matthews, as the candidate Indiana would present for president, at the next democratic national convention. It is but justice to the Governor, that he objected to this early boom, as any sensible man would. The enthusiasm of a man's friends often injures him. The Goverdor is too good a man to be killed off by an early boom.

Congress will not likely do anything till after New Year's, as speaker Reed has not appointed the committees, as yet, although he has known since the election in November 1894 who the members would be, and that he would be the speaker. They will likely adjourn next Thursday or Friday and not assemble again till Jan. 6.

No morphine or opium in Dr. Miles' PAIN PILLS. CURE All Pain. "One cent a dose."

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

GOOD FOR EVERYBODY

Almost everybody takes some laxative medicine to cleanse the system and keep the blood pure. Those who take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR (liquid or powder) get all the benefits of a mild and pleasant laxative and tonic that purifies the blood and strengthens the whole system. And more than this: SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR regulates the Liver, keeps it active and healthy, and when the Liver is in good condition you find yourself free from Malaria, Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick-Headache and Constipation, and rid of that worn out and debilitated feeling. These are all caused by a sluggish Liver Good digestion and freedom from stomach troubles will only be had when the liver is properly at work. If troubled with any of these complaints, try SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR. The King of Liver Medicines, and Better than Pills.

—EVERY PACKAGE—

Has the Z Stamp in red on wrapper.

J. H. Zeilin & Co., Phila., Pa.

CORRESPONDENCE

CORUNNA

Milo Thomas was in Lagonier last Wednesday on business.

Mrs. Isaac Reed and Miss Minnie Weimer spent last Saturday night and Sunday with friends in Garrett.

Quince, Finch and Dawson shipped a car each of sheep and hogs from Hudson on the 10th of Inst.

Chauncy Wigent, who has been visiting his brothers here and assisting in the mill for several weeks, returned to his home at Coesse last Wednesday.

Oliver Rosenberry is able to be out again after having the rheumatism for a couple of weeks.

The different Sunday Schools are practicing and making preparations for Christmas entertainments.

Mrs. Gus Harding slipped and fell last Monday evening and received a few severe injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Quince are now occupying their new house, which is one among the most handsome on the north side of the railroad.

W.H. Daily has purchased the Chaffee property occupied by John Lipsett as a grocery. Mr. Daily is going to repair the building somewhat, and then launch out into the boisterous mercantile sea for himself. We wish Mr. Daily success in his new undertaking.

BUTLER.

Michael Wallick, residing 2½ miles east of Butler was taken ill very suddenly last Friday morning about 9 o'clock and despite the efforts of physicians and friends died about 3 p m. He was apparently in health up to the time of his death. His funeral took place from Big Run Chapel last Sabbath. He leaves several grown up children. His wife died several years ago. Mr Wallick was a highly respected farmer, about 58 years of age, and will be seriously missed in his neighborhood.

During the forties there settled a family by the name of French, 1½ miles south of Butler. The family consisted of husband and wife. They were members of the United Brethren church and well thought of. The husband died soon after, leaving the wife alone. In '44, another family by the name of Cherry, Elder Cherry, as he was for years after known, moved in and settled on the farm just north, now owned by A. J. Mason, W. L. Blair and several others. In his family were several boys, and one of them, then quite a young man, went to live with and do chores for the Widow French and shortly after (1851) by some strange caprice married her. The disparity in their ages, she being much older than Mr. Cherry, created a great deal of comment among the scattered settlers. The broad acres of the farm was construed by many to have been the motive that brought about this strange union. It afterward transpired that Mrs. French had only a life estate in the land. Mr. French in his religious zeal had bequeathed it to his favorite church. Whether Mr. Cherry was deceived in this matter or not never was disclosed. Mr. Cherry led a long, useful and honored life, was in the ministry a number of years, and died in Butler a few years ago, his aged wife surviving him. Last Wednesday at her home in Butler occurred the death of Mrs Cherry, after a lingering illness of many weeks. This calls to the writer's mind the strange events of two lives that if unwisely mated, were never known to betray their disappointment by word or action.

Awarded Highest Honors—World's Fair,

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

SANTA CLAUS is the children's friend. Who he was we have little means of knowing. Authentic history is almost silent on the subject, merely stating that he was the Bishop of Myra, in Lycia, and died about the year 326. Tradition has woven many a pretty tale about him, and one runs that he appeared in the night time and secretly made valuable presents to the children of the household. What manner of person St. Nicholas was, seems subject to variation, according to the time, place or manner of regarding him. Medieval painters represent him as slender, and clad in full episcopal robes with miter and crozier. Modern painters and storytellers in England, Germany and America, give us a jovial, rubicund type of a man, with none of the features of the cleric. Kris Kringle is regarded as an alternative name for Santa Claus, but he is a totally different being. Kris Kringle is simply a corruption of the German word "Christ Kindlein," or Christ Child.

Christmas is children's day; it is the day when, as Dickens says, we should remember the time when its great founder was a child himself. It is especially the day for the friendless young, the children in hospitals, the lame, the sick, the weary, the blind. No child should be left alone on Christmas day, for loneliness with children means brooding. A child growing up with no child friend is not a child at all, but a premature man or woman.

The best Christmas present to a boy is a box of tools, the best to a girl any number of dolls. When they get older and can write letters a postoffice is a delightful boon. These are to be bought, but they are far more amusing if made at home. Any good-sized cardboard box will do for this purpose. The lid should be fastened to it so that when it stands up it will open like a door. A slit must be cut out about an inch wide and from five to six inches long, so as to allow the postage of small parcels, yet not large enough even to admit the smallest hand. Children should learn to respect the inviolate character of the post from the earliest age.

Capital scrapbooks can be made by children. Old railway guides may be the foundation and every illustrated paper a magazine of art. A paste box, next to a paint box, is a most serviceable toy. Hobby horses are profitable steeds and can be made to go through any amount of paces. But mechanical toys are more amusing to his elders than to the child, who wishes to do his own mechanism. A boy can be amused by turning him out of the house, giving him a ball or a kite, or letting him dig in the ground for the unhappy mole. Little girls, who must be kept in on a rainy day, or invalid children, are very hard to amuse, and recourse must be had to story telling, to the dear, delightful thousand and one books now written for children, of which "Alice in Wonderland" is the flower of perfection.

BEGINNING at Benton City, on the Union Pacific Road, the telegraph line stretches to the north, leaps across the Laramie mountains, and at a point opposite the great mass of earth and rock and tree, called Red Butte, it comes to a sudden stop. From this point to the fort, a distance of twenty-five miles, is the roughest portion of the way, and the skulking bands of Indians make it the most dangerous.

At the terminus of the line is a rude shanty and a soldier operator. Close by the shanty are tents of the soldiers, who are setting the poles and pushing the line along until the fort shall have electric communication with the outside world.

It is December now—only two days to Christmas. There have been cold rains, snow storms, severe weather, and the soldiers are wondering why they have not been ordered back to the fort for the winter, when a mounted messenger arrives over the trail bearing the expected order. The Colonel's wife has gone East. The operator is to wire her to remain where she is until spring. When her answer is received the shanty is to be closed up, camp broken, and the party headed for the fort. The afternoon wears away, the night comes down, and some of the soldiers are asleep, when Benton City sends in its call, and follows it by a telegram reading: "The Colonel's wife started West four days ago, and ought to be there or at the fort now."

Next morning there was an arrival from the South. The Colonel's wife, riding a horse with a blanket for a saddle, dismounted at the front of the shanty, and opened the door with a cheery "Howdy do, boys!" to the operator and the Sergeant. As both men stood at "attention," she removed the hood and cloak which enveloped her, shook off the snow, and said to the Sergeant:

"I came through with hardly an hour's rest, and I'm hungry as a wolf. Tell some of the men to cook something. I'll give the Colonel a surprise."

Everybody hustled and bustled, and an hour later camp was broken, and twelve people headed for the north, the strongest man breaking the way, and the Colonel's wife bringing up the rear, with a kind word and a smile for every soldier. The trail led up a narrow valley, and the wild gale had drifted the snow until the line had to move forward at a snail's pace. At nightfall they had made just half the distance to the fort. In a thicket all ate supper together. Said the Sergeant, as he looked in vain for the stars:

"I saw Injun signs back by the creek."

"I see that you have revolvers as well as muskets," remarked the Colonel's wife. "Please give me one and extra ammunition. I'll try and not be a burden to you, at least."

As the gale came sweeping down the valley and roaring around the mountain base, there were wild war whoops and the crack of rifles. In the darkness a score of Indians had crept close upon the camp. Both sentries were shot dead.

"It's only Injuns, boys; only Injuns!"

"THEY WON'T TAKE ME PRISONER."

shouted the Sergeant, and he fired his first shot. "Now, then, push out."

They had not moved ten rods before a rifle cracked and one of the men pitched forward, shot through the heart. A minute later two more bullets whistled over the men's heads. Then the little band was hidden from sight of the Indian sentinels by the blinding whirl of snow.

"They're after us, ma'am," said the Sergeant.

"They won't take me prisoner," whispered the Colonel's wife, as she held out the revolver.

"That's right, ma'am. We are headed for the fort right enough, and maybe the red fiends will haul off after a bit and let us go in peace. A merry Christmas to you, though I've seen merrier ones in my time."

For a mile or more the little party breasted the storm. Then came a sudden shot, and the rear guard went down. There were seven men and a woman at 8 o'clock. At 9 o'clock there were but five men, at 10 but four, at midnight only two. Two men and a woman—the Sergeant, the soldier-operator, and the Colonel's wife. The others had been picked off one by one, and the Indians still followed. Now and then the trio halted, knelt down, and peering into the snow-whirl, opened a fusillade which checked pursuit if it did not wound or kill.

Instinct must have guided them in that storm—Providence must have shielded them from the bullets, but the storm continued to rage and the vengeful foe to pursue, till the report of the firearms reached the ears of the sentinel at the fort. No one had yet learned what was happening, when three figures staggered up to the gate, and on into the fort, and up to the door of the Colonel's headquarters. Two of the figures held up a third between them. As he peered in the Sergeant saluted and said:

"Col. Dawson, I report myself, and I bring you a Christmas present."

And as the Colonel uttered a shout of surprise and rushed forward with outstretched arms, the brave little woman fell into them, and the two men sank down in their tracks, and those who lifted them up wet their fingers with the blood of heroes.

A handsome merry-faced woman, who is five years older—a Sergeant of infantry who limps a bit—a lone grave in which sleeps the soldier-operator—nothing more to be seen. The Colonel's wife may tell you the story—the Sergeant couldn't be coaxed to, but he can't conceal the limp, and is proud of the extra stripes he has worn on his sleeves ever since that Christmas day.

"BOTH MEN STOOD AT ATTENTION."

He Was Surprised.

Mrs. Gazzam—I've got a box of cigars for my husband's Christmas present, which will surprise him.

Mrs. Maddox—Women don't know how to buy cigars for men.

Mrs. Gazzam—I know that, so I got Brother Jack to get them for me.—Judge.

INDOOR CHRISTMAS GAMES.

How the Young Folks May Find Pleasure if the Day Be Stormy.

Parlor games like chess, draughts, dominoes, etc., are too heavy for Christmas. The boys and birls want more rollicking, hip-hip-hurrah games. A committee appointed to provide desirable amusement for a well-known charity in New York selected the following program. Ten hours were spent in selecting appropriate indoor games and pastimes, and even then no more than were actually needed were decided upon, says the New York Mail and Express. If the children can get out of doors their amusement is easy, for baseball, leap frog, hide and seek, and other games suffice, but indoors something akin to these games is wanted.

In this class is a game known as "The Country Circus." It consists in making riders, tumblers, clowns, strong men, etc., of all the children and with this improvised company giving a performance. Another good game for the house is called "Jack-of-All-Trades," in which those engaged must perform some work in the particular trade to which they are assigned by the foreman. In this game on Thanksgiving the boys and girls of an institution in Jersey cut and sewed a lot of carpet rags, made a lote of brushes, and split and bundled several cords of wood.

"The Boy Hunters," in which the children learn the name, habits, and peculiarities of the entire animal kingdom, is another good game, and "Robinson Crusoe" one of the same kind and value. All these games are active ones, require constant movement, and are meant only for the daylight. For the evening, games less boisterous must be chosen. In this class are "Anagrams," "Authors," "History of Our Times," and shadow pantomimes. The last named, however, are the most popular and enjoyable and have so increased in favor that books written especially to show how to prepare and perform them can be had at any well-stocked book store.

A Financial Transaction.

"Say, mister," said a boy who had just overtaken a market wagon after pursuing it for four or five blocks, "do you wanter know who hit you in the neck with that hard snowball?"

"You bet I do," replied the man, slackening speed.

"Will ye gimme a quarter ef I ketch him and bring him here?"

"Yep."

"Gimme 50 cents?"

"Yes," said the driver, lifting his whip from the socket; "but I don't give you any more'n that."

"Well, git the money ready."

"You haven't got the boy that threw the snowball yet."

"Yes, I have. That boy is me. Dad's sick, and me mother can't get work. The twins is too little ter earn anything, an' if I don't hustle there won't be any Christmas tree at our house. I'll take a lickin' any day fur 50 cents."

"Sonny," said the market man, in a voice that was remarkably husky, "here's yer 50 cents. I'm in a hurry now—you needn't bother about deliverin' the goods. We'll call it square."—Washington Star.

Come, old year, 'tis time to go.
Age, perhaps, has made you slow.
But your time of rule has flown
And I come to claim my own.

You are popular no more,
All your triumphs here are gone,
With what strength is left to you,
Had you better hasten on.

Learning from experience,
I have promised much, like you.
When another year has flown
People will condemn me, too.

But what matters that to us?
Years, like men, must come and go
We are fast with promises,
With fulfillments we are slow.

Told by Talmage.

I never like a Christmas season to pass without telling a thrilling incident which happened at my house just eleven years ago this coming Christmas, writes Dr. Talmage. We had just distributed the family presents Christmas morning when I heard a great cry of distress in the hallway. A child from a neighbor's house came in to say her father was dead. It was only three doors off, and, I think, in two minutes we were there. There lay the old Christian sea captain, his face upturned toward the window as though he had suddenly seen the headlands, and with an illuminated countenance as though he were just going into harbor. The fact was he had already got through the "Narrows." In the adjoining room were the Christmas presents waiting for his distribution. Long ago, one night when he had narrowly escaped with his ship from being run down by a great ocean steamer, he had made his peace with God, and a kinder neighbor than Capt. Pendleton you would not find this side of heaven.

He had often talked to me of the goodness of God, and especially of a time when he was about to go into New York harbor with his ship from Liverpool, and he was suddenly impressed that he ought to put back to sea. Under the protest of the crew and under their very threat he put back to sea, learning at the same time he was losing his mind, for it did seem so unreasonable that when they could get into harbor that night they should put back to sea. But they put back to sea, and Capt. Pendleton said to his mate: "You call me at 10 o'clock at night." At 12 o'clock at night the Captain was aroused and said: "What does this mean? I thought I told you to call me at 10 o'clock, and here it is 12." "Why," said the mate, "I did call you at 10 o'clock, and you got up, looked around and told me to keep right on this same course for two hours, and then to call you at 12 o'clock." Said the Captain: "Is it possible? I have no remembrance of that." At 12 o'clock the captain went on deck, and through the rift of the cloud the moonlight fell upon the sea and showed him a shipwreck with one hundred struggling passengers. He helped them off. Had he been any earlier or any later at that point of the sea he would have been of no service to those drowning people. On board the captain's vessel, they began to band together as to what they should pay for the rescue, and what they should pay for the provisions. "Ah," says the captain, "my lads, you can't pay me anything; all I have on board is yours; I feel too greatly honored of God in having saved you to take any pay." Just like him.

Oh, that the old sea captain's God might be my God and yours. Amid the stormy seas of this life may we have always some one as tenderly to take care of us as the captain took care of the drowning crew and the passengers. And may we come into the harbor with as little physical pain and with as bright a hope as he had; and if it should happen to be a Christmas morning, when the presents are being distributed and we are celebrating the birth of Him who came to save our shipwrecked world, all the better, for what grander, brighter Christmas present could we have this heaven?

The Boarding-House Turkey.

"Is the fuse laid?" inquired the landlady of the head waiter.

"It is, madame."

"Then fire it."

"I have, madame."

"But the turkey is still whole."

"Yes, madame, the powder had no effect on it."

"Then send for some dynamite, and tell the boarders the turkey is so tender it takes time to carve it.

His Reason.

It was drawing near to a very interesting season of the year. Willy was getting ready for bed. His mother looked happy.

"My dear," she said, "I am glad to see that you do not hurry through your prayers as you used to do."

"No, ma'am," said Willy; "Christmas is week after next, and I have a good many things to ask for."

Christmas in the Past.

Christmas, as the American boy or girl now knows it, has not been thus always. The father of the boy or girl of to-day can well remember, if he has reached the age of forty or upward, a time when this splendid festival had practically no existence for him. In certain parts of the country, indeed, Christmas has never been forgotten. In New York City, in Pennsylvania, and in the South generally, Christmas, as well as Easter, has always been observed.

In New England, however, in many of the rural parts of New York, and in portions of the country which were settled from New England and from rural New York, Christmas was, forty years ago, but a name.

Some trace of it seemed to have survived in the occasional practice of hanging up the stocking on Christmas eve. Boys and girls often hung their stockings by the fireplace, and in the morning, if they were fortunate, there was in each stocking a store of nuts, a little candy, and perhaps a jack-knife or a thimble.

But next day—Christmas day—the boys and girls went to school as usual, and fathers and mothers went about their usual tasks. There was no holiday and no big Christmas dinner.

The one feast of the year had been eaten at Thanksgiving. The mince-pies accumulated for that festival were still making their appearance upon the family table; and the pies, and the memory of all the other good things and sports of Thanksgiving, had to serve the children of that period, as far as holidays were concerned, until Fast Day came round again.

In most of the States, indeed, the children had not even Fast Day to look forward to. There was no real holiday until the Fourth of July. For them there were practically but two holidays in the year.

The recollections of Christmas which a person of fifty should undertake to relate to his children would be very much like the celebrated chapter about the snakes in Ireland, which simply stated that there were no snakes in Ireland.

He might, however, have a vivid recollection of a rather lonesome ten minutes spent in hanging a woollen stocking by a fireplace, during which time his parents sat solemnly by, looking as if they did not altogether approve what he was doing. The joy with which he might anticipate a possible gift was tempered not a little by the remembrance of one Christmas morning when he arose eagerly, searched his stocking, and found nothing whatever in it.

Very soon, however, the real Christmas began to grow up, as it were. The most powerful agency in making its observance general was the Sunday school. Always on the lookout for something with which to arouse the interest of children, the Sunday school of thirty years ago early made choice of Christmas. "Trees" were introduced as a feature of an annual observance, and many little gifts were distributed.

It was customary to have the passages in the Gospel relating to the birth of Christ read aloud by one of the pupils of the Sunday school who could read well, and this office was greatly coveted. The chance of being selected to read these passages aloud at Christmas was a sufficient incentive to many pupils to pay particular attention to their reading lessons at school for months together.

The interest of the children in these exercises was very great from the start, and it soon drew the older people into an almost equal interest in the revival of the old festival. In a surprisingly short time Christmas had become the most important day in the year.

As in the Olden Time.

I saw an old, old man, and an old, old woman walking arm in arm on the street the other day, and by and by they turned into a toy store and began making purchases as eagerly as other people of half their years.

"You buy for your grand-children?" I whispered.

"No; for our own," replied the woman.

"But you are so old that your children must be men and women grown."

"Ah! but they are not. The eldest is not yet 12 years of age, and we have four."

She had tears in her eyes as she answered me, and by and by she continued:

"They are dead—all dead! Once there was but one stocking for Santa Claus to fill, and but one curly head to creep from his trundle bed at break of day and shout with gladness over the gifts bestowed. By and by there was a second—then a third—then four stockings hung in a row at Christmas time, and four children blessed me good-night, and said:

"'If Santa Claus comes before you go to bed, tell him we have been good children.'"

"But they are now dead."

"Yes—all dead. One week took them all from us—one grave holds them all. But on Christmas Eve four stockings will hang in a row again, and Santa Claus will come as of old. Every Christmas Eve since their voices were hushed in death the four stockings have been hung up. There are no glad voices—no soft kisses—no tender good-nights. Those have been unheard for almost a score of years. Father and I sit there and listen for footsteps, but they do not come. We hearken to voices which can never speak again. Our hearts are heavy and our eyes full of tears, but before we sleep we fill the stockings as of old, and it seems as if the children come back from heaven for that one night.

"And so," she said, as the tears came faster, "we buy for this Christmas Eve, and we shall sit down and call our children about us as in the olden time, and it will keep our hearts tender and help us to bear the burden of many years."

Keeping Christmas Wisely.

Thoughtful people have discovered that we are in danger of losing our Christmas by doing it to death. It may die of surfeit, as well as a pet, or a love.

The madding crowd making itself maniac across the impassable streets, choking the writhing shops, stalling the railway trains, blocking the United States mails, and choking, stalling, blocking, and madding more madly every year than it did the year before, does not necessarily mean the growth of the Christmas sense, but is quite as likely to mean the growth of Christmas nonsense. It means a vast amount of folly, imitation, greed, ambition. It means an incalculable sum of envies, disappointments, jealousies. It means unmeasured aches. It means women literally "tired to death," and men in debt, and neighbors offended, and rich relatives cajoled, and a host of human blunders which we might call the Christmas waste. All the processes of action have their waste, and it does not condemn the action, but only appeals to the intelligence behind the action to regulate the proportion between profit and loss.

So, when we have a fine thing—an art, invention, feeling or custom—the first point is how not to lose it, and it may be found that we need a high spiritual economy to save our Christmas from the kind of decadence that belongs to a society like ours. It is the greatest—it ought to be the grandest—day in our calendar. A petty spirit, a false extravagance, a lost temper, a worn-out body, a disappointed soul, have no more place at Christmas than at marriage time, or heaven time.

Now comes the glad New Year;
Though fate may do her worst,
She cannot blot that legend clear:
"All bills due on the first!"
—Atlanta Constitution.

"You haven't got $5 about you, Jones?" "No, I haven't. Wife borrowed the last to buy my Christmas present."—Atlanta Constitution.

Father calls me William, sister calls me Will,
Mother calls me Willie—but the fellers call me Bill!

Mighty glad I ain't a girl—rather be a boy
Without them sashes, curls and things that's worn by Fauntleroy!

Love to chawnk green apples an' go swimmin' in the lake—
Hate to take the castor-ile they give fr belly-ache!

Most all the time the hull year roun' their ain't no flies on me,
But jes' 'fore Christmas I'm as good as I kin be!

Got a taller dog named Sport—sick 'im on the cat;
Fust thing she knows she doesn't know where she is at!

Got a clipper-sled, an' when us boys goes out to slide
'Long comes the grocery cart an' we all hook a ride!

But, sometimes, when the grocery man is worrited and cross,
He reaches at me with his whip and larrups up his hoss;

An' then I laff and holler: "Oh, you neyer teched me!"
But jes' 'fore Christmas I'm as good as I kin be!

Gran'ma says she hopes that when I get to be a man
I'll be a missioner like her oldes' brother Dan,

As wuz et up by the cannibals that lives in Ceylon's isle,
Where every prospeck pleases an' only man is vile!

But gran'ma she had never been to see a Wild West show,
Or read the life uv Daniel Boone, or else I guess she'd know

That Buffalo Bill an' cowboys is good enough f'r me—
Excep' jes' 'fore Christmas, when I'm good as I kin be!

Then ol' Sport he hangs around, so sollum like and still—
His eyes they seem a-sayin': "What's er matter, little Bill?"

The cat she sneaks down off her perch, a-wonderin' what's become
Uv them two enemies uv hern that use ter make things hum!

But I am so perlite and stick so earnestlike to bis,
That mother sez to father: "How improved our Willie is!"

But father, lavin' been a boy hisself, suspicions me,
When, Jes' 'fore Christmas, I'm as good as I kin be!

For Christmas, with its lots an' lots uv candies, cakes and toys,
Wuz made, they say, f'r proper kids, and not f'r naughty boys!

So wash yer face, and bresh yer hair, an' min' yer p's and q's,

An' don't bust out yer pantaloons, an' don't wear out your shoes;
Say yessum to the ladies, an' yessir to the men
An' when they's company don't pass yer plate f'r pie again;
But, thinkin' uv the things you'd like to see upon that tree,
Jes' 'fore Christmas be as good as you kin be!
—Eugene Field, in Ladies' Home Journal.

Yuletide Customs.

It is customary to give a quarter present and expect a $5 one in return.

With the usual perverseness of nature, Christmas comes in the middle of a hard winter.

The modern highwayman doesn't say "money or your life!" he wishes you "a merry Christmas."

The small boy who tries to make too much noise is apt to blame Santa Claus for not giving him an extra head for his drum.

Some people wish you a merry Christmas instead of giving you a present, because it's easier to pay the compliment of the season than it is to settle with Santa Claus.

Your wife expects you to look pleased when she gives you a $40 smoking jacket and tells you she has had it charged.—Truth.

A Christmas Entertainment.

A novel idea for a children's Christmas entertainment is a butterflies' ball, writes Elizabeth Robinson Scovil, in the Ladies' Home Journal. This need not mean late hours nor expensive dresses. The boys wear tight-fitting suits of black or dark-brown, the girl any pretty, fanciful dresses. The framework of the wings is deftly fashioned of wire and covered with paper or the cotton crepon that comes in such vivid colors; these are spangled with gold or painted to represent the tinting of the butterfly's wings. A light yoke of wire is constructed to fit the shoulders, fastening under the arms, and to this the wings are attached. The effect is very brilliant and graceful. Another pretty fancy is an archery fete. The children carry small bows dressed with flowers, and sheafs of arrows in flower-bedecked quivers.

THE CHRISTMAS TREE STATE.

Great Demand Is Annually Made on the Forests of Maine.

Not all who desire a Christmas-tree for the holiday merrymakings can sally forth, armed with a hatchet, and hew from their own acres. Therefore at each Christmas season great demand is made on the forests of Maine for young spruces.

No tree but an evergreen will do, and no evergreen but the spruce presents the delicate, feather-flat, clean-limbed branches of dark perennial shade, which throw out by contrast the brightness of the suspended presents and favors.

On Sunday, the fifth of December, 1891, ten car-loads of Christmas trees for New York were detained in the Portland yard because they were loaded so that it was impossible to work the brakes. This objection was overruled, and the sweet-smelling freight was allowed to proceed to its destination. How the cars were loaded can easily be described, but the fragrance of twenty-five thousand freshly cut evergreen trees must be left to the reader's imagination.

The ten cars, all "flats," or platform cars, were each thirty-four feet long, loaded eight feet high, and all came from the small station of Wiscasset, which lies at the head of one of the numerous bays on the coast of Maine.

At regular intervals about each car, four on each side and two at each end, were stout spruce stakes, originally Christmas trees which might have done duty at the Castle De Blunderbore. These rose to the top of the load, which was limited to a height that would clear all overhead bridges on the road.

In this space the trees were packed lengthwise, butts to the front and rear tops to the center, so compactly that the loaded car was one solid block of green. Each car held about twenty-five hundred trees, large and small, tied in bundles of four. From six hundred and fifty to seven hundred bundles were packed in a car, so that the ten car-load lot contained twenty-five thousand trees at least.

The marketing of Christmas trees is a Maine specialty. Every year speculators purchase the right to cut trees from the land owners, paying half a cent, one cent, and two cents apiece for trees from eight to twelve years old on the stump. Then the natives are hired to cut and bring them to the shipping point, where they cost the speculator from ten to twelve cents each, loaded on the car.

He pays also for their shipment to New York—sixty-seven dollars per car, or about two and one-half cents per tree.

The trees retail in New York for from one to five dollars each, according to their size. The same quality of tree can be purchased on the street, in the city of Portland, at from twenty-five to fifty cents each, while in other parts of the State boys who wish for Christmas trees sally forth and cut them for themselves.—Youths' Companion.

A Christmas Church Idea.

If the platform of a church or Sunday school room be deep enough to admit of it an artistic Christmas arch can easily be made by an amateur carpenter, writes Florence Wilson, in the Ladies' Home Journal. The upper part should have wires stretched across, to which may be fastened small hemlock boughs, thus forming a solid mass of green. The framework should, of course, be wound with evergreen, the whole placed about two feet from the wall, so that behind it may be hung the Christmas bells of red and yellow immortelles at different lengths by ropes of evergreen. These bells may be made to hang at different angles by using fine picture wire. Let each bell be worded, so that they may seem to ring out their own song of "Glory to God in the highest."

For a Sunday school festival, a postoffice where each child upon inquiring might find an envelop addressed and sealed, containing a pretty Christmas card, is a unique feature. Then there is the huge snowball made of cotton, besprinkled with diamond dust and filled with gifts for the infant class, which may be rolled through the window with an appropriate letter from Santa Claus.

A Race Track Fiend Cured.

The following story is told by one who for years was an invgterate better on horses: "It was Christmas eve. My 4-year-old stood by my knee in his 'nighty' just before being tucked in his crib, and in his infantile manner was praying to Santa Claus to bring him the treasure upon which he had fixed his heart. When he had finished I asked the master of the house what should old Santa Claus bring papa? He bowed his little head on my knee again and innocently pleaded: 'And, dear Santa Claus, please bring papa a race horse that can win sometimes.' That was his mother's work, I suppose, but it went. I bought a tree that night, loaded it down with toys the boy had asked for, and then trimmed it with the tickets that hadn't won in the races. The unique festooning represented hundreds of hard dollars that had been scattered in the wake of a race-track 'skate.' I have not played a horse since that time, and I have made up my mind that I never will again. It's a delusion and a snare."

Johnny's Woe.

Curly headed Johnny had a tear drop in his eye,
Curly-headed Johnny couldn't speak without a sigh.
And the Christmas preparations that were 'round him everywhere
Had not the least effect upon his melancholy air.
"Oh, what's the use of hanging up my stocking," he would say;
"There's nothing to look forward to for me on Christmas Day;
He'll scratch us off his program when he hitches up his team,
For Santy needs a fireplace, and they heat our flat by steam."
—Washington Star.

Her Heart's Desire.

There comes a time once in every year, when children may without impropriety give their loving friends a hint in season.

Uncle William was talking with Lucy, his best little niece, about Christmas. He wished to know her mind upon a certain highly interesting object, but preferred to get at it indirectly.

"Now, Lucy," said he, in a casual manner, "if I were going to buy a doll for a little girl, what kind of a one do you think she would like?"

"O, Uncle William," answered Lucy, with undisguised interest, "there is nothing like twins!"

Nothing Slow About Johnnie.

Tommy—Did yer have a good time Christmas, Johnnie?

Johnnie—Don't yer see dat I did?—Life.

Always

Taking cold is a common complaint. It is due to impure and deficient blood, and it often leads to serious troubles. The remedy is found in pure, rich blood, and the one true blood purifier is

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Hood's Pills act harmoniously with Hood's Sarsaparilla. 25c.

The Lady of the Woods.

Because of the grace, slightness, and elegance of its figure, the birch tree has been well named the Lady of the Woods. Though not much used in the timber trade, it is nevertheless employed in a variety of other ways. The birch-bark canoe of the red Indian has never been surpassed in boats of this class. There is starch enough in its bark to form a rude kind of bread for the semi-savage folk in the icy north. It yields an oil which gives to Russia leather its agreeable odor. In Russia they use the wood for roofing, boxes, jars, shoes, carriages, furniture, and spoons, of which last-named article as many as thirty millions are made annually of its branches. Excellent brooms are made of its twigs, as many a boy can tell, having figured in what has been called "a bad quarter of an hour." Indeed, does not "to birch" mean "to chastise?"

THE best foreign fur for hat-making is produced in northern climates. Russia, Sweden, Norway, and the Dominion of Canada, together with Siberia, are said to produce the best felting furs.

TRUSTING WOMEN.

THEIR CONFIDENCE OFTEN LEADS TO SUFFERING.

An Ohio Woman's Experience, as Here Related, is Interesting to Every American Woman.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

It is a very sad fact that the more a woman trusts to the skill of her physician in treating her female complaints, the longer she is apt to suffer.

Lydia E. Pinkham fully realized this fact when she commenced that exhaustive study that has enabled the women of the world to help themselves. She discovered the source of female complaints, and produced the Vegetable Compound, which is their absolute cure.

When such testimony as the following is given, the woman who thinks should act quickly, and no longer permit herself to trust to incompetent doctors. The Vegetable Compound is sold by all druggists and every woman should have it.

"The doctors had told me that unless I went to the hospital and had an operation performed I could not live. I had falling, enlargement, and ulceration of the womb.

"I was in constant misery all the time; my back ached; I was always tired. It was impossible for me to walk far or stand long at a time. I was surely a wreck. I decided that I would give your Compound and Sanative Wash a trial.

"I took three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and used two packages of Sanative Wash, and I am now almost well. I am stouter and healthier than I have ever been in my life. My friends and neighbors and the doctors are surprised at my rapid improvement. I have told them all what I have been taking." — MRS. ANNETTA BICKMEIER, Bellaire, Belmont Co., O.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, OF ROXBURY, MASS.,

Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

FRIENDS' OATS
KILN-DRIED

Cost more to make, but are sold as cheap as inferior kinds

Free From Hulls

At All Grocers

Muscatine Oat Meal Co.
Muscatine, Iowa

NO MORE PROTECTION.

SPEAKER REED OUTLINES THE POLICY OF CONGRESS.

His Speech Is a Deliberate Admission that Legislation of Last Congress If Left Undisturbed Will Work Out a Restoration of Prosperity.

W. L. Wilson's Views.

In accepting the nomination of the Republican caucus for Speaker, the Hon. Thomas B. Reed made an important declaration of his attitude on the question of tariff legislation by the present Congress. He said:

"History will accord us praise for what we did in the Fifty-first Congress, and it may accord us its praise in this for what we do not do. * * * There are times when rest is as health-giving as exercise. We must not forget our first and greatest duty is to do all we can to restore confidence to business, and that we must avoid all business legislation except in the direction of improving business. Rather than run risks, we can afford to wait until well-matured plans give us assurances of permanent benefit. Crude and hasty legislation is above all things to be shunned."

Commenting on this evident opposition to radical changes in the tariff, Postmaster General Wilson, author of the Wilson tariff, writes:

"Mr. Reed's speech is a deliberate admission that the legislation of the last Congress if undisturbed will work out a restoration of prosperity to the country.

"That legislation was the repeal of all the important acts of his former Congress, with a single exception, from which acts have followed in quick succession most of the distress and troubles of the past three years.

"The Fifty-first Congress gave us the Sherman bill, which disordered our finances and brought on the panic; the McKinley bill, which rapidly cut down revenue below expenditures, and but for the use of a trust fund deposited by the banks, amounting to nearly sixty millions, would have made a deficit before the end of the Harrison administration. It gave us a permanent scale of higher expenditures and came near giving us a force bill.

"We repealed the Sherman and the McKinley bills, did away with Federal election laws and cut down expenses as far as it was possible to do it.

"Now comes the practical admission of the highest official in the Republican party that the country needs merely rest to recuperate under our legislation.

"It confesses that the existing tariff if left alone will produce ample revenue, and does not hurt one industry."

No other conclusion can be drawn from Speaker Reed's deliberate statement. The extreme McKinleyite Congressmen who have been howling for higher taxes will find no comfort in the utterances of their leader. The threat that business interests would again be thrown into confusion by the enactment by Congress of the McKinley tariff may now be ignored as empty protection boasting. The men who were elected on the false pretense that the Wilson tariff was ruining the country, will be compelled to admit that attempts to amend that law in the direction of higher duties would result in great injury to business. This will not please the crew of political wreckers who thrive on calamity and prefer their partisan interests to the welfare of the people. But it will be occasion for rejoicing by all who wish that the prosperity restored under tariff reform may long continue.

War Taxes and the Deficit.

A Washington dispatch says that the plan of meeting the deficit by doubling the tax on beer is "contrary to the Republican policy of raising all revenues as far as possible from customs duties."

Since when has this been the Republican policy? In 1894, the last year of the McKinley tariff, the customs duties yielded $131,818,000, while the internal revenue taxes produced $147,111,000—an excess of nearly $16,000,000.

To go back to war times, in 1866 the internal revenue was $309,000,000 and the customs collections only $179,000,000—an excess of internal taxes amounting to $130,000,000. It is true that as soon as it became necessary to reduce revenues the Republicans repealed internal taxes. They cut off rapidly all the taxes on wealth, sacrificing within five years $125,000,000 of annual revenue from this source, in order to prevent an abatement of the bounty yielding taxes of a monopoly tariff. Finally every tax on wealth was abolished, leaving only whisky, beer and tobacco to share with the necessaries taxed by the tariff the whole burden of the Government.

To the objection that internal taxes are "war taxes" it would be enough to say that the chief item in the expense budget is still on war account. But for the reckless and criminal increase of pensions to $160,000,000 there would be no deficit and no need of new taxes.

But a better answer is to say that 50 per cent of the McKinley tariff was a perpetuation of war taxation. Every point above an average duty of 32 per cent is still a survival of the war time increase. The proposed but impossible duty on wool is a war tax. There was no duty on wool for four years before the first war tariff, and only slight and intermittent duties before that time.

The present deficiency was caused by the nullification of the tax on incomes by the Supreme Court. It should be met by some other form of internal taxation.—New York World.

Pretext to Get Higher Duties.

The demand so often heard for legislation increasing the revenues rests much less upon a desire to provide for the necessities of the Government than upon a wish for higher duties in certain directions. One would suppose, from much that is said about the necessity of providing more taxes or authorizing exchequer notes that the national till was almost empty. But on the fifteenth day of November the cash in the treasury, above demand liabilities was $178,000,000! Nearly one-half of this was money other than gold held for the redemption of notes. If the deficit were to continue for the rest of the fiscal year at the same rate as during the past four and a half months it would fall far short of the money belonging to the Government and now in the treasury, other than gold. This is not a situation that makes new taxes or borrowing to defray expenses imperative. The situation is not even so serious as these figures indicate, for the internal revenue is increasing, and the customs revenue is larger than it was a few months ago, and the analogy with the years 1891 and 1892, already pointed out in these columns, justifies the expectation of a more considerable increase in the customs revenue. The demand for more revenue diverts attention from the point where legislation is essential to a point where legislation is not needed now and probably will not be needed, and it is primarily a pretext for an effort to get certain duties raised.

The above is from the New York Journal of Commerce, the leading commercial paper of this country. Being independent in politics, it takes no stock in the partisan cry of protectionist papers that higher duties are needed to raise more revenue.

A Flourishing Industry.

Along with the wonderful business revival in all branches of trade and production has come a great increase in the output of domestic high-tariff lies. Never before have the fabrication mills, the falsehood factories, the untruth bureaus and other sources of protection arguments, been kept so busy as during the past year. To the disgrace of honorable journalism it must be confessed that at no period in the contest between a high and a low tariff policy, have the advocates of trade restriction resorted so boldly to barefaced, deliberate lying. The plainest facts of wage advances, mills reopened, new industries started, and generally increased prosperity, have been brazenly denied. News dispatches have been suppressed, and false reports manufactured in order to prevent partisan readers from learning the truth.

So shameless and reckless have the McKinleyite lies become that they cannot even distinguish between an ordinary everyday protection falsehood and one which directly contradicts itself. Thus in a recent issue the Philadelphia Press says: "The woolen mills find themselves unable to compete with the deluge of European goods, while the consumer cannot buy pure woolen goods a cent cheaper than when the Wilson bill took effect."

Aside from the fact that the New York Tribune claims that one injurious effect of the Wilson tariff was the reduction in the price of woolens of from 15 to 20 per cent, this statement by the Press is its own answer. If our woolen mills cannot compete with European goods the only possible reason is that the latter are cheaper than can be made in this country. And if that is true, how can it also be true that the consumer cannot buy goods cheaper than under the McKinley tariff? The Press will find it very hard to convince the woolen manufacturers that they are being ruined by Wilson tariff low prices, and the consumers of woolens that at the same time they are not able to get goods a cent cheaper than they used to.

Have They So Soon Forgotten?

In spite of Speaker Reed's plea for rest from tariff agitation, numerous Republican organs continue to clamor that Congress should at once proceed to restore the McKinley law. These papers claim that the people want higher duties and more taxes, and that the popular will must be obeyed. All propositions for waiting until 1897 for tariff legislation are denounced as coming from the enemies of protection.

Were the Democrats concerned only with the success of their party they could ask for nothing better than that Congress should pass the McKinley law, or any similar scheme of high taxation. But because they know that the interests of the whole people would suffer from even an attempt to restore McKinleyism, the Democrats are opposed to any further tampering with the tariff on Republican lines.

What reason is there for supposing that the country really wants more protection? The defeat of Democratic Congressmen in 1894 was mainly a condemnation of their party for not carrying out more quickly and completely the platform on which they were elected. Have the Republicans forgotten the sole reason why they were swept out of Congress in 1890, and again overwhelmingly defeated in 1892? Was it not because they had enacted that tariff of abomination, the McKinley law? There was no other national issue but that between freer trade and lower taxes, and trade prohibition and high taxation. The popular verdict was everywhere in favor of tariff reform.

If the protectionists have forgotten these things, the people have not. The election of a Republican majority in the House of Representatives is in no way a declaration that a higher tariff is wanted. Minor issues have combined to temporarily overthrow the Democratic party in one branch of Congress, but the popular declaration against McKinleyism still stands. And next year it will be re-affirmed.

Should Be Repaired Downward.

It is highly diverting to see the catchpenny Republican organs calling upon Congress to "repair the tariff so that the deficiency in the revenues shall be made good." The revenues under the McKinley tariff fell off over $88,000,000. They raised the duties to reduce revenue, and did it—organizing a deficit. They now propose to restore the high duties to increase the revenue—a characteristic paradox of protection. Do they not know that the customs collections in the first year of the Wilson tariff increased $20,000,000 in spite of the business depression caused by the Republican silver law? It will yield this year probably thirty or forty millions more than the McKinley tariff did. If it is revenue that is wanted the tariff should be "repaired" downward.—New York World.

Dingley's Prosperous Woolen Mills.

In a letter published in a New York paper Mr. G. Wilfred Pearce, of Boston, says: "Among the woolen mills which I have visited this week is the Cowan Woolen Mill, in Maine, owned by Congressman Nelson Dingley. This mill is running full time, making money hand over fist; wages have been advanced under the new tariff, and I was told that work will be steady through the winter, with fine prospects for the spring." Congressman Dingley, who was Mr. McKinley's right-hand man in the Ways and Means Committee of 1890, is now perhaps the leading candidate for the office of chairman of that committee under Speaker Reed.

Held by a Hair.

In a gathering of officers, after the Franco-Prussian war, a French officer claimed that the French nation is the most artistic nation on earth, and that her artisans can make a thing of beauty out of anything, however ordinary or crude.

The great Prussian general, Von Manteufel, who was present, plucked a hair from his shaggy beard, remarking: "Let them make somethtng beautiful out of that."

The French officer sent the hair to a friend in Paris, telling him the circumstances, and urging that, as the Prussians had defeated the French in the late war, they should not be permitted to defeat them in the claim to artistic supremacy. Giving the hair to a capable artisan, with proper instructions, the result was a beautiful scarfpin, representing a Prussian eagle, artistically wrought in gold, standing on a rock, and depending from its beak was a single hair, at the ends of which were two beautiful gold medallions, on one of which was inscribed "Alsace" and on the other "Lorraine."

Thus the artistic scarfpin described the political situation; Prussia, as the eagle, with its conquered provinces dependent, but held by a hair; for the temper of the people of Alsace and Lorraine was bitter toward the German's and the tie which held them was very slight.

Big Profits on Pennies.

Gold is coined in Philadelphia and San Francisco. Not enough of it comes into the mint at New Orleans to make the coinage of it there worth while. All three mints make every denomination of silver pieces. The minor coins of base metal, cents and nickels, are all minted in Philadelphia where nearly 100,000,000, pennies are turned out annually.

Cents being of small value are carelessly handled, and are lost in such great numbers that the treasury has to work hard to maintain the supply. The profit to the Government on their manufacture is large, however, inasmuch as the blanks for them are purchased for $1 per 1,000 from a firm in Connecticut that produces them by contract. Blanks for nickels are obtained in the same way, costing Uncle Sam only a cent and a half apiece.

Gold pieces are the only coins of the United States which are worth their face value intrinsically. A double eagle contains $20 worth of gold, without counting the one-tenth part of copper.

Maine's Male Housekeepers.

One of the oddities of life in the Maine factory villages is the class of men who can appropriately be called "housekeepers." In almost any town where much manufacturing is done, numbers of these men may be found. If one calls soon after meal time, he will be likely to find them with aprons on washing dishes. At other hours they may be seen sweeping up, making beds, cleaning and washing the children, cleaning house, or cooking. Whether any of them do the family sewing is not so certain. These men are the housekeepers for the simple reason that their wives can earn more working in the mill than they can, and it becomes a matter of money-saving to let them do it. Some of them saw and pile the wood in the shed, and do the chores, and take care of the garden and do other man's work around home, as well as the housekeeping, and the arrangement seems to be profitable.

Disastrous Failure!

We can mention no failure more disastrous than that of physical energy. It involves the partial suspension of the digestive and assimilative processes, and entails the retirement from business of the liver and kidneys. Only through the good offices of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters can the restoration of its former vigorous status be hoped for. When this aid has been secured, a resumption of activity in the stomach, liver and bowels may be relied upon. The Bitters conquers malaria and kidney troubles.

New Passenger Vehicles.

Public cycles have appeared in London. They are said to be operated by two men and have hireable seats for two passengers beside. For many years past, or long before the pneumatic tire made the bicycle a machine of practical use, the London butchers, green-grocers and various other tradesmen have used tricycles, driven by lusty boys usually, for the delivery of small articles.

Sansculottism.

Sansculottism was the name given to the policy of the extreme Republicans in the French Revolution, the ridiculous, or literally, the men without breeches. They rejected breeches as the badge of the aristocrats, and wore pantaloons. Carlyle used the word as signifying the aims of the needy, hungry, tattered mob.

Avail yourself of the opportunity to visit your friends while Holiday Rates are in effect between all stations between Buffalo and Chicago on the line of the Nickel Plate Road. Tickets on sale December 24th, 25th, and 31st, 1895, and January 1st, 1896.

SHE (to herself)—I like him, he's so intellectual.

He to himself—I like her; she is a charming little fool.

IMPATIENCE dries the blood sooner than age or sorrow.

A fair lady becomes still fairer by using that salutary beautifier, Glenn's Sulphur Soap.

"Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye," Black or Brown, 50c.

A REALLY good man is so busy behaving himself and making his children do likewise, that he has no time to bother about the morals of other families.

Piso's Cure for Consumption is an especially good medicine for Croup.—Mrs. M. R. Avent, Jonesboro, Texas, May 9th, 1891.

DON'T have much to say about yourself, if you want to keep clear of hypocrisy.

World's Fair! HIGHEST AWARD.

IMPERIAL GRANUM

Many competing FOODS have come and gone and have been missed by few or none but the popularity of this FOOD steadily increases!

Sold by DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE! John Carle & Sons, New York.

Butterflies for the Hair.

The silversmiths report a big run on the enameled and jeweled bodies of butterflies. These ornaments have an arrangement at the back which permits the ribbon wings of the color of the gown. The demure maid who clings to her crimpless part, and coils her hair very high on her head may thrust one of these butterflies in at the back of the part and so relieve its severity. She may go further and fill her hair with very small enameled and jeweled butterfly and flower pins, and so obtain an effect altogether Japanese.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

PUBLIC sentiment powerfully restrains men from doing wrong; but, when they have done wrong, sets itself as powerfully against them.—Beecher.

Give attention to the first symptoms of a Lung Complaint, and check the dreaded disease in its incipiency, by using Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant, a safe, old-fashioned remedy for all affections of the Lungs and Bronchia.

COOPER is said to have written "The Spy" in less than six months. Most of his stories were founded on legends well known in his neighborhood.

THE MODERN MOTHER

Has found that her little ones are improved more by the pleasant laxative, Syrup of Figs, when in need of the laxative effect of a gentle remedy than by any other, and that it is more acceptable to them. Children enjoy it and it benefits them. The true remedy, Syrup of Figs, is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

ALTHOUGH fully as sensitive to pain as other people, it is a fact that the deaf and dumb man is happiest when he is mute elated.

Santa Claus

Has induced the Nickel Plate Road to sell excursion tickets at low rates to all points on the line between Buffalo and Chicago, December 24th, 25th, and 31st, 1895, and January 1st, 1896.

A PATHETIC case is reported from Des Moines, where a man is suing his wife for divorce because she refuses to support him.

The Most Simple and Safe Remedy for a Cough or Throat Trouble is "Brown's Bronchial Troches." They possess real merit.

"IS THOMPSON in business now?"

"Only in a very quiet way. He is silent partner in a private deaf and dumb asylum."

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

GIRLS we love for what they are; young men for what they promise to be.—Goethe.

Low Rate Holiday Excursion Tickets are sold by agents of the Nickel Plate Road December 24th, 25th, and 31st, 1895, and January 1st, 1896.

NO ONE can walk with God without reaching out a hand to help somebody else.

FITS.—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Get rid at once of the stinging, festering smart of

BURNS OR SCALDS

or else they'll leave ugly scars. Read directions and use

ST. JACOBS OIL.

BATTLE AX PLUG

The largest piece of Good tobacco ever sold for 10 cents.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

"I firmly believe that Piso's Cure kept me from having quick Consumption."—Mrs. H. D. DARLING, Beaver Meadow, N. Y., June 18, 1895.

Cures Where All Else Fails. BEST COUGH SYRUP. TASTES GOOD. USE IN TIME. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS, 25 CTS.

TO NEW YORK 900 MILES

An old-fashioned way of getting there. Slow and safe, but hard work. Most women, have got beyond this kind of traveling—found something better.

Now, why can't you look at that other old-fashioned proceeding in the same light—washing things with soap and hard rubbing. That's slow enough and tiresome enough, everybody knows, and it's not as safe as washing with Pearline. It's really destructive, in fact, the wear of that constant rubbing. Break away from these antiquated ideas. Use modern methods. Pearline saves at every point.

Send it Back

Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 457 JAMES PYLE, New York.

"Forbid a Fool a Thing and That He Will Do." Don't Use SAPOLIO.

BEST IN THE WORLD.

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH

For durability and for cheapness this preparation is truly unrivalled.

THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH in cakes for general blacking of a stove.

THE SUN PASTE POLISH for a quick after-dinner shine, applied and polished with a cloth.

Morse Bros., Props., Canton, Mass., U. S. A.

If your skirt edges wear out, it's because you don't use

"S.H.&M."

BIAS VELVETEEN SKIRT BINDINGS

It's easy to prove it for yourself.

Don't take any binding unless you see "S. H. & M." on the label, no matter what anybody tells you.

If your dealer will not supply you, we will.

Send for samples, showing labels and materials, to the S. H. & M. Co., P. O. Box 699, New York City.

MRS. ADAMS' LETTER.

LYERLY, Chattooga Co., Ga., Oct. 4, 1895.

Two medicines have done me so much good I cannot find words to express my gratitude for them. I was down with a complication of troubles, catarrh of the bowels and falling of the womb. For seven weeks I could not sit up. Two bottles of McElree's Wine of Cardui and one package of Thedford's Black-Draught cured me.

I have recommended the Wine of Cardui Treatment to a number of suffering women, and not one has failed to find relief by its use. If I can do anything to help bring this good medicine to the attention of sufferers, I will be glad. MRS. E. C. ADAMS.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. J. C. Nelson, editor and proprietor of the Bath County World, published at Sharpsburg, Ky., writes, under date of June 18, 1895: "I have recently commenced using the Tabules for constipation. Mrs. W. T. Duckworth, of Thomson, Clark County, Kentucky, who is visiting here, has tried Ripans Tabules and found them a good thing. She used to suffer greatly with headache, due, no doubt, to indigestion and constipation, and tried every kind of remedy, but could find no relief until she began using Ripans Tabules. The first Tabule gave relief, and now headache is a stranger. The indigestion and constipation disappeared and she never felt better in her life. She considers Ripans Tabules the best medicine in the world for the above disorders and never intends to be without them again. (Signed)

"MRS. W. T. DUCKWORTH."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

Wabash Line

GRAND TOUR OF OLD MEXICO.

THE EGYPT OF THE NEW WORLD.

On Tuesday, January 14, 1896, Gates' annual tour of Mexico will leave Toledo by special train at 11 a. m., via Wabash Railroad, and pass Fort Wayne about 1:30 p. m. The tour this season will far surpass all former efforts, several new features have been added. The Gates' special Pullman train will consist of vestibuled sleeping and compartment cars, observation and library car, and a palace dining car, also a baggage car, the entire train making the thirty day tour and covering 6,600 miles. Mr. Gates will accompany the train, and give every detail personal attention. For a handsome book of the tour giving itinerary and much other interesting data apply to the following representatives Wabash Railroad.

C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.
CHAS. H. GATES, Tkt Agt., Toledo, Ohio.
P. E. DONAGHUE, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
J. M. MCCONNELL, P. & T. A., Lafayette, Ind.

THE AERMOTOR CO. does half the world's windmill business, because it has reduced the cost of wind power to 1/6 what it was. It has many branch houses, and supplies its goods and repairs at your door. It can and does furnish a better article for less money than others. It makes Pumping and Geared, Steel, Galvanized-after-Completion Windmills, Tilting and Fixed Steel Towers, Steel Buzz Saw Frames, Steel Feed Cutters and Feed Grinders. On application it will name one of these articles that it will furnish until January 1st at 1/3 the usual price. It also makes Tanks and Pumps of all kinds. Send for catalogue. Factory: 12th, Rockwell and Fillmore Streets, Chicago.

Cutler's Carbolate of Iodine Inhalent and Pocket Inhaler.

Will positively cure CATARRH, BRONCHITIS and ASTHMA. Give it a trial. Price, $1; by mail, $1.10. All Druggists. W. H. CUTLER & CO., Proprietors, 402 Michigan St., Buffalo, New York.

$10 PAYS FOR A 5-LINE advertisement 4 TIMES in 100 high-grade papers in Illinois, guaranteed circulation 100,000—or, we can insert it 3 TIMES in 1,450 country papers for $100. SEND FOR CATALOGUE. Chicago Newspaper Union, 10 South Jefferson Street, Chicago, Ill.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. DR. J. STEPHENS, Lebanon, Ohio.

F. W. N. U. • • • No. 51—95

When writing to Advertisers say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION. CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. 25 CTS.

The Laboring Man Speaks.

MONON, IND., May 10, 1894.

Lyon Medicine Co., Indianapolis, Ind.:

GENTS—I think it my duty to send this statement to you of the benefit I have received from LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. I have been afflicted for twenty years with stomach trouble of the severest nature. Would have seasons of the severest suffering from one to two months at a time. Between these times of suffering was never longer than three months. There was never any time that I was entirely free from misery more or less. These spells of great suffering would sometimes come on with sickness and vomiting and other times would come on in form of rheumatism, but would finally center itself in my stomach. I have doctored with a great many physicians, but none of them could tell me what the trouble was. I was unable to get relief until I got LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. It is now sixty days since I began taking this medicine, and am now for the first time in twenty years free from pain and misery. I am compelled to say it is a blessing to a poor man.

J. J. HACKETT, Blacksmith.

LYON'S ☆☆☆ WONDERS
A SPECIFIC For all DERANGEMENTS of the STOMACH. PRICE $1.00
Manf'd by THE LYON MEDICINE CO. INDIANAPOLIS IND.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

ROOT & COMPANY,

FT. WAYNE.

NOW - FOR - CHRISTMAS!

The store this year will be more comfortable for trading than ever—more aisles, better arranged shelving and fixtures to display. A good deal, too, more to look at. We shall strive to out-do all former efforts to make this Christmas season the crowning event in the history of our store.

Our Store in Holiday attire, Scenes of Beauty all Around.

We extend a special invitation to all to visit the store—come often. Those who skip a day from the store from now on, will miss many an attraction.

Linens. If there is a doubt if the recipient is a housewife—give linen, 'twill be an assured acceptable article. Pillow Shams, all linen. We show some lovely novelties in Cotton, hand embroidered and hemstich. Bureau Scarfs, Carving Cloth, Tray Cloths, Doylies, Fancy Linen pieces, Piano and Mantel Scarfs, in Silk, Laundry Bags, Splashers, Slipper Bags, Brush and Comb Cases, etc.

Lace Collarettes. Some new beauties of these popular neckwear novelties, in Ecru and Biscuit color lace, with Points and Insertings of heavy Ribbon.

$1.00 up to $7.00 Each.

China AND Art Bits. The central counter in northern aisle is full of holiday suggestions; hundreds of things, inexpensive, useful.

Bisque Figures 40c each to $9 pair.

Decorated Glass Flower Vases, all in new shapes. 15c each to $8. Vases 25c each up to Plaques and lots of other things to be looked at.

HOUSE COATS. HOUSE GOWNS We've got a good line of these garment for ladies to look at. Something useful to give a man, made of

House Coats. $6.00 to $10.00
House Gowns, $1.00 to $5.00.

Fur Wraps At Cost.

We started to-day at selling every Fur Wrap at cost—there's no quarter off, no third off: but you know what the losses are—just what you are getting. You see Fur Wraps at the lowest possible price they can be sold at. From to-day we sell all Fur Wraps at cost.

Women's Winter Jackets.

At $4.00—we have a good Beaver Jacket the best Coat you have ever seen at the price.

At $10 to $25—Astrakhans and Monte Carlos, finely tailored, ripple backs, Shield fronts, Bagadore front Jackets, big sleeves.

At $10 to $20—A wide range in French Novelty Cloth Jackets, Molar, Rye, Lion Velour, Chinchilla and Globe Keersys, lined with plain or figured Silks.

Bishops' Fur Rugs.

We show a fine new line for the Holidays, lined and unlined all colors.

PRICES $2.75 TO $3.50

At $1.28 we offer a good two dollar Blanket full size, fancy borders. This bargain will be found at front entrance.

College Glee Club

The Ann Arbor Glee Club will be at the Opera House, New Year's night, to give one of their grand musical entertainments. It is for the Juniors of the Auburn High School and will be the best High School entertainment ever given here. Keep this notice. Tell your friends about it. The club furnishes music of the highest order. More notices wil follow.

Demorest For January.

The finest number we have seen of this always fine magazine, is the one for January. It is always good, and always crowded with good reading and fine pictures. But this number is the loveliest. An especial feature is the series of photo engravings of the buildings and various exhibits in the Woman's Department at the Atlanta fair. There is also a collection of photos of the lady managers. All very beautiful and correct to life. In another article are photos of the Duke of Marlboro and his bride, Consuelavanderbilt, that will be their home in England. No worthier number of any magazine is likely to appear soon than this one of Demorest:

Obituary.

Mary Van Horn was born in Stark county, Ohio, December 25, 1820, and died in Franklin township, DeKalb county, Indiana, December 9, 1895, aged 74 years, 11 months and 14 days. She was married to David Oberlin, of the same county, March 10, 1841. In October, 1847, they came to DeKalb county and settled on a tract of land in section 16, Franklin township, where by earnest effort they soon had a beautiful home. In the autumn of 1870 they moved on section 18 near Taylor's Corners, where they lived until April, 1889, when they moved to Waterloo where Mr. Oberlin died July 1891. She continued to reside there with her daughter, Josephine, until the spring of 1895, when at her request she was taken back to her old farm home, where she was cared for by her daughters until her death.

She leaves four daughters, seven grand children, nine great-grandchildren and a host of relatives and friends. During her life she reared, besides her own four children, two boys, Frank Connley, of Minneapolis, Minnesota, and W. D. Goodman, of Waldron, Michigan. She was a kind mother, a good neighbor and a blessing to the neighborhood, which expressed its appreciation by attending the funeral at Hamilton almost en masse. In early life she became a member of the Lutheran church; always living in that faith, she died fully trusting in her Maker.

Card of Thanks.

F. W. Stoops desires to return heartfelt thanks for the kindness and sympathy of all his neighbors, during the illness and death of his wife. It will always be gratefully remembered.

MOTHER AND BABE

Both equally benefited by the use of Dr Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Is the baby constipated? Then try this pleasant liquid laxative, both sure and mild, and pleasant to the taste. Has the mother indigestion or sick headache? There is nothing so effective. In 10c, 50c and $1 sizes, at F. E. Davenport's.

OR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you. Imparts new life to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and makes a new man of you. Mailed on receipt of price, $1.00 per box.

WILLIAMS M'F'G CO., Props., Cleveland, O. Sold by FISCHLER & SON, Auburn. 1yr

EDITOR OF THE GRAPHIC.

Of Campbellsburg, Ind., writes: "I will carry your ad at price named ..... Our druggist don't handle Syrup Pepsin and I want some of it myself. I have taken two bottles and it did my stomach more good than any medicine I ever took and I want more of it. I had a bad case of dyspepsia." F. E. Davenport. 52

For Pneumonia.

Dr. J. C. Bishop, of Agnew, Mich., says: "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar in three very severe cases of pneumonia the last month, with good results." Robbins McCord's. 52

TO THE SUFFERERS OF RHEUMATISM

After using Groff's Rheumatic Cure for some time in my practice I take great pleasure in saying that it is a most wonderful remedy for Rheumatism; in fact, it is the only one I have found for the cure of this disease in all its various form. Dr. E. E. Tull, Chicago.

LOW RATES FOR THE HOLIDAYS.

December 24, 25 and 31, 1895, and January 1st, 1896, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern R'y will sell reduced rate tickets between all points on its line.

Tickets will be good to return until January 2d, inclusive, 1896. 41-52

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.

A NEW BOOK.

Sent Free to Catarrh Patients for a Short Time—A Holiday Gift.

Everybody interested in the subject of catarrh and other winter diseases will be glad to learn that The Peruna Drug Manufacturing Company of Columbus, O., is sending, free of charge, an illustrated book of sixty-four pages on the subject of catarrh. This book contains illustrations showing the brain, the nasal passages, throat, lungs, trachea, bronchial tubes, stomach, liver, middle ear, etc., there are four full-page illustrations showing the circulation, nervous system, glandular system and the vital organs. The book is a complete guide to the prevention and cure of chronic catarrh and all diseases of winter. Colds, cough, consumption, dyspepsia, la grippe, bronchitis, and pneumonia are described and treated. Diseases of the kidneys, liver, lungs, ear, eyes and pelvic organs are illustrated, explained, and the treatment given. Every family ought to have a copy of this book at once. Thousands of days and thousands of lives can be saved by heeding the warnings and profiting by the lessons. It will teach mothers how to take care of themselves and shield their families from disease. Write name and address plainly.

Be sure to have a bottle of Peruna in the house, as the cold weather is already upon us. This remedy, wisely used, will prevent colds, coughs, and other ills of cold weather, and is the greatest catarrh remedy of the age.

Heavy Advertising

Never before has a paper in DeKalb county sent out as many, and as large advertisements as are sent out this week and next in the DAILY and WEEKLY COURIER. Never before have any business men in DeKalb county done such extensive advertising or taken such large spaces. We call attention to the following.

FULL PAGE ADS.

Robbins & McCord, Brown Culbertson & Boland, Raut & Co., the Globe Clothing and Shoe Co., and the American Tobacco Co., each have a full page advertisement.

HALF PAGE ADS.

Schaab & Bro, D. A. Hodge, M. Jones, & Son, and Harry Trentman have half page advertisements.

OTHER ADS.

The N. E. Ind., Poultry Association, Walter C. Hartman, Hebel Bros., H. D. Weaver, E. M. Bishop and Ed Baker, have a liberal space. All these are regular advertisers but at present have enlarged the space used. It shows business enterprise and pluck, and shows their patrons, that such men are desirable men to deal with. Reading advertisements may not be as exciting as some other reading, but it will always be of profit to the purchaser to see where he can get the best bargains for his money. It might be well to add, that these big advertisements take a mammoth edition of the COURIER. But we wish to call attention to the fact that our readers are not therefore neglected for we provide a larger amount of reading than is possible in the regular edition.

The Winter Lie.

It is too early for the fish liar or the muskrat liar or any of the more common of the fraternity of newspaper liars. But no season is too inclement to produce a full sized liar of some sort. Now, we find in several of our exchanges, an article about DeKalb county, which is sometimes headed "Strange, if True," which indeed it would be, when we consider the fact that there is no bed rock in DeKalb county, till you get down through about 500 or 600 feet of "drift." Besides, the people mentioned are not known in DeKalb county as far as we can learn. But here is the article:

The Bremen Enquirer remarks that a stone quarry on the farm of Charles Carter, in DeKalb county, is thought by superstitious people to be bewitched. At various times for twenty years strange rumblings have been heard in the earth in the vicinity. A few days ago as two of Mr. Carter's grandsons were passing the place they heard a strange rumbling in the earth, followed by several sharp reports similar to the discharge of a rifle. A few moments later a stream of crystal water issued from a crevice in the rock as if by magic. On analysis it is found to be very similar to that of the famous Hot Springs of Arkansas.

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR HOLIDAY EXCURSION RATE.

Via the Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

December 24th, 25th, and 31st, 1895, and January 1st, 1896, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell Excursion Tickets between all stations west of Wheeling and Pittsburg, at very low rates. Tickets will be good for return until January.

LAST EXCURSION TO ATLANTA GA.

On December 20 the Baltimore & Ohio R. R. will sell Excursion Tickets to Atlanta, Ga., at very low rates, on account of the Cotton States and International Exposition. Tickets will be good for return ten (10) days from date of sale.

This will be the last cheap rate excursion to Atlanta.

For full information call on or address nearest B. & O. Ticket, or L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Chicago, Ill.

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

Jurors.

Chosen For The Next Term Of Court Which Convenes Next Monday.

Last Monday the following were chosen as jurors for the next term of court. On next Monday the grand jury will be called to their respective chairs by Judge Penfield and on the following week, the trial jury will be called.

GRAND.

George Lake.....Concord
Wm. D. Maranville.....Wilmington
J. E. Metz.....Grant
Thos Crise.....Wilmington
Peter Bachtel.....Wilmington
Nathan Elliott.....Smithville

PETIT.

Adolphus Jones.....Wilmington
James B Bowers.....Fairfield
C. C. Nedig.....Fairfield
Joshua Baker.....Keyser
Jacob Dickenhoff.....Concord
Frank Casper.....Union
Henry Winslow.....Union
Dan'l Welch.....Jackson
John Bunge.....Wilmington
Joseph Stafford.....Union
O. C. Bass.....Richland
Jos. Leason.....Keyser

CORRESPONDENCE

SUMMIT.

Edward Meek and family visited Mrs. M.'s brother James Elliot and wife last Sunday.

Mrs. Marker, of Steubenville visited Mrs. Betsy Yeothers and Mrs. Catharine Zimmerman last Wednesday.

Thos Hammon and family were the guests of Henry Lawson and wife last Sunday.

Grandma Markley visited Mrs. P. H. Gramling a few days last week.

Henry Myers and family were the guest of Wm Zarbrugg and wife last Sunday.

IN ONLY FOUR DAYS.

Garrett, Dec., 5, 1895

Spohn's Distemper and Cough Cure cured my colt of a severe attack of distemper in four days. It is the best remedy for horses I have ever seen. F. H. Wilhelm.

Safe at all times. Larger bottle than any other 50c. Sold by Kurtz & Myers Agents Auburn.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Wabash Line

GOING EAST.

Boston Express	5:21 am	Daily
Detroit Accom'n	2:04 pm	ex Su
New York Limited	7:38 pm	Daily

GOING WEST

Logansport Accommodation	7:16 am	Daily
Mail and Express	12:23 pm	ex Su
Chicago & St. Louis Lim(53)	7:35 pm	Daily

All these trains stop for passengers

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

CHAS M. HAYS, V. Pres and Gen'l Manager
C. S. CRANE, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect May 19, '95

TRAINS GOING NORTH

Stations		Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'g
Fort Wayne,	p	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40
New Era		12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc		12 25	5 25	7 58
Auburn		12 29	5 29	8 17
Waterloo		12 41	5 41	9 34
Summit		12 52	5 52	9 45
Steubenville		12 56	5 56
Pleasant Lake		1 03	6 03	10 12
Angola		1 13	14	10 50
Jackson		3 25	8 35	4 30 pm

TRAINS GOING SOUTH

Stations—		Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson	dp	6 55 am	11 35 am	6 30 am
Angola		12 25 pm	2 19 pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake		1 03	2 29	9 01
Steubenville			2 36	9 07
Summit		1 25	2 39	9 11
Waterloo		2 30	2 55	9 24
Auburn		3 00	3 10	9 35
Auburn Junc		3 14	3 14	9 38
New Era		4 05	3 24	9 50
Fort Wayne		5 25	3 55	10 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

Time Card in Effect June 30 1895.

Stations—	WEST-BOUN
	pm	am	am	pm	pm
Bellaire lv	7 15	*11 13	9 42	*4 13	.....
		pm	pm	am
Defiance ..	3 15	5 16	7 40	1 20	11 00
Hicksville.....	..		8 22	.....	11 45
					pm
St. Joe.....			8 34	.....	12 01
Auburn Jc ..	4 15	6 17	8 53	2 26	12 25
Garrett.....	4 28	6 30	9 00	2 40	12 50
Avilla....		6 40	.....	.....	1 00
Albion....	‡4 50	‡6 55	.....	.....	1 20
Syracuse	...	.....	.....	3 33	2 00
Chicago.. ar	9 00	11 00		7 25	6 40

Stations.	EAST BOUND.
	pm	pm	am	pm	am
Chicago	*4 25	*7 20	*6 05	3 00	10 15
Syracuse	.....	10 30	10 45	.....	....
Albion.....	.....	..	11 25	8 57	.....
Avilla	.....		11 [illegible]	7 15	....
	am
Garrett... ..	*4 45	12 04	12 15	7 40	2 3
Auburn Jc..	4 52	1 09	1 2	7 55	2 40
St Joe....	5 08	.....	12 43	7 [illegible]	.....
Hicksville ...	5 24	.....	1 [illegible]	8 10
Defiance	6 08	1 10	1 40	8 3	3 36
Bellaire .... (EASTERN TIME)	3 55	.....	3.55	....	11 36
	am
Washington	6 48	....	..	.....	.....
Baltimore	7 50		.....

*Daily except Sunday. ‡Flag station. [illegible] Agt Chicago. Ch. Office Auburn Ind.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

A Free Silver Land.

The Lagrange Standard has a very interesting letter from India, which after giving general news for the people at the old home speaks of the financial conditions there, and commends a little on free silver. It will interest our people to hear how it works, and so we copy that part of the letter. It reads:

When I see in the papers the people at home grumbling about the taxes and the gold bugs, I think: Poor fellows, you do not know when you are well off. This country is cursed with a silver basis of currency. The country is sinking deeper under its influence. When I came here in 1879 I got rupees two and one-fourth for a dollar, now we get rupees 3¼ for a dollar, but the value of the rupee in purchasing power is not half what it was then, and the result is that the poor people who earn the money in this country have a hard time of it. Day labor has raised but little. The cause of this state of thing has been freely discussed by financiers, and they disagree. But the opinion prevalent among the best is that India, having a silver basis, in commercial relations with other countries which have a gold standard, That is, Indian merchants send several million pounds sterling to England every year, and England has to send millions of rupees to India to pay her army and navy in this country. She buys India's paper, expressed in rupees. There are many more desiring to purchase gold than there are desiring to purchase rupees, i. e., more rupees to be changed to gold in England than gold to be changed to rupees in India, hence the tendency to bid more for the one pound sterling, and so the rupee has depreciated in value until it takes eighteen and three-fourths rupees to buy one pound, when formerly it took ten rupees. Now if England had a silver standard or India a gold standard, the corresponding values would always remain the same.

If the United States should adopt the silver standard she would soon be worse off than India, because England has to send to support in America, and the return would be that the United States would have to pay everything to England in [illegible]. England pays what she has to pay through the merchants, in silver. Silver would increase and gold decrease, and in proportion to this would the silver dollar become less in value. I have to have 250 rupees now to be of as much value to me as 100 rupees sixteen years ago, and were we paid in rupees instead of gold, we would actually suffer in the salary we received year to go. But thanks to our board, it pays us in the gold dollar, the same amount that it did then, and so we have the advantage of the exchange, which gives us more rupees for the same amount of dollars, and thus we do not feel the change so much. But for poor Englishmen, working out here and having to remit money to England, it is simply awful. I do not know how much longer India will be able to stand this terrible pressure.

If all countries with which India has to do, had the silver standard, then India would be as well off as any of them.

I don't know much about the silver question, but from India's experience it seems to me worse than reckless for a nation having a gold basis to adopt the silver.

A Bad Home.

Is no Inducement to Have your Boys Stay in at Nights.

Make home pleasant for the boys during the coming long winter evenings and they will not wander away from the heart stone and find fancied pleasure or amusements somewhere else, you know not where, or what company they are keeping or vices they are contracting. Furnish them plenty of good reading matter. The DAILY COURIER will be delivered to your home each evening. Subscribe for a couple good magazines and with them and the DAILY COURIER we are sure no one would want to leave home in the evening. The COURIER will give the boys all the news, hence they wont want to go up town.

Cure for Headache.

As a remedy for all forms of headache Electric Bitters has proved to be the very best. It effects a permanent cure, and the most dreaded habitual sick headache yields to its influence. We urge all who are afflicted to procure a bottle, and give this remedy a fair trial. In cases of habitual constipation Electric Bitters cure by giving the needed tone to the bowels, and few cases long resist the use of this medicine. Try it once. Large bottles only fifty cents at Robbins & McCord's drugstore. 2

HOMESEEKER'S EXCURSION

Via the Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

On December 17 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell Excursion Tickets to points in Virginia, the Harper's Ferry & Valley Branch, south of and including Winchester, at one fare for the round trip, plus $2.00. Tickets will be good for return 30 days from date of sale.

For full information call or address any B. & O. Ticket Agent, S. P. Kretzer, Land and Immigration Agent, Philadelphia, Pa., or L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Chicago, Ill.

ROYAL Baking Powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—U. S. Government Report.

Golden Chicken.

Down at North Manchester, they are liable to have a gold boom that will lay Cripple Creek in the shade. The chickens have evidently caught the fever, for the Journal of that place says:

The wife of Ed. Myers, living two miles southeast of this place, while cleaning a chicken for the table last week, discovered in the gizzard a lump of pure gold that weighs thirty-three grains. The chicken picked up the valuable lump some place near the house, no doubt, but whether there is more of the same kind on the place or not is the mystery. The nugget is perhaps worth $1.50.

ST. VITUS DANCE.

A Physician Prescribes Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine.

Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.:

My daughter Mattie, aged 14, was afflicted last spring with St. Vitus dance and nervousness, her entire right side was numb and nearly paralyzed. We consulted a physician and he prescribed Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. She took three bottles before we saw any certain signs of improvement, but after that she began to improve very fast and I now think she is entirely cured. She has taken nine bottles of the Nervine, but no other medicine of any kind.

Knox, Ind., Jan. 5, '95. H. W. HOSTETTER.

Physicians prescribe Dr. Miles' Remedies because they are known to be the result of the long practice and experience of one of the brightest, members of their profession, and are carefully compounded by experienced chemists, in exact accordance with Dr. Miles' prescriptions, as used in his practice.

On sale at all druggists. Write for Dr. Miles' Book on the Heart and Nerves. Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Dr. Miles' Remedies Restore Health.

"Mothers' Friend" Cures Rising Breast.

I have been a midwife for many years, and in each case where "MOTHERS' FRIEND" was used it accomplished wonders and shortened labor and lessened pain. It is the best remedy for RISING OF THE BREAST known, and worth the price for that alone.

Mrs. M. M. Brewster, Montgomery, Ala.

Sent by Express or mail, on receipt of price, $1.00 per bottle. Book "To Mothers" mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

AB TRACTS OF TITLE To all lands in DeKalb County, Indiana at reasonable rates. I have the only set of Abstract Books in the County. Also Mortgages, Deeds and Notary Public Work of all kinds promptly attended to.

Inquire at Auditor or Surveyor's office, Auburn, or leave orders at Postoffice, Garrett.

J. P. Crimmins.
Abstractor and Notary Public

L. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended promptly, night or day.

Albert Robbins, Pres. J. C. Henry, V. P

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock,—
—$45,000.00.

—UNDER STATE SUPERVISION.—

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier

Wabash Holiday Rates 1895-6.

For the occasion the Wabash Railroad will sell tickets from all stations at greatly reduced rates on December 24, 25 and 31, 1895 and January 1, 1896, good to return up to and including January 2, 1896. For particulars call on or address any Wabash Ticket Agent.

Pitcher's Castoria.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1895. NUMBER 52.

THEN

Bring in Your Feet and we will make them comfortable and warm.

LOOK AT US!

Out line of School Shoes is the largest and best in the county.
Call and Take a look at Them.

SHULL'S

CASH - SHOE - STORE

Special Attention, Everybody!

There is a tide in the affairs of men, which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune. The opportunity of a lifetime now presented to obtain an improvement, having such obvious advantages as will certainly justify inspection and investment.

The Farmer's Handy Gate

Five Reasons why it is the Best Gate for Farmers:

FIRST. It is a good, durable gate, made of good material and well painted
SECOND. It has the horizontal retractile movement on rollers, and the swinging movement on hinges.
THIRD. It can be raised so as to allow hogs or sheep to pass under, or to swing over deep snow It can be changed in a minute without tools, and with mittens on if desired.
FOURTH It requires but two ordinary posts to hang the gate to, and requires no more room than a common side gate
FIFTH. Any child can operate the gate, can open and shut it, as it requires but the slightest strength.

Sample gate can be examined on the northeast corner of the court yard in Auburn. County, Township and Farm Rights for sale very reasonable.

F. L. PYLE, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

Rickel & Sprott

-HAVE-

MONEY to LOAN

on long time, with privilege of partial payments, lawful interest.

FARMS for SALE and EXCHANGE

for large or small farms, and for stocks of goods:

FARMS and RESIDENCE PROPERTIES -and- VACANT LOTS

for sale or exchange.

WHAT HAVE YOU TO TRADE?

RICKEL & SPOTT

For hoarseness.

Benj. Ingerson, of Hutton, Ind., says he had not spoken above a whisper for months, and one bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar restored his voice. It is used very largely by speakers and singers.

Robbins & McCord's. 52

GREAT REDUCTION IN TIME TO CALIFORNIA.

Once more the North - Western Line has reduced the time of its trans-continental trains, and the journey from Chicago to California via this popular route is now made in the marvelously short time of three days. Palace Drawing-Room Sleeping cars leave Chicago daily, and run through to San Francisco and Los Angeles without change, and all meals on route are served in Dinieg cars Daily Tourist Sleeping car service is also maintained by this line between Chicago and San Francisco and Los Angles, completely equipped berths in upholstered Tourist Sleepers being furnished at a cost of only $6.00 each from Chicago to the Pacific Coast. Through trains leave Chicago for California at 6:00 p. m. and 10:30p. m. daily, after arrival of trains of connecting lines from the East & South

For detailed information concerning rates, routes, etc., apply to ticket agents of connecting lines or address A. H. Waggener, T. P. A., 7 Jackson place Indianapolis, Ind. 52

W. B. KNISKERN,
F. N. S. 12-95 G. P. & T. A.

Origin of the word Cigar.

The word "cigar" is belived to come from the Spanish cigarra, meaning a grasshopper and at first the significance and propriety of the term seem questionable. But in Spanish a garden was cigaral, or the place where the grasshopper sang. Tobacco was usally grown in a cigarral.

New Officers.

At the annual meeting for the election of officers of DeKalb Lodge, No. 214, F. and A. M. the following were elected.

D. A. Garwood	W. M
S. Teeters	S. W.
Dan Link	J. W.
F. L. Weisheimer	Secy.
J. L. Davis	Treas
J. J. VanAuken	S. D.
P. D. West	J. D.
James Clifton	S. S.
James Champion	J. S.
Wm Rush	T.

ROYAL Baking Powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—U. S. Government Report.

In The Chute.

An Auburn Lad Has a Close Call For His Life.

Paul Gugerli, the 11-year old son of J. H. Gugerli is down on chutes. He was down in one yesterday. They keep their horse in the barn where E. P. Refner lives on West Sixth street and Paul takes care of it. At least he feeds it. In feeding, the hay is put into a chute and allowed to fall down to the manger, where there is a hole large enough for the horse to pull out the hay as he eats it, the hay above sliding down as fast as he eats away the hay at the bottom. Anyone can see that if a person was to fall into the chute he would have a poor chance to get out. This was also little Paul's experience. It filling the chute with hay last evening he fell into it head first, and of course could not get out, and being head downwards would soon have died but for the accident of some one going by. Mrs. Frank Zimmerman and her sister, Mrs. Sallie Scott, were going along the sidewalk by the barn, when from some place, they could not tell where, came a faint, smothered voice, 'Help! help! Please help. Oh, please help." They stopped to listen but still could not locate the sound. They went nto Refner's, but Mrs. R could give no information. Mrs. Cook Ford and daughter Maggie joined in the search, and finally it was decided that the sounds came from inside the barn. They went in and listened and soon discovered that the voice now weak and faint, came from the hay chute, and they saw the boy's danger. But they could not get him out for he could not be reached from above, and the feed hole at the bottom was small. They thought of chopping the hole larger with an ax, but finally pulled out hay epough to enlarge the hole, and then got hold of him and dragged the lad out. By this time the little fellow was pretty nearly gone and was black in the face from standing head down so long. He was soon all right, however, and this morning is around as usual But his terrible experience will not soon be forgotten.

The Monroe Doctrine.

Wednesday's Daily.

President Clev elnd yesterday, in answer to a request from Congress, sent in the entire correspondence between our state department and the British government, in regard to the boundary dispute between Great Britain and Venezuela, in South America. The British own a large territory down there, known as "British Guiana." The bounday next to Venezuela, has never been very plain, and from time to time for fifty years, the Brifsh have been claiming land further and further into Venezuela. The latter country has objected at every step, and now that England wants to extend her lines around an additional big tract of land, full of gold mines, she objects earnestly, But she is weak and Great Britain is strong, so her talk does no good. Our own government has asked that the dispute be submitted to friendly arbitration but Great Britain refuses. In sending in this correspondence to congress, the President took occasion to say that he advocated the "Monroe Doctrine," which he proceeded to explain more fully than has been done heretofore. It is to the effect, that Eropean powers have no right to extend the boundaries of such colonies as they have in the new world, nor to take possession of any new territory. He says, that though Venezuelan territory is not our territory, yet it is of vital interest to our national safety that no such territory be occupied by foreign power, on either continent of America. Congress cheered the message, and it seems to be accepted all over the country as sound doctrine. But Great Britain is in ill humor over it. We publish the message to-day.

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This Medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all female complaints, exerting a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, constipation, headache, fainting spells, or are nervous, sleepless, excitable, melancholy or troubled with dizzy spells, Electric Bitters is the medicine you need. Health and strength are guaranteed by its use Large bottles only fifty cents at Robbins & McCord. 3

To California in Though Tourist Sleepers, via Wabash R. R.

These sleepers leave Dearborn Station Chicago, every Wednesday at 11:03 a. m. via Wabash and thence via St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern, Texas & Pacific and Southern Pacific Railways, running through to Los Angeles and San Francisco without change. First-class Sleeper leaves Chicago daily on same train for City of Mexico with one change at Laredo. This sleeper lands you in Hot Springs the next day at 12:45 p. m, four hours and forty minutes ahead of any other line. No snow or ice via this great Southern Route. This is the only line from Chicago that can offer this excellent service. Call or write to any ticket agent of the Wabash or connecting lines for printed matter showing time, route, rates, descriptions of cars, etc., or

C. S. CRANE,
G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

Mistletoe and Holly

Rare Christmas Decorations Will be Used at the Bazar.

Tuesday's Daily.

A box of mistletoe and holly has been received here, by Mrs Cuppy. Her husband sent it from Tennesse, and it is for use in decorating the Presbyterian bazar that opens in the Ralston room on Thusday. Both mistletoe and holly are rarely seen here, and many of our people never saw either. Both are especially used at holidays the custom having come to us from our ancestors in England. The mistletoe is a parasitic plant, that is it does not grow in the ground, but is found growing on the limbs of other trees, such as the oak, elm apple etc., its roots taking hold in the bark. When found growing on an oak, which appears to have been as rare in England, as the "four leaved clover" in with us, it was an object of sacred veneration by the Druids, the most ancient people of England, and had a part in the ceremonies of their pagan religion. But the ordinary mistletoe, is more used in Christmas festivities and especially in the old plan of hanging a bough of it to the ceiling of the room, and any girl found standing under it, could be kissed by the young man who found her there. The plant is found in the hilly parts of the south and central parts of this county. Holly is a shrub found in much the same localities, and like the mistletoe is an evergreen. It has greenish yellow leaves, and bright red berries, and is used for Christmas decorations in localities where it can be obtained.

Just A Word

ABOUT THE BOYS FROM ANN ARBOR WHO WILL APPEAR HERE JAN., 1.

The Ann Arbor Glee club, who will give a concert in the Henry Opera house is a very popular organization. The society is always composed of students of the Michigan University, which, by the way, has at present a membership of about 3,200. The personnel, therefore, changes from year to year, and this is, perhaps, one reason for its great popularity, as no former member is able to restrain his enthusiasm when the Glee club makes its appearance. The first trip was made in 1878, and was a small affair, as compared with the recent tours. Musically speaking, the success of this organization, in the first place, was due to Mr. Calvin B. Cady, now of Chicago, Prof. A. A. Stanley, being the present efficient director. The club has a membership of about forty, and will visit, during the holiday vacation many of the large cities, including Auburn. They go from here to Ft. Wayne where they will appear in the Temple. On Friday evening they were in Detroit, and the Detroit Free Press says of them:

"College songs are the songs of zest and sparkle. Sung as only collegians can sing them, they contain more enthusiasm and spirit than a world of ordinary song. The University of Michigan glee and banjo and mandolin clubs gave fine illustrations last evening of the true style of execution of the stirring music of university life. Strassburg's hall was filled to the doors with one of Detroit's best audiences. The alumni of the unisity had done their best to bring out a crowd of the elite to welcome the boys from Ann Arbor, and their labors bore abundant fruit, for there was not an empty chair in the hall when the concert began. Every box was occupied."

Fired The Mayor

The Mayor of Detroit was put off a street car in his own city a few days ago. He believes the street car companies are bound to sell six tickets for a quarter, and offered to pay that, but refusing to pay the full five cents a ride, the conductor he tried it on, rather than put him off let him ride free, and was himself discharged for so doing. The second conductor was a negro, and reasoned sensibly. "If I don't fire de Mayor, de company will fire me." He fired the Mayor, and now there will be a law suit to test the matter.

Cotton Bolls.

To those who have never seen growing cotton, Miss Mattie Moody can show something of interest. It is a collection of green, or partially ripe cotton stalks and bolls, or pods, as we would call them here in the north. They are sent by Will Walters, a friend now at Dallas, Texas, and are taken from the ground that was cleared of cotton, where they were going to build a big amphitheater in which the fight between Corbett and Eitzsimmons was to take place. The fight was prevented by the authorities, but the cotton was destroyed before it was much of it fit to use. These balls, have however, some of them, opened and show the large seeds covered with the long, white fibers of snowy cotton.

BUTCHERING DONE.

I will help do your butchering. Have had long experience. Call on me.

ALVIN BAKER,
48-49 Auburn

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

A GRAND SUCCESS

Was The Meting At The Court House Last Night

AUBURN IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.

INCORPORATED UNDER THE LAWS OF THE STATE OF INDIANA.

The Most Enthusiastic Meeting Ever Held in Auburn.

Thursday's Daily.

It was the largest, the most enthusiastic and the most practical meeting of the kind we ever had. And as the night was very stormy and disagreeable, it shows that our people are wide awake and in earnest. The meeting was called to order by the president, John W. Baxter, with the secretary, Will Schaab at his post. Then followed an informal talk in which A. N. Wilson, D. A. Garwood, W. H. McIntyre, J. W. Baxter. G. A. Bishop, M. Boland, J. A. Barns, John Lochner, Will Schaab, B. C. Robbins, R. H. Weamer, Clarence Raut, . D. Tefft, and others took part. A few thought we should not organize till after the holidays, or at least till more time could be taken to solicit subscribers, as various reasons had prevented the committee from doing much work so far. However, after a full discusion, it was generally conceded that with the large number present, many new subscribers could be got at once, and then we would start the organization by electing directors. This was done, and when all who desired, had taken stock, the election of eleven directors came up. Nominations were made, and then each stockholder wrote on his ballot eleven names of the men of his choice, and also put his name and number of shares on the back of the ballot. The tellers would read the name and number, but not the men he voted for, till all ballots had thus been examined and called out. Then the votes were counted. It was found, the following eleven were elected:

G. A. Bishop,
B. C. Robbins,
W. H. McIntyre,
Will Schaab,
J. W. Baxter,
Frank Eckhart,
D. A. Garwood,
A. N. Wilson,
C. A. O. McClellan,
M. Boland,
C. C. Shaffer.

These were declared duly elected. The stockholders then signed the articles of incorporation before R. Dexter Tefft, who is a notary public, in order that the organization might be made according to the requirements of the law when such bodies are to be incorporated. The stockholders' meeting then adjourned, and at once a meeting of the Board of Directors was convened. Letters had been read from different firms that were looking for locations, and were now more fully discussed, and plans more definitely outlined. It was then decided to hold the next meeting on Saturday, to-morrow evening at the law office of Baxer & Brown, when the directors would choose officers, and otherwise fully complete the organization.

NOTES.

The board of directors is an excellent one, as every man on it is one of our most enterprising and representative business men. Our people will have the fullest confidence in them. All that can be done for the city's interests can safely be trusted to them.

Several letters were read, and quite a number of less formal communications brought up, showing that our town's unusually fine shipping facilities are beginning to be understood. The firm that makes buggy springs etc, especially spoke of this, and of Auburn as a desirable town in which to make a home. One company wants to manufacture shoes and slippers for ladies and misses. One man wants to start a novelty works. One man wants to locate a steam laundry because we can ship work out in six different direction, etc, etc.

Things begin to look plain. They are taking shape. Of the many factories in sight, we certainly will secure some of them. Already our people feel encouraged, and look to see an era of improvement begin in the spring. Now keep the ball rolling. Let no man fail to give a helping hand to the "Auburn Improvement Association."

Condensed Testimony.

Chas. B. Hood, Broker and Manufacturer's Agents, Columbus, Ohio, certifies that Dr. King's New Discovery has no equal as a Cough remedy. J. D. Brown, Prop. St. James Hotel, Ft. Wayne, Ind., testifies that he was cured of a Cough of two years standing, caused by La Grippe, by Dr. King's New Discovery. B. F. Merrill, Baldwinsville, Mass., says that he has used and recommended it and never knew it to fail and would rather have it than any doctor, because it cures Mrs. Hemming, 222 E. 25th St., Chicago, always keeps it at hand and has no fear of Croup, because it instantly relieves. Free Trial Bottles at Robbins and McCord's Drug Store. 3

Considering the recent unfavorable weather and desiring to give one and all an opportunity to take advantage of our

Grand Holiday Sacrifice Sale

we havs decided to extend the time of the close of this sale to

Jan. 1, '96.

We invite you to call.

Respectfully,

Schaab & Bro.

Your Attention

IS CALLED TO THE FACT THAT A BOX OF

DINGERS

WOULD MAKE AN ELEGANT PRESENT

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

THIRTY years' observation of Castoria with the patronage of millions of persons, permit us to speak of it without guessing. It is unquestionably the best remedy for Infants and Children the world has ever known. It is harmless. Children like it. It gives them health. It will save their lives. In it Mothers have something which is absolutely safe and practically perfect as a child's medicine.

Castoria destroys Worms.
Castoria allays Feverishness.
Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd.
Castoria cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic.
Castoria relieves Teething Troubles.
Castoria cures Constipation and Flatulency.

Castoria neutralizes the effects of carbonic acid gas or poisonous air.
Castoria does not contain morphine, opium, or other narcotic property.
Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep.
Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk.
Don't allow any one to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose."
See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

CIRCLING THE GLOBE.

CONCISE HISTORY OF SEVEN DAYS' DOINGS.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World, Embracing Foreign Affairs and Home Happenings of an Important Nature.

A Mine Horror.

Twenty-nine miners lost their lives in the Nelson mine, entry No. 10, near Dayton, Tenn., by an explosion of fire damp. The explosion was succeeded by a terrific crash, which indicated that the roof of the passage through which they had entered, had fallen in. No avenue of escape was left. The rescuing parties worked vigorously for hours trying to reach the entoombed miners. The foul air quickly exhausted the workmen, who were relieved by fresh hands. At last a way was broken through the debris in the passage of entry 10, and the blackened corpses of the dead miners were carried out where the work of identification began.

Timber Land Sold.

The Munising Company of Cleveland, Ohio, and the Lac La Belle Company of Laporte, Ind., sold the hemlock bark on a tract of land comprising 184,000 acres in Northern Michigan to Matthew Robson, William M. Bullevant and J. H. Pooc of Boston, Mass., and J. O. Nesson, of Manistee, Mich., who will establish the largest tannery in the world at Munising, Mich., which is now an embryo city, but which gives promise of having a population of 25,000 souls within the next six months. The Munising Railroad Company has also been incorporated, with Daniel P. Eells of Cleveland, president.

A Dreadful Crash.

A portion of the fourth floor of the Palace Clothing House at Minneapolis caved in. Gale N. Walters, an employe, was taken out dead. Oscar A. Holter, a clerk in the hat department, is slightly injured. The fourth floor of the building was occupied by a wall paper firm. Their stock, consisting of many tons, caved in the floor and the whole stock fell the distance of two stories. The first floor was occupied by the Palace Clothing company, and their stock is badly damaged. The total loss will reach several thousand dollars.

Fatal Wreck.

The passenger train on the Adirondack and St. Lawrence railroad collided with a light engine at Horse Shoe Pond, 100 miles north of Utica, N. Y. Engineer William C. Brassel, of the passenger train, a resident of Utica, was killed. Engineer Hunt, of the light engine, was seriously hurt. The fireman on the passenger engine suffered a broken leg. No injuries other than slight bruises were received by the passengers. The coaches comprising the train were not wrecked, but both engines were smashed.

Cannibals Devoured Six White People.

William P. Harrison, son of Carter H. Harrison, the late Mayor of Chicago, arrived in San Francisco, recently, from an extended trip to the Antipodes. During his stay on the Samoan Islands, he states, that over 25 individuals were devoured by the cannbals, six white and nineteen natives. By accident he escaped the same fate. The Samoan natives are planning another uprising.

Pneumatic Guns Accepted.

General Flagler, the chief of ordnance, U. S. A., has received the report on the acceptance test of the three pneumatic guns recently at San Francisco. The report shows that the guns fulfilled all requirements, and in some cases exceeded them so that acceptance is assured. The contractor for the guns was the Pneumatic Torpedo and Construction company, of New York.

Unprovoked Attack.

Henry and Chris Hilderbrand, living near Portsmouth, Ohio, were attacked by a belling party on their way home, and Chris was so badly injured that he is not expected to live, while Henry had his right eye punched out. The Hilderbrands could give no cause for the assault, except that, it is said, the men were drunk. They knew none of them.

Seized by the Government.

Alfred Brown, of Anderson, Ind., has received from the postoffice department his photograph and a notice that the Crescent Art company, of Baltimore, was a fraud, and that the manager, George Rupps, was under arrest for defrauding people through the mails. A number of people in Indiana were patrons of Rupps.

Slaughter of the Innocents.

Dispatches from Constantinople to the Berlin Frankfurter Zeitung says: "The porte has ordered Mustapha Remzi Pasha to attack with 10,000 troops and two batteries the city of Zeitoun and to bombard and destroy it and to massacre the 12,000 Armenians in the city."

Crushed by Slate.

At Garfield, a small mining town one mile north of Coalton, Ohio, Mrs. Charles Culp, wife of a miner, entered the mine after working hours. While picking up a bucket of coal in the entry a heavy fall of slate occurred, which killed her almost instantly.

Masonic Temple Theater, Ft. Wayne, Indiana.

Dec. 30 and 31.—David Garrick.
Jan. 1.—"Alabama."
Jan. 3.—Walker Whiteside.
Jan. 6.—Boston Howard Specialty Co.
Jan. 7.—"Spider and Fly."
Jan. 10.—"Faust."

Fatal Explosion.

The boiler of the saw-mill of William Thacker, on Camp Creek, in Mercer County, West Virginia, exploded, killing Electrician Yates, the fireman, and scalding Samuel Bonner, the sawyer, so badly that he will die.

Chicago Overflowed.

A special from Chicago says: Rain has been falling for thirty hours. The situation is serious. In Moreland, many hundreds of people are prisoners in their houses. Water has filled the streets, and the people were compelled to move to the second stories. In other suburbs, street car traffic is entirely suspended. In the down-town district, cellars are filled, and the in-takes of sewers have become so choked that it is not possible for the water to run off as rapidly as it comes down. Serious damage will result.

Horrible Suicide.

An unknown man, middle aged and poorly clad, deliberately stepped before a rapidly running Fort Wayne passenger train at Massillon, Ohio. Death resulted instantly. A witness claimed the action was intentional. The Coroner's examination revealed nothing and the body is yet unidentified.

Young Husband's Suicide.

John Schullinger, a meat dealer, aged 35, of Newark, Ohio, shot and killed himself at his home. He lived about an hour. Depression over financial troubles drove him to the act. He had been married about four months, and but recently started in business on his own account.

AN OPEN SWITCH.

The Brakeman's Negligence Causes a Serious Wreck.

Lima (Ohio) special: The north-bound express on the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railroad ran into a local freight at Custer, near here. The freight had pulled into a siding to allow the passenger train to pass. The flagman neglected to close the switch behind the train and the passenger train crashed into them. There were nine passengers in the caboose, all of whom were more or less seriously injured. The engineer and firemen of the passenger train leaped from the engine and were only slightly injured. Surgeons have gone from here to the scene of the wreck. The people in the caboose were returning from a church fair in this city.

The injured are as follows:

A. D. Noble, aged 62, slight cut over left eye.

John Butcher, aged 26, leg broken at ankle and both hands burned.

Charles Seeman, aged 11, injured about head and internally. He was unconscious when last heard from, and is expected to die.

Miss Mary Lawrence, aged 23, slight cuts and bruises.

Matthew Blassius, aged 28, cut on head and chest bruised.

Miss Rosa Borough, aged 22, bruised on head, left arm, and chest; right hand burned to wrist; seriously injured.

A man named Blassius, living in the country, slightly injured.

Engineer Hoyt, bruised badly and spine seriously injured.

Fireman Osman, bruised from jumping.

TIED UP.

Philadelphia Street Cars Stopped by Strikers.

A special from Philadelphia, dated Wednesday, says: Riot and destruction marked the opening day of the great strike of the street car employes of the Union Traction Company. Aided by the mischievous, lawless element, the strikers succeeded in completely tying up the lines of the Union Traction Company, and to-night, with the exception of the one line not controlled by the company involved in the strike, not a street car wheel is turning in Philadelphia. To the credit of the strikers, it may be said that the disorders were created by too ardent sympathizers and mischievous boys. About 300 cars were badly wrecked.

This afternoon the mayor issued a proclamation calling upon all good citizens to preserve the peace, and asking them to refrain from gathering in crowds on the street. He further added that violence and riot would be met with force, and that the peace of the city will be preserved at all hazards.

The suddenness of the numerous outbreaks seemed to take the police by suprise and for a time cars were wrecked with impunity in the very heart of the retail shopping district. Then the reserve patrolmen were massed at every threatened point, and to-night every policeman in the city is on duty.

Revival in a Penitentiary.

Indianapolis special: Warden Haley of the State Prison North, tells of a remarkable religious revival in progress in the prison. Since the wave of religious excitement struck the prison more than 100 of the most hardened convicts have professed conversion. A Christian Endeavor Society, with about 200 members, has been organized within the prison walls. The warden says the convicts who are at the head of the society are wondering if the society will be entitled to delegates in the next annual convention of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor. Various religious forms have been introduced in the prison. The warden says there has been a great improvement in the conduct of the 900 convicts since the religious wave took hold on the prison. He is encouraging the chaplain and convicts in the movement.

Shot Down by Cowardly Robbers.

In Pike County, Kentucky, twenty miles south of Warfield, on Tug River, two parties walked up to the front door of the residence of Walter Jamison a farmer in ordinary circumstances. Calling him to the front door they demanded his money, and on being told that he had none they fired two bullets into his left breast, causing death almost instantly. A 15-year-old son of Mr. Jamison at once gave the alarm, and neighbors began a pursuit of the murderers, who crossed Tug River in a small johnboat. The affair has caused the greatest excitement in that section, and hundreds of armed people are searching the hills for the guilty parties. Mr. Jamison, when he was shot, fell into his wife's arms, she having heard their demand and coming to her husband's assistance.

Ground to a Pulp.

Levi Benney met death in a horrible manner while feeding a patent corn husker on Weaver's farm, near Idaville, Ind. The machine became clogged and Benney raised the lid over the cylinder to remove the obstruction. While attempting to slip his hand back rapidly the revolving cylinders teeth caught his sleeve, jerking Benney's head foremost into the mouth of the husker. His right arm was pulled from his body and crushed to bits. His head passed between the rollers, mashing it like an egg shell, and scattering his brains in every direction. Benney's brother was standing on the machine when the accident occurred. The deceased was 24 years of age, and was to have been married during the holidays.

Constitutional.

Two sugar bounty cases were decided by Judge Pardee in the United States Circuit Court at New Orleans. They were test cases on the constitutionality of the sugar bounty act, and were filed by the Realty company and Mr. Andrew H. Gay, respectively. The sugar claimants were represented by J. D. Hill, while the government was represented by United States District Attorney F. B. Earhart. Judge Pardee's opinion was very short, but forcible against the position assumed by Comptroller Bowler. His decision is against the United States. He holds the sugar bounty act was constitutional.

The American Flag Shot Down.

There are persons in the town of Crossplains, Wis., who evidently object to a United States flag floating over a schoolhouse, and the State Superintendent of Schools is now investigating the case. Recently the teacher of District School No. 7 decided to raise the flag on the school. The next day it had been shot down, the staff having been cut in two by rifle balls. The damage was repaired and the Stars and Stripes were again hoisted by the patriotic teacher. The next morning the flag was again down, the flag staff having been broken. The affair has caused considerable comment.

A Horrible Accident.

New York special: Nine men were killed and three injured by the explosion of a steam-pipe on the American-line steamship St. Paul, while the vessel lay at her dock at the foot of Fulton street, North River. At the time of the accident, there were thirty men of the crew in the fireroom and ten in the engine-room. The main steam-pipe, which is three feet in diameter, runs from the engine to the fireroom. It was this pipe which exploded. The main stop-valve was blown out. The accident is believed to have been due to a flaw in the pipe.

Advices from Constantinople.

The correspondent of the United Press at Constantinople telegraphs that it is now known that not a single Turk was injured in the disturbance at Harpot, nor did any Christian fire a shot, the latter having been shot and cut down without resistance. The Rev. Royal M. Cole has made the journey from Moosh to Bitlis in safety. The American missionaries have decided to remain at their present posts, their feeling of security having been restored.

Another Casualty.

A terrible accident occurred at the Midvalley colliery near Shamokin, Pa., where a number of men were injured, four of them fatally. The accommodation train was up for the men to go to No. 2 slope after which Conductor Harry Hundon ordered Engineer Hollister to run back light to No. 1, and bring up a string of empty wagons. The conductor accompanied the locomotive to the colliery. Thirty men boarded the cars and the engine started. When near the top the coupling broke next to the engine, and the cars ran down the steep grade. At a sharp curve near the bottom the cars left the track, causing a mass of wreckage twenty feet high. A number of men were buried in the debris.

Black Small-pox in Cuba.

A special cable dispatch from Havana says: Though the epidemic of yellow fever which has been fatal to so many in the Spanish army during the last six months is subsiding, a new and even more terrible scourge has appeared in the form of variola nigra, or black small-pox, imported from Africa on the government troop-ships lately arriving with reinforcements. About 90 per cent. of the cases so far reported have proved fatal.

Cut Him to Pieces.

Frank Lewellen, a Pan-handle engineer, met a horrible death in Newcastle, Ind. While his train was running at a high rate of speed he got out on the running board of the engine to fix the air pump. He slipped and fell beneath the wheels and was literally ground to pieces. His head, one leg one and arm were cut entirely off. Lewellen lived at Richmond, Ind., was 32 years of age, and he leaves a wife and one child.

Mine Horror.

Raleigh (N. C.) special: There was a terrible explosion of gas in the Cunnock bituminous coal mine, in Chatham county, forty miles from here. There were forty men at work in the mine at the time, and a telegram just received says it is feared all these are killed. There is great excitment. The principal shaft is over 500 feet deep. Machinery costing over $200,000 was put in last year.

Can Stay at Home.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee holds it would not be necessary for a commission to leave the United States to determine the Venezuela boundary line, as all maps, surveys, treaty and other documents of Venezuela are available in Washington. It is presumed the Venezuelan government would be found willing to supply any papers in its possession that might be wanted.

The San Francisco Sails.

The flagship San Francisco has sailed from Mersine to Smyrna, in accordance with instructions issued by Secretary Herbert, at the suggestion of Minister Terrell, that the three United States vessels now in Turkish waters should show greater activity in moving from port to port where American interests are supposed to be in jeopardy.

Cleveland's Message on the Venezuelan Dispute.

The message of President Cleveland to Congress transmitting the correspondence between Secretary Olney and Lord Salisbury relative to the Venezuelan boundary dispute, created a real sensation in Washington. He declares that the United States should stand by the Monroe doctrine.

Her Eyes Burned.

While preparing breakfast, Mrs. George Howell, residing at Center Point, Ind., was seized with a fainting fit and fell on a hot cooking stove. When rescued her face was burned to a crisp and both eyes were so badly burned that no hopes of her regaining her sight are entertained.

Fourteen Blow Up.

The German ship Athena, from New York for London, with a cargo of naphtha, exploded off Cape May. Fourteen lives were lost, including the captain. The first and second mates and four of the crew were rescued by the British ship Tafna, and brought to Philadelphia.

The Big Fight a Go.

A special from El Paso, Texas, says: It is fairly certain that the Fitzsimmons-Maher fight will come off—at least as far as Bob Fitzsimmons is considered. He has secured quarters near Dr. Alexander's Lacienda at Juarez, Mexico, where he will at once go into active training.

Wiman is Free.

Albany (N. Y.) special: The Court of Appeals sustained the judgment of the general term reversing the case of Erastus Wiman for forgery. He overdrew his account with the Dun Mercantile Agency $600,000. Wiman is a free man.

Escaped Convicts Captured.

George St. Clair and Noah Carey, the convicts who scaled the walls of the prison north, Michigan city, Ind., were capured near Laporte, Ind. They had changed their striped garb for citizens' clothes and had traveled twelve miles.

Capt. Bassett Dead.

Capt. Bassett, the venerable door-keeper of the Senate, died at his residence in Washington.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.50 to $5.50; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 57c to 58c; corn, No. 2, 25c to 26c; oats, No. 2, 17c to 18c; rye, No. 2, 37c to 38c; butter, choice creamery, 24c to 27c; eggs, fresh, 20c to 21c; potatoes, per bushel, 18c to 25c; broom corn, $20 to $50 per ton for poor to choice.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $4.50; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, common to prime, $2.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 64c to 66c; corn, No. 1 white, 26c to 28c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 23c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 65c to 66c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 24c to 25c; oats, No. 2 white, 17c to 18c; rye, No. 2, 33c to 34c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50 to $4.50; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 68c to 69c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 28c to 30c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 19c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 41c to 43c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.00 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 66c to 67c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 28c to 30c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 22c; rye, 38c to 39c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 65c to 66c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 27c to 28c; oats, No. 2 white, 20c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 37c to 39c; clover seed, $4.40 to $4.45.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 70c to 73c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 33c to 34c; oats, No. 2 white, 23c to 24c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 57c to 58c; corn, No. 3, 25c to 26c; oats, No. 2 white, 18c to 19c; barley, No. 2, 32c to 34c; rye, No. 1, 36c to 38c; pork, mess, $7.50 to $8.25.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $4.25; sheep, $2.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 65c to 67c; corn, No. 2, 34c to 35c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 23c; butter, creamery, 17c to 28c; eggs, Western, 21c to 24c.

THIS IS ONE NATION.

Eagle's Screams Arouse American Patriots.

LION MUST KEEP OUT.

Congress Votes to Sustain the President.

Bill Passed Giving Him Money and the Commission—American People, Regardless of Party, Uphold Grover in the Enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine—Nothing Since the War Has So Deeply Stirred This Nation—The British Press Is Insolent and Furious.

Washington correspondence:

Congress is with the President in the support of the Monroe doctrine, and the American people are with Congress. The House of Representatives without dissenting voice has passed a bill appropriating $100,000 for an American judicial commission to ascertain the true boundary between British Guiana and Venezuela. This is the beginning of the first step in carrying out the assertion of the Monroe doctrine as a principle of the international code. Leaders of all shades of domestic difference in Congress agreed as one man in supporting the President. It has been the taunt of the British press and the belief of the anti-American public abroad that in the assertion of the Monroe doctrine at this time the President was "playing politics." It will shortly be apparent abroad that in support of the right of Americans to rule America there are no parties in the United States. This is a nation.

The action of the House, fresh from the people and expressing their sentiments, raises a crucial issue for the British Government and brings up the question sharply whether it will fight or back down. The Anglomaniacs in the United States are neither numerous nor formidable enough to cause this country to back down. Congress has indorsed the President and the people will indorse Congress. The Monroe doctrine will be asserted both in letter and in spirit. It will be declared for this time and for all time that it means America for the American republics and no monarchy in America. The European powers must content themselves with partitioning and dominating Europe, Asia and Africa. This Western Hemisphere is the home of the republican form of self-government; and if war breaks out the British monarchical flag will have to depart from Canada and the West Indies and South American Guiana.

Great Britain having refused to submit her claims to disinterested arbitration, the United States proposes to go a step farther in the controversy and inquire for her own future guidance as to the justice of those claims. Nor is this unprecedented. We have a right to know the facts. We do not attempt to decide, but it is our privilege to ascertain the truth, and thus we shall be able to judge whether Great Britain's refusal to submit her title to investigation is well founded. All nations exercise the right of intervention in matters that are likely to affect their own interests or interfere with the clearly defined policy they may have pursued toward their neighbors. Leaving the Monroe doctrine entirely out of the question, we are quite as much justified in pursuing the course recommended by the President as Russia is to interfere with the plans of the English in Turkey, or England in regard to the conduct of Russia in China and Korea, or Russia, France and Germany in relations between China and Japan.

Europe Is Breathless.

The contents of the message have aroused the people of continental Europe as nothing in the second half of this century has done. Great Britain is astounded, according to her own papers. Many of them are insolent and truculent in their comments, and it is evident that the President's utterances fill them with unconcealed fury. One of them says that "the epitaph of the Monroe doctrine has been written in the Venezuelan correspondence." Another sneeringly says that "the invocation of the Monroe doctrine is irrelevant," and that it is "not a principle of international law, because England has not recognized it"—as if nothing were international law which did not have England's assent and sanction. The London Times declares that England will not admit the pretensions put forward by President Cleveland. The Times then proceeds to argue that the Monroe doctrine has never been recognized as international law and quotes Lord Salisbury's admission that any disturbance of the existing territorial distribution in the Western Hemisphere by any European State would be highly inexpedient. Other organs of British opinion take the ground that if the "President should seriously declare that the United States would enforce the decision of the special commission, and such a preposterous contention was sustained by the American Congress and people, there would seem nothing left to Great Britain but to teach the United States a needed lesson." And more bluff to the same effect.

There was a time early in this century when English statesmen and English papers scoffed at the protest of the United States, then a feeble nation, against the searching of American ships by English war vessels and the removal of seamen on the pretext that they were King George's subjects. This protest was denounced as "impertinent." "The right of search" was claimed to be a part of "international law" as defined by Great Britain. But after the war of 1812 England silently revised her ideas of international law and dropped out "the right of search" of American vessels on the high seas. She will revise them again in regard to the Monroe doctrine before this controversy is ended, and will admit that the Monroe doctrine does form a most important part of international law as far as matters regarding the American Hemisphere are concerned.

Across the channel the sentiment is scarcely less serious. France and Germany, both having interests on this continent, view the message with undisguised alarm, as encroaching on their rights. They even go so far as to suggest that England alone is in poor shape to handle the husky young republic, but that if there were concert of action by the interested powers in denying the Monroe doctrine there would be no difficulty in exploding the bubble, which, however, has caused many a continental statesman considerable loss of sleep since it was so vigorously promulgated.

The situation is briefly that the attitude of the President is approved by the people of the United States, that the members of both houses of Congress realize this and that there is a manifest intention on all hands to pronounce to the world that this country is dominant on this continent and that her word "goes."

A SURPRISE FOR THE LION—DIDN'T THINK THE ELEPHANT AND TIGER WERE BROTHERS.

It is impossible to disguise the gravity of the difficulties that have arisen between Great Britain and the United States. President Cleveland's message and its reception on both sides of Congress give additional importance to the dispatches between Washington and London.—From the London Times.

BRITISH BOUNDARY LINE CLAIMS IN VENEZUELA.

The Comic Side of the News.

An Oswego girl has been arrested for embezzling $11,000. The new woman seems to be a few laps ahead of the old man.

A New York paper has an editorial on "How to Humanely Kill Kittens." Why not kill them just as you murder the English language?

The Sultan's curiosity is getting the better of his judgment. When the allied navies begin to play the shell game he'd better keep out of it.

Mrs. Margaret Mather-Pabst probably will return to the stage; let us hope that Mr. Margaret Mather-Pabst will retire from it now forever.

Camphor has been cornered and prices have more than doubled lately. Somebody is laying up treasures where moth and rust doth corrupt.

The New York Sun suggests that "toothbrush" ought to be "teethbrush," perhaps. Perhaps so; but how about eyesglasses, fingersbowl, feetball and hairscut?

BASSETT PASSES AWAY.

Venerable Assistant Doorkeeper of the National Senate Is Dead.

Capt. Isaac Bassett, the venerable assistant doorkeeper of the Senate, died in Washington Wednesday afternoon. Capt. Isaac Bassett, the "father of the Senate," spent his entire career as a Senate employe. He enjoyed the distinction of being the second page appointed in the chamber and the last officer of that body elected by ballot, all subsequent offices being filled by appointment.

Capt. Bassett was born in Washington seventy-six years ago. His father was Simeon Bassett, who came from Milford, Conn., and his mother was of Irish birth. He was a protege of Daniel Webster, who secured the appointment of the boy, then 11 years old, as a page. During the subsequent sixty-four years of service he became messenger and finally assistant doorkeeper, or assistant sergeant-at-arms, the latter two offices being identical. His duties practically embraced overseeing the housekeeping of the Senate, the seating of the members, and, in cases of emergency, the actual work of the sergeant-at-arms. Early in his career as assistant doorkeeper he calmly faced a drawn revolver held by the elder Saulsbury, Senator from Delaware, who had been ordered arrested for disturbing the Senate. Senator Saulsbury, however, was coaxed out by colleagues and avoided being taken into custody. He usually introduced those who bore messages from the President or the House of Representatives, and participated in other like formalities. It was also his custom to sign all caucus calls for the party in power.

CAPTAIN BASSETT.

TOSSES EGGS AT AHLWARDT.

Jew Baiter's First Lecture in America Punctuated with Odorous Missiles.

An educated bigot landed on our shores last week and will make frantic efforts to turn the people of the United States against the Hebrew race. His name is Herman Ahlwardt. He is a member of the German Reichstag and is known the world over as the Jew-baiter. He is the leader of the anti-Semitic party in Germany and has served three terms in prison for talking too freely. He is 50 years old—old enough to know better than to come to this country to set in motion an organized movement of persecution. He says he comes here on the invitation of prominent men in Milwaukee and New York, but he will not give their names because he thinks it would hurt their business. He insists that he is not a villain. His first tirade against the Jews was delivered in Cooper Union, New York City. There were 150 auditors. It became evident before he had spoken 100 words that there were more Jews than Christians present. It also became evident that the Jews were greatly excited.

While in the middle of a sentence in which he hurled invectives against the Jews a little man sprang to his feet and squeaked some thing in Hebrew at the rate of 1,000 words a minute. Before the police knew what the little fellow was about he had thrown two eggs at the foreigner, who dodged them neatly. The little disturber of the peace was terrified by his own audacity, and crushed a third egg in his hand just as five gigantic policemen fell over each other in their anxiety to grapple with him.

"I come to this country," he said, in an interview, "for the purpose of uniting the working classes of this country against the Jews. The Jews do not produce anything by their own labor; it is their sole desire to acquire the results of the labor of others by trick and by fraud. I hold that the Jewish spirit is corrupting the Gentiles. Labor is oppressed by the Jews, and its fruits are being absorbed by them. I will explain all this more fully in my lecture. I hope that I will be able to arouse the anti-Semitic feeling in this country, which I am told is vigorous, but only in its infancy. I shall deliver twenty-one lectures and remain in America three months. My desire is to put a stop to the rise of Jews in politics and literature. We must enact laws stopping the progress of the Jews. In Berlin to-day the Jews own 47 per cent. of the real estate and on the other 53 per cent. they hold mortgages."

HERMAN AHLWARDT.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

THE WEEK'S DOINGS IN SENATE AND HOUSE.

A Comprehensive Digest of the Proceedings in the Legislative Chambers at Washington—Matters that Concern the People.

Lawmakers at Labor.

The Senate was in session about two hours Monday, half of that time being given to Mr. Stewart, of Nevada, in a vigorous assault on the gold "combine." An echo of Comptroller Bowler's suspension of the sugar bounty payments was heard in the resolution of Mr. Caffery, of Louisiana, calling on the Treasury Department for the reasons for the suspension. Postmaster General Wilson's recent order forbidding postal employes from urging postal legislation also came in for attention, Mr. Peffer offering a comprehensive resolution of inquiry as to the order. The proceedings in the House were enlivened by Mr. Flinn, the delegate from Oklahoma, who offered a resolution that the Secretary of the Interior be directed, if not incompatible with the public interest, to report to the House: 1. The reasons and causes operating, if any, to delay the appointment of allotting agents and the allotment of Indian lands in Oklahoma. 2. Whether any of his connections or relatives by blood or marriage are acting as attorneys for said Indians or any party or parties interested are delaying the opening of the reservation to settlement. The resolution was adopted.

Representative Hopkins' bill for the extension of the Chicago customs district passed the House finally Tuesday with the Senate amendment exempting East St. Louis. The bill goes to the President, and as it has the approval of the Treasury Department Collector Russell will soon be receiving customs dues from the whole State of Illinois except the city across from St. Louis. The Senate did no business of importance.

Wednesday's session of the House did not last an hour, but it sufficed for the passage of a bill authorizing the President to appoint a commission to investigate the Venezuelan boundary, and appropriating $100,000 for the expense of the commission. The bill was prepared by Mr. Hitt and met the approval of Speaker Reed. In the Senate a bill was introduced and referred providing for the increase of the armament of the nation and appropriating $100,000,000 for the purchase of the weapons needed.

The time of the Senate Thursday was taken up by speeches indorsing President Cleveland's position on the Venezuelan question. The House held no business session.

STATUE OF ROBERT BURNS.

Highly Artistic Work Completed by Sculptor Cairns for a Boston Society.

Hugh Cairns, the sculptor, who won a high position in Glasgow as an instructor in the academy, and while there produced many worthy bits in plaster, marble and other material, has been in Boston for some time past, quietly gaining a reputation for superior efforts in all branches of practical as well as ideal work. Of the latter phase his most important work, aside from the model of the new Statehouse pediment, for which he received the highest medal awarded in the art department at the Mechanics' Fair, and sculptural ornaments used on the Trinity Church additions, is the statuette of Robert Burns, which represents the poet standing in the fields bareheaded. He holds a wild flower in his hand, over which he contemplates in poetic mood. The accessories, plow, cloak, thistle, etc., are in keeping with the subject, and the whole is most dignified, well balanced and modeled and thoroughly artistic. Mr. Cairns has given the model to Chief Anderson, of the Caledonian Club, Boston, and it will be exposed to view in January in Music Hall at the anniversary of Burns' birthday.

STATUETTE OF ROBERT BURNS.

A Little Skeptical.

At one time a wealthy and not over-reverent retired seafaring man determined that his reputation for respectability demanded his joining the Baptist church. Forthwith he appeared before the deacons for examination.

All progressed favorably until one of the examiners asked if he believed that Daniel was cast in a den of lions and came out unharmed, and that the wicked keepers were devoured. The old man hesitated a moment, but upon receiving an encouraging poke from the brother who had him in charge, he admitted that it must be true, inasmuch as it appeared in the Bible.

He was then asked if he believed that Jonah really existed three days and three nights in the belly of a whale and was then cast forth unharmed. To this our hero acquiesced, but with a gasp and a mental reservation. The next query was as to whether he believed that Shadrach and his two brethren were actually put into a furnace heated to seven times its natural temperature and that they escaped unscorched. This was too much for the old man. "No," he burst forth, "I'm darned if I do." Then, with increasing ire, he added, "And, by thunder, I don't believe that last fish story, either."

Monkey Was Dead.

On 7th street recently a pathetic scene might have been witnessed. An organ grinder held a dead monkey in his arms and sobbed over the inanimate body as if his heart would break. The man and the monkey had been constant companions ever since they came from Italy, five years ago, and the animal was the man's only friend. A sympathizing crowd took up a collection to partly assuage the organ grinder's grief and buy him another monkey. A few hours later he appeared on Pennsylvania avenue near 20th street northwest and another collection was taken up. His grief seemed so real and his love for the monkey so genuine that few declined to add to the collections. Last night the organ grinder with the monkey, took a train for Baltimore, and then for the first time it was discovered that the monkey had been dead for some time. In fact, it had been stuffed.—Washington Star.

CHAPTER XXIII.

The Quartermaster had been shocked at the confession which he had forced from his wife's lips. Indignation lent him eloquence, and as in forcible terms he expressed his scorn for her dereliction from straightforward dealing, she literally cowered before his wrath.

The following morning dawned brightly; but Jane thought it the dreariest day-break on which her eyes had ever rested. All night long she had been awake, grieving, but toward morning had sunk into an uneasy sleep of short duration.

Her night's rest had restored to Mrs. Knox her usual self-assertion and her tongue. She was scolding the servants vigorously as Jane emerged from her room; but her volubility came to a sudden end as she saw her daughter. The shabby black frock, of which she intuitively felt the full significance, touched her strangely, and a lump rose in her throat. Her face became crimson, and yearning for love and sympathy, held out her hands.

Mrs. Knox caught her in her arms and cried over her, reproaching herself bitterly for the share she had in her misfortune. What might have been a barrier between them Jane's sweet, forgiving disposition had broken down, and mother and child understood each other better than they had ever done before.

The Quartermaster came in and was pleased to see the reconciliation, though he thought it best to take no notice of it in words, only smoothing his daughter's bright hair tenderly as he passed her.

A week later, when the Sergeant came and asked to see Jane, he found himself confronted with the Quartermaster instead.

"I wish to see Jane," he stammered out with an awkward salute.

"If it is anything important for her to know, I can take the message."

"Why should I not be allowed to speak for myself? Jane has promised to be my wife, and I have a right to see her when I choose. From the first I never had fair play. Mrs. Knox forbade me the house first, then she tampered with my letters."

The Quartermaster had been standing all this time, nor had he offered his visitor a seat, wishing the interview to be a brief one. With this object still before him, he went straight to the subject he wished to impress upon the Sergeant once and for all.

"One other thing it would be better you should credit—that your claim upon my daughter is at an end. I forbid the engagement."

"You mean to say that you withdraw your consent?" leaning forward with an angry light in his eyes.

The Quartermaster nodded.

The Sergeant sunk into a chair and passed his hand across his brow. Although the evil habit he had lately contracted had made him oftentimes despondent, he was naturally of a hopeful disposition, and had in his heart of hearts cherished the idea that Jane would become his wife. His love for her was the one strong impulse of his life, and like all weak natures, he supposed that could he win his desire he would be a better man.

With a quiet hand-shake the two men parted shortly after, and the Quartermaster immediately repaired to the drawing-room to tell his daughter what he had done.

"Jenny, darling," said her father, gently, "I have been doing something for you without your permission."

"Have you?" she answered, listlessly. "I dare say I shall not be very angry."

"But I want you to be pleased."

"I don't know that I can promise that"—with a smile.

"I have spoken to Jacob Lynn, forbidding your engagement, and he has submitted to my authority. So, Jenny, I shall expect equal obedience from you."

"Then I am free!" she cried, excitedly, disregarding his attempt to jest.

After that she grew a little brighter. Perhaps—for she was very young and unused to sorrow—hope had unconsciously revived; but if so, it was destined soon to fade again.

One morning her mother came in with something to say, which she evidently feared might give her pain. She fidgeted about the room rearranging several ornaments and books, then finally took up her position behind Jane's chair.

"I don't know, Jenny," she began, nervously, "what passed between you and Colonel Prinsep the—that day. I have always felt that I had no right to ask. But, child, will you tell your mother whether you expected he would come to you again?"

"I—I had no reason to expect so," was the stammered reply. Then, as the silence grew oppressive and full of nameless fears, Jane added in a constrained voice: "Why do you ask?"

"Because he started yesterday for England, and I thought——"

Jenny never heard the conclusion of her words, for she swooned away.

CHAPTER XXIV.

That summer was a very hot one at Alipore. Even Mrs. Knox, who had been through so many hot seasons, felt weak and languid; and Jane, who had never been through one since she was a child, grew really ill. Often she dreamed of the summer days in England, and pictured Stephen Prinsep wandering through leafy glades, or by a mountain stream. He had described to her his home so often that she seemed to know every nook and corner of it. And now he had gone there alone. Brooding over her sorrow became a luxury to her at last, and she grew impatient when her reverie was disturbed.

It was fortunate that at this juncture Mrs. Dene, who had with her parents taken a house at Simla, wrote and asked Jane to stay with them for the next three months.

The meeting was at first fraught with painful memories to both; Jane thought of all that happened since their last talk together at Alipore; and Mrs. Dene recalled the pleasant plans that she and her husband had made for them all, spending that hot weather at Cashmere.

She, too, was greatly altered. After her husband's death, she had had a low fever for several weeks, which had robbed her of her strength and made her very slim and pale. Yet she looked younger than she had done during the earlier portion of her married life, when the shame of having been jilted by one man and having been married by another for pity's sake had weighed so heavily upon her. Now all that past time troubled her no more, and mourning for a husband, who she knew loved her, was a healthier if more pungent grief.

It was July when Jane arrived, one of the quietest months at Simla, so she had a little leisure to recover her good looks, about which Mrs. Dene could not have been more anxious had she been the most scheming of Belgravian dames.

A fancy-dress ball was to be given on the 1st of August by the Viceroy, and at this it was decided that Jane should make her debut in Simla society. At first she had demurred, partly on account of the expense; but every objection was overruled, and when the big card of invitation was put into her hand she felt glad that she had been persuaded.

She had told the outline of her story to Mrs. Dene, only suppressing the facts of her mother's deceit and Colonel Prinsep's complicity. But Mrs. Dene, knowing only part, and consequently not seeing sufficient motive for the breaking off of the marriage, jumped to the conclusion that, though she might have been deeply hurt and distressed at the notoriety involved, Jane had never really loved the Colonel. Mrs. Dene felt a momentary regret that she herself was not accompanying Jane, when she saw how lovely the girl looked.

"The prettiest maid that ever went a-milking," smiled Mrs. Molnet, as she noted Jane's appearance before she left for the ball.

"I foretell that you will be the belle of the ball," added her daughter. "Hitherto Diana Knollys has reigned supreme; but her day is over now."

That Jane enjoyed herself was a matter of course. She looked the very incarnation of youth and pleasure as she moved about, the color coming and going fitfully in her face, her hazel eyes aglow with soft delight.

Government House to her seemed a palace of splendor; but that she was the Cinderella of the scene, who had been almost unanimously declared its fairest queen, she did not guess. In her own mind she set down Miss Knollys as the most beautiful woman there.

Major Larron had gone to Cashmere for his six months' leave, and spent most of his time shikarring; but when he heard where the Quartermaster's daughter had gone he lost no time in following her there, bringing as propitiatory gifts some red bearskins for Mrs. Dene, and for Jane a magnificent snow leopard skin, to use as a rug for her jampan, the usual mode of conveyance in the hills.

Valentine Graeme came up also for the last two months, and having made known the opinion he had always held as to her histrionic powers, prepared the way for her to another triumph.

Sometimes the girl could scarcely believe that she had ever been the Sergeant Major's daughter, and engaged to Jacob Lynn; yet in one thing she was unchanged. Never for an instant did her love for Stephen Prinsep falter.

The season drew to an end, and with many regrets Jane left Mrs. Dene's hospitable roof to return to Alipore. She traveled down with Miss Knollys, with whom latterly she had become better acquainted. The Commissioner's daughter had begun by affecting a friendship for diplomacy's sake; but afterward what Colonel Prinsep had foretold her came to pass, she grew to really like her for her own sake, and Jane returned the liking.

It was not to be supposed that any one so handsome as Diana Knollys should remain without an admirer. She had several, but only one of them had actually declared himself, and that was Colonel Grey, who commanded the —th Hussars.

Mrs. Knox was delighted to have her daughter back, and had rejoiced in the several accounts of her successes which she had received from the good-natured Adjutant and Mrs. Dene.

CHAPTER XXV.

Colonel Prinsep had by no means enjoyed his continental tour. He had met friends, been bored by them, and gone on to meet other acquaintances and be bored anew.

Toward the end of the six months, however, he became his usual insouciant self. Say what one will of constancy, absence is more likely to engender forgetfulness than deepen love.

All the while he was away from Alipore he had never heard any news of the Quartermaster's daughter, his correspondents thinking it an unpleasant topic to introduce; consequently he had no idea when he returned to Alipore whether she had married the Sergeant or not.

As he neared the station his thoughts, which had wandered and had been half disloyal to the love which so lately he had professed and felt, reconcentrated themselves; the last few miles he saw and heard nothing that did not remind him of Jane.

In the distance he saw the winding road he had traversed with her the day that she had broken her arm, and supported by him she had lain half fainting with the pain, yet scarcely uttering a cry. Ah, and there was the Quartermaster's bungalow—he wondered if she lived there still, and there the church!

All his bitterness revived at sight of the sacred edifice where he had waited in vain for his bride. He thought that were he to remain in Alipore a hundred years he would never enter its doors again! On the platform of the station was Valentine Graeme, peering into each carriage as it passed him, and he uttered a delighted exclamation when he recognized the Colonel.

He had brought the Colonel's own horse and dog-cart, of which he had been left in charge, and as they drove back to his bungalow together, he gave him several items of news. About Colonel Grey having proposed to and been refused by Diana Knollys, Colonel Prinsep had already heard.

"I cannot imagine Lennox Grey going courting," he said. "I only wish I had been here to see."

"You will find Miss Knox much changed, I fancy," said the Adjutant presently.

"How?" asked the Colonel, quietly; and Mr. Graeme hesitated, not knowing exactly how to explain.

"I think she is grown," he blurted out at length, and feeling that he had made a ridiculous remark, was the first to laugh. The Colonel laughed, too.

"Scarcely that, I should think," he said, carelessly, "seeing that she was eighteen when I left Alipore."

On the following morning, at the time appointed, the Colonel called for Valentine Graeme, and together they repaired to the Quartermaster's house.

How strange it seemed, the Colonel thought, that he should be going up the well-known drive again! Formerly it had been as Jane's lover he had gone, and Jane, herself radiant with delight, had come half-way to meet him. Now he was going as an ordinary visitor to make a morning call.

Coming in from out of the sunlight, the room seemed a little dark, but clearly enough across the intervening space Jane and Stephen Prinsep recognized each other.

He had thought she might blush—she had blushed so easily when he knew her last—perhaps even look confused, rendering it the more imperative for him to retain his self-possession. But as far as he could see in the dimly lighted room, she did neither.

She was standing by the window in an attitude of easy grace he thought he had never seen her adopt before. He could interpret now Val Graeme's clumsy attempt at explanation of the change that six months had worked in her. The change was the great one from girl to woman.

Beside her was Blount of the Rifles, talking to her with his most dandified air—"the A. D. C. swagger," Valentine Graeme contemptuously named it in his own mind.

Mrs. Knox was also in the room, talking to Barry Larron, and she rose instantly, murmuring some unintelligible wards of greeting. She knew he had returned, and that he might show his displeasure by avoidance of them, or that he might, in spite of what occurred, still love and wish to win her daughter, but for this friendly visit she was not prepared.

"It is the Colonel, Jane," she said, after a short, uncomfortable pause. Jane moved forward with outstretched hand.

"We heard you had come," she observed, smiling, "but had not expected to have seen you so soon."

He looked down at her gravely, reproachfully almost. Had she indeed become so heartless that she could utterly ignore what had been between them, and meet and speak to him thus without embarrassment? On the third finger of her left hand was a massive silver ring she had never worn before. It was the sort of a ring a man in Sergeant Lynn's rank of life might give as a token of betrothal. Could it be that she was bound to him still?

"It was natural," he answered, coldly, at last, "that my first visits should be paid to those in the regiment."

"Then we are not to suppose that it was a wish to see us, personally, that brought you?" she asked—impertinently, her mother thought.

"However badly I expressed myself, I hope you will believe it was a pleasure as well as a duty," he returned, bowing, with what Val Graeme, who had a name for everything, called his grand seigneur manner.

(To be continued.)

FIFTY-SEVEN YEARS A SLAVE.

Morgan Jones Is Now a Bootblack in the Streets of New York.

Morgan Jones, a colored man, 90 years of age and fifty-seven years a slave, is among the applicants for the bootblack's stand of the new court house, says the Minneapolis Penny Press.

When Morgan was born he discovered himself located upon the Chapel plantation, in Halifax County, Virginia, near the Missouri line. This memorable event in his existence occurred Aug. 10, 1805. He grew fast—a habit for the Southern picaninny—and before many years was toiling beside his mammy in the field. His father and mother died, but the son toiled on in the slavery to which he was born until he had reached the mature age of 57. Up to this time he had never been ten miles from the spot upon which he was born. His career had little in it of an exciting character, aside from the Sunday trips to a village near by where the frisky element sojourned to produce whisky that could be obtained for 25 cents per gallon. But Morgan was as frisky as any of them, according to his story, told not boastingly at all.

"I was a godlemity good man, when I was young," said Morgan, and judging from the number of his victories in contests where Marquis of Queensbury rules were unknown, it is safe to believe him. A source of pride to Morgan in his old age is the remembrance that his mother was once offered $1,100 for him.

The great change in "uncle's" life took place in 1862, when Gen. Sigel's soldiers came and set him free with others. The happy colored folks were taken to St. Louis and 500 of them placed on board a steamer bound for the north in charge of Capt. Sawyer and his company of militia. Morgan did not leave the boat as others did, until its most northerly point was reached, for he figured that the farther from the south he got the safer he would be. In the spring of 1862 he walked into the village of St. Anthony and before long went to work for a Mr. Chambers, who had a farm at Lake Calhoun. He afterward worked at Richfield on the farm of James Bull. The latter is alive to-day and when at the court house has friendly chats with "uncle."

The latter, at the end of life, has never been outside of the State line, and seldom outside of Minneapolis. "Uncle" is poor in property, and slightly bent under the weight of years. He may be seen shuffling along toward the old court house any morning with a little basket of fruit on his arm. He has a blacking stand in the basement and gathers a few dimes by his labors each day.

"Uncle" makes friends with all he meets and there are none who do not wish him success in the first appointment of his long life.

Contortionists.

The dexterity of a skilled performer is due solely to practice. Contortionists are generally taught at an early age, beginning with some simple motions, like bending backward until the head touches the floor, and rising again without the aid of the hands. From this more difficult feats are learned, until the muscles and joints become so supple that the whole frame can be twisted to any angle without discomfort and with apparent ease.

In 1860 the real estate of this country was estimated at $7,000,000,000, and the personal property at $5,100,000,000; in 1870 the real estate was valued at $9,900,000,000, while the personal property had diminished to $4,300,000,000; in 1880 the real property had still further increased to $13,000,000,000, and personal property had diminished to $3,900,000,000. It is not believed that the value of the personal property actually decreased; the difference arising, most probably, from increased skill in evading the assessments.

Truth may languish, but it can never perish.

THOMAS BRACKETT REED.

Elected Speaker of the Fifty-fourth Congress and Candidate for the Republican Presidential Nomination.

UTAH'S STAR'LL BE THERE.

The Maiden State Will Find a Symbol on Old Glory Next Fourth of July.

Another star added to the flag of the nation! With alacrity the maiden State steps into line and answers to the call of number 45. The change in the national flag made necessary by the addition of Utah will not be acomplished until July 4 next year. After that date every Government flag will have forty-five spangles on its blue field. Already it has been determined just where in the field the new star is to be placed. There are six parallel rows of stars in the regulation flag, and Utah will take her position at the right-hand end of the fourth row.

As has been said, Utah will occupy the space at the right-hand end of the fourth line from the top. Room is not needed for many more, inasmuch as the only territories remaining available for future States are New Mexico, Oklahoma and Arizona. In this account, however, no thought is taken of the great reservation known as Indian territory, from which the slice named Oklahoma was cut out, nor of Uncle Sam's vast Arctic province of Alaska. Without a doubt there will be a further change in the arrangement of stars some day.

A new star is always added to the flag on the 4th day of July following the date of the State's admission. The act of Congress admitting Utah provides that the President shall issue a proclamation on the subject. It is by no means necessary, however, that the chief executive shall proclaim the birth of a new State in order that the latter may be recognized as such in law. Congress has the power to admit a State without reference to the President at all. Wyoming and Idaho were admitted without proclamation from the White House. On the other hand, President Harrison issued proclamations with regard to the admission of the two Dakotas, Montana and Washington in November, 1889.

It is rather an odd fact, by the way, that Oklahoma has not yet earned recognition in school books generally as a territory of the United States.

Anybody is at liberty to make United States flags. Thus it comes about that all sorts of patterns of the national ensign are on the market and in use. But if any one desires to have the colors as they ought to be reference must be made to the standard adopted by the army and navy. This standard, altered from time to time by the addition of fresh stars, is preserved and will continue to be kept by the Secretaries of War and the Navy. In the War Department at Washington, close by Secretary Lamont's office, is displayed in a glass case the true regulation flag of this country. To exhibit it better it is illuminated by a brilliant electric light. This is the original; all others must be imitations or else they are not correct.

In the military and naval service of the United States many patterns of minor flags are employed. For example, in the army there are very pretty "standards," so-called, and "guidons" for artillery and cavalry. The navy has ever so many sorts of flags, some of them being especially designated for the use of blue jackets on shore, when they are serving as troops for the time being. Just at present a complete change is being made in the flags of the army. New designs for them are being executed and some of these have not been finished yet. The patterns are being prepared by draughtsmen in the War Department, under the supervision of Secretary Lamont. One novelty is that in future each cavalry regiment will have one national flag. Hitherto that arm of the service, strangely enough, has not possessed an edition of the Stars and Stripes.

The War Department has already advertised for bids to furnish an entire outfit of flags on the new patterns for the army. They will cost quite a big sum of money. For instance, a regimental flag of silk cannot be bought for less than $160. This is much more expensive than the regulation Stars and Stripes, for the national ensign in silk comes at about $50 for the large size required. The flags used in the army are of silk and of bunting; the former are employed in parades and in battle—there is nothing too good for real fighting—while the bunting flags are for drills.

OLD GLORY AS IT WILL LOOK AFTER NEXT FOURTH OF JULY.
(Showing the exact position the star of Utah will occupy.)

A Blooded-Red Lake.

Lake Morat, in Switzerland, has a queer habit of turning red about two or three times every ten years. It is a pretty lake, like most of the sheets of water in that picturesque country, and its peculiar freak is attributed to a disposition to celebrate the slaughter of Burgundians under Charles the Bold on June 21, 1476. But the French say that it blushes for the conduct of the Swiss, who in that battle gave the Burgundians no quarter. This year it was redder than ever, and had a sinister appearance when the setting sun illuminated its waves.

This phenomenon, of course, has its legend. The old fishermen of the lake, who catch enormous fish called silures that weigh between twenty-five and forty kilograms, say when they see the waters of the lake reddening that it is the blood of the Burgundians. As a matter of fact, some of the bodies of the Burgundians killed in the battle were thrown into the lake, while others were tossed into a grave filled with quicklime. This historical recollection angered the Burgundians, soldiers of the victorious armies of the republic in 1798 so much that they destroyed the monument raised in honor of their compatriots who fell heroically in that battle, and Henri Martin very justly reproached them for that piece of vandalism.

It would hardly do to attribute the reddening of the waters of the lake to the blood of the soldiers of Charles the Bold. The coloring is due simply to the presence in large quantities of little aquatic plants called by naturalists oscillatoria rubescens. The curious thing about it is that Lake Morat is the only lake in which this curious growth is developed, and this peculiarity is beginning to interest scientific men.—New York Sun.

The Firm Survived.

I heard a clerk once in a large draper's shop, who was smart and quick and a splendid manager, but he got a swelled head, and put on consequential airs. Once he took occasion to say to his associates that the concern couldn't get along successfully without him.

So the old gentleman who was the senior partner called him into the office one day and said:

"Mr. Jenks, you have been very efficient, and we appreciate your services, but I hear that you have repeatedly asserted that if you were to die the business couldn't possibly survive it, and this has worried me considerably, for you, like all men, are liable to die very unexpectedly, and so we have concluded to experiment while we are all in health and see if the concern will survive. So you will please consider yourself dead for one year, and draw no salary for that time, and we will try it."—Tid-Bits.

Suffocation Above Seven Miles.

It is impossible for a human being to breathe at a height greater than seven miles above the earth.

This is the season of the year when every bed room becomes a sort of a cold storage room.

She put her little hand in mine
Some might have thought her bold—
And yet there was no romance, for She's hardly two years old.
—Louisville Journal.

Hoax—"Does your dentist take pains with is work?" Joax—"No; he gives them."—Philadelphia Record.

Alice (the friend)—"I don't see how anyone can help loving Blanche." Gertrude (the rival)—"She can't help it herself."—Life.

Fudy—"There goes Grabwell. He's what I call a self-made man." Duddy—"Yes; people who know him intimately say he is all self."—Boston Transcript.

He—"What leads you to call Mrs. Smilax eccentric?" She—"She was telling a story the other night and began it: 'When I was a girl.'"—Philadelphia Record.

Attorney for the defense—"Now, what time was it when you were held up?" Complainant—"I don't know; ask your client—he took my watch."—Chicago Tribune.

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"To my Christmas shopping, pa," she said.
Pa drew a check and wiped his eye.
And thought of the coming buy and buy.
—New York Herald.

The heiress—"I'm afraid papa will never consent." The impecunious—"Is your father down on me?" The heiress—"No; he says he's up to you."—Boston Courier.

"Her father won over $2,000 from the baron last month at cards." "And then the baron asked him for her hand?" "Yes. He wanted to get his money back."—Life.

She—"She's just about your age, isn't she?" He—"No; I'm much the older." She—"What makes you think so?" He—"We were born in the same month of the same year."—Chicago Record.

Weary Watkins—"My folks always told me I was cut out fer a gentleman." Hungry Higgins—"Mebbe you was, pardner, but ef you was you sure belong in the misfit department."—Indianapolis Journal.

Mrs. Snaggs—I was out after tips this afternoon. Mr. Snaggs (who has had expensive experiences with tips)—Not tips on stocks, surely? Mrs. Snaggs—No; ostrich tips.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

A rose by any other name would smell as sweet,
As truly would, I ween, a dozen such;
But just to make the sentiment complete,
A rose by any other name would cost as much.
—Philadelphia Record.

"You walk as if your shoes were too tight, old man." "Oh, no. They're very large." "Oh, that may be." "Well, then, what——" "I wasn't referring to their size. I merely said they were tight."—Chicago Post.

Mr. Dunn—I called to see about a little bill I left here about a month ago. Mr. Short—Oh, it's all right; you needn't be alarmed. I've laid it away where it won't be disturbed. No need for you to call again.—Boston Transcript.

"I believe," said the young man, "in giving the devil his due." "Um—yes," replied his father, who was looking over the stubs of his check-book. "Still, I don't quite see the propriety of your paying him at my expense."—Washington Star.

Jinks—I am always embarrassed when I want to say the word v-a-s-e. I don't know whether to say vaze, vace, vahz, or vawse. Binks—You might take a hint from our hired girl. She simply speaks of all ornaments as "them there."—Truth.

Wayworn Watson—W'y, w'at you runnin' fer? Did she set the dog on ye? Perry Patetic—Naw. But she set me out a whole half chicken, bread, butter'n jelly an' a pack o' cigarettes. I bet she wants to marry me!—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Cripple—Please help a poor man, sir; I lost my leg on the field. Wigwag—Why, you're too young to have been in the war. Cripple (indignantly)—Who's talking about war? I wish you to understand, sir, that I am an ex-foot-ball player.—Philadelphia Record.

"Come, sirrah," said the Sultan; "make
New promises for me,
And plainly mark them 'fragile.'"
And ship them C. O. D."
—Washington Star.

A little Boston girl who had recently learned to repeat the Lord's prayer was asked by her mother if she knew the meaning of "Forgive us our trespasses." "Why, yes," she replied; "it means excuse us for going on the grass."—Boston Gazette.

At a kindergarten in Mount Vernon during the Thanksgiving exercises, the question was asked: "What was the name of the vessel which brought the Pilgrims to this country?" One little boy, 4 years old, promptly raised his hand and replied: "I know! It was the Defender!"—New York Tribune.

"Bliggins is a fine fellow," remarked the promiscuous eulogizer. "I believe he would share his last dollar with a friend." "Well," replied the chronic debtor, "maybe he would. I guess I have never been so fortunate as to run across him when he was down to his last dollar."—Washington Star.

A Religious Dog.

There is a dog in New London, Conn., which is an unusually intelligent animal, in spiritual things, anyway. Some nights since the mistress of the house attempted to send him from the room, but he who never before failed to obey refused to move. The family then had their usual evening prayers, after which Master Nero arose and left the room with no urging. After that he was urged to leave before prayers a number of times, and he always refused. After prayers he is ready to go.

"Sermons in stones," must be of a hard-shell variety.

·HORSEMEN·

SAVE YOUR STOCK BY USING THE CELEBRATED

Morris' English Stable Powder
For Loss of Appetite, Constipation, Rough Hair, Hide Bound, and all Diseases of the Blood.
Price, 25c. per package.

Morris' English Stable Liniment
Cures Lameness, Cuts, Bruises, Scratches, Galls, Sweeney, Spavins, Splint, Curb, etc.
Price, 50c. per bottle.

Morris' English Worm Powder
Warranted to cure any case of Worms in Horses, Cattle, Sheep or Dogs, also Pin Worms in Colts.
Price, 50c. per box.

Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure
A Specific for Distemper, Coughs, Colds, Heaves, Pink Eye, and all Catarrhal diseases of horses.
Price, 50c. $1.00 per bottle.

Wells' Hoosier Poultry Powder
Makes Hens lay, cures Cholera, Gapes and Roup, and keeps poultry healthy.
Price, 25c. per package.

Every remedy guaranteed satisfactory or money refunded. Our new book, "The Horse: His Diseases and Treatment," mailed free.
Wells Medicine Co., Lafayette, Ind.
For sale by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

MADE ME A MAN
AJAX TABLETS

Positively CURE ALL Nervous Diseases, Failing Memory, Impotency, Sleeplessness, Nightly Emissions, etc., caused by Self-Abuse and other Excesses and Indiscretions. Quickly and surely restore lost vitality in old or young, and fit a man for study, business or marriage. Prevent Insanity and Consumption if taken in time. Their use shows immediate improvement, and effects a CURE WHERE ALL OTHERS FAIL. Insist upon having the genuine AJAX TABLETS. They have cured thousands and will cure you. We give positive written guarantee to effect a cure in each case or refund the money. Price 50 cents per package, or six for $2.50. By mail, in plain wrapper, upon receipt of price.
FOR FREE PAMPHLET ADDRESS
AJAX REMEDY CO., 79 DEARBORN ST., CHICAGO, ILL.
FOR SALE BY
For sale by F. E. Davenport, Druggist, Auburn.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00.
DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Fisher & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!
Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!
Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epileptic Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. Inclose "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with an offer of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest Bank references furnished on application.
1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00. 2 Qt. $5.00.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES
Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature, will find our FAMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.
By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

WHEN OTHERS FAIL CONSULT

DOCTOR SWEANY
so well and favorably known as CHICAGO'S LEADING & MOST SUCCESSFUL SPECIALIST, for his many and wonderful cures in all diseases, sores, spots, pimples, BLOOD AND SKIN scrofula, syphilitic taints, tumors, tetter, ECZEMA & Blood Poison of every nature. KIDNEY AND URINARY Weak back, pain in side, abdomen, bladder, sediment in urine, brickdust or white, painful urinations, Bright's disease and all diseases of the bladder. PRIVATE Diseases—Gleet, Gonorrhœa, Inflammations, Discharges, Strictures, Weakness of Organs, Syphilis, Hydrocele, Varicocele and kindred troubles quickly cured. LOST MANHOOD and all its attending ailments, both of Young, Middle-Aged and Old Men. The awful effects of early indiscretions, producing weakness, NERVOUS DEBILITY, night emissions, exhausting drains, pimples, bashfulness, loss of energy and weakness of both body and brain. WRITE your troubles if out of city. Thousands cured by correspondence and medicines sent secretly. Book sent free on request. DR. F. L. SWEANY, 332 State St., cor. Congress, Chicago.

RESTORED MANHOOD.
DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box; 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

TRY US FOR JOB PRINTING!

Bank Statement.

Statement of the condition of the Farmers Bank at the close of business Dec. 13th, 1895

ASSETS.

Loans	$138,278.54
Over Drafts	944.00
Cash on hand and in other Banks	36,448.60
Real Estate, Furniture and Fixtures	15,802.02
Total	191,473.16

LIABILITIES.

Capital, Surplus	$47,500.00
Undivided Profits	3,596.78
Due Depositors	140,376.38
Total	191,473.16

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, S. S.

Personally appeared, A. C. Robbins Cashier of the Farmers Bank who declares the foregoing statement is true.

A C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to, this 23d day of December, 1895.

T. H. SPROTT, Notary Public.

Christmas Presents.

OUR Store is jammed full of 'em. unheard of prices too. They must be sold; they will be sold if low prices will sell them. Never before have we been able to offer you as many goods of good quality, too, for so little money. We would like to enumerate some of the bargains we have to offer, but they are so numerous that one side of the "Courier" would hardly contain them. Some say to us: Are you going out of business? We answer, no, 'tis not that; otters say: are you going to make some change in the business? No, 'tis not that. We have been continuously here a number of years. We take pleasure in the old name, It is a guarantee of good quality, of honest prices, of honest goods. We simply desire to cut down our large stock. Besides we are giving the public the benefit of some recent large purchases for spot cash.

Come and see for yourselves and save money.

D. A. HODGE,

THE JEWELER.

MONEY

—AT—

4 per cent.

Why Pay Rent

when you can get money at such low rates, and pay it back in small monthly installments.

Call on me for terms.

Joseph Link,

Jackson and 7th Sts.,

Auburn, Ind.

Real Estate bought and sold. Special attention given to Insurance and Collections.

Office at 'Squire Walborn's.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

AUBURN, IND., Dec., 3, 1895

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the s tockholders of The First National Bank of Auburn, Indiana, will be held on Tuesday, January 14, 1896.

at the banking office of said bank in Auburn, Indiana, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, for the purpose of electing seven [7] directors to serve for the ensuing year, and to transact such other business as may regularly come before the meeting

49-52. CHARLES MCCLELLAN, Cashier.

Straight Loans

On { Farms, Dwelling Property, Business Property.

6 per cent.

Reasonable Charges.—

Walter C. Hartman.

Real Estate Fire Insurance

With E. D. Hartman, Att'y.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court of the State of Indiana, Executrix of the Will of Frederick Gfeller, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

MARY ANN GFELLER,

December 2, 1895. Executrix.

Wm. H. Leas, Att'y.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of William H Kiblinger deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 11th day of January 1896, and show cause, if any, why my final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, my name, this 20th day of December 1895.

WILLIAM H. MCINTYRE, Administrator.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF

The First National Bank of Auburn in the State of Indiana, at the close of Business, Dec. 13, 1895

RESOURCES.

Loans and discounts	$ 118,490 09
Overdrafts, secured and unsecured	3,098 63
U. S. bonds to secure circulation	12,500 00
Stocks, securities, etc	6,576 24
Banking house, furniture and fixtures	6,500 00
Due from National Banks (not Reserve Agents)	12,098 67
Due from State Banks and Bankers	3,656 55
Due from approved reserve agents	22,497 82
Checks and other cash items	194 24
Notes of other National Banks	485 00
Fractional paper currency, nickels and cents	103 74
LAWFUL MONEY RESERVE IN BANK VIZ:
Specie	2,809.00
Legal tender notes	1,504.00 4,313 00
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer (5 per cent of circulation)	562 50
Total	$191,376 48

LIABILITIES.

apital stock paid in	50,000 00
urplus fund	10,000 00
Undivided profits, less expenses and taxes paid	3,630 28
National bank notes outstanding	9,150 00
Individual deposits subject to check	39,223 10
Demand certificates of deposit	79 373 10
Total	$191,376 48

State of Indiana, County of DeKalb, ss:

I, Charles A.O.McClellan, President of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

C. A. O. MCCLELLAN, President

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 20th day of December, 1895.

E. D HARTMAN, Notary Public

CORRECT—Attest:
J. H. FORD,
M. BOLAND,
D. A. GARWOOD. } Directors.

Notice of Sale of Real Estate.

Notice is hereby given, that I, Roxana E. Knott Administratrix of the estate of Samuel M Knott deceased, will offer for sale at public Auction, to the highest bidder, at 10 o'clock a. m. o

Saturday, January 18, 1896

at the door of the Court House in Auburn, DeKalb County, State of Indiana, the following described real estate, belonging to the estate of said decedent, to-wit:

The West half (½) of the West half (½) of the Southeast quarter (¼) of Section sixteen (16) in township numbered thirty-three (33) North, of range twelve (12) east in DeKalb County, in the State of Indiana for the purpose of paying the debts of said estate

TERMS OF SALE:

one-third cash, one-third in nine (9) months and one-third in eighteen (18) months. Deferred payments to be evidenced by interest-bearing notes waiving relief and secured by mortgage upon the premises sold.

ROXANA E. KNOTT, Administratrix.

Baxter & Brown Att'ys. 51-52

Notice of Sale of Real Estate.

Notice is hereby given, that I, William H. Leas executor of the will of Sophia L. Baird deceased. will offer for sale at private sale to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, January 18, 1896

at the door of the court house, in Auburn, Ind, at 10 oclock a. m. the following described real estate belonging to the estate of said decedent, to-wit:

Lot number fifty-seven (57) in the Western Addition to the town of Auburn, Indiana. Said lot will be sold as a whole, or the East half and the West half will be sold separately to suit purchasers if desired.

TERMS OF SALE:

One-third cash, one-third in twelve months, and one-third in eighteen months, or sooner, at the option of the purchaser. Deferred payments to be evidenced by interest-bearing notes waiving relief and secured by mortgage upon the premises sold.

WILLIAM H. LEAS, Executor.

NOTICE

All persons knowing themselves to be ndebted to me, are requested to call and settle the same by January 1.

FRANK W. STOOPS

THE AUBURN COURIER,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY,....DECEMBER 19, 1895

Democratic Conve ntio

The democratic state central committee has called for two conventions, one composed of the voters of the county at the county seat, if not otherwise notified Saturday, Jan. 4, for the purpose of electing delegates to the district convention, in which DeKalb county has 14 votes.

The district convention will be held at Ft. Wayne, January 8, at 1 p. m. when the delegates from the several counties will elect a member of the state committee to serve for two years.

NO. OF DELEGATES.

Allen	50
DeKalb	14
Lagrange	7
Noble	14
Steuben	6
Whitley	11

HEAVY SALES.

BUTLER.

Mr. Pinchin, living on East Green St. is very low, with meager hopes for recovery.

The ladies of the M. E. church were quite successful in entertaining the visitors to the Farmers' Institute. They cleared about $30.

The Farmers' Institute proved a grand success. The weather was very unfavorable, but the large church was well filled and the exercises were highly entertaining and instructive. Col. Bingham of Delta, O. and Mrs. Stephens of Ind., were hosts in themselves. There were so many good things that would be hard to particularize. All went away feeling that they had been well paid for attending the Institute. It meets again in Butler next year.

Our schools have closed for a two weeks' vacation.

Mrs Harriet Reed use Hackley, the last member of the Hackley family died last week. Stephen Girard Hackley her father was among the first settlers of Stafford township

Fatner Jacob Gunsenhouser in his 94 year is still living one mile east of town. He is in very feeble health.

Joseph Tappen another of the old settlers still lives on his old farm, He is also in very poor health.

The continued rains have made the roads quite bad.

Emlin Campbell and Frank Fanning are home for the holiday vacation from the Chicago College of Physicians and Surgeons.

The Butler Record has bought a home on West Oak-street, the Brattin property and moved into it.

CORUNNA.

"Ole" Johnny Bull had better go a little slow, for your uncle Samuel is getting his dander up, and Johnny Bull ought to know what a holy terror uncle Sam is when his dander is up, if he will only remember back to 1776 and 1812—15.

Mrs. Noble Barker is lying at the point of death. There are no hopes of her recovery.

Rev. F. J. Speckein is holding a series of meetings at Custer.

The O'Banyoun Jubilee Singers of Ontario Canada gave an exhibition of their powers in the U. B. church here last Wednesday night.

Mrs. Tyler of Angola, who is visiting with her niece, Mrs. G. S. Helmer and family, is taken down with lung fever.

Milo Thomas was indicted by the grand jury for slappin a boy at Corunna, but as he had been already fined for it by a justice. Judge Penfield dismissised the case.

A Card

The Mason & Hamlin piano forte represents the same standard of excellence which has made the Mason & Hamlin organ, the standard of the world. It is the only piano which is constructed with the patent screw stringer attachment, the greatest improvement in the piano forte in the last half century. The stringer is acknowledged by all first class musicians and expert tuners a pronounced success, and it is from this system that the Mason & Hamlin piano to-day stands preminently at the head of the first class piano for tone quality. The following letter from a recent purchaser in Auburn to Mason & Hamlin Co. speaks for itself.

Auburn, Ind, Dec. 17th, '95.

Mason & Hamlin Co., Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:—The piano has arrived in splendid condition and I am glad to tell you that it more than pleases me.

The design and finish of the case are simply beautiful, and the tone and action super b, all that the most critical musician could ask for.

I am so thoroughly delighted with the piano, that I feel you should know just exactly what I think and how happy I am because I bought one of your pianos I could never be satisfied now with any other piano than the Mason & Hamlin.

I am sure it will be the means of many more of your pianos being sold here.

Wishing you much success.

Very Truly Yours.

(Signed) MRS. S. C. SNYDER

How many times in the past year has your wife told you to get a clock so she could have the meal on time. Now if your wife would neglect your wishes half as much as you do hers you would break every piece of furniture in the house in less than no time. Yesbera sells a dandy clock for $3,99.

Auburn's Business Men Decorate Christmas Windows in their Glory,

Holiday displays eclipses anything ever before attempted in Auburn. Every window a beauty, everything attractive. You can not wish for anything that you can not find in this city. Price the greatest attraction. Make presents of somethlng that is useful and will be appreciated.

We Have Holiday Presents,

And a line that makes very appropriate gifts.

A PLUSH CAP is all right, and we have cut the price for the occasion.

SILK HANDKERCHIEFS of every pattern imaginable.

NECKTIES, a nice line especially for the Christmas trade.

Don't make your purchases until you have seen our line and get the price. We want you to look at our entire line and be convinced that we have what you want to make a nice Holiday gift to your gentlemen friends. and bear in mind that we are making priees to fit the times.

Clothing, Overcoats and Winter Wearing Apparel

AT

GREAT SLAUGHTER PRICES.

Come to town and look at our window display and notice a few of our choice things for Holiday trade.

G. H. YESBERA,

Auburn's Up-To-Date Outfitter.

Obituary.

Mary A. McBride was born March 1st, 1835 at Kent, Portage Co O., and died Dec. 8, 1895 at her home in Auburn, Ind. aged 60 years, 9 months and 7 days. She was married Aug 7, 1853 to John W. Shaffer with whom she lived happily until his decease June 19 last. Of recent years she had been afflicted in body and after the death of her husband l st interest in life and when stricken with the illness that proved fatal, looked forward to meeting him with composure. She was converted at 17, joined the M E. church near Warsaw, Ind and was through life a consistent member and devoted christian. She was the mother of six children one of whom died in infancy. Two sons reside in the far west, Ora at Seattle Washington and William at Salt Lake, Utah, three daughters Mrs. Rosa Blum, Mrs. Carrie Cullers and Miss Bertha Shaffer were given the privilege of ministrating to their dear mother during her illness.

Services were held Dec. 11, in the M. E. church of Auburn by Rev, J. K. Walts following which her remains were buried beside those of her husband in our beautiful Woodlawn Cemetery.

John W. and Mary A. Shaffer were excellent neighbors and will long be greatly missed in our community. They could be illy spared but they had done well life's duty and have gone to their certain reward.

Obituary

Ada Jennette Beck was born in Waterloo Ind., June 7th, 1859. Died Dec. 19th 1895, aged 26 years 6 month and 12 days. She was married to Wm. Prosser of Butler, Ind., Aug. 16th 1892. They have resided in Waterloo ever since. There have been born to them three boys, the youngest being twins, were born Oct. 13, 1895, as a result of whose birth she gave up her young life. Mrs. Prosser developed a decided talent as a house-wife and home-keeper, her home being a model of taste and neatness. She grew up in Waterloo a quiet modest little body, yet having large hopes and ambitions. "Her Sun has gone down while it was yet day," Life's feverish dream is over. She has made her history in common with all humanity and has gone to stand before her Maker.

FORT WAYNE AND JACKSON RAILROAD COMPANY.

The Annual Meeting of the stockholders of The Fort Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company for the election of Directors and such other business as may be brought before it, will be held on the 29th of January, 1896 10 a. m. at the office of the Company, Jackson, Michigan.

The Transfer Books will close on January 13th and remain closed until January 25th.

W. D. Searls, Secretary.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

MONEY - TO - LOAN

On Real Estate Security,

In large or small ammounts at a low rate of Interest, long or short time. No Commission.

Inquire at Farmers Bank.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

AUBURN, INDIANA

Capital and Surplus, $60 000.00

Certificates of deposits issued drawing interest, if left six months. County and town orders bought and sold. Money to loan.

C. A. O. McClellan, President,
Chas. McClellan, Cashier.

DR. W. W. CAREY,

AUBURN, - - INDIANA

Office on Second Floor Kiblinger Building formerly occupied by the COURIER.

CALLS ANSWERED PROMPTLY.

Residence 3rd house west of the Methodist church on West 7th street

DR. CASS

can be found at his Office Day or Night, unless professionally engaged outside.

DR A F PHILLIPS,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON

CORUNNA - - - INDIAN

Office formerly occupied by Dr. Rudolph.

Calls Promptly answered at all times.

ALBERT ROBBINS, Pres. J. C. HENRY, V. P

FARMERS BANK.

—INCORPORATED—

AND UNDER STATE CONTROL.

Capital and Surplus $49,000

Transacts a General Banking Business and pays Interest on time Deposits.

A. C. ROBBINS, CASHIER.

Do you want the Lively, New Styles

Photos,

Pictures Framed and Matted Artistically,

The New Style Enlarged Pictures,

Your Pictures and Interiors Photographed at Night by Flash Lights,

Any of the New Things in Photos and Frames?

Ask about it

J G CLAPP,

Photographer

CASH PAID FOR

SCRAP → CAST ↓ IRON

AT THE

AUBURN FOUNDRY

$25.00 $25.00

GOLD WATCH GIVEN AWAY

ON JANUARY 1, 1895, BY

Fred J. Yesbera,

The Auburn Jeweler,

For each and every 50 cents you invest at my store from now until the first of January you will get a guess free. I have placed on my show case a quart jar of mixed seeds, and the one coming closest guess ng the exact number in the jar gets the watdh. My store is filled with good ane useful articles, such as Diamond Rings, Gold and Silver watches, lots of Ladies' and Gents' Chains, Cut Glass, Silverware, Gold Spectacles, Gold Pens, and many other things too numerous to mention. You are invited to call and see what we have.

E. C. Sheets,

The Merchant Tailor, over the Farmers Bank, wants to do your Repairing.

He also has a fine line of samples, and and will make you a suit or ovecoat

Cheap.

To Our Patrons

We hereby extend our most hearty thanks to our friends and patrons fo your liberal patronage during th past, and hope we may merit a con tinuance. A Merry Christmas an Happy New Year to All.

Olds Bros.

Before Inventory
Clearing Sale in all Stocks

We commence inventory immediately after January 1. We notice quite a few of our departments that are overstocked. The price cutter goes to work The bargain hunter rejoices We offer many selected specimens of good merchandise at values way below their true worth. How many shrewd shoppers will come at once?

800 Yds Dress Goods, prices were 10 to 15c yard
We now offer them at 8c Yd

1000 Yds Dress Goods, values 18 to 25c
Now 12 1-2 cents yard

25 Doz. Ladies' Untrimmed Hats—desirable winter styles
One-half off our usual low prices

250 Ladies' and Children's Jackets and Wraps
1-3 off, and the original prices were the lowest in DeKalb county.

115 Doz Ladies' Underwear at 25c each piece
These will compare favorably with other stores' 50c goods.

25 Doz Bordered, Knotted Fringed Towels, well worth 30, 35 and 40 cents.
All go at 25 cents

A fine line of fur Muffs and Ladies' Fur Neckwear at less than cost of manufacture.

50 Doz Men's Unlaundried Shirts—the 75c kind
Your choice now 50 cents

100 Doz wool Fascinators—all colors
25 to 75 cents

10 Doz Ice Wool Squares.
50 cents to $2

BISHOP & LACKEY,

Leading Merchants of DeKalb County.

GROFF'S Rheumatic Cure

Is the only positive Cure known to the Medical Profession for the Cure of Acute and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Ovarian Neuralgia, Dismenorrhœa, Psoriasis, Scrofula, Liver and Kidney Diseases. A positive Cure effected in from 6 to 18 days. For Sale By Groff Medicine Co., Chicago, Ill.

LOST - MANHOOD - RESTORED!

—BY THE USE OF—

Dr. LagrOes Nerve and Brain Pills.

The Greatest Remedy Known in Mental Overwork.

Sextual Debility, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors and Lost Manhood, Excessive Use of m a Tobacco all of which leads to insanity if not checked. Sent by mail or express prepaid on receipt of $1 per box; 3 boxes $2.50; 6 boxes $5.00. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded

J. D. CAMPBELL, General Agent for Indiana, WATERLOO, INDIANA.

The above cut represents the W R WHITE Gate, now on exhibition at Auburn, Ind It will be to everyone's interest, who uses gates, to call and see this one, as it is handy, oftimes saves runaways, any lady or child can operate it without getting out in the mud, can be raised over snow, or to let pigs pass to and from fields; made of Bessemer steel, will last a lifetime, and many other claims no other gate has. Call and see it and get prices on gates, Farm, Township, County and State Rights, of

A. M. GARDNER, U. S Agent, Auburn, Indana.

California in 3 Days.

Without change of cars. All meals served in dining cars. Palace drawing-room sleeping cars and tourist sleepers are run through to SanFrancisco and Los Angeles without change, leaving Chicago daily via

The North-Western Line

Through Tourist Sleeping Cars Chicago to California daily and PERSONALLY CONDUCTED EXCURSIONS every Thursday. Variable route tourist tickets at

VERY LOW RATES.

Detailed information and descriptive pamphlets will be mailed free on application to W. B. KNISKERN, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Chicago. Agents of connecting lines sell tickets via the Chicago North-Western R'y.

Wednesday's Daily.

Pain has no show with Dr. Miles' Pain Pills.

J. C. Boyer of Waterloo, was here on business yesterday.

Violins Mandolins, Guitars, Banjos, Autoharps, etc. etc., at A. J. Rogers Music Store. 29tf

An article that contains the two most essential parts is the White Gate. Why? Because it is not only convenient but durable.

The funeral of Mrs. J. R. Lanning was held at the M. E. church at 10 o'clock this forenoon. There was a large attendance in spite of the inclement weather.

Ray F. Feagler and Carrie Ensley both of Butler township were married by Rev. J. D. Brosy, at the parsonage this morning. The COURIER extends congratulations.

No excuse for sleepless nights when you can get One Minute Cough Cure. It will relieve all annoyances, cure the most severe cough and give you rest and health Can you afford to do wilthout it? Davenport, the Druggist.

Annie Lawrie, the heroine of the Scotch poem was born 213 years ago Monday. A descendant, Sir Emillius Laurie, now lives in the house at Maxwelton. The words were written by Annie's lover. The music was made more recently.

The person who disturbed the congregation last Sunday by coughing is requested to call on Robbins & McCord and get a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar (50c.), which always gives relief. 52

Coughing irritates the delicate organs and aggravates the disease. Instead of waiting, try One Minute Cough Cure. It helps at once making expectoration easy reduces the soreness and inflammation. Every one likes it. Davenport, druggist.

Wm. McIntyre and wife and her sister Miss McTighe, expect to start soon for an extended visit in the south, including a week or two at Atlanta. They will visit his son John McIntyre in Oklahoma, as well as Mrs. McIntyre's people at Little Rock.

Have the following makes of second hand organs in stock that you can buy at your own price: 1 Kimball, 1 Mason &Hawlin, 1 Lyon and Healy, 1 Estey, 1 J. H. Clark, 2 Smith-American, 1 Packard. A. J. Rogers, Auburn.

The finest New Years present on earth would be a White Gate.

H. Darling D. D. S. Surgeon Dentist, In Auburn every day after Jan. 1st 1896. Office opp. court house formerly occupied by Drs Elson & Coates. Uses gas for extraction.

A private letter from Daniel Philips of Fairfield, who left for California several weeks ago, states that he is enjoying his trip very much indeed, that the climate is what could be desired, and that the sights of the grand old Pacific ocean were fine indeed. His next stopping place will be Glendora, California,

Thursday's Daily.

Dr. Swarts had several pretty wet drives into the country yesterday to attend the sick.

Grover is all right after all, Read the telegraphic news about the Venezuela matter.

Will Olds came up to-day from Hicksville. He will remain here and help sell holiday goods at the Olds Bros. store.

Coop Ralston's pony died this morning We did not learn what was the cause.

Guarantee to furnish you with a piano or organ of any grade for less money than you can buy elsewhere. A. J. Rogers Music Dealer Auburn.

Frank Myers was in the city to-day a few hours. He is still at Goshen where he is in charge of a stock of boots and shoes.

The largest line of ladies' and gent's watch chains ever before brought to Auburn is now on exhition at Yesbera's jewelry store.

Miss A. E. Masters, daughter of our townsman, M. B. Masters, returned this afternoon on the Lake Shore train from the north. She has been at Battle Creek several months, where she had a position in the Sanitarium. We believe she will remain at home, however.

Wife—Here's an account of a man who shot himself rather than suffer pain of indigestion. Husband—The fool! Why did'nt he taken DeWitt's little Early Risers? I used to suffer as bad as he did before I began taking these pills.

For sale at F. E. Davenport's

Did you see those beauts,—those diamond rings at Yesbera's for $500?

Miss Lena Zimmerman and Mr. Tom Patterson are to be married this evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Zimmerman on West Seventh street The COURIER as one of their many friends extends to heartiest good wishes for their future.

Richard Abrams, who was sent to Michigan City a year ago from Butler for stealing wool, was in town to-day. He did not have to stay a full year as his "good time" helped him along. He had a number of canes, etc. to sell, such as they make at odd hours in the prison.

If suffering with piles, it will interest you to know that DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will cure them. This medicine is a specific for all complaints of this character, and if instructions are carried out, a cure will result. We have tested this in numerous cases, and always with like results. It never fails. For sale at F. E Davenport's.

Don't fail to read F. J. Yesbera's ad in this paper and see what he is giving away.

The new buggy sales building of McDowell & Carter, is well under way Above the first story or basement, it has two full stories and is quite a large building. If the size of the building is any indication of the amount of business they expect to do, it will be a lively location next season.

Friday's Daily.

No morphine or opium in Dr. Miles' PAIN PILLS. CURE All Pain. "One cent a dose."

Wm. Walsworth was taken quite sick Thursday, but is now better.

Rain all day yesterday and all night, with showers to-day. Verily the dry spell is broken.

One Minute Cough Cure is a popular remedy for croup. Safe for children & adults. Davenport, the Druggist.

FOR SALE:—One-half million feet good cull 1 inch lumber, at $6.00 per thousand feet. A. B. Nickey & Sons.

Farmers might dam up their ditches this wet weather and soak their low fields with enough water to help them through a dry summer.

Mrs. Will Olds came up to-day from Hicksville. She will remain here with her husband and assist in the Olds Bro. store until after holidays.

Mrs. Clyde Prosser died last evening at Waterloo. She was the youngest daughter, Ada, of Jacob Beck, of that place. Her husband is night operator there.

The south bound forenoon train was loaded down with students from the Angola college. Some changed trains at Waterloo, some at the Junction, and some went on south.

The girls are home from Westminster again, Blanche Penfield, Margaret Ford and Pearl Kelley came up on the noon train and were greeted by many friends. Vacation lasts nearly three weeks.

Piles of people have piles, but DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will cure them. when promptly applied it cures scalds and burns without the slightest pain. Davenport, the Druggist.

Licenses have been issued as follows: Roy Feagler to Carrie Ensley, Pommel Feller to Mary May, John McCurley to Cora Shull, Albert Cole to Martie Wade, Thos. Patterson to Lena Zimmerman.

Do not pay $100 for the antiquity of a name. This is a progressive age. Buy a Kimball piano or organ and keep pace with the times. For sale by A. J. Rogers Auburn Ind.

Chas. Feagler who lives four miles west of town and a man whose name is unknown got into a fight Wednesday and as a result Feagler is badly done up. The unknown man was brought here that evening and put in jail by Sheriff Stroh. Each man reports that he tried to kill the other.

Saturday's Daily.

Solomon Fisher and Henry Vogtman, of Waterloo were in town this forenoon on some business matters,

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bruce of Cleveland, O. are here to spend the holidays. Mrs. Bruce was Miss Sadie Shearer.

Miss. Olive Nelson, of Huntington, Ind arived to-day and will spend her holiday vacation with friends in the city and vicinity.

Mrs. S. S. Potter and Master Lodie, left this morning for Antwerp, Ohio, where they will spend the holidays with an aunt, Mrs. Sarah Snyder and family.

The rains continued again last night and there were showers now and then to-day. The mud has once more after a long absence, made itself known again.

Aaron Heiber of South Dakota, was in the city over night the guest of his old friend S. S. Potter and family. The two gentlemen were boys together in their younger days.

Hon. Cal Husselman will speak at the Noble county farmers' institute on Wednesday and Thursday Jan. 22 and 23, 1896. The meeting will be held at Albion.

Ira Thrush and Frank Walts reached home from Purdue University on the 5:21 Wabash train this morning. After a few months of hard study they are glad to set home and meet their parents and friends.

One Minute Cough Cure is rightly named. It affords instant relief from suffering when afflicted with a severe cough or cold. It acts on the throat, bronchial tubes, and lungs and never fails to give immediate relief. F. E. Davenport.

Clerk Moody finds there is a boom in the marriage license business just now To-day he had issued four sets of papers before noon. They were: Emanuel E. Culler to Mary D. McBride; A. J. Higbee to Sarah Amstead; Isaiah O. Reincehl to Vida E. Sherlock; Geo. W. Ulph to M. Elizabeth Fisher.

Dr. J. E. Morr writes from Orland, his present location, that they have organized a club there to entertain the ladies on New Year's. He is to make one of the speeches. We hope he will uphold the reputation of old DeKalb as a speech-making community, and that the club will have an enjoyable meeting.

A letter from Mrs. Harter at Goshen says her mother fell last evening and was killed She was going to get a lamp off a shelf, which was above the cellar door, which had been raised to air out. It was dark and she stepped off and fell to the bottom. They heard the noise, and ran to her, but she lived only about 20 minutes.

Do not be deceived by the misleading advertisements of the snide eastern would be manufacturers who claim to sell you a $125 organ for $25, or in other words to give you gold dollars for 20c. If you insist on having that class of goods, we can get them for you for less money than you can buy them. A. J. Rogers Music Dealer Auburn, 49tf

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Monday's Daily.

Dr. Miles' Pain Pills are guaranteed to stop Headache in 20 minutes. "One cent a dose."

Books at Olds Bros.

Julia Hodge is home from Ann Arbor for the holidays.

FOR SALE:—One-half million feet good cull 1 inch lumber, at $6 00 per thousand feet. A. B. Nickey & Sons.

LOST:—An A. O. U. W. emblem pin with anchor and shield. A suitable reward will be given if finder will leave at this office.

Geo. McKay came home to day from Lima, O. where he is in business. He will remain here during the holidays.

The Poultry Show at the Armory this week is a grand success. Don't fail to visit the show.

Chas. Stafford came in to-day from Ft. Wayne where he is attending college. He is about the last Auburn student to return home.

Two large dwellings for rent, good locations. Enquire Walter C. Hartman. Real Estate, Fire Insurance Loans.

What would make a nicer Christmas present than a piece of that cut glass at F. J. Yesbera's jewely store. You will find the price right.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness, indigestion, constipation. A small pill, a prompt cure. For sale at F. E. Davenport's

Everyone remembering the Oberlin Glee club concert of last winter and knowing that the Ann Arbor club is twice as large, is anticipating a treat and is engaging tickets.

F. J. Yesbera has concluded that he wants more customers instead of better police protection. He is having a good trade just the same and has many more bargains to offer.

Mrs . Spitler has received a letter from Fisher, Mich., announceng the death of her uncle James Berry, who died there Saturday morning. He was the father of Ed. Berry of St. Joe.

Harry Draggoo is home faom Culver Milit ry Instute at Maxinkuckee, He looks quite neat with his uniform on. The same may be said of Walter Penfield Their suits become them very much.

Why go to Chicago or Fort Wayne to buy a piano or organ? You certainly can buy for less money right here in Auburn. That fact is demonstrated right along to customers who have investigated prices. A. J. Rogers, Music Dealer Auburn.

The total receipts of the Presbyterian Bazar, will be about $140 after all expenses are paid. And their goods were sold at reasonable prices too. The C. E. are a success We have no report from the Band Fair.

I. B Goetschius, of Richland, was in town Saturday. He reports a good deal mud out that way, but the roads still passable. Word comes from all over the county, that the "bottom is fast falling out."

MARRIED: At the Lutheran Parsonage Thursday evening, Dec. 19, by J. D. Brosy, John Wallace McCurley and Cora Lovina Shull. These are both worthy young people, and we wish them a successful future. They expect their future home in Auburn.

Miss Stella Merica came home Saturday from Chicago, to make her people a holiday visit. She has been enjoying advantages in her studies of the violin, even better than usual. And the highest round in the musical ladder, is the only one she will stop at.

The COURIER job department is now the best equipped of any in DeKalb county to do first-class job printing. We have added more than a dozen new fonts of type, all of the latest styles. If you are in need of any job work you will save money by calling on us, or drop us a card and a competent man will call on you.

H. Darling D. D. S. will discontinue his professional visits to Butler on Fridays and give all his attention to his Auburn practice. This step is rendered neccessary by the increased demand for his service in Auburn. He is an excellent dentist and we are glad to note that his patronage in Auburn is such that he must discontinue his visits to Butler.

A dose that is always seasonable is a dose of Simmons Liver Regulator, the "King of Liver Medicins." It keeps the liver active; bowels regular; prevents Biliousness; and promotes digestion. In fact helps keep you well. I have watched it's effects in familes where I have practiced, and find it admirable; both alterative and tonic in its action.—Dr. T. W. Mason, Macon, Ga.

Why the White Gates Sell is because they are the best. Made of Bessemer Steel, durable and handsome. The choice of the People. They operate perfectly rain or shine, sleet or snow. The pride of the trade, the farmer's wife's delight. Acknoweledged at the Worlds Fair to be the best of all gates, and many other reasons why it sells. Call and see it.

SALOON SMASHED.

Special To The DAILY COURIER.

St. Joe, Ind., Dec. 23, 1895.

The saloon formerly occupied by C. A. Washler, but now selling by the quart under U. S. license by Geo. Knepper, was badly demolished last night between midnight and 2 a. m. Some unknown parties entered the building at the back door and with a 4 by 5 piece of scantling (which they left in the building) they knocked out all the glass and a part of the sash in the front part of the room. Then it looks as if they had turned their attention to the stock of liquors, a part of which were thrown out, some on the floor, and scattered in every direction. Great excitement prevails, and it looks as if the end is not yet.

What stops Neuralgia? Dr. Miles' Pain Pills

Pianos and organs at A. J. Rogers music store for sale at low prices and on easy terms. 29tf

If you are suffering from Catarrh or any disease of the nose, throat or lungs, Dr. Nusbaum's specific treatment will cure you. W. H. Nusbaum, M. D. 48tf

Will allow you more for your old piano or organ in exchange for a new one than any other dealer, at A. J. Rogers' Auburn.

FOR SALE:—One-half million feet good cull 1 inch lumber, at $6 00 per thousand feet. A. B. Nickey & Sons.

Yesterday morning the weather having cleared up, we had a frost, and this was followed by a fair day. But last night gave us another rain, which continued to-day a good part of the time.

RUNAWAY.

Sheriff Stroh and Deputy sheriff Neil Platter, had a short runaway yesterday afternoon. They had hitched up to go into the country, and were watering the horses at the town pump when one of them kicked over the tongue, and both got scared and started to run. They crossed over into the public square and among the trees, when the buggy tongue broke, and then dropped down, but the buggy was left near the band stand After the horses were stopped, another rig was procured at the livery stable and they made the trip all right.

Home Of Red Bell, 2:11 1-4 Elmwood Stock Farm.

Ft. Wayne, Ind., Nov. 26, 1895.—We have used the Spohn Distemper Cure for distemper and find it is the best remedy we have ever used. We have used a number so-called distemper cures but this is the only one that has proved of any value in aggravated cases.

ROCKHILL BROS. & FLEMING.

Try a bottle of this great remedy and you will use it instead of the one that is sold as "condition powders." 50 cts. Sold by Kutzner & Myers, Agents.

JERSEYVILLE, ILLINOIS.

To Any Concerned:

I can say that Wm. R. White has been in our city several months selling his new gate and territory. His sales here must have reached $30,000 or more. He has received in cash $14,000 and has more than $15,000 worth of notes, most of the endorsers we know. He also has the names of sixty five men recommending his gate, and many have them in use, for I am acquainted with most of them. Mr. White bears the name of an honest dealer.

S. H. BOWMAN, President State Bank.
H. A. SHEPHARD, Cashier State Bank.

A Friend's Advice.

William Windecknecht, a wealthy farmer of Muskegon county, personally appeared before me, a Notary Public, this day and deposes and says: That for the past year or so, he was afflicted with Weakness Trembling, Heart Failure, Extreme Nervousness, Headache and General Debility; that he has consulted with physicians and received no benefit. He was persuaded by a friend to try a sample bottle of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer, and he says that the Trembling and Nervous feeling was immediately stopped by it use. Afterwards he used two bottles of the same medicine and says he is entirely cured and free from that Trembling sensation; his heart gives him no trouble and he sleeps well. He further says, his general health is much better, and that he is calling the attention of his neighbors and friends to the remarkable value of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer."
Signed, W. Windecknecht. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

COURT.

Court began again this morning. In the list of divorce cases, we find that Anna and Elmer Greenwood were divorced and her name changed to Anna Moore The case of L. T. Crain vs Keplar et al., to quiet title and cancel mortgage, was ordered done. Reynolds vs King, got judgment for $75. Hense vs Parker, judgment for $229 and application for receivership continued. The case of W.H Leas, administrator of the Geo. H. Duncan estate to set aside deed, is to go before Judge Adair of the 23d. circuit, as Judge Penfield had been an attorney in the case. Judge McClellen is now attorney for the plaintiff and Shuman and Roby for defendant. To-day, Judge Penfield rendered a decision in the injunction case of McIntyre vs City of Garrett. The injunction is to stand though the city may by amending one clause of the ordinance, get around the injunction. Adjouned till next Monday.

Notice

At the regular meeting of Auburn Lodge, No. 191, K. of P., to be held Friday evening, Jan. 10th, 1896, a trustee will be elected to serve 3 years. 3w

M. B. WILLIS JR.,
K. of P. & S. Pro Tem.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair,
DR.
PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

GOOD FOR EVERYBODY

Almost everybody takes some laxative medicine to cleanse the system and keep the blood pure. Those who take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR (liquid or powder) get all the benefits of a mild and pleasant laxative and tonic that purifies the blood and strengthens the whole system. And more than this: SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR regulates the Liver, keeps it active and healthy, and when the Liver is in good condition you find yourself free from Malaria, Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick-Headache and Constipation, and rid of that worn out and debilitated feeling. These are all caused by a sluggish Liver. Good digestion and freedom from stomach troubles will only be had when the liver is properly at work. If troubled with any of these complaints, try SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR. The King of Liver Medicines, and Better than Pills.

EVERY PACKAGE
Has the Z Stamp in red on wrapper.
J. H. Zeilin & Co., Phila., Pa.

Farm For Sale.

A good 40-acre farm in Smithfield township. For particulars inquire at this office. 5152

Attention I. O. O. F.

The annual election of trustees of the Mentor lodge No. 591 I. O. O. F. will be held Tuesday evening, Dec. 31st.

SECRETARY.

Seed Oats For Sale

At Bachtel's gristmill in Auburn, also at J. Loewenstein's in Waterloo. Farmers look at them, at the same time look to your own interests and buy seed These oats command a premium over all other oats when placed on exhibition or sale in the market. Grown by Wm. C. Sherwood, two miles west of Waterloo.

Church Dedication

The new U. B. church in Maysville, Ind. will be dedicated Sunday Dec. 29. Rev. A. H. Tussing of Montpelier, Ohio officiating. Preaching on Saturday evening preceding. The public are cordially invited to attend.

E. C. MASON, Pastor.

LAST EXCURSIONS TO ATLANTA, GA., VIA B. & O. R. R.

On and after December 28, the sale of Excursion Tickets to Atlanta, Ga., account Cotton States and International Exposition, will be discontinued.

ASHLEY

The schools closed last Friday for a two weeks vacation.

The warm weather for the past few days permitted the workmen to go back on their unfinished houses which they were compelled to leave on account of the cold.

The town board has about completed the town hall and fire engine house. We hope we may never have occasion to use it, but should we have everything is in perfect readiness.

The teachers in the three lower departments of our school treated their children to candy and peanuts. You ought to have seen the smile on their faces as they left the school building. And why should'nt they have smiled their pockets full of candy and peanuts and a two weeks vacation before them.

Misses Alma and Ida Husselman spend their vacation with their mother at their home in Fairfield township,

David Lewis a quaker evangelist of Toledo, O., has been holding a revival meeting for the past four weeks for the Methodist people of this place. Rev. Lewis is a plain speaker and does not hesitate to preach anything he believes to be right.

Miss Pearl Huyck one of our teachers, spends her vacation at her home with her parents in Franklin township.

Rev. C. R. Scoville of Hiram College lectured at the church of Christ last Saturday evening, in behalf of the society of C. E. at this place. His subject "Peelings and Pearls" was well handled. In it he showed how in all the affairs of life the peerling must be removed before the pearl of great price can be obtained. In a three weeks meeting last fall he brought 78 additions to the church of Christ worshiping at this place. Last Sunday in two sermons 4 more were added. May he ever be successful in the good work in which he is deeply interested.

Our merchants seem to be having a good holiday trade considering the weather.

We are soon to have an electric light plant. This will be a great improvement to the town these dark nights, also to those who wish cheap lights.

Peter Miller dropped dead in his blacksmith shop at Hudson yesterday evening He was a brother of Mike Miller of this place.

For Kidney Troubles

there is nothing better than Clinic Kidney Cure. Everyone who tries it will agree to this. Robbins & McCord.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

Too much slush about "Beautiful Snow."

Sicily is burdened with an overproduction of brimstone. Sicily should reach out for the markets of the world—particularly the next world.

We regret to learn that since Barney Barnato, the London Kaffir king, has a wife and several children, it will be impossible for any American girl to annex him at present.

Of course, that Texas mob which hanged the wrong negro the other day was "composed of the best citizens." What would have happen if a few of the worst citizens had participated? A barbecue?

A striking illustration of the slender profits of literature is found in the declaration of Miss Beatrice Harraden that her whole return from "Ships That Pass in the Night" was $650, of which $150 was the fruit of American sales. If Miss Harraden had invented the "pigs in clover" puzzle she would have made half a million.

A fashionable audience in Paris recently listened to a lecture on chemistry by a celebrated chemist. When the ladies reached the open air their escorts stared at a number of them in amazement. A most remarkable change had taken place. Those of them who had worn rouge found on their return home that the rouge had become converted into various colors by the chemical decomposition from the gases which had been generated during the lecture. As the women marched from the hall there were seen among them complexions of all sorts of colors—blue, yellow, violet and black.

A movement is going forward in Philadelphia to restore Independence Square to its condition of a hundred years ago, and through a recent act of the Legislature the city is at liberty to proceed with the work. This will require the removal of some costly buildings that have been permitted to intrude on the historic square, but the citizens, almost without exception, favor their condemnation. When the famous Independence Hall and its surroundings look just as they did when the Declaration was signed, public opinion will protect them from any further encroachment as long as the republic stands.

The seeker after an "undiscovered country" does not need to go to Darkest Africa. There are, it is known, vast spaces of the North American continent which have never been penetrated by the white man's foot, or if any exploration has been made no record remains. The Canadian Geological Survey within a year has entered upon a region hundreds of square miles in extent, of which all past maps have been conjectural, the streams laid down being imaginary. This country, so far from being a desert, is a timbered region, valuable if opened to transportation, and capable of producing wheat. He who would build his lodge in a vast wilderness can find a location a long way this side of the pole or the equator.

No longer than ten years ago even the Transvaal was looked upon as no better than a howling wilderness. Some traces of gold had been found, but they were not regarded as workable at a profit. The house of Rothschild appealed to their American correspondent to send the best mining engineer in this country to South Africa to investigate. Gardner Williams, at present the director of the De Beers diamond mines at Kimberley, undertook the mission. He reported to his principals that he was surprised and disgusted at their credulity—there was no gold in the Witwatersrand. Mr. Williams was an authority of the first class, but the territory which he condemned as worthless to the gold miner is now yielding something like forty millions of dollars a year in the yellow metal.

Lieutenant General Schofield, who retired from the command of the army recently, is the last of the war generals. His distinction was achieved in one of the latest battles of the civil war—the battle of Franklin—and now he leaves no successor whose part in that great war was more than that of an under officer. Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, Schofield! With these names the history of the civil war concludes, and hereafter the commanders of the army will be men who bore but a subordinate part in it. These facts show how remote that great war is, even to those who had some part in it. A few more years and all that vast army will have passed away, and history will begin to adjust the relation of events. When the next change in the head of the army occurs, in 1903, there will scarcely be even a subordinate left who took any part, none certainly that took a distinguished part, in the civil war. General Schofield retires carrying with him the best wishes of his countrymen. During the war he showed himself to be a great soldier, equal to every emergency, and always holding a place of distinction wherever duty called him. His rank is with the greatest of American warriors, and he will long be remembered as one who fought gallantly for the flag of the Union.

According to recent reports from England spinners there have succeeded in experiments with ramie that may have an important bearing on the spinning industry of the world. One leading company has been engaged during the last year in treating ramie and spinning the product into yarn, which has sold in the open market at a satisfactory profit. It is believed that ramie is destined to play an important part in linen and hemp manufactures. It is admirably adapted for the manufacture of cordage, bagging, sail canvas and other fabrics liable to exposure to the elements. Its strength of resistance is twice that of hemp. By a peculiar process ramie is given the aspect and texture of wool, but as a fabric it gives coolness instead of warmth. Manufacturers insist that it cannot supersede wool, but will in time take the place of cotton in the warp of mixed fabrics. In the manufacture of silk it can be used to great advantage, as it is very similar to that material in texture, luster and in fineness of fiber. It is also said to have replaced the costly fine cotton thread used in the various products of Lyons, France, which have to undergo an expensive treatment in order to acquire a high lustre. There seems little doubt that it will eventually replace cotton thread. The development of ramie has been much retarded by the lack of suitable machinery to work it. The agriculturists of the Southern States have for the last ten years been trying to diversify their products by the cultivation of ramie, and good results have been obtained. The agitation over ramie in England will, no doubt, bring about a greater production in this country.

It will be remembered that, some weeks ago, it was reported that the fast cruiser Columbia had been strained while being docked in Southampton. Since the return of the vessel to New York it has been ascertained that the damage done, while not serious, would entail an expenditure of at least $1,000 in repairs. As is usually the case in such matters, a court of inquiry was appointed to fix the blame for the accident, and, on the finding of this court, a court martial has been ordered to try the commander of the ship on the charge of neglect of duty. The charges appear to be that the straining of the vessel while being docked was due to lack of care on the captain's part in not having the dock flooded to relieve the strain on the vessel as soon as it developed, and, lastly, in having paid for the docking of the vessel before ascertaining the extent of the damage and holding the dock company responsible. The prompt court martialing of officers high in rank for cases of alleged neglect of duty is calculated to have a beneficial effect upon the personnel of the navy, as it will force all officers of every grade to be more attentive to their duties. The new vessels of the navy are exceedingly costly, and the loss or serious damage of one of them would entail a heavy loss upon the country. They must, therefore, be handled with infinitely more care than the old wooden ships, and, in order to insure the proper degree of caution, officers must be held to a strict accountability for their acts. Although due allowance should be made for errors of judgment, carelessness or incompetency must be promptly punished. When it is remembered that some of the new battle ships will have cost the government, when completed, close on to $5,000,000, it will be seen that the country cannot afford to risk the safety of these expensive vessels in incompetent hands.

POOR LO NONE TOO HONEST.

How He Fooled a Post Trader in Arizona a Number of Years Ago.

The North American Indian may not be readily susceptible to the influences of civilization, but it frequently happens that in business transactions he is more than a match for his highly civilized white brother. Honesty is not always Lo's "long suit" in such transactions, as a story told by the Tucson, Ari., Citizen of Isaac D. Smith, a post trader on the Gila River twenty-five years ago, illustrates. It was the business of the post trader to purchase the grain crops of the Indians, giving in exchange such merchandise as they fancied. One year the natives had been blessed with an unusually abundant crop. At a short distance from the store was a large adobe building in which the purchased grain had been dumped loose from the sacks, and it was almost full to the ceiling. One day Smith was unusually busy, the Indians standing in a row waiting to dispose of their wheat, and it was not till later that he learned he had bought 16,000 pounds of his own grain. The Indians had tapped his storehouse in the rear, and as the grain rushed out it was caught in sacks and again marketed.—Troy Times.

An Angel in Disguise.

The proprietor of a large store on High street went to his place of business at an unusually early hour this morning; in fact, the sun had not yet risen when he turned the key in the door. On entering, he was surprised to find a man trying to open the door of his safe.

He stood and watched him for some time, apparently deeply interested in the proceedings, when finally the burglar swung open the door of the safe with a delightful chuckle; but happening to turn, he saw that he was discovered, and became very much alarmed. He jumped up and was about to make his escape through a back window, when the merchant called to him:

"Don't be in a hurry, my friend; come back and sit down a while, and smoke a cigar, while I straighten things up a bit, and then come home to breakfast with me. You have done me a great favor."

"Why, how's that?" asked the burglar in great surprise.

"Well, you see, I had the combination of the safe on a bit of paper, and last night I accidentally locked it in the safe and forgot how to work it; I spent most of the night trying to get the thing open, and came in early this morning to have another try at it."—West Medford Windmill.

An Extraordinary Lake.

Bridger lake, in Northern Wyoming, has a queer characteristic, and one which cannot be claimed for any other body of water in America, as far as we have been informed. It has this peculiarity: It discharges its waters into both the Pacific ocean and the Gulf of Mexico. During the average seasons the waters of Bridger lake flow out through a small river which is a tributary to the Yellowstone, and the water thus discharged finally reaches the gulf by way of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers. During rainy seasons the level of the lake becomes so high that the waters empty through another opening also. The waters which are discharged through this second chasm flow into Snake river, and thence to the Pacific ocean through the Columbia.

They Build Many Ships.

Not less than 100 new vessels were launched by firms on the banks of the Tyne during the month of August, and this is the largest number of ships launched there in one month during the present year.

The women have more imagination than men; it is women who can keep warm by a grate fire.

BLOW AT JOHN BULL

Message in Support of the Monroe Doctrine.

MAY MEAN RED WAR.

All Foreign Nations Must Keep Out of Americas.

Salisbury's Refusal to Submit the Dispute to Arbitration Leads to Strong Words—President Cleveland Tells Congress This Nation Should Use Force If Necessary—Proposes to Send a Commission to Fix a Line Which John Bull Will Cross at His Peril.

The message of President Cleveland to Congress transmitting the correspondence between Secretary Olney and Lord Salisbury relative to the Venezuela boundary dispute created a real sensation in Washington. Although the nature of Secretary Olney's vigorous communication and of Lord Salisbury's answers had been already accurately foretold in the Associated Press dispatches from Washington and London there was still a great popular craving to learn just how the President would deal with Lord Salisbury's refusal to submit the matter to arbitration, and the message was listened to with intense interest in Congress and was read with avidity on the streets. Nowhere was there a voice lifted in dissent from the doctrine so firmly laid down by the President, but on the contrary there was an outburst of patriotic feeling that must have been highly gratifying to the Chief Executive. In the dignified United States Senate, a body that rarely exhibits emotion on any occasion, there was witnessed the unparalleled spectacle of handclapping and applause, which was the spontaneous expression of the approval of almost every Senator without regard to party. On the streets the message was discussed, and veterans of the late war talked exultantly of what they were prepared again to undertake at the call of their country. In the great hall of the Pension Building the employes gathered and sung with gusto "The Star Spangled Banner" and "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

Great Britain declines to consent that the issue between herself and Venezuela shall be settled by arbitration. At the same time Great Britain denies the validity of the Monroe doctrine. The United States now must take two steps, if need be; one forthwith. President Cleveland asks Congress to make an appropriation for a judicial commission to investigate on behalf of this country the merits of the contention concerning frontier between British Guiana and Venezuela. If that commission shall find that Great Britain is right in her claims the decision to stand and be upheld by us; if the commission of the United States shall find that Great Britain's claims are unfounded any attempt on the part of Great Britain to enforce such claims by arms to be resisted with arms by the United States. This is the essence of President Cleveland's message.

After reviewing the early details of the controversy and referring to Salisbury's disinclination to admit the force of the Monroe doctrine and resort to arbitration, the President says:

Without attempting extended arguments in reply to these positions it may not be amiss to suggest that the doctrine upon which we stand is strong and sound because its enforcement is important to our peace and safety as a nation, and is essential to the integrity of our free institutions and the tranquill maintenance of our distinctive form of government. It was intended to apply to every stage of our national life and cannot become obsolete while our republic endures. If the balance of power is justly a cause for jealous anxiety among the governments of the old world, and a subject for our absolute non-interference, none the less is an observance of the Monroe doctrine of vital concern to our people and their government.

Assuming, therefore, that we may properly insist upon this doctrine without regard to "the state of things in which we live," or any changed conditions here or elsewhere, it is not apparent why its application may not be invoked in the present controversy. If a European power, by an extension of its boundaries, takes possession of the territory of one of our neighboring republics against its will and in derogation of its rights, it is difficult to see why, to that extent, such European power does not thereby attempt to extend its system of government to that portion of this continent which is thus taken. This is the precise action which President Monroe declared to be "dangerous to our peace and safety," and it can make no difference whether the European system is extended by an advance of frontier or otherwise.

Practically, the principle for which we contend has peculiar, if not exclusive, relation to the United States. It may not have been admitted in so many words to the code of international law, but since, in international councils, every nation is entitled to the rights belonging to it, if the enforcement of the Monroe doctrine is something we may justly claim, it has its place in the code of international law as certainly and as surely as if it were specifically mentioned, and when the United States is a suitor before the high tribunal that administers international law the question to be determined is whether or not we present claims which the justice of that code of law can find to be right and valid.

Monroe Doctrine Is Just.

The Monroe doctrine finds its recognition in those principles of international law which are based upon the theory that every nation shall have its rights protected and its just claims enforced.

Of course this Government is entirely confident that under the sanction of this doctrine we have clear rights and undoubted claims. Nor is this ignored in the British reply. This Government proposed to the Government of Great Britain a resort to arbitration as the proper means of settling the question, to the end that a vexatious boundary dispute between the two contestants might be determined and our exact standing and relation in respect to the controversy might be made clear.

It will be seen from the correspondence herewith submitted that this proposition has been declined by the British Government, upon grounds which under the circumstances seem to me to be far from satisfactory.

The course to be pursued by this Government in view of the present condition does not appear to admit of serious doubt. Great Britain's present proposition has never thus far been regarded as admissible by Venezuela, though any adjustment of the boundary which that country may deem for her advantage and may enter into of her own free will cannot of course be objected to by the United States. Assuming, however, that the attitude of Venezuela will remain unchanged, the dispute has reached such a stage as to make it now incumbent upon the United States to take measures to determine with sufficient certainty for its justification what is the true divisional line between the republic of Venezuela and British Guiana. I suggest that the Congress make an adequate appropriation for the expenses of a commission to be appointed by the Executive, who shall make the necessary investigation and report upon the matter with the least possible delay.

Must Fight If Necessary.

When such report is made and accepted, it will, in my opinion, be the duty of the United States to resist by every means in its power, as a willful aggression upon its rights and interests, the appropriation by Great Britain of any lands, or the exercise of governmental jurisdiction over any territory which, after investigation, we have determined of right belongs to Venezuela.

In making these recommendations I am fully alive to the responsibility incurred and keenly realize all the consequences that may follow.

I am, nevertheless, firm in my conviction that while it is a grievous thing to contemplate the great English-speaking peoples of the world as being otherwise than friendly competitors in the onward race of civilization and strenuous and worthy rivals in all the arts of peace, there is no calamity which a great nation can invite which equals that which follows a supine submission to wrong and injustice, and the consequent loss of national self-respect and honor, beneath which is shielded and defended a people's safety and greatness.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

London Editors Excited.

London editors are literally frothing at the month. The message of President Cleveland on the Venezuelan boundary question has had on them the exciting effect which a red flag would have on an enraged bull. Quarts of ink have been wasted on violent diatribes against the Monroe doctrine and the American contention touching the rights of Venezuela, and not a glint of justice or equity can be discerned in the attitude assumed by President Cleveland and Secretary Olney.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE IS STILL IN FORCE.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND—"Just read that again, and remember that we stand by every word of it."

A Bicycle and a Dog.

Going up the avenue on a cable car last night I heard two or three exclamations of wonder and surprise on the rear platform and went out to see what it was all about.

"You can train 'em to do anything, can't you, sonny?" inquired the conductor of a boy who was riding a bicycle at the side of the track.

"Yes, indeedy," was the cheery response. "See, I can't even shake him off." Here he violently shook his body.

I looked closer and saw that a black dog was clinging to the boy's neck, with his hind paws holding precariously on to about an inch of the projecting rear of the bicycle seat, while his fore legs were over his young master's shoulders. The car stopped to let a passenger off at 19th street and the conductor, when the youngster and his pet went skimming off in the darkness, told me the lad was a telegraph or district messenger and "could do anything with a dawg but make him hawk."—Washington Star.

Sparks from the Wires.

The gas regulator at the Quick City, Ind., bottle works exploded and M. Johnson, the night watchman, in trying to turn off the gas was perhaps fatally burned about the head and face.

It is stated in the lobbies of the Reichstag that Baron von Koeller ordered the dissolution of the socialist clubs, which act is supposed to be the cause of his dismissal, without consulting Chancellor Hohenlohe or his colleagues.

David Moyer's gristmill, near Bethlehem, Pa., was robbed of over $800 worth of property. They bound and gagged Thomas Lynn, the watchman, and threw him into a bran bin. Then they blew open the safe with dynamite.

The three-day tests of the pneumatic guns recently erected at the Presidio (Cal.) reservation were concluded. The board of military examiners expressed their satisfaction with the tests, which exceeded the requirements in every instance.

Capt. William J. Emright, of the British steamship Erond, was presented with an aluminum binocular glass, the gift of President Cleveland, in recognition of his services in rescuing the crew of the American schooner E. H. Cornell last March.

Pronunciation.

They had been discussing the pronunciation of "oleomargarine" and finally agreed to leave it to the waiter, but he hedged.

"Sure," said he, "I have to pronounce it 'butter,' or lose my job."—London Tit-Bits.

A Paradox.

Mistress—Biddy, if the modiste's collector calls tell him I am out.

Biddy—But you will be in, madam.

Mistress—I know I will if you tell him that—I'll be in the amount of his bill.—New York World.

GROVER'S PLAN GOOD.

SO SAYS CARLISLE IN HIS ANNUAL REPORT.

Secretary of the Treasury Practically Repeats the President's Message—Urges Retirement of Treasury Notes—Expects a $7,000,000 Surplus.

Carlisle on Currency.

Secretary Carlisle's annual report on the state of the finances was sent to Congress Monday. It shows that the revenues of the Government from all sources during the last fiscal year amounted to $390,373,203. The expenditures during the same period aggregated $433,178,426, leaving a deficit for the year of $42,805,223. As compared with the fiscal year 1894, the receipts for 1895 increased $17,570,705, although there was a decrease of $11,329,981 in the ordinary expenditures, which is largely accounted for by a reduction of $11,134,055 on sugar bounties. The revenues for the current fiscal year are estimated upon the basis of existing laws at $431,907,407 and the expenditures at $448,907,407, which will leave a deficit of $17,000,000.

For the coming fiscal year ending June 30, 1897, the Secretary estimates the receipts at $464,793,120 and the expenditures at $457,884,193, or an estimated surplus of $6,908,926. The Secretary states briefly the facts concerning the issues of bonds during the year, the particulars of which have already been reported to Congress.

The Secretary devotes a large share of his report to a discussion of the condition of the treasury and the currency, in the course of which he makes an exhaustive argument in favor of the retirement of the greenbacks.

SECRETARY CARLISLE.

"The cash balance in the treasury on the first day of December, 1895," he says, "was $177,406,386, being $98,072,420 in excess of the actual gold reserve on that day, and $77,406,386 in excess of any sum that it would be necessary to use for replenishing that fund in case the Secretary should at any time be able to exchange currency for gold. There is, therefore, no reason to doubt the ability of the Government to discharge all its current obligations during the present fiscal year and have a large cash balance at its close, without imposing additional taxation in any form upon the people, but I adhere to the opinion, heretofore expressed, that the Secretary of the Treasury ought always to have authority to issue and sell, or use in the payment of expenses, short-time bonds bearing a low rate of interest, to supply casual deficiencies in the revenue.

Figures on a Surplus.

"With complete return to the normal business conditions of the country and a proper legislative and executive supervision over expenditures, the revenue laws now in force will, in my opinion, yield ample means for the support of the public service upon the basis now established; and upon the assumption, which seems to be justified, that the progress now being made toward the restoration of our usual state of prosperity will continue without serious interruption, it is estimated that there will be a surplus of nearly $7,000,000 during the fiscal year 1897. During the fiscal years 1894 and 1895 the ordinary expenditures of the Government have been decreased $27,282,656.20, as compared with the fiscal year 1893, and it is believed that with the co-operation of Congress further reduction can be made in the future without impairing the efficiency of the public service."

Continuing he says: "The large withdrawals of gold in December, 1894, and in January and the early part of February, 1895, were due almost entirely to a feeling of apprehension in the public mind, which increased in intensity from day to day until it nearly reached the proportions of a panic, and it was evident to all who were familiar with the situation that, unless effectual steps were promptly taken to check the growing distrust, the Government would be compelled within a few days to suspend gold payments and drop to a depreciated silver and paper standard. More than $43,000,000 of the amount withdrawn during the brief period last mentioned was not demanded for export but was taken out by people who had become alarmed on account of the critical condition of the treasury in its relations to the currency of the country. The purchase of 3,300,000 ounces of gold followed." The beneficial effects of this transaction, the Secretary says, were felt immediately not only in this country, but in every other having commercial relations with us. "Confidence in our securities was at once restored. The safety of the existing situation is, however, constantly menaced, and our further progress toward a complete restoration of confidence and prosperity is seriously impeded, by the defects in our currency laws and the doubt and uncertainty still prevailing in the public mind, and especially abroad, concerning the future monetary policy of the Government."

The Secretary believes that there never has been a time since the close of the war when the gradual retirement and cancellation of the United States notes would not have been a benefit to the country, nor when the issue of additional notes of the same character would not have been injurious to the country. It would be difficult, he says, if not impossible, to devise a more expensive or dangerous system than the one now in operation under the laws providing for the issue, redemption and reissue of legal-tender notes by the Government. Mr. Carlisle declares that he is thoroughly convinced that this system ought not to be continued, but that the United States notes and treasury notes should be retired from circulation at the earliest practicable day and that the Government should be wholly relieved from the responsibility of providing a credit currency for the people.

There is, he thinks, but one safe and effectual way to protect the treasury against these demands—to retire and cancel the notes by authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to issue from time to time bonds payable in gold, bearing interest at a rate not exceeding 3 per cent, per annum and having a long time to run, and to exchange the bonds for United States notes and treasury notes upon such terms as may be most advantageous to the Government, or to sell them abroad for gold whenever, in his judgment, it is advisable to do so, and to use the gold thus obtained in redeeming the outstanding notes.

BOMBS TO BIG MEN.

Infernal Machines Sent to Armour and Pullman.

Two crudely constructed infernal machines were mailed in Chicago Monday morning to George M. Pullman and Philip D. Armour. They did not reach the destinations the sender of them intended, but were taken possession of by Capt. Stuart, of the Postal Secret Service. Capt. Stuart also has in his charge S. A. Owens, who says he heard two men talking of their scheme to kill Pullman and Armour, and almost ran his legs off Sunday night to warn them of the fate in store for them.

The deadly character of the machines was demonstrated by an examination of their contents and by igniting some of the powder removed from them, as well as a part of the fuse which completed the mechanism of a contrivance so arranged that the removal of the lids of the boxes which composed the outer casings of the devices would result in the ignition of the powder and the fuse which was trained into a lead pipe. The package addressed to Mr. Armour was unwrapped carefully. When the paper had been removed it was found to contain a thin box about 6 inches long, 1½ inches wide and 1½ inches deep. It was made of wood taken from a cigar box. The three sides had been nailed together, but on top there was a sliding lid. It had been made rather rudely, the lid especially being roughly shaped and working badly. Inside was a piece of lead pipe three-quarters of an inch in diameter and as long as the interior length of the box. Both ends of the lead pipe were plugged with corks. All around this pipe and completely filling the box was black, coarse powder, as a match applied easily proved it to be. There was a hole in the side of the lead pipe, and in this was fastened a piece of fuse three inches long. On the under side of the sliding lid was glued a piece of sandpaper. Covering the powder inside was an other piece of sandpaper, with the rough side turned upward. Between the two sandpaper surfaces the heads of a number of parlor matches had been placed, with more powder scattered in between.

The whole machine was fastened so that if the sliding lid had been moved as much as one-fourth of an inch one of the matches must have become ignited by the grinding sandpaper surfaces. No matter what was contained inside the piece of lead pipe, a quarter of a pound of gunpowder must have been exploded, and experts say that alone would have done considerable damage to the person drawing the lid. Both machines were constructed upon the same principle.

THE ASHANTEE WAR.

Great Britain Dispatches a Strong Force Against the Ashantee King.

From the British Gold Coast, near the Gulf of Guinea, in Western Africa, an expedition under Sir Francis Scott has set out to mete out punishment to Prempeh, the savage and blood-thirsty King of Ashantee. The land is rich in gold and populous and will be a valuable acquisition to Great Britain, for annexation will be its ultimate end. But before that end will be reached considerable hard fighting may be expected. King Prempeh can place a very large army in the field, and though perhaps the bulk of his forces will be armed with clubs and spears many of them are supplies with rifles of modern make. Should other African tribes join the King of Ashantee Sir Francis Scott will have a difficult time subduing them. The troops he leads are the forces of the Gold Coast Colony and some West India regiments. They will have to endure great sufferings on the march, the route being through almost impenetrable jungles reeking with malaria.

SIR FRANCIS SCOTT.

[Commander of the British force now operating against the natives of Ashantee.]

ANTLER'S LOCKED IN DEATH.

Remarkable Specimen Brought to Chicago by a Hunter to Be Mounted.

Rather in traditions of the red man recorded by the poet than in the annals of natural history has so picturesque a scene ever been accorded to man as that which a hunter, W. L. Brown, of Albion, Mich., recently came upon near Bismarck, N. D. In battle royal two monarchs of the glen, bleeding and driven to starvation, with antlers in deadlock, were discovered by the astonished hunter, struggling for freedom, each from the other. The earth for a space of two acres was torn and trampled. On all sides there were indications of what the battle had been before the two animals locked horns, never to be separated. The hunter stood spell-bound at the sight. No man living has recorded witnessing such a scene and only one or two specimens of antlers in deadlock have been found in the forest, after years of decay. The hunter put an end to the combat and the heads were separated from the bodies. They were sent to a Chicago taxidermist to be preserved and mounted. As the piece stands Mr. Brown has refused $300 for it, and had the entire bodies been sent for mounting the figure would be worth over $5,000.

INTERLOCKED DEER SHOT IN NORTH DAKOTA.

News of Minor Note.

Col. Breckinridge remarks that "it is hard to keep a good man down." That's all right; it isn't so hard to keep a bad man down.

A concession from the Chinese Government to build a line of railroad from tidewater to Pekin has been obtained by a syndicate of American capitalists. The road will be about 200 miles long and will tap a valuable coal mining district.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

SOBER OR STARTLING, FAITHFULLY RECORDED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crimes, Casualties and General News Notes.

Condensed State News.

Marion is going for the gamblers.

Big vein of coal struck at Princeton.

Scrape Skillet is the name of a town in Spencer County.

Fire bugs burned George Scott's $1,200 house in Shelby County.

Cass County is going to establish a high school in each township.

Only forty-three out of every 100 children in Porter County attend school.

Henry Cook, Columbus, died of lockjaw. He was accidentally shot while hunting.

The fund for the new science hall at Hanover College, $25,000, has been raised.

The new waterworks plant at Alexandria has been accepted by the City Council.

The infant boy of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sparks of Anderson, was found dead in bed.

The business men of Goshen are endeavoring to establish a new telephone exchange.

Mrs. Louis Steinmeyer, aged 67, was fatally burned, at Vincennes, while burning leaves.

Converse is as mad as a wet pullet. Insurance companies have ran the rates up 300 per cent.

Every applicant in Boone County so far has succeeded in obtaining a license under the Nicholson law.

Monroe Miller, Anderson saw-mill owner, is about to die. Found in road with his head beaten into a jelly.

The G. A. R. members of Richmond will try to secure the State encampment of that order for that city in 1897.

Hon. B. F. Hitchcock of Lawrence County, is very ill with an ailment resulting from excessive use of tobacco.

The 4-year-old daughter of William Bohen of Gas City, was probably fatally burned, her nightgown catching fire from a grate.

Jacob Hostetter, Charleston trapper, found a panther in one of his traps. In the fight which followed, two of Hostetter's dogs were torn to pieces.

The churches of Elwood have organized a charity band for united work in looking after the needy and sick of the city during the coming winter months.

Brakeman Boyer was killed instantly by local freight No. 25 on the Clover Leaf Railroad at Russiaville. He was 35 years old and had a family at Frankfort. It is not known how the accident happened.

Much rejoicing is going on in Princeton, over the fact that the coal shaft being sunk by the Maule Mining Company, of St. Louis, entered a six-foot six-inch vein of coal at a depth of 440 feet. The occasion will be celebrated with a big reception and banquet. Several of Mr. Maule's St. Louis friends will come by special train.

Recently there have been wholesale arrests of Elkhart saloon keepers, who were charged with maintaining partitions in their places of business contrary to the provisions of the Nicholson law. With one exception all the prosecutions failed, as the saloon keepers showed that in taking out their licenses they had been thoughtful enough to take them out only to the partitions, so that the latter constitute frame doors rather than partitions.

Oliver Stoneman, son of John Stoneman of Spencer, was accidentally shot and killed by the 16-year old son of John Dunn. While out hunting both were engaged in poking in a hole with the muzzle of their shot-guns after a rabbit. The animal jumped out, Dunn raised his gun to fire, and Stoneman raised up just in time to receive the load in the back of the head, killing him instantly. The deceased was a prominent worker in the Baptist Church, and was a member of the Red Men's lodge.

Harry Rogers, son of Arthur Rogers, one of the well-known glass men of Central Indiana, and now engaged with the North Anderson glass house, Anderson, while out hunting accidentally shot himself through the heart. Rogers and William Curtis, a companion, were rabbit hunting. Rogers laid down his gun to punch a rabbit out of a log. When the rabbit darted out Rogers grabbed up his gun with the muzzle pointed towards him, and it was accidentally discharged. Death was instantaneous.

Thirty-two years ago W. L. Babbitt of Crawfordsville, was stolen from his mother by his divorced father, when he was a mere child. Later in life he learned of the circumstances, ran away from his father and attempted to find his mother. He was recaptured, however, but did not give up his intentions of finding his mother, who, at the time he was stolen, was living in Chicago. Two months ago he got trace of her and, after a long search, he found her in Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, and the delighted old lady is at last with her son.

Patents have been granted to the following residents of Indiana: John C. Ballew, Evansville, assignor of one-half to Frontier iron works, Detroit, saw-filing machine; George E. Blake, Greencastle, vehicle wheel rim; Willis W. Charles, Evansville, and R. W. Kink, Wichita, Kan., compound railway rail; Thomas Duncan, Fort Wayne, electric motor; William C. Dunn, Logansport, bicycle; George R. Ellis and W. Helfenberger, Indianapolis, metallic fence post; Robert W. Farrell, Vincennes, switch-working mechanism; Hirm H. Gibbs, Indianapolis cushioned horse shoe; Peter E. Good, Etna Green, assignor of one-half to H. Zimmerman, Leesburg, thrashing machine; Alvin R. Knadler, Peru, stitching jack; Samuel Mann, Milford, furnace grate; John A. Myers, assignor of one-half to E. P. Shaun, Monroe City, scissors for splicing purpose; Eli Newsom, Lafayette, means for irrigation; Moses N. Ward, assignor to C. D. Knisely and E. J. Kundard, Auburn, churn.

The Wayne County Agricultural and Horticultural Society held a meeting at Richmond recently, and elected the following officers: President, Richard Shute; vice president, Caleb King; secretary, Walter Ratliff; corresponding secretary, Joseph C. Ratliff; treasurer, J. P. Norris.

While feeding a corn-husking machine on the farm of Milton Hodgins, four miles below Lynn, Jonathan Johnson caught his hand in the rollers and it was terribly mangled. Had it not been for a mitten he would probably have lost his arm. Mr. Johnson is a prominent farmer and fine stock raiser, and his injuries will permanently disable him.

The Board of Commissioners of Spencer County has made an appropriation of $500 for a Spencer County cottage at Lafayette Soldiers' Home. The Women's Relief Corps of Rockport will appropriate a sufficient sum to furnish the cottage.

Burglars entered the residence of W. H. Sanford, at Elwood, who recently disposed of his fruit store, and ransacked the different rooms in search of money which they supposed he had at the house, but which he had banked a few hours before. Finding nothing of value, they deliberately set fire to the carpet and furniture, and the fire had gained a good start when discovered, and it was only by hard work that the house was saved. No clew to the villains has yet been found.

Take Care

Of your physical health. Build up your system, tone your stomach and digestive organs, increase your appetite, enrich your blood, drive out all impurities and prevent sickness by taking

Hood's Sarsaparilla

The One true Blood Purifier. $1; 6 for $5.

Hood's Pills act harmoniously with Hood's Sarsaparilla. 25c.

The Size of Seeds.

The question of the influence of the size of seeds upon germination and upon the size of the plant that springs therefrom has been recently studied anew by Mr. B. R. Galloway, a summary of whose conclusions is given by the Gardeners' Chronicle. The weight and size of the seed are of great importance. A large seed germinates better and more quickly, and with it one can count upon having at the same moment from 85 to 90 per cent. of the total crop, while with small seeds the crop reaches maturity only in successive periods of time, so that at no moment in gathering the crop in toto could we have the same proportion of the whole. Besides, where with small seeds four successive crops are obtained, we have six with large seeds, their evolution occurring with greater rapidity.

THE world needs more of the kind of religion that gets in to the hands and feet.

NO SECRET

IN THIS WOMAN'S CASE.

Mrs. Campbell Wishes Her Letter Published so that the Truth May Be Known.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Of the thousands of letters received from women all over the world by Mrs. Pinkham, not one is given to the public unless by the wish of the writer. Thus absolute confidence is established between Mrs. Pinkham and her army of patients; and she freely solicits a letter from any woman, rich or poor, who is in ill health or ailing.

In the case of Mary E. Campbell, of Albion, Noble Co., Ind., her suffering was so severe, her relief so suddenly realized, and her gratitude so great, that she wishes the circumstances published, in the hope that others may be benefited thereby. She says:—

"My physician told me I had dropsy and falling of the womb. My stomach and bowels were so bloated I could not get a full breath. My face and hands were bloated badly. I had that dreadful bearing-down pain, backache, palpitation of the heart, and nervousness.

"One of my physicians told me I had something growing in my stomach; and the medicine that I took gave me relief only for a short time. I thought I must die. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it worked like a charm. After taking the first bottle I could walk across the street, now I am well. I advise all my friends to take it."
—MARY E. CAMPBELL, Albion, Noble Co.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

FRIENDS' OATS
KILN-DRIED

Cost more to make, but are sold as cheap as inferior kinds

Free From Hulls

At All Grocers

Muscatine Oat Meal Co.
Muscatine, Iowa

ASTHMA
POPHAM'S ASTHMA SPECIFIC
Gives relief in FIVE minutes. Send for a FREE trial package. Sold by Druggists. One Box sent postpaid on receipt of $1.00. Six boxes $5.00. Address THOS. POPHAM, PHILA., PA.

POLITICS OF THE DAY

IMPORTED STEEL RAILS.

The signing of a contract for the importation of 10,000 tons of steel rails will probably induce some of our McKinley contemporaries to assert that the reduction of the tariff duty from $13.44 to $7.84 per ton has already begun to "paralyze" the domestic steel rail industry. The truth is, however, that the importation has been invited and caused by the greed of the Steel Rail Combination, which persists in exacting a ring price out of all fair proportion to the cost of raw materials or the price of other similar products. This price is $28 per ton at Eastern mills, and $29 at mills in the West.

There has been permitted no such competition as would show what is a fair price for steel rails in this country. Last year, when the cost of raw materials was so low—Bessemer pig iron selling at lower figures here than in England—the price of rails was kept up by the combination. It costs but very little more to make steel rails than to make steel billets, but the price of billets now is $18 at Pittsburg, while the price of rails there, and elsewhere, is $28. If the price of rails were determined by competition, as the prices of Bessemer pig iron and steel billets are, it would be impossible to import rails over the duty of $7.84, except at considerable loss. At present the price of English rails, free on board, is $21.87, and we suppose they can be delivered at this port, duty and charges added, for about $31. Freight charges from American mills must be added to the ring price of $28, but even after this addition has been made rails cannot be imported at this port to advantage. The rails covered by the contract in question are, it is stated, to be shipped to a Pacific or Gulf port, where the cost of domestic rails is considerably increased by freight charges. But imports even at such ports are clearly caused by the unlawful exactions of the domestic combination, exactions which the tariff duty enables them to make, up to a certain point.—New York Times.

President Cleveland's Comparison.

In a pithy paragraph in his annual message the President makes the following striking comparison between the Wilson tariff and the McKinley law:

"By command of the people a customs revenue system, designed for the protection and benefit of favored classes at the expense of the great mass of our countrymen, and which, while inefficient for the purpose of revenue, curtailed our trade relations and impeded our entrance to the markets of the world, has been superseded by a tariff policy which in principle is based upon a denial of the right of the government to obstruct the avenues to our people's cheap living or lessen their comfort and contentment for the sake of according especial advantages to favorites, and which, while encouraging our intercourse and trade with other nations, recognizes the fact that American self-reliance, thrift and ingenuity can build up our country's industries and develop its resources more surely than enervating paternalism."

The small-fry Republicans who have been "demanding" that the President should sign a bill restoring the McKinley law, in event of its being passed by Congress, will learn from this that the author of the tariff-reform message of 1887 stands to-day where he did then—in favor of a tariff for revenue, and against all "protective" legislation.

Republican Micawbers.

The proposition to re-enact the McKinley tariff law, which some of the more venomous protectionists insist upon, would not be consistent with the plan of maintaining the gold reserve by increasing revenue. As a revenue producer the tariff of 1894 brings more money into the treasury than did the tariff of 1890. Some substitute for the income tax will have to be temporarily adopted, as a companion piece for the McKinley monstrosity, in order to bring revenue within hail of ordinary expenditure. The Republican leaders in Congress who will really control the work of legislation are not such fools as to stake the next year's elections on the hazard of popular vacillation and wavering. Whatever the spoiled infants of tariff coddling may expect, the astute Republican leaders are only mad north-northwest in their protectionism. They will not stultify themselves by making false moves. They will prefer to do nothing they shall not be obliged to do, as the custodians of legislative power and initiative, to keep the wheels of government moving.—Philadelphia Record.

Action in Order, Not Sneers.

During the years he has been in public life Mr. Reed has been chiefly known as a critic of what was being done. He has been one of the most successful faultfinders of his generation. His sneer has passed into history, and it may be said that it has been partially directed against members of all parties, including his own. He has objected and obstructed in a way which has apparently given great satisfaction to him. He has done these things to the utter lack of constructive statesmanship. The time has come when he may no longer object, when he may no longer obstruct. He must act.—Des Moines Leader.

"Enervating Paternalism."

In his message to Congress President Cleveland speaks of "enervating paternalism."

The phrase is good. A paternalistic government is destructive of individualism, and individualism is the safety of a republic. The socialist would have government do everything for everybody. The Democrat proposes that government shall do nothing for anybody that he is better able to do for himself. The Republican party is socialistic, and socialistic at its worst. The fundamental of socialism is that the government shall be parent of all. The Republican modification of the socialistic doctrine is that the government shall be the parent of a few and the step-parent of the many.

Paternal government is enervating. The citizen of a republic who should be independent is taught by Republican statesmen that he may lean upon government for support under all circumstances; that exertion on his part, mental or physical, need be made but perfunctorily, because government will supply the strength and resource that if left to himself he would labor for.

The idea of socialistic government practiced by the Republican party when it has the chance is in substance the idea that the calf shall continue always to take its nourishment from the udder of the cow and never assume the state and condition of the cow. They protect infant industries—industries that were born seventy-five years ago—and are still, according to Republican theory, in their infancy.—Chicago Chronicle.

ST. LOUIS BOUGHT THE CONVENTION—WHO BUYS NOMINATION?

—Chicago Chronicle.

Treasury Receipts Improving.

If the rate at which the United States treasury is now receiving from all sources continue to the end of this month, the total for the present calendar year will be more than $317,000,000. The total receipts for the calendar year 1894 were only $301,705,076. So that this year's receipts will probably exceed last year's by at least $15,000,000.

The receipts fluctuate from month to month considerably. But the chances are that those of December will be rather larger than those of November. There is therefore reason for the hope which it is said the treasury officials entertain of a continued improvement in the revenue. It is very noticeable that the customs duties collected this year are much larger than the returns from internal revenue—a fact which shows that there is no need of tariff tinkering. But even the receipts from internal revenue are now much larger than they were in the summer.—New York Herald.

Protection Against American Sheep.

The report cabled by the World's London correspondent yesterday that the British Government is about to shut out American sheep, as a concession to the farming class that supported the Conservatives in the elections, is interesting and instructive. The Ohio idea in this country is that our sheep need protection against the pauper sheep of Europe. But here are the sheep raisers of England calling for an embargo on American sheep upon the transparent plea of danger from contagion. What they really want is their own "home market." It is a standing refutation of the disparaging contention of the McKinleyites that sheep raising can not be carried on here without the sustaining help of a tax on the clothing of all the people, that free-trade England has long sustained on her high-priced land nearly as many sheep per capita of the population as we have kept under protection on our cheap land.—New York World.

Bright Outlook for Democracy.

The Democrats of New England have been particularly successful in municipal elections. Every city in Rhode Island but one went Democratic in the recent municipal elections. Many Massachusetts cities went Democratic for the first time in years. Democratic Boston was redeemed. The Democrats cannot complain of the results in municipal elections, and doesn't this show that the Presidential fight next year will see some vigorous work done by the Democrats?—Utica Observer.

Needs to Be Cautious.

Speaker Reed is having more trouble in making up his committees than he anticipated, and he will not be able to announce them this week. Mr. Reed has appointed committees before, but never with the Presidency depending upon their personnel. It is no wonder he is cautious.—Kansas City World.

TROLLEY CARS AND PILLS.

A REMARKABLE STORY.

The Use of the Latter Did Away with a Fear of the Former.

From the Evening News, Newark, N. J.

Truth is stranger than fiction, it is said, and no better illustration of this declaration can be had than the story told by Mrs. Anna Burns, a cheerful, happy-faced woman, of 338 Plane street, this city. Mrs. Burns is a decidedly pretty brunette, twenty-six years old, tall, and a pleasant conversationalist. On the ground floor of her residence she conducts a well-ordered candy store, and she was on the road to prosperity two months or so ago when she was taken ill. Her cheeks grew pale, her head ached violently and the muscles of her hands, arms and lower extremities caused her almost constant pain. Within the last two weeks, however, her cheeks have once more assumed their rosy color, and her pain, great though it was, is now a thing of the past. When our reporter visited her store, she looked the picture of health, and in response to a question she told her story, in the course of which she was free in her praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

"Until about two months ago," she began, "I enjoyed the very best of health and could work night and day if necessary. Suddenly, and without any apparent cause, I began to suffer from intense pains in my head, in my limbs and temples. Almost distracted with this seemingly never ending pain, I tried cure after cure, prescription after prescription and almost a gallon of medicine of all kinds. Nothing did me any good. In fact, I became worse. The knuckles of my hands soon became cramped and the pain in my hips became more and more distressing each day. Business in the store had to be attended to, however, and so I was obliged, suffering as I was, to keep more or less on my feet and occasionally I was forced to go out. This was the ordeal I dreaded. Each time I went out I trembled when I came near the car tracks, for my pain at times was so severe that I was obliged to stand perfectly still no matter where I was. On one occasion I was seized in this way while I was crossing the tracks on Market street, and there I stood perfectly rigid, unable to move hand or foot while a trolley car came thundering along. Fortunately it was stopped before it struck me, but the dread of it all lasted as long as my pain, for I never knew when crossing the tracks, whether I would not drop to the ground in my agony and be crushed to death. My anxiety to get well grew apace and I had about given up in despair when I saw in the Evening News one day an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Here was something I hadn't tried before and I lost no time in getting to the nearest drug store. There I paid fifty cents for a box of these truly wonderful health restoring pills. Before I had finished taking half of the pills I began to feel relieved; the pains in my hips gradually disappeared and for the first time in many days I felt as if there was some hope. I continued to take the pills, and the more I took the better I felt. I finished one box, got another and now having taken only a few of the second fifty cents' worth, I am free from all pain and as happy as the day is long. Since I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I have gained thirty pounds, and now when I cross the car tracks I don't care if there is a dozen vehicles near by. It is a great relief, I assure you, and suffering humanity has a never failing friend in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I know what I am talking about. I speak from experience."

The foregoing is but one of many wonderful cures that have been credited to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Diseases which heretofore have been supposed to be incurable, such as locomotor ataxia and paralysis, succumb to this wonderful medicine as readily as the most trifling ailments. In many cases the reported cures have been investigated by the leading newspapers and verified in every possible manner, and in no case has the least semblance of fraud been discovered. Their fame has spread to the far ends of civilization, and there is hardly a drug store in this country or abroad where they cannot be found.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, all forms of weakness either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price (50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50—they are never sold in bulk or by the 1000) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

The Way Wars Begin.

The annals of China record at least one conflict which has always, in the popular Chinese mind, been identified as the "teapot war." It seems that for hundreds of years the northwest corner of the Chinese empire has been inhabited by tribes of barbarians, who, dwelling in the mountainous district, are in virtue of that circumstance, of a bold a turbulent disposition. Owing only a nominal allegiance to the emperor, they obey or not his commands according as these are agreeable or otherwise to their wishes.

About the year 1650 a Chinese dignitary was traveling through their country, and in his train was born by one of the menials in a certain earthenware teapot that the mandarin looked upon as one of the most valuable of his possessions.

During the journey the servitor who bore this precious utensil became separated from the rest of the train and fell into the clutches of the mountaineers, who smashed the teapot to pieces on a stone. The whole affair, with proper additions, was reported to the emperor, who undertook to avenge the injury done to the teapot, and so made war on the mountaineers, the conflict lasting for nearly a hundred years, and resulting in the loss of over 500,000 lives.

Fire! Fire! That Dreadful Cry is fraught with import doubly dire to the unhappy man who beholds his dwelling or his warehouse feeding the devouring element uninsured. Happily most people who can, insure—everything but health. Nine-tenths of us neglect the preservation of this when it is in palpable jeopardy. Incipient indigestion, liver complaint, la grippe, inaction of the kidneys and bladder and malaria are all counteracted by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

Possible Result.

Some years ago there was in New England a Chief Justice who was respected for his high legal attainments, and afforded much enjoyment as well by his love of the humorous in which he often indulged in the court room.

On one occasion there came up before the full bench a case between two towns relating to the support of a pauper named Bowen. When in the course of the argument one of the counsel came to the name of this indigent person, one of the judges, who had been known in former days as a brilliant lawyer, gave a start of surprise. "Bowen—Isaac Bowen!" he repeated in astonishment, turning to the Chief Justice before referred to. "Why, that man used to be a client of mine!"

"Ah," said his colleague, in a thoughtful but perfectly clear and audible tone, "could that perhaps account for his being a pauper now?"

MANY birds which fly to perfection, swallows, for instance, have all their large bones solid.

SIN feels safe as long as it can hide its head.

AN INVITATION.

It Gives Us Great Pleasure to Publish the Following Announcement.

All women suffering from any form of illness peculiar to their sex are requested to communicate promptly with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read, and answered by women only.

A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America.

This confidence has induced more than 100,000 women to write Mrs. Pinkham for advice during the last few months.

Think what a volume of experience she has to draw from! No physician living ever treated so many cases of female ills, and from this vast experience surely it is more than possible she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case.

She is glad to have you write her all about your ailments, and receive in return the advice of a woman full of sympathy, with a great experience in healing those who are sick. If her medicine is not what you need, she will kindly tell you so, and there are nine chances out of ten that she will tell you exactly what to do for relief. She asks nothing in return except your good will, and her advice has relieved thousands.

Surely, any ailing woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

Never in the history of medicine has the demand for one particular remedy for female diseases equalled that attained by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and never in the history of Mrs. Pinkham's wonderful Compound has the demand for it been so great as to-day.

Killing Weeds by Machinery.

Prof. Woodworth, of the Michigan Agricultural College, believes that electricity is quite as cheap as salt for the killing of weeds, in the long run, as it is much more effective, and destroys the plant to the root. He proposes to experiment on the most noxious weeds by taking a wheelbarrow or wagon supplied with a storage battery to the land to be cleared, and let the hanging wires drag along the ground. He insists on the practicability of removing Canadian and Russian thistles from the farms in this way.

To California in Pullman Tourist Sleeping Cars.

The Burlington Route (C. B. & Q. R. R.) runs personally-conducted excursions to California, leaving Chicago every Wednesday. Through cars to California destination, fitted with carpets, upholstered seats, bedding, toilet rooms, etc.; every convenience. Special agent in charge. Route via Denver and Salt Lake. Sunshine all the way. Write for descriptive pamphlet to T. A. Grady, Excursion, Manager, 211 Clark St., Chicago.

Prices of Wild Animals.

According to M. Gambler Bolton, lions fetch $1,500 each; lion cubs, $500 each; tiger cubs, $400; a Malayan tapir, $500; a young hippopotamus, $2,500 apiece; giraffs up to $5,000, while African elephants can not be purchased in Europe at any price.

How to Make Money.

MR. EDITOR:—Tell others of my success. Fifteen years farming and hustling discouraged me. My cousin made $3,000 last year plating tableware, jewelry, etc. I ordered an outfit from Gray & Co. Plating Works, Dept. 18, Columbus, O. It was complete, all materials, formulas, trade secrets and instructions; they teach agents free. Goods easy plated, nice as new, guaranteed ten years. Made $32 first week, $17 second, $203 first month; get all work I can do; brother made $75 selling outfits. Write firm for sample.
B. F. SHAW.

"ARABY'S Daughter," is the closing portion of Moore's poem. "The Fire Worshipers," one of the tales of Lalla Rookh. The melody was written by Kiallmark, and is the same which was afterwards adapted to the "Old Oaken Bucket."

All About Western Farm Lands.

The "Corn Belt" is a monthly paper published by the Passenger Department of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad. It is designed to give reliable information concerning western farm lands, what can be raised on them successfully, and the experiences of farmers who live in the west. Copies of this paper will be sent to any address for one year on receipt of 25c. Postage stamps accepted. Address "The Corn Belt," 209 Adams St., Chicago.

MARLEY—Yes, sir, money talks.
Darlow—Well, that's a case in which I'm quite willing to be talked to death!

Rough, wintry, changeable weather produces Catarrhs, Coughs, Disorders of the Lungs, etc., which Jayne's Expectorant promptly cures if faithfully administered.

IT is only those who are afraid of the light who are afraid of their own shadows.

How's This!

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

We the undersigned have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligation made by their firm.
WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Prices 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

A BRASS clock which is alleged to have been telling the time in Concord, Mass., when Paul Revere rode through that town, is owned by a man in Brattleboro, Vt., and is still an excellent time-keeper.

Singers and Artists Generally are users of "Brown's Bronchial Troches" for Hoarseness and Throat Troubles. They afford instant relief.

VICTOR EMANUEL'S monument in the Pantheon at Rome has already cost $2,000,000, and will need another $3,000,000 before it is completed.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is not a liquid or a snuff. It quickly relieves Cold in the Head, Headache, etc., and really cures Catarrh. 50c.

OVER $75,000,000 is invested in this country in ducks and geese.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

FITS.—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

BEST IN THE WORLD.

THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH
For durability and for cheapness this preparation is truly unrivalled.

PASTE STOVE POLISH
DUSTLESS LABOR SAVING
BEST IN THE WORLD

THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH in cakes for general blacking of a stove.

THE SUN PASTE POLISH for a quick after-dinner shine, applied and polished with a cloth.

Morse Bros., Props., Canton, Mass., U.S.A.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. Frank Ratliff, residing at Keyser, North Carolina, under date of June 10, 1895, says: "I was troubled with dyspepsia and my physician gave me Ripans Tabules and now I can eat all I want and it does not hurt me like it used to. I think they are good medicine. You can use my name if you want to."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES Sure relief Price 25 cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass. ASTHMA.

BEWARE IN TIME. The first acute twinge of SCIATICA IS THE WARNING
TO USE ST. JACOBS OIL. DELAY, AND THOSE TWINGES MAY TWIST YOUR LEG OUT OF SHAPE.

BATTLE AX PLUG
THE LARGEST PIECE OF GOOD TOBACCO EVER SOLD FOR 10 CENTS

Timely Warning.

The great success of the chocolate preparations of the house of Walter Baker & Co. (established in 1780) has led to the placing on the market many misleading and unscrupulous imitations of their name, labels, and wrappers. Walter Baker & Co. are the oldest and largest manufacturers of pure and high-grade Cocoas and Chocolates on this continent. No chemicals are used in their manufactures.

Consumers should ask for, and be sure that they get, the genuine Walter Baker & Co.'s goods.

WALTER BAKER & CO., Limited,
DORCHESTER, MASS.

"Thoughtless Folks Have the Hardest Work, but Quick Witted People Use toast bread

SAPOLIO

and keep it dry. There'll be no danger of its molding But moisten the bread with water, and see the result, in a short time it is covered with mold. It is just so with consumption. Its germs will not grow in the lungs unless everything is suitable to them. Weakness, poor blood, loss of appetite, coughs and colds often prepare the ground for the development of the germs of consumption. To destroy germ-life the system must be kept in a well-nourished condition. Do not lose flesh. Take Scott's Emulsion, with hypophosphites, as a preventive. It furnishes the reinforcements necessary for the body to conquer in the easiest possible form. The oil is in a state quickly taken up and rapidly transformed into the organs and tissues.

When you ask for Scott's Emulsion and your druggist gives you a salmon-colored package with the picture of a man and fish on it—you can trust that man with your prescriptions!

50 cents and $1.00 SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York

Wabash Line

GRAND TOUR OF OLD MEXICO.

THE EGYPT OF THE NEW WORLD.

On Tuesday, January 14, 1896, Gates' annual tour of Mexico will leave Toledo by special train at 11 a. m., via Wabash Railroad, and pass Fort Wayne about 1:30 p. m. The tour this season will far surpass all former efforts, several new features have been added. The Gates' special Pullman train will consist of vestibuled sleeping and compartment cars, observation and library car, and a palace dining car, also a baggage car, the entire train making the thirty day tour and covering 6,600 miles. Mr. Gates will accompany the train, and give every detail personal attention. For a handsome book of the tour giving itinerary and much other interesting data apply to the following representatives Wabash Railroad.

C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.
CHAS. H. GATES, Tkt Agt., Toledo, Ohio.
P. E. DOMBAUGH, P. & T. A. Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
J. M. MCCONNELL, P. & T. A. Lafayette, Ind.

THE AERMOTOR CO. does half the world's windmill business, because it has reduced the cost of wind power to 1/3 what it was. It has many branch houses, and supplies its goods and repairs at your door. It can and does furnish a better article for less money than others. It makes Pumping and Geared, Steel, Galvanized-after-Completion Windmills, Tilting and Fixed Steel Towers, Steel Buss Saw Frames, Steel Feed Cutters and Feed Grinders. On application it will name one of these articles that it will furnish until January 1st at 1/3 the usual price. It also makes Tanks and Pumps of all kinds. Send for catalogue. Factory: 12th, Rockwell and Fillmore Streets, Chicago.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. DR. J. STEPHENS, Lebanon, Ohio.

SORE EYES Dr. ISAAC THOMPSON'S EYE-WATER

When writing to Advertisers say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

The Laboring Man Speaks.

MONON, IND., May 10, 1894.

Lyon Medicine Co., Indianapolis, Ind.:

GENTS—I think it my duty to send this statement to you of the benefit I have received from LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. I have been afflicted for twenty years with stomach trouble of the severest nature. Would have seasons of the severest suffering from one to two months at a time. Between these times of suffering was never longer than three months. There was never any time that I was entirely free from misery more or less. These spells of great suffering would sometimes come on with sickness and vomiting, and other times would come on in form of rheumatism, but would finally center itself in my stomach. I have doctored with a great many physicians, but none of them could tell me what the trouble was. I was unable to get relief until I got LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. It is now sixty days since I began taking this medicine, and am now for the first time in twenty years free from pain and misery. I am compelled to say it is a blessing to a poor man.

J. J. HACKETT, Blacksmith.

LYON'S 7 WONDERS
A SPECIFIC For all DERANGEMENTS of the STOMACH. PRICE $1.00
Manf by THE LYON MEDICINE CO. INDIANAPOLIS IND.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

ROOT & COMPANY,

FT. WAYNE.

NOW - FOR - CHRISTMAS!

The store this year will be more comfortable for trading than ever—more aisles, better arranged shelving and fixtures to display. A good deal, too, more to look at. We shall strive to out-do all former efforts to make this Christmas season the crowning event in the history of our store.

Our Store in Holiday attire, Scenes of Beauty all Around.

We extend a special invitation to all to visit the store—come often. Those who skip a day from the store from now on, will miss many an attraction.

Linens. If there is a doubt if the recipient is a housewife—give linen, 'twill be an assured acceptable atricle Pillow Shams, all linen. We show some lovely novelties in Cotton, handsomely embroidered and hemstich. Bureau Scarfs, Carving Cloths, Tray Cloths, Doylies, Fancy Linen pieces, Piano and Mantel Scarfs, in Silk, Laundry Bags, Splashers, Slipper Bags, Brush and Comb Cases, etc.

Lace Collarettes. Some new beauties of these popular neckwear novelties, in Ecru and Biscuit color laces, with Points and Insertings of heavy Roman.

$1.50 up to $7.00 Each.

China AND Art Bits. The central counter in northern aisle is full of holiday suggestions; hundreds of things, inexpensive, useful.

Bisque Figures 40c each to $9 pair.

Decorated Glass Flower Vases, all in new shapes. 15c each to $8. Vases 25c each up to Placques and lots of other things to be looked at.

HOUSE COATS. HOUSE GOWNS. We've got a good line of these garments for ladies to look at. Something useful to give a man, made of House Coats, $6.00 to $10.00.

House Gowns, $1.00 to $5.00.

Fur Wraps At Cost.

We started to-day at selling every Fur Wrap at cost—there's no quarter off, no third off: but you know at this store just what you are getting. You get Fur Wraps at the lowest possible price they can be sold at. From to-day we sell all Fur Wraps at cost.

Women's Winter Jackets.

At $4.00—we have a good Beaver Jacket, the best Coat you have ever seen at the price.

At $10 to $25—Astrakhans and Montagues, finely tailor made, ripple backs, Shield, box or Bagadere front Jackets, big sleeves.

At $10 to $20—A wide range in French Novelty Cloth Jackets, Mohair, Raye, Lyons Velour, Chinchilla and Globe Kerseys, lined with plain or figured Silks.

Bishops' Fur Rugs.

We show a fine new line for the Holidays, lined and unlined, all colors.

PRICES $2.75 TO $3.50.

At $1.28 we offer a good two dollar Blanket full size, fancy borders. This bargain will be found at front entrance.

ROOT & CO.

This Sounds Well

Steuben Republican: The Auburn COURIER is trying to keep pace with the big city papers. Last week that office turned out a sixteen page paper, full to the brim with news and ads. The business men are pushing it right along.

Two Ways

The Anderson Herald says that Co. Supt. Johnson, of that Madison, county, has asked the board of commissioners for additional help. He wants a clerk to do the office work while he is out visiting schools and holding township institutes etc. etc. He may need help, but we venture the assertion that [illegible] is done by the superintendent of Madison county in a year, as well, as is done, and [illegible] county. In this county the superintendent when he finds work piling up higher and higher, simply roll up his sleeves that much higher and works the faster, as well as farther into the night. The most of a superintendent's work can be done better by himself than by anyone else. The people of this county should give the school officers credit for trying to save money for the taxpayers.

Bonds Void.

Pulaski Circuit Court Makes a Decision Affecting Ditch Bonds.

Fortunately our county has never issued any ditch bonds, although we have constructed one or two ditches jointly with other counties. Last week, however, a case of this kind was decided, and we quote the ruling of the court.

The Circuit Court of Pulaski County has just made a ruling which has the effect of rendering worthless hundreds of thousands of dollars of bonds which have been floated by counties in this state during the last four years.

By an Act of the General Assembly of 1891 it was provided that where it was necessary to construct ditches which extended in two or more counties the commissioners of the different counties should meet in joint session for the purpose. Acting on this law, many counties floated bonds for the construction of such ditches. The ditch upon which the decision was made known as the "Hendee ditch." Bonds for its construction were floated by the county to the amount of $16,000, and bonds in other cases bring the aggregate up to nearly $100,00. By the ruling of the court the law is declared unconstitutional, and the county will have to cease collecting the assessments for the construction of the ditches. The loss will therefore fall on the bondholders, most of whom are Eastern capitalists.

MOTHER AND BABE.

Both equally benefited by the use of Dr Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Is the baby constipated? Then try this pleasant liquid laxative, both sure and mild, and pleasant to the taste. Has the mother indigestion or sick headache? There is nothing so effective. In 10c, 50c and $1 sizes, at F. E. Davenport's.

DR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you. Imparts new life to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and makes a new man of you. Mailed on receipt of price, $1.00 per box.

WILLIAMS M'F'G CO., Props., Cleveland, O.
Sold by FISCHLER & SON, Auburn. 1yr

EDITOR OF THE GRAPHIC.

Of Campbellsburg, Ind, writes: "I will carry your ad at price named ..... Our druggist don't handle Syrup Pepsin and I want some of it myself. I have taken two bottles and it did my stomach more good than any medicine I ever took and I want more of it. I had a bad case of dyspepsia." F. E. Davenport. 52

For Pneumonia.

Dr. J. C. Bishop, of Agnew, Mich, say: "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar in three very severe cases of pneumonia the last month, with good results." Robbins McCord's. 52

TO THE SUFFERERS OF RHEUMATISM

After using Groff's Rheumatic Cure for some time in my practice I take great pleasure in saying that it is a most wonderful remedy for Rheumatism; in fact, it is the only one I have found for the cure of this disease in all its various form. Dr. E. E. Tull, Chicago.

LOW RATES FOR THE HOLIDAYS.

December 24, 25 and 31, 1895, and January 1st, 1896, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern R'y will sell reduced rate tickets between all points on its line.

Tickets will be good to return until January 2d, inclusive, 1896. 41-52

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

WHAT YOU OUGHT TO DO

A man who is able and does not buy a state or some counties on the White gate, is missing the best way to make money in his life-time. We quit rail-roading and bought Huntington County and in forty-five days we had sold about $7 400 worth of gates, farm, county and state rights. Mr. White gives everybody who buys territory a per cent to sell for him.

Resp't. Flinn & Warden.
Warren, Ind., Dec 2, 1895.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

IS CATARRH CURABLE?

Mrs. Mary Alexander Says It Is In a Recent Letter.

Mrs. Mary Alexander, of Piper City, Ill. writes: "My health had been failing for seven years. The doctors pronounced my case one of bronchial catarrh. I could get no hope of recovery from any of my physicians. My friends urged me to take Peruna. At this time I was confined to my bed. After taking one bottle of Peruna I was able to set up and the swelling on my limbs and body began to disappear. When I had finished the third bottle I was entirely well and felt as well as ever in my life. I can heartily say that I believe Peruna saved my life."

Catarrh attacks any part of the human system. Not only are the head and throat liable to catarrh, but all other parts of the organism may be effected by it. There is catarrh of the stomach, liver, kidneys, etc. Peruna is an internal systemic remedy, and cures catarrh wherever located.

An instructively illustrated 64-page book on catarrhal diseases sent free by The Peruna Drug Manufacturing Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Off For The South

Friday's Daily.

Wm. Mc Intyre and wife and Miss. Mc Tighe started south this forenoon over the Lake Shore road, and will be absent all winter if Mr. McIntyre's health will permit. They go to Atlanta first, but later will visit several other points, and visit some relatives at Little Rock and in Oklahoma. Miss. McTighe has promised the COURIER some letters of what they see and experience on this extended tour. She views things with intelligent eyes, and her letters will be readable and interesting. We hope the whole party may have a pleasant trip. By the way, while they are in Little Rock, they will have a chance to call on A. C. Wilson, T. C. Mays and Cos. Altenberg, besides the relatives they are to visit.

Bad Accident

Friday's Daily.

Walter Criswell, brakeman on the Wabash freight here about three this afternoon fell off the train at Columbia City and had both legs crushed. One has been amputated and the other will have to be, if he lives. There is little hope for his recovery.

Mennonites.

These peaceable people have got into serious trouble down in Adams Co., this state, They have been brought into court at Decatur, the county seat, for having violated the laws in regard to marriage. In this state, those who marry, must procure a license of the county clerk and then go before a justice or similar officer, or else before a minister, and have a formal marriage ceremony performed. But these simple minded people, though really a very moral and law-abiding people, have, it seems, been in the habit of entering into the marrge relation, without these formalities. They take out no license, and often merely promise to each other to become man and wife. While it is true that they faithfully live up these informal marriages, yet they are probably not legal, and if so, the parties are liable to punishment under the laws of the state. At all events, the matter is now being tested in court. The Mennonites get their name, and their peculiar religious views from Menno Simon, one of their early leaders. As a rule they are very honest and conscientious, as well as economical and money saving. But in most cases, they are ignorant, and this ignorance is getting them into trouble.

Order Of Lincoln

A new secret society has been added to to the already overburdened list of orders. It is called "The Order of Lincoln." It is also hoped to combine in this one order, all the societies and single individuals who are helping in the same cause, single handed or who have and can be induced to take an active interest in matters pertaining to Lincoln and all things connected with his history and his memory. The first set of state officers were recently elected and among them we see that Judge R. Wes McBride is supreme vice-president, and Dr. E. L, Siver of Ft. Wayne is supreme surgeon general. It will be remembered that Judge McBride was one of the first officers of the other new order, the "Order of Ben Hur." Lodge No. 1, the first of the new order of Lincoln was established at Indianapolis, and No. 2 at Ft. Wayne. They have made rules for the establishment of lodges all over the country.

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR HOLIDAY EXCURSION RATE.

Via the Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

December 24th, 25th, and 31st, 1895, and January 1st, 1896, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell Excursion Tickets between all stations west of Wheeling and Pittsburg, at very low rates. Tickets will be good for return until January.

LAST EXCURSION TO ATLANTA, GA.

On December 20 the Baltimore & Ohio R. R. will sell Excursion Tickets to Atlanta, Ga., at very low rates, on accounts of the Cotton States and International Exposition. Tickets will be good for return ten (10) days from date of sale.

This will be the last cheap rate excursion to Atlanta.

For full information call on or address nearest B. & O. Ticket, or L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Chicago, Ill.

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

Charles Snell

The popular business man is in his new quarters in the east room of the Gandy Block and already his friends have found out where he is and we saw a number of them in there to-day, the first day he has been there, he having moved in last evening. The room is one of the neatest and brightest in town, and is almost new. With a nice stock of fresh, new groceries, neatly arranged, he need not be ashamed to invite calls from the most fastidious house keeper, whoare looking for family supplies.

Card Of Tnanks.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Long, wish through the columns of the COURIER, to thank their kind neighbors and friends for their sympathy and kindness, during the sickness and death of their little child, They will always be held in grateful remembrance.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.

IN 1896.

Bricels, a new novel by WILLIAM BLACK written with all the Author's well-known charm of manner, will begin in December Number 1895, and continue until May. A new novel by GEORGE DUMAURIER, entitled The Martian, will also begin during the year. It is not too much to say that no novel has ever been so awaited with such great expectation as the successor to Trilby. The Personal Recollections of Joan of Arc will continue and will relate the story of the failure and martyrdom of the Maid of Orleans. Other important fiction of the year will be a novelette by Mark Twain, under the title, Tom Sawyer, Detective; a humorous three-part tale called Two mormons from Muddlety, by Langdon Elwyn Mitchell; and short stories by Octave Thanet, Richard Harding Davis, Mary E. Wilkins, Julian Ralph, Brander Matthews. Owen Wister, and other well-known writers.

Prof, Woodrow Wilson will contribute six papers on George Washington and his times, with illustrations by Howard Pyle. Poultney Bigelow's history of The German Struggle for Liberty illustrated by R. Caton Woodville, will be continued through the winter. Two papers on St Clair's defeat and Mad Anthony Wayne's victory, by Theodore Roosevelt, with graphic illustrations will be printed during the year.

A noteworthy feature of the Magazine during 1896 will be a series of papers by Caspar Whitney, describing his trip of 2600 miles on snow-shoes and with dog-sledge trains into the unexplored Barren Grounds of British North America in pursuit of wood-bison and musk-oxen. Mr. Whitney's series will have the added interest of being illustrated from photographs taken by himself.

The volumes of the Magazine begin with the Numbers for June and December of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the Number current at the time of receipt of order.

Remittance should be made by Post-office Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance or loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper & Brothers.

HARPERS PERIODICALS

Harper's Magazine	one year	$4.00
Harper's Weekly	"	4.00
Harper's Bazar	"	4.00
Harper's Round Table	"	2.00

Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Address HARPER & BROTHERS, P. O. Box 959 N. Y. City

Wabash Line

GOING EAST.

Boston Express.....5:21 a m—Daily
Detroit Accom'n.....2:04 p m—ex Su
New York Limited.....7:35 p m Daily

GOING WEST.

Logansport Accommodation.....7:16 am—Daily
Mail and Express.....12:23 pm—ex Su
Chicago & St. Louis Lim(53).....7:35 pm—Daily

All these trains stop for passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

CHAS M. HAYS, V. Pres. and Gen'l Manager
C. S. CRANE, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect May 19, 1895.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne, ... p	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40
New Era	12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc.....	12 25	5 25	7 38
Auburn.....	12 29	5 29	8 37
Waterloo.....	12 41	5 41	9 24
Summit.....	12 52	5 52	9 45
Steubenville.....	12 56	5.56	.....
Pleasant Lake...	1 03	6 03	10 12
Angola.....	1 13	14	10 50
Jackson.....	3 25	8 35	4 30 pm

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson.....dp	6 55 am	11 35 am	6 30 am
Angola	12 25 pm	2 19 pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake....	1 03	2 29	9 01
Steubenville.....	.....	2 36	9 07
Summit.....	1 25	2 39	9 11
Waterloo	2 30	2 55	9 24
Auburn.....	3 00	3 10	9 35
Auburn Junc...	3 14	3 14	9 38
New Era.....	4 05	3 24	9 50
Fort Wayne.....	5 25	3 55	10 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

Time Card in Effect June 30 1895.

Stations—	WEST-BOUN
	pm	am	am	pm
Bellaire lv	7 15	*11 13	9 42	*4 13	.....
		pm	pm	am
Defiance	3 15	5 16	7 40	1 20	11 00
Hicksville.....	.....	.....	8 22	.....	11 45
					pm
St. Joe.....	.....		8 34	.....	12 01
Auburn Jc ..	4 15	6 17	8 53	2 26	12 25
Garrett.....	4 28	6 30	9 00	2 40	12 50
Avilla.....	.....	6 40	.....	.....	1 00
Albion.....	‡4 50	‡6 55	.....	.....	1 20
Syracuse	.....	.....	.....	3 33	2 00
Chicago.....ar	9 00	11 00	.....	7 25	6 40
Stations.	EAST BOUND.
	pm	pm	am	pm	am
Chicago	*4 25	*7 20	†6 05	3 00	10 15
Syracuse.....	.....	10 50	10 45	.....	.....
Albion.....	.....	.....	11 25	6 57	.....
Avilla	.....		11 45	7 15	.....
	am
Garrett.....	†4 45	12 04	12 15	7 30	2 35
Auburn Jc.....	4 52	12 09	12 2[illegible]	7 35	2 40
St. Joe.....	5 09	.....	12 43	7 50	.....
Hicksville.....	5 21	.....	1 00	8 00	.....
Defiance.....	6 03	1 10	1 40	8 35	3 36
Bellaire	3 55	.....	3 55	.....	11 36
(EASTERN TIME)	am
Washington	6 38	.....	..	..	.....
Baltimore	7 50	.....	.....	.	.....

*Trains run daily. †Daily Except Sunday. ‡Stop on Signal.

For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Ag't Chicago. City Office Auburn Ind.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Court

Tuesday's Daily.

Work at court began yesterday forenoon on time, and shortly afterward the grand jury met and was organized. The judge gave them the usual charge, and set them at work. As far as we can see there will not be much for them to do. But a general line of law business is going on. This afternoon they adjourned for the week.

Saturday's Daily.

We find probate work done as follows: The following guardians have made reports which have been examined approved, and their guardianship continued two years.

Jacob Brechbill guardian of Martin and Coloma Brechbill; Mary E. Boyer, for Carey and Nellie Boyer; Etna Kuhlman for Orpha Beaty; John W, Brown, John W. Freeby; Elijah Imhoff for Peter Humbarger, non comp; Alfred Kepler for Cora Kepler; P. D. West for Christian Long, non, comp; Catherine McEnterffer for John Metzger heirs; Jemima McCurdy for Mary McCurdy; Israel Bingler for Mary Bingler; R. N. Crooks for John Fisher heirs, W. B. Brown's bond as successor to C. H. Brown, as guardian for Herman L. Brown, was accepted, Report of E. Y. Williamson, guardian of Annie and Hanna Shanks, was continued to next term. Peter Teutsch, guardian of Geo. Teutsch made final report and was discharged.

TRIAL DOCKET.

W. H. Nusbaum vs W. H. Kiblinger estate dismissed, each party to pay his own costs; Jennie Wolf was allowed $196, out of the estate of Michael Wolf Isaac Hague vs H. J. Shafer estate, Isaac Hague adm'r. on notes allowed $543; J. W. Baxter vs John Blaker estate, note allowed $81. M. S. Kutzner, adm'r Jonas Eberly estate vs D. J. Eberly, et al sale of land. Reported sale to R. J. Fisk for $1990. Approved and deed ordered. B, F. Kennady vs Jonas Eberly est. note, allowed $61. M. E. Griswold vs Henry Wartensleben, allowed $4. G. A. Mader vs, H J Shafer estate allowed $8.50 Martin Hooks vs Thomas Babb estate, dismissed, John G. Mott, adm's Mary W. Mott estate vs Sarah Fair estate, defendant asks that a summons issue for Anna Hosler, which was ordered, returnable Jan. 10. Wm. H. Leas adm'r for estate of Sophia Baird, for partition and sale of realty belonging to estate, ordered to sell at private sale, in part or all at a time as deemed best, Reuben Sawvel and L. J. Miller vs Thomas Bubb estate allowed $166.

ON THE WING.

ANOTHER INTERESTING LETTER FROM R. W. COBB.

HOT SPRINGS, S. D., Nov. 25, 1895.

EDITOR DAILY COURIER:—

After a ten days camp in central and north-western Nebraska, today finds the writer quartered in one of the most charming summer and winter resorts in this country, Hot Springs, S. D., nestled in the famous Black Hills at an altitude of 3400 feet, with delightful scenery at every turn. We reached Edgemont, S. D., "the gateway of the Black Hills," at 8 a. m. today. Here we have twenty minutes for breakfast, and change cars for the Black Hills, the first train going on to Billings, Montana.

The ride to the Springs is very picturesque to one who enjoys mountain scenery, and especially so at this time, as we have just experienced a heavy snow storm up here, and the contrast of pine forests, massive red granite walls, boulders and other natural formations, the bright sun light, the clear blue sky and ever-changing position as we climb up and around almost continual curves, now looking off upon Edgemont below us in the distance, overlooking the vast valley and foot hills dotted with fir and Jack pine of ever-green beauty and now covering a deep ravine over a tressle some 200 feet in the air we reach the summit and soon come to the end of the road and we are at the tourists and travelers home. The Evans is one of the finest equipped hotels in the country. It is five stories high and built of pink sandstone, has 300 rooms and every modern appliance. Mr. Evans, the owner, is a capitalist, and owns the greater part of town. Being one of the first settlers in the Black Hills, he has large interests in St. Paul, Omaha and San Francisco and is estimated to be worth not less than $3,000,000.

The writer had a pleasant and profitable chat with the gentleman today. He is a man of 6 feet 4, and weighs about 250 pounds, and found him most agreeable.

Connected with the Evans is one of the finest plunge baths in the United States, 100x250 feet, with an outflow of 100,000 gallons per hour of the clearest medicinal waters, the temperature of which is 90 degrees the year round.

Two traveling men, one of Chicago, and one of Omaha and myself enjoyed a rare treat this afternoon in this vast swimming pool. The water is very buoyant and is strikingly clear as a diamond plate glass at any depth, the average being from five to ten feet.

Hot Springs waters at this point have a magical effect upon the skin which was noticeable even in the first application and it is claimed that by frequent use it will clear up the complexion until the skin is "as clear as the morning rose, newly washed with dew."—Shakespeare. Will spend another day here leaving Tuesday morning for Deadwood and Lead City, sixty miles north.

Later on will be able to say something about the Black Hills and from which they derive their name.

R. W. COBB.

Flag Presented.

A pleasant incident took place yesterday at the Band Fair. J. W, McKay presented a fine silk flag to the Trumpet Note Band. It was a flag given by the citizens of Auburn to the first band Auburn ever had, in 1863, and is inscribed "Auburn Silver Band." It is quite a curiosity being thirty-two years old. It will be an object of interest to those who attend the fair.

Heart Disease Kills

Suddenly; but never without warning symptoms, such as Faint, Weak or Hungry Spells, Irregular or Intermittent Pulse, Fluttering or Palpitation of the Heart, Choking Sensations, Shortness of Breath, Swelling of Feet and Ankles, etc.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, Cures Heart Disease.

Mr. Geo. L. Smith, of the Geo. L. Smith Mantel Co., Louisville, Ky., writes Feb. 26, 1894: "For about a year I was a terrible sufferer from heart trouble, which got so bad I was obliged to sit up in bed to get my breath. I had to abandon business and could hardly crawl around. My friend, Mr. Julius C. Voght, one of our leading pharmacists, asked me to try Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. I had used little more than a bottle when the pain ceased and palpitations entirely disappeared. I have not had the slightest trouble since, and today I am attending to business as regularly as ever."

Sold by druggists everywhere. Book on Heart and Nerves sent free. Address Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Dr. Miles' Remedies Restore Health.

Mrs. Anna Gage, wife of Ex-Deputy U. S. Marshal,

Columbus, Kan., says:

"I was delivered of TWINS in less than 20 minutes and with scarcely any pain after using only two bottles of "MOTHERS' FRIEND"

DID NOT SUFFER AFTERWARD.

Sent by Express or mail, on receipt of price, $1.00 per bottle. Book "TO MOTHERS" mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

ABSTRACTS OF TITLE

To all lands in DeKalb County, Indiana, at reasonable rates. I have the only set of Abstract Books in the County. Also Mortgages, Deeds and Notary Public Work of all kinds promptly attended to.

Inquire at Auditor or Surveyor's office, Auburn, or leave orders at Postoffice, Garrett,

J. P. Crimmins,
Abstractor and Notary Public

L. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended promptly, night or day

Wabash Holiday Rates, 1895-6.

For this occasion the Wabash Railroad will sell tickets from all stations at greatly reduced rates on December 24, 25 and 31, 1895 and January 1, 1896, good to return up to and including January 2, 1896. For particulars call on or address any Wabash Ticket Agent.

IN ONLY FOUR DAYS.

Garrett, Dec., 5, 1895

Spohn's Distemper and Cough Cure cured my colt of a severe attack of distemper in four days. It is the best remedy for horses I have ever seen. F. H. Withelm.

Safe at all times. Larger bottle than any other. 50ct. Sold by Kutzes & Myers. Agents Auburn.

SPINAL weakness easily cured by Dr. Miles' Nerve Plasters.

The U. S. Gov't Reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

THE AUBURN COURIER

Microfilmed for:
ECKHART PUBLIC LIBRARY
Auburn, Indiana

STARTS WITH

JAN 4 1894

MICRO PHOTO DIVISION
BELL & HOWELL COMPANY
IL